Premiership cup arrives in Millicent

A surprise visit from two Adelaide Crows AFLW players, Sarah Allan and Anne Hatchard, was the highlight of a special morning tea for clients of Resthaven Limestone Coast Community Services in Millicent last week.

Ms Allan and Ms Hatchard were in the Limestone Coast as part of The Crows' AFLW Premiership Cup Tour which is visiting a number of locations across metropolitan and regional South Australia.

Both women are premiership players, with Ms Hatchard appearing in two premierships and winning the Crows 2020 AFLW Best and Fairest.

Reinforcements

Australian Defence Force (ADF) personnel arrived at Boneham Aged Care Services (BACS) last Friday to assist while the complex is enduring a Covid-19 outbreak and staff shortages.

The ADF personnel were called in after seven residents of BACS tested positive to Covid and there were staff shortages caused largely by staff testing positive to the virus or needing to isolate due to being a close contact of a Covid case.

It is understood that two ADF teams have arrived at BACS, the first consisting of five personnel of a general duties (GD) team which began duties last Friday and are due to finish today.

A second clinical team, understood to consist of three nurses, began last Saturday and are due to finish this Sunday.

A request to the ADF for further information was forwarded by the ADF to the Federal Department of Health (DOH) which provided a statement to The South Eastern Times.

Tony Pasin was re-elected last Saturday to his fourth term as the Member for Barker.

Fourth term for Pasin

Barker Liberal MP Tony Pasin was re-elected at the Federal election held last weekend.

Mr Pasin has held the seat since 2013 and secured the seat on Saturday with 53.1 per cent of the primary vote.

Labor candidate Mark Braes received 20.8 per cent of the primary vote.

Despite a decrease in his primary and two-party preferred vote, compared to the 2019 election, Mr Pasin was re-elected with 65.1 per cent of the vote with Mr Braes finishing at 34.9 per cent after preferences were distributed.

Mr Pasin said he would not take his fourth consecutive term for granted.

"It is a humbling feeling and a great privilege to be a Member of Parliament," he said.

Mr Pasin said, despite now being in opposition, he would remain passionate about a number of projects including mental health and the community's alcohol and other drug funding.

"Irrespective of the outcome, I am going to keep banging the table about mobile phone connectivity as well because it is the number one issue that people contact me about," he said.

Ready for racing

By Caroline Hammat

Millicent Racing Club is taking the opportunity to showcase the Millicent Cup to Mount Gambier this Sunday when it holds its second race meeting at the city's track in recent times.

A feature of the Millicent Cup race day at Allan Scott Glenburnie Racecourse will be acknowledgement of the contribution to the local racing industry by Ned, Nan and Sue Walker who were tragically killed in a car accident in November 2020.

"Last year at Penola we were going to have Ned's stable colour flag up in memory of the family but the flagpoles had been removed; this year Mount Gambier have flagpoles so we are putting Ned's stable flag up," committee member Karen Olsson said.

"We also have the trainers trophy for the Millicent Cup in memory of Ned, Nan and Sue and the winner gets a rug that has been donated.

"Ned, Nan and Sue are part of the history of the Millicent Racing Club.

"Ned was a life member and the whole family were involved; he even won the cup one year with General Magic."

With the 2021 race at Penola impacted by a border shut down three days before the event, and the 2020 Millicent Cup limited to industry personnel only, the event this year is sure to be a highlight on the social calendar.

Preselling of tickets has proved popular with Bookies Shed table packages already sold out and limited tickets remaining for the Redelva Luncheon.

Club secretary Simone Berry told The South Eastern Times: "The Redelva Luncheon at $150 a head is all inclusive and quite luxe, it includes your meal, drinks and balcony views of the whole track.

"It's actually been really successful and the community support around the cup has been amazing."

The luncheon includes a fundraising auction for the club and the opportunity to get up close to the 2015 Melbourne Cup.

"John Richards is one of the owners of Prince of Penzance, winner of the 2015 Melbourne Cup, ridden by Michelle Payne, and he is bringing the cup over with him," Ms Berry said.

"We also have our Calcutta at the Somerset Hotel front bar Friday night at 7pm and this is expected to be a big night."

The 3MP Millicent cup is a fully catered event with full betting facilities on site, and the club has arranged for two buses to leave from the Civic and Arts Centre and return at $20 a head with tickets still remaining.

There is a generous capacity limit and general admission tickets are still available to purchase through Racing SA, the Millicent Racing Club Facebook page, Moshtix or phone 0459 428 291 for enquiries.

Gates open at 11am.

Fashions on the field returns this Sunday

By Caroline Hammat

Organisers are focussed on bringing fun back to the 3MP Millicent Cup Fashions on the Field (FOTF) event being held at the Mount Gambier racecourse this Sunday.

For the first time music will replace microphones on the stage with participants sure to enjoy the upbeat tracks chosen especially for each category.

It's just one way that FOTF co-ordinator Helen Varcoe is wanting to make the event fun for all.

"I'm having music playing on the stage, often they go down and talk about what they are wearing, this year we are focussing on having fun, so hopefully people will enjoy the music and tap their feet," Ms Varcoe said.

"There are a couple of people I know who are doing their first ever fashion [FOTF], they have never done it before and it's on their bucket list."

Ms Varcoe has been involved in the Millicent Cup's FOTF event for more than 10 years and is excited by the event this year telling The South Eastern Times there is about $5,000 worth of cash and prizes for all categories.

Prizes include $1,000 cash for the women's winner and $250 cash for the men's winner with both categories including gift packs and other prizes.

All category winners will receive a sash this year, which is another first for the event, and all adult entrants have the opportunity to win a carton of wine.

This prize will be at the judges discretion and will ignore traditional racing fashion rules with Ms Varcoe explaining: "Fashion rules are out, the rules are pretty strict and technical about dressing for the races, but this is about dressing in whatever you feel comfortable in, it's a category about having fun and the rules don't really apply.

"We also have a lucky draw for the ladies event where we have had a beautiful set of Napoleon makeup brushes donated for one of the women who get up on the stage."

FOTF judges will include Kimmi Tincknell, of Millicent, who has been a regular FOTF entrant and has represented the state in the Myer National Competition in Melbourne.

Ms Tincknell will be joined by Geelong based Sharon Smith, who is a previous winner of the Adelaide Cup FOTF, and Chris Sutherland, a local business woman with a passion for fashion.

Categories on the day include Women's,

Race ready: Sam Wallis and Brianna Scanlon checked the local fashion in preparation for Sunday's Millicent Cup Fashion on the Field event. Since Fifty Six fitted out Sam in black Industrie slim chinos, Connor Horden stone coloured blazer and black Mauro shirt with a tie that matched Brianna's headpieces and earrings. Brianna's Adelaide designed dress by Jatea and layered headpieces are available from Heaven on a Hanger.

Men's, Duo's and children/teenagers of all ages.

Only the women's' category entrants need to register before the event, to ensure they are entered into the lucky draw.

All other category entrants can head straight to the stage.

FOTF will take place sometime after races 1 to 4 of the 3MP Millicent Cup event.

A family polling tradition

By Kathy Gandolfi

A last minute recruitment drive by the Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) ensured a tradition that had endured three generations of Rendelsham's Smith family continued last Saturday.

With Covid-19 induced absences among the reasons, the AEC announced last week it was struggling to find enough people to work on a number of rural booths throughout the country for the Federal Election, including Rendelsham, Southend, Furner, Nangwarry, Coonawarra and Carpenter Rocks.

The recruitment drive worked as all the booths threatened with closure in the local area were open for the day.

However, when it looked uncertain whether his home town booth of Rendelsham would open, Graeme 'Rocky' Smith said he felt disappointed.

"It's a part of history," he said on Saturday, glad that the polling booth was able to open.

"It's not just a polling place, it's also a meeting place.

"It's a good catch up opportunity," he said explaining that many ex-residents of Rendelsham return to the town's hall to vote as a means of rekindling their connection with the town.

Smith family members have been voting at the hall since it was built in 1924, including his grandfather Syd 'Rocky' Smith, and his father Ian 'Rocky' Smith.

Also inheriting the nickname of Rocky, Graeme has been President of the Rendelsham Liberal Party branch for about 10 years, following in his father's footsteps who was secretary of the branch for many years.

Another former President of the Rendelsham branch, 93 year old John Stuckey drove from his current home in Millicent to vote at Rendelsham on Saturday.

Despite Millicent offering two large polling places to vote, Mr Stuckey said he drove the 15kms through roadworks to Rendelsham especially to vote, but why?

"Tradition," he answered quite simply, "and well may it continue," explaining that he had been voting at Rendelsham for more than 70 years.

Rendelsham tradition continues - 93 year old John Stuckey (left) drove from Millicent especially to vote at Rendelsham where he chatted to third generation Rocky Smith who was handing out 'how to vote' cards for the Liberal Party with support from his canine companion, Harvey.

Rocky's mother Noelene had rung Mr Stuckey to apologise for not being able to offer him the traditional cup of tea at her former home in Rendelsham on election day as she was now living in Millicent.

Noelene's home used to be an election day gathering place, young Rocky explained.

"Jack Brennan would be here handing out

'how to vote' cards for the Labor party, and Dad would be handing out cards for the Liberal party," he said.

"At lunch time they would take off their 'boxing gloves' [referring to their party allegiances] and walk through the church yard to mum's where she would serve them both lunch and they would chatter away as friends, then they would walk back over to the hall and put the 'boxing gloves' back on again."

Mr Stuckey agreed saying that a country polling booth was different.

"If Jack didn't turn up for some reason, Rocky would hand out both the Liberal and Labor cards for him," he said.

Defence force support for Boneham residents

The statement said the ADF's GD teams provide non-clinical support, such as assistance with waste management, food service delivery, spot cleaning and companionship for residents.

The ADF's clinical teams provide qualified support, such as registered nurse responsibilities, according to the statement.

"Support from the ADF is considered by the department alongside all other available surge workforce options," the statement said.

"Through regular contact, [which] the department maintains with all Residential Aged Care Facilities in [an] outbreak, it was determined Mary Cecelia Hart Court Hostel [BACS] in Millicent, South Australia, would be best supported by a General Duties (GD) team from 20-26 May 22, and a clinical team from 21-29 May 22.

"Both teams were supplied through the ADF"

Confirming that this was not the first time the ADF had been called in for such purposes elsewhere in Australia, the statement said the ADF had supplemented the DOH's surge workforce since February 5 this year to support outbreaks in residential aged care facilities.

"The ADF is one of multiple providers delivering surge workforce to support facilities experiencing a Covid-19 outbreak across the nation," the statement said.

