Time for change: MBCA vice chair Melissa Armfield and chair Lee Morgan discuss plans for the upcoming AGM to be held at The Shearer's Cook Cafe.

Changes to footy loom

The future of football and netball in the region is under review by a South Australian National Football League (SANFL) investigative committee.

All three South East leagues will be involved in the analysis, in the wake of the Casterton Sandford Football and Netball Club's application to move from the Western Border to Mid South Eastern competition.

Should their application be approved by the state body, it would leave the Western Border as a five-team competition, reigniting the discussion for a possible restructure.

A 60-day assessment period has been launched by SANFL, which started on Sunday, with no options off the table.

A new board

By Caroline Hammat

Changes are being proposed to both the constitution and existing committee structure of the Millicent Business Community Association (MBCA) at the next Annual General Meeting scheduled for Wednesday, August 24.

MBCA committee is making moves to replace the current structure with an executive board consisting of four or five members and are looking for external funding options that would pay for a part-time executive officer who would report directly to the new executive.

Current chair of the MBCA Lee Morgan said about the planned changes: "It is for improved governance, the executive officer drives the functions of the MBCA rather than committee members being expected to volunteer and do things over and above running their business.

"The executive officer reports to the executive on critical actions.

"It makes it a bit more streamlined, the executive committee will get regular reports on a monthly basis and they have to approve certain actions.

"The executive officer reports who they have interacted with and what things have been achieved - that way you are tracking the progress occurring and it becomes far more professional.

"This is a far more efficient and effective way of doing it; of course, you have to pay someone.

Changes ahead for Association

"I'm prepared to do this for the interim period, with the implication that I would have to step down as chair because I can't do both from a separation of powers perspective."

Mr Morgan is hopeful this approach would attract aspiring community leaders to consider being on boards and build an understanding of good governance, with the group already in discussions with potential executive members.

The proposed new executive would include chairperson, deputy chairperson and two others with financial and business interest oversight with the executive officer taking on the secretarial role.

Constitutional changes being proposed are changing the name to chairperson throughout as it currently interchanges with president, and bi-monthly meetings instead of the current monthly ones and approval to hold meetings on-line via Zoom or Teams. The quorum will be 50 per cent plus one of the executive and amending responsibilities of the executive officer.

All members of the MBCA are welcome to attend the AGM at Millicent's Shearer's Cook Cafe at 7pm.

A long legacy: Demetrio Snr harvesting the 1985 Zema Estate vintage in Coonawarra. Initially, they had assistance from family and friends who helped them plant new vines, hand prune, and pick. Picture: SUPPLIED

Big plans for 40th birthday coming

Renowned Coonawarra winery Zema Estate is celebrating 40 years with the limited release of their 2016 Saluti, an exciting new brand refresh, and numerous events in Coonawarra and around Australia.

What started as a love story in Calabria, Italy, became a 40-year obsession with Cabernet and Shiraz.

In 1957, Demetrio Zema followed his fiancée Francesca to Australia in search of something more.

Nick Zema, co-founder and Director at Zema Estate, said Australia was the land of opportunity for his Mum and Dad

"All their hard work was to achieve one goal - to purchase a Coonawarra vineyard and establish wine under the Zema name," he said.

In March 1982, their dream became a reality when the Zema family purchased 20 acres right in the heart of Coonawarra's famed terra rossa - 8 acres of which were already planted with mature shiraz vines.

When it came time to decide what to plant, the Zema family saw no reason to depart from Scottish pioneer John Riddoch's 1891 recommendation, planting their remaining land with Cabernet Sauvignon.

"Our whole business is built on these two great grape varieties; Cabernet - vibrant and rich with a great line of length, and Shiraz for a great mouthfeel and loads of flavour," said Mr Zema.

Zema Estate now has 150 acres of vines in three prime Coonawarra locations. Whilst taking great pride in their achievements, Nick says they haven't lost sight of their original philosophies.

"Hand-pruning to nurture and foster each vine, careful fruit selection, enriching the fruit flavours through selected winemaking techniques, using the best oak barrels available, and diligent bottle ageing are key to the Zema signature style."

Zema Estate will celebrate its 40th anniversary in the following ways:

- A commemorative release of the limited 2016 Saluti (RRP $145.99) in September 2022.
- In September, they will reveal the final stage of their brand refresh with the release of 2018 Cluny (RRP $24.99), 2018 Estate Cabernet (RRP $29.99), 2018 Estate Shiraz (RRP $26.99).

Zema Estate will host commemorative events in Coonawarra and around Australia, including:

- Exclusive 40-year Celebration Dinner at Zema Estate, Coonawarra hosted by renowned wine writer Nick Ryan (Saturday, October 1).
- 30 years of Cluny tasting (Saturday 8 and Sunday 9 October in Coonawarra).
- 40 years of Cabernet tasting (Saturday 15 and Sunday October 16 in Coonawarra).
- Back vintage tastings in Melbourne, Sydney, Brisbane, Adelaide, and Perth as part of the Coonawarra Roadshow (11-28 August).

Zema Estate's exhibition "History is Happening Now" will be available to view by the public all October and by appointment at their Cellar Door