Meanwhile, statements released by BACS chief executive officer Michael Filsell, via the facility's public Facebook page, confirmed the ADF personnel were at the site providing professional and experienced support.

"ADF personnel are assisting with meal and laundry deliveries, restocking of PPE [personal protective equipment] and skype/window visits for residents," the Facebook statement said.

"Extra support is also being provided by other aged care providers in the region with collaborative arrangements underway regarding PPE stocks and ongoing advice, with staff currently working extended 12 hour shifts and multiple extra days to ensure shifts are filled."

Mr Filsell told the South Eastern Times: "Staff and ADF have worked collaboratively extremely well and the residents have responded to their support very positively.

"Moving forward we will evaluate the situation day by day."

At the time of press the seven residents at BACS with Covid-19 were either asymptomatic or experiencing mild symptoms with some of them at the end of their infectious period or approaching it.

BACS remains on restrictions with visits limited to end of life and special support needs, with the emergency management team continually reviewing this status.

Visits need to be arranged in advance with the Director of Care or Clinical Nurse and visitors must RAT test and wear full PPE at all times when on site.

PCR Testing is continuing at the site every 48 hours as per SA Health guidelines to capture any emerging new infections.

As the situation is constantly changing, families are urged to contact BACS or refer to its Facebook page for the latest updates.

Premiers visit Resthaven

Resthaven clients were delighted to find out the Crows players had brought the 2022 premiership cup with them to show the group and they thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity to speak with the players, with many having known Ms Allan since her early days of growing up in Millicent and Beachport.

The players were happy to pose for photographs that were taken to show off to the social group participants' family members.

The morning tea held in Resthaven's

George Street office also treated the clients to delicious home baked goods cooked by the staff while playing 'tea-rivia' with proceeds collected from the morning to be donated to the Millicent Cancer Support Group.

Resthaven social group client Nita Roebuck said: "It was an enjoyable morning, and my family are going to have a chuckle at me with the photo of me with the girls, as they are not from my team!"

Client Judy Potter said: "It was a really good fun morning, great to be out socialising and being back in the community."

Time capsule resealed

Millicent's time capsule, opened for the town's 150th celebrations last year, is due to be resealed at the Millicent Public Library next Tuesday for another 25 years.

Retired Kimberly-Clark Australia engineer, Richard Nobbs designed the time capsule 25 years ago and, when it was opened last November, 80 stories were in the capsule, giving a rich social history of the town.

These stories will be placed back in the capsule and additional stories collected more recently will be added, along with a letter written by current Wattle Range Council Mayor Des Noll for the future Mayor to read when the capsule is reopened 25 years from now.

The capsule sealing ceremony at the library will begin at 2.30pm and will coincide with the library's monthly local history talk which will be delivered by the former chief executive officer of Wattle Range Council, Frank Brennan, who will speak about The Brennan family from Kilkenny, Ireland, to Millicent.

Mr Brennan served as the chief executive for almost 25 years, and worked in local government for 34 years, with both the District Council of Millicent and Wattle Range Council.

Beginning his career with the Millicent District Council after completing a university degree in town planning he found his surveying skills were needed for an initial three months.

Mr Brennan then began working for the council on the outside work group which included digging graves, riding rubbish trucks and spending time on the end of a shovel.

"Most people think we used to just lean on them (the shovels) - that's only partly true," said Mr Brennan.

Former Wattle Range Council chief executive officer Frank Brennan will be the guest speaker at the Millicent Public Library's history afternoon next Tuesday when the town's time capsule will also be resealed.

Agricultural experience

Organisers of an inter-school agricultural day hope the event has planted a seed in the minds of South East students.

More than 150 students from around the region, including Penola High School, Kangaroo Inn Area School, Lucindale, Naracoorte, Grant High School and Bordertown, gathered at Naracoorte High School to get a hands on look at the job opportunities in agriculture technology.

They rotated through a number of activity stations where they learnt about the various roles technology and science plays in the production of cereals crops.

Director for AgCommunicators Belinda Cay said agricultural technology, plant breeding and genetics, machinery and soil science were some of the topics covered.

"The concept is that food production is not just a matter of chucking a wheat seed in the ground and hoping for the best, there is a lot more to it," she said.

"Really, the whole day was about putting the pieces of the puzzle together in how we develop wheat, barley and cereal crops for Australian consumers, and for export.

"We find that students often think careers in agriculture are farming, so we are trying to expand people's thinking so they can see that agriculture is about communication, engineering, innovation, diesel mechanics, electricians, plant breeders, geneticists, agronomists, soil scientists, data electricians,

Kangaroo Inn Area School year 11 students Tara Nicolle, Lucy Kellock and Dharma Baynes learnt about agriculture technology from Belinda Cay (back) last week.

mechatronic engineers and so on.

"We are expanding their horizons in how they think about agriculture."

Penola High School teacher Mike Hentscke said it was a great day for the students.

"The day provided the students with experiences related to technology advances in agriculture with a focus on providing increased food production from crops to meet the ever increasing demands of our global population," he said.

"It highlighted how innovations can be important in improving production while maintaining the viability of the farm to produce food for the future."

Another gong for Bellwether

Bellwether Wines has notched up another accolade, being named Star Cellar Door recently.

Described by Gourmet Traveller WINE as "an unforgettable cellar door" the Coonawarra cellar door is well known for great wine and great service.

It is just one of many accolades the winery has received, and owner Sue Bell was nominated for Winemaker of the Year by Gourmet Traveller in 2021.

"As far as cellar doors go, few encapsulate rural charm like Bellwether does," the magazine said.

"Owner and winemaker Sue Bell chose the rustic 1868 Glen Roy Shearing Shed as the place in which to make and pour her creations. Like Bell, the space is full of genuine heart and soul, and a sensory explosion - from the vintage decor and treasures dotted throughout the shearing shed's nooks, to the paddocks home to farm animals and campgrounds (including glamping tents) and a garden heaving with produce used in delightful experiences including Brunch at Bellwether.

"A sustainability-driven ethos, regular live music events, tours, and the chance to take part in vintage make this an unforgettable cellar door that ticks all the boxes. Bellwether hits you straight in the heart and stays there, so much so, you can't help but yearn to return as soon as the dust settles on your journey home."

Raidis Estate, Wynns Coonawarra and Otletia were also awarded for their excellent experience, service and food.

Timber harvesting finalist

Mount Burr resident, Glenn Treloar is a finalist for the 2021 Green Triangle Timber Industry Awards which will be announced next month.

After being postponed twice due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the awards night will be held at Mount Gambier's Barn Palais on June 10.

Mr Treloar has been chosen as a finalist for the Operations - Harvesting and Infield Chipping Excellence Award.

Born and bred in Mount Burr, Mr Treloar has worked in timber related industries since he was 15 years old, first for PJ & P Huckel for eight years after the 1983 Ash Wednesday bushfires devastated the pine plantations in the South East, then 20 years with the Fennell family at G&R Logging, and for the last 10 years he has operated a harvester for Moreland Holdings.

"I'll probably stay there until I die," he said, praising his employers.

"You don't get much better bosses than Morelands."

Mr Treloar said he believed he had been nominated for the awards due to his 100 per cent pass rate from monthly audits which are conducted on work in the forest including checks on whether logs had been cut to the correct lengths with only a 3cm tolerance and with no 'tails', which are the splinters on the end of a log if it is not cut through completely.

"I enjoy what I do and I do take pride in what I do," he said.

Other finalists for the Operations - Harvesting and In-field Chipping Excellence Award include Matt Tilby, of Merrett Logging.

Finalists in other award categories include Debbie Blok, Todd Reid, Courtney Pink, Paul Roughana, Maddison Bowden, Stuart Thornton, Josh Pridham, Graham Earl and Steve Telford, while company finalists include C3, Reid Logging, NF McDonnell and Sons, Glenara Transport, and A & M Contracting.

Crafty family heirlooms

By Caroline Hammat

Invited to curate an exhibition for the Millicent Art Gallery, the Millicent Craft Group decided to reach beyond their own members to include work created by others in the community.

The current exhibition titled 'My Mother's Hands' celebrates women's craft work over generations and features needlework, patchwork, hand made clothing, pottery, beadwork and scrapbooking.

Group President Raz McDonald talked about the idea behind the exhibition and the inspiration behind its name.

"I was looking at Frankie's [Payne] hands, she always has something in her hands and this is where the name came from," said Ms McDonald.

"We were sitting in the Shearers Cook Cafe looking at the tablecloths that were made by Melissa's [Armfield who owns the cafe] mother and grandmother and thought there were other people in the community that could be involved."

Talking to Melissa Armfield it was revealed she still had her grandmother's hand made wedding dress and a framed photograph of her grandmother, Ila Houghton, wearing it.

Mrs Houghton made the dress herself for her own wedding and was described in the January 23, 1942, edition of the South Eastern Times "as making a charming picture as she entered the church gowned in a magnolia sat-in frock with high neckline, long fitting bodice buttoned down the back and very full sleeves gathered into a cuff, forming points over the hands."

The photograph of Mrs Houghton wearing her dress, and the actual dress, are both currently on display as part of the exhibition.

(As a point of interest, Mrs Houghton lives in Millicent and will celebrate her 103rd birthday this Sunday.)

Also in the exhibition are exquisite items made by Teresa Scaglione, a previous craft group member and mother of local woman Pierina Dickenson.

Still living in Italy at the time, Mrs Scaglione made sheets of linen from her family's home grown flax, which was finely spun and woven before being decorated with embroidery.

Other items on display include quilts collaborated on by group members to celebrate other members' 80th birthdays.

The first of these was made for Frankie Payne, the only original craft group member still attending the weekly sessions.

Ms Payne recalls the group beginning under Barbara Wallace's tuition at the Millicent High School before moving to a Nissan Hut at the aerodrome, the Millicent Museum, and a garage on Mount Gambier Road before settling in to their current Fifth Street building.

"It's like a second home, I look forward to Fridays every week it's a real social gathering."

An extensive collection is on display of Mrs Payne's work and she has turned her hand to different craft over the years with her exhibition pieces reflecting that variety.

Fellow member Pearl Ransley joined the group on the first day the new building on Fifth Street opened.

With an interest in knitting and crocheting Ms Ransley has also learned Sashiko embroidery with guidance from another craft group member while attending the group.

"I've enjoyed every minute of it, they are all beautiful people and it was the only thing I missed when I was in lockdown in Victoria for nine months."

The exhibition was installed by Pat Muhovics, Raz McDonald and Tony Addicoat with valuable assistance provided by gallery volunteer Peter Dunn.

By Kathy Fennell

'A Single Detail' is the title of an exhibition by Willalooka photographer Sarah Cunningham currently on at Parker Coonawarra Estate Winery.

Her debut exhibition features 14 framed photographs and was originally organised by Cellar Door Manager, Dimity Savage.

The exhibition focuses on 'Do it for Dolly' and was launched on 'Do it for Dolly' Day.

Mrs Savage said: "While 'Do it for Dolly Day' has received an outpouring of support nationwide, the cause is particularly close to home as I helped look after Dolly as a child."

Mrs Savage shared Dolly's story with Mrs Cunningham who immediately embraced the opportunity to raise money for the organisation.

The photographs portray every day lives, with a focus on still life and landscapes.

Mrs Cunningham took up photography only four years ago.

"I am absolutely thrilled with the amount of people that have been to see the exhibition," she said.

A silent auction is also being run throughout the month of May with all proceeds donated to 'Dolly's Dream'.

Mrs Cunningham selected one of her horse images for the auction as a nod to Dolly's passion for all things equestrian.

"Sarah's minimalist style of work allows the viewer to focus on the image without distraction and create their own impressions while reflecting on personal memories," Mrs Savage said.

Memories of Dolly only strengthen Mrs Savage's commitment to providing parents with resources, proof that even the most confident young people can become victims of bullying.

"With my daughter Ruby now a similar age to when Dolly took her own life, raising awareness on navigating the evolving cyber-world, where much of the abuse takes place, has become ever more important," Mrs Savage said.

Mrs Savage said: "Dolly's passing was a shock being such a bold, courageous young girl.

"My children saw me so upset so I had to explain.

"They know her story, and that it can happen to anyone.

"I want to support this beautiful girl everyday.

"She had so much more to give in her life.

"I want to normalise the conversation and make it for people.

"Tough rural blokes will be one of the demographics attending the exhibition," she said.

The exhibition will run until the end of May.

Penola student Henry Williams selected

Year 10 Penola High School student, Henry Williams has been selected to represent SA high school students on the inaugural South Australian Student Representative Council (SA SRC).

Commissioner for Children and Young People in Adelaide, Helen Connolly, said: "Williams was selected because of his aptitude and interest in being an inclusive and respectable representative of other students at Penola High School and the wider community.

"I have repeatedly heard from young South Australians that they are feeling frustrated and sidelined and they want more opportunities to participate in decision making and use their knowledge and experience to contribute to their communities," she said.

In partnership with the Foundation for Young Australians and supported by the National Indigenous Youth Education Coalition, the SA SRC has been formed to address this shortfall by offering school students in Years 10, 11 and 12 a new model of representation that will ensure they have a voice in policy and decision making that is led by young people themselves.

Williams was a student at Tension College in Mount Gambier when he decided he would like to nominate, however has been at Penola High School since term one this year.

The first meeting was held recently at the Adelaide Festival Centre with 123 members from all over South Australia attending from towns including Whyalla, Ceduna, Roxby Downs, Mount Gambier, Penola, Port Lincoln, Kimba, Victor Harbour, Meningie, Adelaide and surrounds.

Members of Parliament also attended.

"It was a rare chance for young regional and metro counterparts to meet and spend time together," Ms Connolly said.

"They were able to connect and exchange ideas with those who share their passion for bringing about positive change."

Williams said of the first meeting: "We were seated at tables and joined by a government official who helped guide us in the right direction.

"We also attended some workshops where we discussed how to deal with issues and listening to your community.

"There are issues in the country that city people won't know about.

"Down here if you want to go anywhere you can't until you get your drivers licence."

Williams will play an important role in the creation and development of this new program and staff will work alongside students to ensure a space is created where students in SA can demonstrate their capacity for participation and active citizenship.

Their work in project teams will be extra curricular aside from face to face summits that will be during school hours.

It is planned for another meeting to be held at the end of the year.

Tree to tackle the blues

By Caroline Hammat

Driving between Millicent and Kingston this year has looked a little different with a dead tree near the roadside painted a striking blue colour as part of the growing Blue Tree Project.

Jess Kaldvee initiated painting the tree after driving through Victoria 18 months ago and being surprised to see a dead tree painted blue.

Deciding it must mean something, Ms Kaldvee googled the words ‘blue tree’ which led her to the Blue Tree Project website where she discovered the trees are used to spark difficult conversations, encourage people to speak up when battling mental health concerns, and break down the stigma attached to mental health.

It was a concept that resonated with Ms Kaldvee who understands the importance of talking about depression and mental health issues in families and, as a farm worker herself, she is especially concerned about people on farms.

Living and working at Conmurra Station, Ms Kaldvee knew the owner, Nick McBride, (who is also the MP for MacKillop) would be supportive of her goal to paint a tree on the property saying: “We’ve got a lot of dead trees up the highway and I thought it would be seen there.”

Organisation of the project began in May last year but it was January 2022 when the tree was eventually painted.

“We had to keep putting it off until the weather was better, because to get to that tree the paddock can be quite wet,” she said.

With a dozen helpers joining the effort, including the McBride family, employees and their families, Ms Kaldvee said: “It didn’t take long to paint and because we couldn’t get all the way to the top of the big tree we painted a little tree and a fallen branch next to it.

“As we were painting, people were driving past and tooting, probably thinking ‘what are they doing’ as it was a Sunday morning and everyone got covered in blue paint.”

Ms Kaldvee was keen to add blue solar lights to the tree which they attempted a few weeks ago but this was not quite as successful as hoped.

“We tried to put them up high so the sheep couldn’t chew them but, between the sheep and the birds landing there, they chewed the wires.

“They (the lights) lasted like four or five days, it looked really good while it did last though, the corellas and cockys are quite destructive but they had fun.”

The Conmurra tree is on the Princes Highway 65 kms from Millicent and has been registered with the Blue Tree Project website which currently has 796 trees listed.

The project originated in the north eastern wheatbelt region of Western Australia, and most registered trees are across Australia but several international countries are now included on the list.

If you need support and/or mental health resources, please call 24/7 services Beyond Blue 1300 224 636 or Lifeline 13 11 14.

Youth recognition

Wattle Range Council (WRC) acknowledged the contribution of youth to the community by hosting the seventh annual Youth Recognition Awards last Friday night.

Five awards were presented in the Millicent Art Gallery by WRC councillor Sharon Cox, Bronwyn Barker from the Medical Clinic Millicent and WRC Manager Community Development Caroline Hill who said: “The awards make such a difference to these young people’s lives and to be recognised by their peers, teachers and colleagues is very satisfying and encourages them to keep pursuing their dreams.”

The award winners were:

- Achievement Through the Arts and Culture Award - Angus Patterson
- Contributions to Community Award - Alexandra (Lexy) Oliver
- Overcoming Challenging Life Situation Award - Layla Evans
- Inspiration by Innovation Award - Georgia Winter
- Learning Success Award - Parker Dowley

Angus Patterson’s award for Achievement through the Arts and Culture recognised his passion and dedication for drawing and for using his work to send environmental and social messages.

Mr Patterson has been school captain at St Anthony’s Catholic Primary School and a member of the Beachport Surf Lifesaving Club since it’s inception, using his skills to assist regularly at community events.

Receiving his award for Learning Success, Parker Dowley was nominated for his role at the local gymnastics club.

The keen gymnast is always offering to help and coach other gymnasts and encourages the younger children, inspiring others to begin or continue with the sport.

Parker has a dream of attending the Olympics one day and told The South Eastern Times: “However old or young you are it’s never to late to start your dream.”

Working hard to complete her South Australian Certificate of Education (SACE) Layla Evans won the Overcoming Challenging Life Situation award.

Ms Evans is now in the final stages of her SACE research project and has completed Certificate three in Educational Support.

Overcoming difficulties to achieve her goals her nominators noted how proud they are of her and her achievements with Ms Evans adding: “I want to prove to my siblings that you can overcome the difficult things you go through.”

Unable to attend the event on the night were Alexandra Oliver and Georgia Winter who both had their mothers collect their awards.

As a South Australian Ambulance Service volunteer Ms Oliver contributes 30 hours a month at Beachport and Penola as well as assisting in the catering division of the Millicent hospital.

Currently studying for a nursing degree, and working part time as she continues to support her community, the award for Making Positive Contributions to the Community was well deserved.

The award for Inspiration by Innovation went to Ms Winter from Penola High School who has been instrumental in obtaining a school therapy dog after researching the benefits of animals to mental health through her SACE research project.

Raising funds for anti-bullying campaigns Ms Winter is noted as being an inspiration and giving of her time, energy and resources.

Brooke Davis was also recognised at the presentation for her nomination in the Contributions to the Community category.

Award winners received an engraved glass plaque and $200 for their bank accounts.

Mayor Des Noll (right) conducted the Australian Citizenship ceremony for Rajdeep Singh who is pictured with his wife Amber and two sons Leo and Jagga.

The road to romance

By Caroline Hammat

It is almost 10 years since Rajdeep Singh moved to Australia in 2013 to study Information Technology at Latrobe University but it was the move to Millicent in 2015 that led to Mr Singh’s recent Australian Citizenship ceremony officiated by Mayor Noll in Millicent on Friday, May 6.

On arriving in the town after securing a chef’s position at the local Indian restaurant, New Heaven, Mr Singh was soon introduced to the owner’s babysitter Amber.

Amber Singh told the South Eastern Times: “We started dating in 2015, Raj had arrived in Millicent that same year and was the chef at the Indian restaurant, I used to babysit the owner’s children.

“We met through that, Sukhi (New Heaven owner) recommended Raj talk to me as he didn’t know anyone in town, we got talking and started seeing each other and here we are now.

“Citizenship, children and building a house in Finlayson Court which is nearly finished.”

Rajdeep and Amber were married in 2016 and now have two young sons, three year old Leo and Jagga who is 20 months old.

These days Mr Singh works at Borg’s Engineering in Mount Gambier.

“I like the greenery and country lifestyle and of course the people,” he said.

“The people are friendly, I’ve found them friendlier than in the cities.

Settled in to Millicent to work in local health care

By Caroline Hammat

A two year wait for a state sponsored visa led to Kimbherly De Regla and her partner Maria Joloya making the journey from the Philippines to eventually find themselves settled in Millicent and recently becoming new Australian citizens at a citizenship ceremony officiated by Wattle Range Mayor, Des Noll.

Ms Joloya applied for the visa in 2015 having already received her Australian Registered Nurse (RN) qualifications on a previous Australian stay in 2001 which is a requirement of the 190 Skilled visa application.

Arriving in Australia in 2017 the couple found they did not have enough funds to live on their own and decided to live with Maria’s Sydney based uncle.

This proved a temporary solution as the state sponsored visa required the couple to live and work in South Australia for two years with Ms De Regla explaining: “Maria was already a RN in Sydney and I was just finishing my training to convert my license to Australian RN.

“We decided that I would be the one to apply first in South Australia and whichever company hired me then we are going to go there.

“I had an offer between Port Augusta and Millicent, but Millicent came first and I started then working at Sheoak Lodge.”

Ms De Regla and Ms Joloya have lived in Millicent since 2019 and are both now permanently employed at the Millicent Hospital and love it here.

“We love the people here, they’re really gorgeous, very friendly and it’s quiet, no traffic; it’s very different than living in Sydney,” said Ms De Regla.

Peter Savage (crouching) and Frank Ousey are volunteers of the ‘Kalangadoo Remembers’ group which keeps the Kalangadoo Cemetery looking spick and span.

Cemetery pride

By Kathy Fennell

Kalangadoo cemetery is a pristine sight due to the continued efforts of volunteer workers.

A small maintenance group of 10 Kalangadoo people spend many hours at the cemetery to keep it clean and tidy.

The group, known as the ‘Kalangadoo Remembers Group’ was instigated many years ago when Peter Burford (originally a Penola resident) retired from the Royal Australian Air Force and moved to Kalangadoo. He loved his service career and decided to resurrect the Ka-langadoo Returned and Services League (RSL).

A small band of volunteers got together and RSL services are held for Anzac Day.

The group also decided to take on the task of beautifying the cemetery.

Works they have done include the planting of Gallipoli rosemary, planting an avenue of trees from the cemetery gate to the cemetery, weeding, mowing and general upkeep and repairs.

Group member, Peter Savage said: “We have had many big working bees and we have placed permanent markers on 25 unmarked graves.

“The Kalangadoo mill kindly donated the timber for the markers and also donate kindling which is sold to generate funds for the names to go on the markers,” he said.

“Each time there is a funeral we all make sure that the cemetery is looking spick and span.

“Our biggest problem at the moments is rabbits,” Mr Savage said.

“The are digging under the graves to make their homes and causing a lot of damage.

“We have tried everything but have not yet found a permanent solution.”

Doug serving the Penola community

By Kathy Fennell

National Volunteers week has just been celebrated with Penola’s Doug Pearce certainly fitting the bill.

Pearce has lived in Penola for 42 years after moving from Melbourne with his family.

He has been a volunteer in many organisations for many years including Meals on Wheels, St Mary’s Op Shop, Pinchunga Hostel, Penola Hospital, St Mary’s Anglican Church, helped at bingo and generally helped people.

On arrival in Penola as a young lad he worked as a farmhand in shearing sheds, vineyards and digging potatoes.

“I thoroughly enjoyed those good old days working with and for some well known Penola people,” he said.

“Unfortunately most of them have since passed on.”

In 1999 Pearce suffered a serious ankle injury and that put an end to his love of golf, a sport he enjoyed.

He had an ankle reconstruction however due to getting golden staph after the operation he never recovered properly.

“I love volunteering and have made some very good friends and met some lovely people over the years,” he said.

“I love helping people and will continue on as long as I can.

“I am very proud of our op shop in Penola where I still volunteer and it is so rewarding to see people walk out the door very happy with a purchase,” he said.

Pearce’s 93 year old mother is a resident at the Pinchunga Hostel in Penola and he visits her regularly.

“Volunteering is most rewarding and I urge anyone that has some spare time to get involved,” he said.

Consultation on future of region’s lakes

By Elsie Adamo

The future of Lake George, near Beachport, is under consultation, along with other coastal lakes in the region.

A series of workshops was held by the Department for Environment and Water (DEW) last week to start discussions with the community on how the lake should be managed into the future.

In addition to Lake George, the other lakes being considered in the project include Lake Bonney SE, Lake St Clair, Lake Eliza, Lake Hawdon North and Mullins Swamp.

The workshops were intended to be held in both Robe and Millicent before being moved online due to Covid-19 concerns.

The resulting online forums held last week were attended by more than 50 community members who were asked their opinions on how they use the coastal lakes, and how they should be used in the future.

Presentations were given from DEW representatives and the National Parks and Wildlife Service about the current use of the lakes, and their environmental importance.

When asked to describe their interests in the lake, of those in attendance 64 per cent answered ‘fisher’, 58 per cent answered ‘hunter or camper’, and 52 per cent answered ‘nature lover’.

Bird watchers, bush walkers, kayakers, wind surfers and conservationists were also represented at the meeting in lower numbers.

Those in attendance had many differing opinions on the questions presented, highlighting the difficult task DEW has.

Of those in attendance, 64 per cent said that existing access to the lakes should be maintained, while 25 per cent said some activities that impact the environment should be prohibited.

Over the years Lake George has been largely managed by community groups including the Lake George Management Committee.

The lakes are for the most part situated on Crown Land and are not part of South Australia’s protected area system.

Some land near Lake George is privately owned and used for farming.

Commercial fishing at the lake ceased in 1999.

The feedback will be used to help draft initial project recommendations.

Information on the project can be found on the National Parks and Wildlife Service website.

An online survey is available for those who could not attend the workshops.

A town that disappeared

By Kathy Gandolfi

Memories of Snuggery, a village that existed about 10kms east of Millicent on the Princes Highway near the old Cellulose mill from 1946 to 1972, will be among many stories which fill Millicent's time capsule which is expected to be resealed next week.

Millicent's Pauline Ferguson (nee Munro) has contributed to the capsule with a written piece about her recollections of growing up at Snuggery where her family lived and operated a general store.

Mrs Ferguson's article reads, in part, as follows:

"As a small child I lived at Snuggery."

Pauline's grandfather, Anthony Dwyer, operated the Murrumbum Cheese Factory and spilt the property between his two daughters Doreen and May.

May married Robert (Bob) Munro (of Adelaide) and when the couple wanted to return to the country with their young family, Bob built a home on May's piece of Murrumbum land.

This home was on a small hill, west from the site of Snuggery Village.

"The first time I remember seeing the written word Snuggery was at the Snuggery Railway Siding as it was written in large letters on the siding."

A hint as to the origin of the name Snuggery appears in The Border Watch in 1940 where Miss Caroline Glen (descendant of George Glen who had operated Mayura Station) wrote: 'The Snuggery got its name from a hut there erected by the late Mr William Vansittart, who was a partner in the [Mayura] station. He made the hut so snug and comfortable that it gave the name to that part of the run. The hut was afterwards burnt down but the name was retained.'

"The Snuggery siding was situated just off the main road to Mt Gambier on the right-hand side, just inside the fence where Apcel (Kimberly-Clark Australia) is today.

"I remember we used to walk down the road from home to catch the train to go to Mt Gambier to the football at Vansittart Park or the pictures at the Odeon Theatre.

"When the Cellulose Mill at Snuggery expanded its workforce in 1946, they built houses to accommodate their workers and their families near the mill.

"They were called the Cellulose Houses and became known as the Snuggery Village.

"The village had two main streets with streetlights and electricity for the homes." [Ed: The first tenant to move into the village in 1946 was John Morris. Altogether, 17 houses were erected and during the 26 years of the village's existence, 86 different families lived there.]

"There was a Cellulose paddock between the Village and our house, where Cellulose built a cricket pitch; there was also a scout hall.

"In 1950 my dad, Bob Munro, decided to build a shop to cater for the needs of the village.

"It was built on our land in front of our home close to the main road.

"It was named 'Munro's Cash Store.'

"He organised a petition to establish a Post Office as well.

"The Post Office facility was opened within the store as a separate identity on 5th February 1951.

"Dad managed the shop and post office until my oldest sister Judith left school."

Bob Munro was employed as a maintenance fitter at Ceullose, later he became the mill's fire officer and provided saw doctoring services.

"That worked well until Judy developed a rare eye condition and had to receive regular specialist eye treatment in Adelaide.

"It was then that I left school, at the age of 14 years, to manage the shop and post office."

School children went to school in Millicent on the Cellulose bus locally known as 'The Green Dragon' as it was long and painted green.

"A public phone was on the porch of the shop.

"The shop kept me busy as a lot of things had to be weighed, such as biscuits as they came in large tins, loose and sold by the pound.

Pauline Ferguson is pictured at the site where the Snuggery Village was. The only sign now is a row of old pine trees. The site is between the old Cellulose Site and the old Murrumbum Cheese Factory, now a home and base for Murrumbum Engineering.

"I remember my brother Jim nicking the raspberry smiles out of the big sunshine biscuit tins.

"Some things had to be sliced such as cheese and bacon.

"Kerosene had to be bottled from a big drum.

"Children would come from the village for three pence worth of lollies from the lolly counter.

"There were lots of foreigners living in the Cellulose huts located at the mill that could not speak English."

Mrs Ferguson told the South Eastern Times that her father developed a grid reference of names which the new Australians would call an item stocked at the shop, linked with the English name for the item, so that the customer could point to the word that they understood and Pauline could follow it to the English word so that she knew what her customers were asking for. She said the grid reference was in various languages to match the residents whom came from a variety of countries including, Poland, Holland, Germany, Italy and France.

"The post office also kept me busy as mail had to be sorted when brought out by Jim Atwell and mail to be sent had to be sealed in the bag to go back on time.

"I had to do wireless licenses, child endowment, accept telegrams and deliver them.

"In the late 1960's, the Snuggery Village residents started to move into Millicent and business began to fall off.

"Cellulose started to demolish some of the houses and the shop was not needed so much.

"The post office was still needed, and after the shop closed Ailsa and Don Salmon managed it from their own home.

"Jenny Butcher took over from them.

"It was finally closed in 1970."

When the village was disbanded, some of the homes were demolished, some were transferred to other sites. The last to occupy a home at Snuggery was Dennis Chapman in 1972.

A Back to Snuggery weekend was held in April 1986, 40 years after the village was first established.

The organising committee for that event comprised of former residents including President Arthur Phillips, Vice President Phyl Whelan (nee Chapman), Secretary Val Stark and committee members Arvan Carthew (nee Chapman), Val Redden, Ian Chapman, Carmel Chapman, Bob Munro, Doug Sutcliffe, Greg Waites and Pauline Ferguson.

One of the two streets at Snuggery - as pictured on the label of souvenir bottles of port for the Back to Snuggery weekend in 1986.

YOUR WEEKLY TV GUIDE

PICK OF THE WEEK

MASTERCHEF AUSTRALIA 10, Thursday, 7.30pm

Prepare for a fry-up, folks. We are deep in the pans of this 14th season of MasterChef Australia, and tonight the remaining contestants will face two rounds, with the winner gaining immunity from Sunday's elimination. So who will grease the wheels of success and impress judges Andy Allen, Melissa Leong (pictured) and Jock Zonfrillo? First up, the contestants put the oil (and sense?) aside, using an air fryer to create a show-stopping dish. It's one of the world's most popular gadgets right now, but will it stump these foodies? Later, the trusty deep-fryer is in on the action, with the cooks presenting a dish with at least one deep-fried element. Basically, it's new wave versus old-school.

ON THE BOX?

JAMIE & JIMMY'S FOOD FIGHT CLUB SBS Food, Monday, 8.30pm

The name of this foodie series is a little misleading, because it's all very homely and friendly. Presented by much-loved British chef Jamie Oliver, along with his childhood friend, farmer and TV personality Jimmy Doherty, it features celebrity guests chatting about their favourite foods and memories in the lads' own cafe in waterfront Essex, with an enthusiastic audience kicking back on the cafe's dining tables. This episode featuring cheeky TV presenter Russell Howard (pictured, Mock The Week) touches on the comedian's travels with his mother and his most memorable meal ever – a curry in Sydney – which the gang tries to recreate. They also go on a crusade against energy drinks, and Jamie devises an ingenious way to feed guests at your next barbecue.

THE FEED SBS, Tuesday, 10pm

From humble beginnings on SBS Viceland to winning multiple Walkley Awards, this unique homegrown news and current affairs program has never been afraid to go big and think outside the box. Since its first episodes in 2013, The Feed has stood out from the pack. With an uncanny skill for getting to the truth of the story – whether it be through satire, musical or exceptional questioning – the show has gained a cult following. Hosted by Marc Fennell (pictured) and Virginia Langeberg, it's a refreshing and unpredictable way to digest the news. This week it's a fascinating insight into the work of the "Outback Vet", who flies in and out of remote Australia to treat the region's pets.

FIVE BEDROOMS 10, Wednesday, 8.30pm

It's nigh on impossible to fault this warm and witty local series. Punctuated by a wonderful cast, including Kat Stewart (Offspring), Doris Younane (McLeod's Daughters), Stephen Peacocke (The Newsreader) and Katie Robertson (pictured, Rosehaven), its relatable script and lovable characters draw you into the big, warm hug of this "chosen" family, who all share a charming Victorian-era Melbourne home after being priced out of buying individually. Tonight, in "Two Mothers", Harry (Roy Joseph) and Liz (Stewart) jump into dating, while Ainsley's (Robertson) gender-reveal party is threatened by Lachlan's (Hugh Sheridan) ex, Melanie (Kate Jenkinson, Wentworth).

Motoring

New innovation: The new Ford Escape features a large grille and headlights that run almost halfway to the windscreen.

Ford Escape EV

By Ewan Kennedy, Marque Motoring

The Ford Escape SUV plug-in hybrid is the first Ford vehicle to be sold in Australia with any form of electrification.

Ford has worked hard to reduce future vehicle emissions in many ways.

Among these will be the addition of electric power to all models, in the form of as well as standard and plug-in petrol/electric hybrids as well as pure electric EVs.

The Escape PHEV comes only in the ST-Line spec level, priced at $53,440 plus on-road costs.

The petrol-only ST-Line sells for $38,490

The Ford Escape has a sensible shape that looks attractive without losing interior and luggage space by having a semi-coupe shape at the rear.

This makes it relatively unusual in this class.

The front is big and bold with a large grille and headlights that run almost halfway to the windscreen.

The lower edge of the window line slops up to meet the down sloop of the upper edge.

The seats on our test Escape ST-Line were in a soft looking black colour with red stitching that gives a real upmarket feeling.

Versatility is good as the second row of seats can be moved forwards or backwards to juggle between legroom and boot space.

Wireless charging is standard in all Escapes, so compatible devices are ready to go at all times.

The advanced 10-speaker, 575-watt set-up has been specifically developed and fine-tuned for the Escape ST-Line Plug-In Hybrid and Escape Vignale by specialist B&O sound engineers.

A powerful set up lets you hear music as it's meant to be heard.

We certainly enjoyed this during our 447-kilometre week in the Escape Plug-In Hybrid.

However, there's the common problem of loss of signal on the radio when the landscape and buildings get between you and a direct signal.

Escape PHEV is powered by a 2.5-litre naturally-aspirated 165 kW petrol engine driving through what Ford calls an eCVT automatic.

There's also a lithium-ion battery and electric motor.

These combine to drive the front wheels.

When driven solely in EV mode you can expect a range of about 50 to 55 kilometres.

Every Escape model features Autonomous Emergency Braking (AEB) with pedestrian and cyclist detection.

Always scanning ahead, it alerts the driver of potential collisions and applies the brakes if an unexpected danger appears in front of the car.

The SYNC3 system works if you're in a crash that activates the airbags or shuts the fuel pump off, Emergency Assistance uses your paired smartphone to dial emergency services and provide them with your GPS location.

Escape PHEV can be driven as a pure electric (EV Now) or as a conventional petrol/electric hybrid (EV Auto).

The Ford Escape comes with five selectable drive modes to suit varying conditions – normal, eco, sport, slippery deep snow/sand and trail.

The head-up display projects key information into the driver's field of vision, so they can keep their eyes on the road with a minimum of head movement.

The system in the Escape is far better than that in many other marques because you don't need to turn your head if you're wearing polarising sunglasses.

The 12.3-inch digital cluster reduces distraction by displaying only the information you need.

You can change between unique colour themes according to which drive mode you have selected.

The new platform, tagged as C2, means the latest Ford Focus is up to 90 kg lighter than the previous model.

The platform provides increased rigidity as well as noise, vibration, harshness improvements.

The Ford Escape PHEV is an impressive piece of modern automotive technology.

It's enjoyable to drive, even more so with the instant action when you use the accelerator.

The price is a killer and the sooner our various Australian governments do something to assist buyers the better.

Subaru's electric Solterra

By Ewan Kennedy, Marque Motoring

Subaru will introduce its first electric vehicle to the Australian market with the Solterra SUV due to arrive in 2023.

The all-new Subaru Solterra will have symmetrical All-Wheel Drive, active safety technology, adventure capabilities and durable engineering to an all-electric vehicle.

Built on the e-Subaru Global Platform, a new all-electric vehicle architecture, the Solterra is designed to provide an electric offering without compromising on the brand's distinctive features and abilities, delivering a vehicle that existing customers can feel is truly a Subaru.

Subaru Australia managing director Blair Read said the company is excited to confirm Subaru Australia will continue its electrification journey with the introduction of the first battery electric vehicle in 2023.

"The Solterra starts a new era for Subaru by combining electric vehicle technology with Symmetrical All Wheel Drive," Mr Read said.

"This delivers the all-terrain capability Subaru owners have enjoyed for decades.

"We look forward to sharing more about the Solterra with Australians soon."

One step closer: The new Electric Solterra will be built on the e-Subaru Global Platform with it set to arrive in Australia in 2023, bringing Subaru Australia a step closer to electrification.

Audi introduce entry level priced Q5 35 TDI

By Ewan Kennedy, Marque Motoring

Audi Australia is expanding its Q5 model range, with the introduction of a new entry point model - the Q5 35 TDI.

Audi Australia general manager of marketing Nick Reid said the new Q5 variant offers a new entry point into their most popular model of the iconic SUV.

"With the introduction of this model and the curation of our two Sport Limited Edition models, we are ensuring that we are bringing the most attractive vehicles possible to the premium market at this time," Mr Reid said.

"Beyond the current Limited Edition offer, we expect that the 35 TDI model will occupy a permanent position in the Q5 range."

The 2.0-litre turbo-diesel engine develops 120kW, and 370Nm of torque between 1500 and 3000rpm.

It drives the front wheels through a seven-speed dual-clutch S tronic transmission.

The zero to 100 km/h time of 9.0 seconds isn't particularly good, but fuel efficiency is more important than beating others off the line at traffic lights.

Fuel consumption of 4.8 litres per 100km on the combined ADR 81/02 test cycle. The large 70-litre fuel tank allows a theoretical range of over 1400km.

Entry level: The latest Audi Q5 is well priced while keeping its stylish look.

SE Veterans struggle on challenging sand scrapes

Double celebration

Nangwarry Netball Club recently celebrated a milestone for Kate Clayfield as she notched up her 150 senior games.

In an interesting twist, her husband Josh also reached a major milestone as he clocked up 200 senior games.

The pair were able to celebrate significant milestones together on the same day.

Kate Clayfield began her netball career at Nangwarry in 2011 after playing all her junior years at Tarpeena Netball Club.

She has been a vital and consistent player in Nangwarry's B and B Reserves ranks over the years, playing mostly in goals.

During her time at Nangwarry, Clayfield has had limited time off only to finish having her family. Her three daughters Ella, Keeley and Kenzie now all play in the junior ranks at Nangwarry and love their netball.

Over the years Clayfield has been part of our coaching group, mainly the Junior 1 and 2 teams.

She has used her wealth of knowledge in netball to help develop the junior players well.

Clayfield and her husband Josh both continue to play at Nangwarry in the B Grade teams.

The Nangwarry Netball Club congratulates Clayfield on her 150 senior games and hope to see more to come.

Tilby claims second place at cross country

Penola's Lola Tilby put in an impressive performance at the South East Cross Country Carnival held last Friday.

Tilby represented Mary MacKillop School school at the event held in Naracoorte.

The eight-year-old enjoys running and finished second in her race.

This was her second time competing in the event, after she finished third in her first effort.

The race was a 1500 metre event with students competing from schools across the South East.

Unfortunately for Tilby, she is too young to qualify for State Championships but there is a path going forward when she gets older.

Students who put in strong performances on Friday and met the qualifying times, earned the right to compete in the School Sport SA State Cross Country Carnival, which will be held in Oakbank on June 9.

Robe will look for a full-court performance when it faces Mount Burr in Round 8 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

The likes of Jenna Paproth could be pivotal as Glencoe looks to claim the points from an improving Kongorong on Saturday.

Entertaining round ahead

Mount Burr v Robe

Round 8 of Mid South East netball sees the match of the round at Mount Burr, as the Mozzies host Robe in a third v second clash.

It what is anticipated to be a close match, there will be many good match ups right down the court.

Robe's Alannah Jennings and Mount Burr's Meg Fennell will fight it out on the wing and Jennings will have to stop Fennell's drive to the circle to limit her accurate passes into the Mozzie goalies.

Ebony Clark is incredibly accurate in the goal circle but Robe's Emma Grant and Ellen Ramke will make her earn every pass.

The combination of youngsters Madi Haggett and Olivia Dean will make every move difficult for Robe's goalies and chase up any rebounds.

This game has the potential to go either way, with both teams fighting for the win.

Kalangadoo v Tantanoola

After a rough start to the season, Abbey Duncan's return to the Magpies has provided strength and confidence to the line-up.

Tantanoola will endeavour to rain on that parade this week with the accuracy of Emma Gould and Jami Walker in the goal circle.

Kate Bromley and Tayla Rowe will fight to create turnovers for Tantanoola but the accuracy of Duncan and Kori Collins will mean any possession for the Magpies in the circle will most likely translate into a goal.

Casey Walker will feed with accuracy into the Tigers goalies but the added pressure of Lauren Kain, Shanen Pulkkinen and Reanna Weatherall in the defensive end for Kalangadoo will not make it easy.

After a tough fight Kalangadoo will come away with the win.

Port MacDonnell v Hatherleigh

The Eagles are heading down to Port Mac-

Donnell this weekend to battle it out with the Demons, with both teams battling for fourth position on the ladder.

Hatherleigh's Demi Vanderhorst and Lara MacGregor will fight hard in the defensive end to prevent Toni Gilmore's accuracy within the goal circle.

Port MacDonnell's Alana Winter and Belinda O'Dine will put the pressure on within the Eagles' goal circle in order to keep Abby Wight and Maddie Redman from having too much possession of the ball, with both goalies' accuracy a focal point of recent games.

Playing coach Narelle Lewis is a vital part of Port MacDonnell's attack, with the ability to feed into her goalies with ease.

Brooke Williams and Erin Watson will tussle it out through the mid-court, chasing any loose passes and putting pressure on down the court.

This game will be a tough one for both teams and the outcome could go either way.

Kongorong v Glencoe

Glencoe will enter Round 8 well rested after the bye last week and ready to meet the Hawks at Kongorong.

Kongorong's Tori McIntyre and Sarah Lucas combine well together in the defensive circle and will put the pressure on Glencoe's goalies, Laura Edwards and Jenna Paproth.

Down the other end of the court Sarah Edwards and Chelsea Owen will be working hard to curb the influence of Tilah Buckingham in goals for the Hawks, who is consistently accurate and is backed up by Evie Sealey under the post.

Kate Wright will fight hard and work for every possession for the Hawks, as well as placing the ball into her goalies with precision.

Both teams will fight hard for the win but Glencoe will finish the day with the points.

Persistent Hawks challenge Eagles

Hatherleigh 51 d Kongorong 45
Hatherleigh faced a sustained challenge from Kongorong in its Mid South East netball Round 7 clash but managed to weather the storm and hold on for a well-deserved victory.

While the Eagles scored the first goal of the game, it was Kongorong that settled the best, converting turnovers to push out to an early five-goal lead.

Eagles Abby Wight and Maddie Pulmer took a while to adjust to the defensive pressure applied by Tori McIntyre and Sarah Lucas, while Tilah Buckingham scored freely for Kongorong.

However, Hatherleigh regained its composure toward the end of the term to lead 17-11 at the first break.

The second quarter saw Demi Vanderhorst come off the body and attack the ball to send Hatherleigh into attack on numerous occasions.

Wight positioned well and accurate passing in from Pulmer saw her convert well.

At the other end Buckingham continued to keep the score ticking over and both teams scored 11 goals for the quarter.

The second half was once again an even affair, with Hatherleigh holding a seven-goal buffer at three-quarter-time thanks to some clever feeding from Erin Watson.

Injuries to Chelsea Galpin and Georgia Hunter saw Eliza Mewett enter the game in what was her first taste of A Grade netball.

Erin Watson looks to advance the ball during Hatherleigh's win over Kongorong on Saturday.

In the end Hatherleigh was able to overcome those injuries and scrap out a hard-fought six-goal win against a tenacious Kongorong, with Wight a focal point for the Eagles, who finished the day with a game-high 45 goals.

Hatherleigh was best served by Vanderhorst and Watson, with Kate Wright and McIntyre best for Kongorong.

Magpies win clash with Tigers

Kalangadoo 42 d Robe 35
Kalangadoo and Robe played out a classic game in Round 7 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

The top-of-the-table clash kept spectators entertained, with both sides firing from the first whistle.

Kalangadoo's shooters Kori Collins and Abbey Duncan combined well in the goal circle, with Collins shooting with 100 per cent accuracy for the quarter.

While Robe's goalies were not as accurate, they rebounded well and the Magpies led by just two goals at the first break.

No changes were made at quarter time, with both teams upping the intensity further.

Robe's Alannah Jennings and Kalangadoo's Kirsty Egan battled hard on the wing, the Roosters applying plenty of pressure on every ball.

Kalangadoo was up to the challenge but claimed the quarter by just one goal for a three-goal advantage at the main break.

Robe's Emma Grant stepped up to the challenge against Duncan but quick movement and passing from the Magpie shooter caused headaches for the Roosters.

However, with some inaccurate shooting from Duncan, Grant and Ellen Ramke claimed plenty of rebounds to keep the contest alive, as Kalangadoo went to the final break with a handy six-goal advantage.

The final quarter saw Robe change Annie Hunter to wing attack and Lucy Perkins to centre in the hope to give some more defensive pressure down the court.

After the first few minutes Collins was off injured, with Maddy Bonanno into the goal shooter position for Kalangadoo.

Robe worked hard to chase down the margin in the final quarter, scoring from eight of their nine attempts but it was not enough to keep Kalangadoo at bay, as the Magpies claimed the win by seven goals.

Best players for the victors were Reanna Weatherall and Egan, while Hunter and Grant were best for Robe.

Kori Collins enjoyed another strong game for Kalangadoo on the weekend.

Second-half lift results in strong victory

Mount Burr 52 d Nangwarry 30
Mount Burr enjoyed a strong victory in its Mid South East netball Round 7 clash against Nangwarry, after a solid opening term.

After both teams scored off their first centre pass, accurate shooting from Ebony Clark saw Mount Burr get a jump on the Saints.

Carly Ploenges and Hayley Vanderhorst worked tirelessly in defence for Nangwarry in an attempt to deny Clark the ball but with pin-point passing from Laura Schultz and Meg Fennell, Clark was able to claim possession and score.

Kylie Heaver worked hard for Nangwarry to drive the ball down the court and the feed to Ange Pratt and Tahlia Wilson was accurate.

However, Mount Burr made the most of its opportunities and went to the first break up by five goals.

The Mozzies continued to push hard after the break, with the first four goals of the second term to stretch the margin.

Clark continued her impressive form, with Zoe Brown passing off any opportunity in the goal circle Schultz and Hayley Burner displayed an entertaining tussle in the centre, with both driving the ball down the court well for their respective teams.

By half time Mount Burr had stretched its advantage to 11 goals but by no way had the game in hand.

Nangwarry lifted the intensity early in the third term, turning over numerous intercepts at the defensive end and scoring every opportunity to close the margin to three goals.

However, it was Clark who stood up again for Mount Burr with accurate shooting to hold onto the advantage.

Simone Westerman had a strong quarter, making Nangwarry struggle to get the ball down the court.

A few passing errors from the Saints saw the Mozzies capitalise and extend their lead out to 15 at the final break.

The final term saw Clark again a major focus, as she netted 12 goals and at the final whistle the Mozzies were home be 22.

Best players for the victors were Clark and Westerman, while Lawson and Wilson were best for Nangwarry.

Demons claim down-to-the-wire success

Port MacDonnell 51 d Tantanoola 50
Port MacDonnell claimed a down-to-the-wire victory over Tantanoola in their Round 7 Mid South East netball clash on Saturday.

There was little room to move throughout the game, which was set up for a classic showdown in the final term and did not disappoint.

The Demons won the toss and took the first centre pass, with a quick score to get on the board.

However, the Tigers responded with quick ball movement from Casey Walker on the wing and a safe delivery into her goalies.

The Port MacDonnell defensive end stepped up early, with Alana Winter and Belinda O'Dine getting hands to lots of ball to cause havoc for the Tiger's Shooters.

At the offensive end Toni Gilmore was in fine touch and the Demons went to the first break up by two goals.

The Demons then lifted to another level in the second term and applied plenty of pressure on the Tigers' attackers.

Brooke Williams and Narelle Lewis worked well in attack and were able to find each other and deliver some accurate feeds into their goalies to extend the lead to eight at half time.

The Tigers swung a few changes at the main break, with Ebony Cytrowski moving into the middle and Michelle Robinson on to wing defence.

The Tigers' changes disrupted the Demons' game plan and Kate Bromley and Tayla Rowe were able to get some crucial turnovers.

They were rewarded through Emma Gould who had an impressive 14 goals to her name for the quarter.

The final term was set up for a cracker and Casey Walker provided speed and precision passing from the wing and delivered well to her goalies.

After going goal-for-goal for majority of the quarter it was the Tigers who came up with a turnover deep into the term but they left their run too late and the Demons prevailed by a solitary goal.

Best players for the victors were Gilmore and Williams, while Cytrowski and Casey Walker were best for Tantanoola.

Mount Burr will need to use all its run and home-ground advantage to claim a win over Robe on Saturday.

Port MacDonnell will need everything to fall into place if a win over Hatherleigh is to be achieved in Round 8 of Mid South East football on Saturday.

Demons face huge test

By Trevor Jackson

Port MacDonnell v Hatherleigh

Port MacDonnell will need to be at its best this weekend when it hosts Hatherleigh in Round 8 of Mid South East football.

The reigning premiers would hope to be the first to claim the points off the Eagles this season but will face a huge task to achieve that goal.

Hatherleigh has not put a foot wrong this season, with strong victories from each outing.

The Eagles’ closest contest this season was against the fourth-placed Robe, which was still a big 44-point victory.

The issue of slow starts was put to rest last week against Kongorong, where the Eagles banged on 9.9 (63) in the first term to set up a big win.

Hatherleigh coach Jake Dowdy said he expects a tough contest and takes nothing for granted, despite an undefeated start to the season.

The Demons have not started as well, with a big loss to Kalangadoo, along with a close defeat at the hands of Robe.

However, they have managed to chalk up four wins from their six outings and appear to be on the right track after an exodus of players from the 2021 premiership side.

Just like Dowdy, Demons’ coach Simon Merrett is keen to take on the Eagles, with the chance to test his side and see where they sit at this stage of the season.

The home-ground advantage could play into the Demons’ hands but everything would have to go to plan to secure a victory.

The talls such as Tim Sullivan and Will MacDonald will play a pivotal role for the Demons, along with the hard running of Mark Smith and the versatility of Kevin Thomson.

For Hatherleigh, it appears 2022 will be a prosperous season and victory over the Demons will be another box ticked on the way to post-season glory.

The Eagles will need Dowdy to be at his best up forward, while Jack Skeer and Brad Mitchell certainly provide a couple of strong targets inside 50.

Neither coach wants to give too much away but both sides appear to be in good touch, which should equate to an entertaining contest.

With the newly-renovated oval down at the Bay, there will be no excuses for either side but the Eagles should get the job done and remain undefeated ahead of their clash with Kalangadoo a week later.

Kalangadoo v Tantanoola

Kalangadoo hosts Tantanoola in what should be another big win for the Magpies.

Take nothing away from the Tigers, who currently sit in fifth position on the ladder with three wins and as many losses.

Quite simply, the Magpies have been in a league of their own in 2022 and it will take a huge effort for any side to halt the juggernaut.

They have had a mixed start to the season and will hope for a strong performance this week but up against the benchmark of the competition, will face an uphill battle.

While Magpies coach Kevin Stark has said last year’s grand final loss is not a talking point this season, it certainly appears Kalangadoo is on a mission to atone for that result.

Regardless, every team they have faced this year has felt the wrath of the Magpies’ desire to claim that coveted honour.

While Tantanoola will put up a good fight, as they have all season, it will simply be too steep a climb to knock the Magpies off their pedestal, who will continue to roll on in preparation for the upcoming clash against Hatherleigh the following weekend.

Kongorong v Glencoe

Kongorong hosts Glencoe in what should be an entertaining clash.

Both sides languish down towards the blunt end of the ladder and would want another victory to have some separation from the bottom-placed Nangwarry.

They need not worry this week, with the Saints enjoying a week off with the bye but Kongorong in particular sit in a precarious position, just one win ahead of Nangwarry.

The Saints have certainly challenged some sides this season and a win might not be far off, with that in mind, the Hawks will certainly throw everything at this contest.

However, Glencoe would consider itself a better side than seventh place would suggest.

Despite having to travel to face the Hawks, the Murphies should claim the points in what will be an entertaining match-up.

Mount Burr v Robe

Mount Burr holds the home-ground advantage against Robe on Saturday and will hope to use that well as the Mozzies chase their third win of the season.

They will face a tough task against a strong Roosters outfit, which sits two positions ahead on the premiership table, currently in fourth place.

The Mozzies have certainly pushed hard this season, with some strong starts and a clinical display against Nangwarry last weekend.

While the Mozzies come off that big win over the Saints, the Roosters would still be licking their wounds after a tough day out against Kalangadoo last weekend.

The Magpies controlled that contest and slammed home their dominance with a massive final term.

While the Mozzies do not have the firepower of Kalangadoo, they will certainly be in the mix against Robe.

It is a must-win scenario for the Mozzies, currently two wins outside the top four with a long road ahead to taste post-season action.

A four-quarter performance will be required and if they can achieve that, they may well upset the Roosters in what should be an entertaining contest.

South East women’s representative side announced

By James Murphy

The South East Women’s Football Zone team was announced this week.

Players were selected from within the Limestone Coast Women’s Football League and will make the trip to Whyalla in July for the South Australian Women’s Country Championships.

While there they will compete against zone teams from across regional SA made up of the best country players from the state.

Mundulla’s Michael Hunt will coach the side again this year and looks forward to another successful carnival.

In 2021 the South East finished runner-up in a nail-biter grand final against the Northern zone.

“We have some really good players in the zone again this year,” Hunt said.

“I am hoping if they work together well, they can be very competitive again.”

South Gambier and Kybybolite both feature prominently in the side, having been the benchmark of the LCWFL competition this year.

League best and fairest, Penola’s Caroline McGrath is another unsurprising inclusion, while each of the nine clubs has at least one player included.

Hunt is excited for the opportunity to coach the side again, while he will be aided by South Gambier’s Simon Radley and North Gambier’s Fiona Young as assistant coaches.

“Once again I am very honoured to be allowed to do this,” he said.

“Last year I was really pleased with the results, considering we were out of season and we came up against some magnificent teams.

Hunt said it will be important again for players to work together and adjust their game to suit the higher standard of competition.

The team will have its first training at Penola this Sunday at 10am and will have five or six sessions prior to the event.

With opposition teams midway through their seasons, Hunt said it is important to ensure the girls are match fit, since they have not played since April.

However, he is optimistic about the championships and looks forward to seeing what this team can achieve.

Captains are yet to be announced but Hunt said there are no shortage of candidates for the role.

South East Zone Team

South Gambier: Lauren Frost, Kendell Saffin, Alice Tentye, Chelsea Frost, Mel Bateman, Tess Andrews, Scarlet Creek; Kybybolite: Annabel Mould, Ella Jones, Suzie Maber, Georgia Gill, Dellie Brown, Emily Cattuzzo; Penola: Angela Broad, Shandeen Balshaw, Caroline McGrath, Nell Eastough; Kalangadoo: Emmason Ilsley, Taysha Marshall; Casterton Sandford: Scarlett Jarrad, Sophie Arkun, Erin Horsnell, Zhane Crawford; Mundulla: Casey McElroy, Zoe Hawker, Kellsie Turner, Kellsey Hinge; North Gambier: Chloe Perryman; Millicent: Laura Chester; Kongorong: Jade Longbottom, Kate Wright.

Squad announced: Penola’s Caroline McGrath is among the Limestone Coast Women’s footballers named in the South East Zone squad.

Tigers sink at Bay

By Trevor Jackson

Port MacDonnell 18.14 (122) d Tantanoola 9.3 (57)
Port MacDonnell has not had the best run so far for its 2021 premiership defence.

Four wins for the season, with a couple of those results tight, plus a couple of losses have been cause for concern but the Demons certainly looked up to the task in Round 7 of Mid South East football on Saturday.

Port MacDonnell made short work of its clash with Tantanoola and came away with a solid 65-point victory.

Leading the way was Kevin Thomson with his five-goal haul but he was joined by five others with multiple majors.

Mark Smith and Tim Sullivan kicked three each, while Will MacDonald, Ben O’Dine and Jake Turner all added two.

The Demons came out of the blocks hot, with a 21-point advantage at the first break, then banged on another five majors in the second quarter, while holding the Tigers to just two behinds.

It was only the last quarter where the Tigers matched the Demons, as both sides kicked five goals but by then the damage had been done.

Coach Simon Merrett said he had introduced a change of game style this season on the back of losing 11 players from last year’s premiership-winning side.

“We have changed the way we are playing our footy and our game plan from the pre-season,” he said.

“I think we started to see glimpses of that coming through on Saturday.

“It has taken six weeks and there have been patches where you could see it for 10 or 15 minutes but we actually applied ourselves and carried out the game plan for a good three-and-a-half quarters.

“The way we moved the footy was the pleasing aspect.

“I think we are now building into better footy which is pleasing.”

One of the keys to the success on Saturday was the strong start.

However, the Demons then went on with it, rather than sit back and rest on their laurels.

“We were a bit slow out of the blocks the first few weeks, so we set ourselves a goal to start the game well.

“To get the jump was really important and in the second quarter to go on with it was good.”

Merrett said while it would have been ideal to finish the game off as strongly, by the final break the result was in hand.

While the big forwards certainly put the score on the board, Merrett noted the strength of the defensive pack.

“We some good firepower up forward but it is probably down back where we have been a bit light on,” he said.

“But the guys held up really well back there

Mark Smith moves the ball forward during a strong performance by Port MacDonnell against Tantanoola on Saturday.

which was good because we have a pretty young back line.”

The new game plan finally coming to fruition is certainly timely, as the Demons host the powerhouse Hatherleigh this weekend.

“We will really see where we are at this week,” Merrett said.

“Kalangadoo and Hatherleigh are the two form sides of the comp and we are pretty eager to see where we fit in that.”

Hot Pies on a roll as they continue with strong wins

By Trevor Jackson

Kalangadoo 27.12 (174) d Robe 4.10 (34)
Kalangadoo continues to roll towards the ultimate success in the 2022 Mid South East football season, with another big win on Saturday.

The Round 7 clash saw the Magpies travel to Robe to take on the Roosters and apart from a relatively even first quarter, it was all about the visitors.

They turned a 13-point first-quarter advantage into a 49-point half-time lead and never let the Roosters back into the contest.

Robe picked up its effort in the third quarter but an exceptional final term by the visitors left no doubt as to where the Magpies want to be come September.

Even with a 54-point advantage at the final break, Kalangadoo did not back off, slamming on an impressive 14 majors and just three behinds to run the game out in style.

Michael Krieger was the beneficiary of much of the Magpies’ strength around the ground, adding six majors to his growing season tally.

Lachy Jones and Sam McManus kicked four each, Ben Mules added three, while Ben Gregory and Jamil Jones rounded out the multiple goalscorers with two majors each.

Coach Kevin Stark he couldn’t be happier after claiming such a strong win against the third-placed side in the competition.

However, he said after a lack-lustre third term, he addressed the need to stick to the game plan and the rest is history.

“We were probably a little bit disappointed with our third quarter, we probably went away from our game plan a bit, so we really addressed that at three-quarter-time and I couldn’t ask for a better response,” Stark said.

“By that stage we had a few blokes go down with injuries, so you are asking players to play different roles.

“The response from the whole group was really pleasing.”

Along with various other players, Stark had high praise for the efforts of McManus who yet again played a pivotal role.

“With Sam McManus, it hasn’t been just yesterday but in every game this season,” he said.

“Sam plays on a wing and his four goals came from sheer hard work and gut running.

“He works equally as hard the other way in defence.

“He has been unlucky to not be in the best players more because his work sets a tone for the rest of the group.”

A big pleasing factor for Stark is not the final scores this season but the fact the whole club is enjoying the year so far.

“It is not just the A Grade group but everyone is just having fun,” he said.

“It is a really good feeling.

“Of course it is much easier to have that with the results we have had but I don’t think that is translating into any lack of intent or false securities.

“Robe is the third best side so we knew coming into the game we were up for a big challenge.

“The margin reflects how seriously the boys took it.”

Still on top

Millicent 73 d Casterton Sandford 32

Millicent secured the premiership points as expected when it hosted Casterton Sandford for Round 7 of Western Border netball.

The Cats' defence found it tough against the powerhouse shooting combination of Tabatha Sanderson and Demi Verbena.

The duo shared the shooting responsibilities on the day which Sanderson's height often has her dominating the scoring attempts and she netted her fair share again but Verbena more shots than usual and her 25 from 30 was a high return and an accurate one. Georgia Clarke played her first full game in the centre and influenced the match at both ends of the court.

The young back three of Portia McRae, Hannah Nitschke and Kayleigh Taylor denied the Cats time and space at every opportunity and created plenty of turnover ball.

Casterton Sandford still suffered from a lack of scoring opportunities - courtesy to the relentless defensive pressure from the Saints - but their accuracy was much improved.

The match also saw the debut of Ivy Lane in the second half in goals and while her opportunities to score were rare, she finished with six from nine in a promising A Grade debut.

Madalene Cleary was again the mainstay of the attacking line and at goal attack she set up the play and finished accurately.

At the other end Caeleigh Humphries continues to anchor the defence and found important touches to disrupt the always slick Millicent frontline.

The Cats will continue to experiment with their line-up as the season progresses, while Millicent will look for another settled performance this weekend.

The Saints travel to Malseed Park for a top-of-the-table clash against West Gambier this Saturday. Last time the sides met Millicent clinched a three-goal win at home.

It will chase a similar result but will need to be wary of in-form Roos' shooter Sarah Ritter.

She was in accurate form against North last round and netted 49 from 62, while Amy Cram and Jade Ritter were sturdy in defence.

Lisa McGregor's influence through the midcourt and under the net will also need to be monitored if the Saints are to replicate their Round 3 result.

Too strong: Millicent goal shooter Tabatha Sanderson found plenty of the ball in the Saints' strong win over Casterton Sandford on Saturday.

Back on the ground where it happened

By James Murphy

West Gambier v Millicent

Last time Millicent played at Malseed Park the club won an A Grade football premiership.

Now the Saints return to the venue for Round 8 of the 2022 Western Border football season for a meeting with West Gambier.

Another win will be on the cards as Millicent has not lost a game since the opening round against South.

However, a close call against Casterton Sandford last week was a shock to the system and there remained plenty of work to do on the training track this week.

The Roos suffered a disheartening loss to North last round but were impressive against Casterton the previous week.

They will take confidence from that solid victory heading into their clash with the Saints, who held on for a slim four-point win over the Cats on Saturday.

Jacob Carger was a standout for Millicent and found some of his explosive form from early rounds against the Cats.

He was dangerous around the ground and led the way with three goals.

The Saints will hope for the return of Kylan Shanks, Kynan Dunn, Eli Redman and Kobe Gibson who were absent due to Adelaide commitments.

The young brigade have shown talent and composure beyond its years at Millicent and has shown no signs of slowing down.

Josh Werchon and Kade Varcoe have been prime examples of that with solid starts to the year, while Zac McGuinness has also been solid.

West has its own young talent, with Tom Nieuwerkerk coming off his third best-on-ground performance of the season.

Mitchell Cornolo and Reece Cowling were also in fine form against North and will look to carry momentum into this week.

Lawry Bradley-Brown has started to find his best again after a disrupted start to the season, while Michael Minuzzo and Jordan Williams have been equally as impressive.

If West can bring its best to the park it could be a competitive game but the Saints are unlikely to let their guard slip two weeks in a row.

High-flying Eagles win

By Trevor Jackson

Hatherleigh 24.23 (167) d
Kongorong 6.3 (39)

Hatherleigh continued its march towards September with a strong victory over Kongorong in Round 7 of Mid South East football on Saturday.

It was one-way traffic from the outset, despite the first goal of the day going to the Hawks.

From there the Eagles began to pepper the goals and build a substantial lead by the first break.

Luckily for the Hawks, Hatherleigh was off line with many shots, with a quarter-time total of 9.9 (63) to Kongorong's 1.1 (7).

The Eagles continued to push hard for the remainder of the game but the opening term was the most productive.

Kongorong managed to slow the momentum somewhat but was unable to make inroads into the margin, as Hatherleigh simply went about its work.

At the end of the day to winning margin could have been far worse, was it not for the 23 behinds kicked by the victors.

Jack Skeer led the list of goal kickers for the Eagles, with seven to his name, while Brad Mitchell (5), coach Jake Dowdy (4), Joe Ferguson-Lane (3) and Zach Jones (2) all with multiple majors.

Dowdy said he was pleased with his side's intent across the whole game.

"We had a big focus on trying to play four quarters," he said.

"Our first was our best by a long way.

"We came out firing and with a bit more goal accuracy, it would have been a big win but it is something to work on."

Dowdy said he had made some change pre-game to ensure his side gets off to a strong start, which seemed to play out well on Saturday.

The end result is more play inside 50, which at times saw missed opportunities but the ability of the Eagles to still kick a big winning score was certainly impressive.

Kongorong certainly brought plenty of heat to the contest but Dowdy's boys were able to weather the storm and control the game.

Hatherleigh's Max Telfer looks to clear the ball during the Eagles big win over Kongorong on Saturday.

Much of that came from a strong mid-field, with crisp delivery up forward to the likes of Skeer and Mitchell.

"It was probably the most physical game we have played this year," Dowdy said.

"They didn't really lie down and kept the intensity up all game.

"But we have plenty of contested-ball winners through the mid-field so it was good for us to match that intensity and still have pretty clean ball use."

With a 92-point advantage at the final break, the Eagles could have been excuses for backing off but that certainly was not the case.

Dowdy said there were several reasons to keep the pressure on.

"We had the first three quarters done and just wanted to finish the game off well," he said.

"We had a pretty big day, sponsorship day and past premiership players in attendance, so we were keen to run it out and have a pretty big final term."

Mozzies record stinging victory over struggling Saints

By Trevor Jackson

Mount Burr 19.16 (130) d
Nangwarry 6.7 (43)

A solid first term set up a win for Mount Burr over Nangwarry in Round 7 of Mid South East football on Saturday.

Four Mount Burr goals to Nangwarry's two set up the win but it was a second-quarter barrage from the Mozzies which made the difference in the end.

Mount Burr banged on eight majors to take a 65-point advantage to the main break and never let the Saints back into the contest.

Hamish Smith topped the goal-scoring list with five majors for the victors, Talyor Allen and Jack Gregory kicked three each and Jacob Gregory rounded out the multiple goal scorers with two.

Nangwarry's Andrew Hyland found his range and finished the day with five majors but it was not enough to stop the Mozzies running rampant around the ground.

Coach Reece Duncan said his side took nothing for granted against the Saints, despite their win-less record this season.

"I made sure the boys were aware during the week it was a must win game, a win at all costs and leave nothing to chance," he said.

"I said to the guys at the start of the day this is no Nangwarry team that we have played before.

"It is a new and improved one and ready to role, so we went there with the intention to win and the willingness to work hard for it.

"I think there were some nerves around from our supporters - we had a number of guys out - but I was pleased with how we started the game."

The second term came together well, with a focus on the basics, to man up and shut the opposition down.

The plan worked a treat but Duncan said from there the intent seemed to drop, which disappointed the coach.

"At half time it was another reminder we had played one good half of football but by no means was it enough," he said.

"Unfortunately in the third quarter we came out and were asleep.

"We were lacking in a few areas.

"I gave the boys a bit of a rev up at three-quarter-time and they answered in the last quarter.

"One quarter we maybe let things slide a bit but the guys got back on track and we went on with it.

"We finished the game off well which I was happy with."

With a few names out of the roster, the silver lining has been the young players stepping up to the challenge, which Duncan is more-than pleased with.

"I have been happy with our young guys," he said.

"A Grade is a different game but they have come in and played their role.

"From week one to now you can see - the guys who have strung a few games together - the improvement in their game."

While Duncan concedes he is not overly impressed with where the team currently sits, he said moving forward the season looks much brighter.

"We should have a few guys back this week and should have a full list to pick from in the next month or so," he said.

"At the half-way point of the season we will see where we are sitting, readjust and go from there."

Too close for comfort

By James Murphy

Millicent 7.8 (50) d
Casterton Sandford 6.10 (46)

Millicent held on for a narrow victory over Casterton Sandford in Round 7 of Western Border football on Saturday.

The Saints looked in control for the first half but were limited to a single goal after the main break and had to hold on tight to claim the points.

A surge from the Cats in the final stanza put the pressure on and only four points separated the sides at the siren.

"Another few minutes and we probably would have lost the game I reckon," Millicent coach Clint Gallio said.

"We just had to grit our teeth and fight it out in the end."

Casterton's efforts were not enough to claim the upset on the day but they did knock the Saints down to second place, as South Gambier returns to the top of the ladder on percentage after a solid win over East Gambier.

Millicent held a 28-point lead at half time but the momentum shifted after the long break.

The Cats started to claw in the scoreline with renewed pressure creating opportunities inside 50.

"In the second half Casterton played some pretty decent footy and were able to hold onto it for longer periods," Gallio said.

"They made the most of their opportunities when they got forward, which was something we couldn't do."

Gallio said his Saints still found plenty of the ball after half time but some poor decisions and skill work let them down.

The absence of Kalan Shanks, Kynan Dunn, Eli Redman and Kobe Gibson did not help things on the weekend as football commitments in Adelaide ruled out the quartet of junior talent.

Millicent also has a handful of injuries which have required the side to rely on its depth over recent weeks.

However, it has proven to have deep pockets when it comes to talent, proven last week against the Demons.

It was Jacob Carger who led the charge on Saturday as he put in a consistent four-quarter performance and earned praise from his coach.

"I thought his four quarters were great," Gallio said.

"He went forward and kicked three goals and steadied us a bit.

"It was a real captain's game and he led from the front for us."

Kade Varcoe and Josh Werchon continued their strong seasons to be named in the best again, while Dylan Tincknell was solid in his return.

Tincknell missed last round due to Covid, but his work both in defence and on the ball earned him a place in the best players.

Gallio also credited Zac McGuinness who was solid in defence, with the entire back six standing tall under the pressure of that fourth term.

Casterton Sandford looked to the services of its experienced heads on Saturday.

Dylan Ayton pushed hard off the half back line to drive the ball forward and after a consistent start to the season, raised his game to another level to be named best on ground.

Diarmid Cleary and Tom Foster were also impressive, while Billy Galpin, Ed Pritchard and Hamish McCrae upheld their solid form.

Galpin led the Cats on the scoreboard with two goals and joined Carger as the only two multiple goal kickers for the day.

The Cats will take confidence from the intensity they brought to McLaughlin Park and will look for a similar output against the Bulldogs this weekend.

For the Saints there will be some work to do on the training track to ensure this week's clash against West Gambier does not provide an upset.

Nail-biter: Casterton Sandford's Dylan Ayton is caught in a tackle from Millicent's Jacob Carger in a contest which earned both players the best-on-ground honours for their respective sides.
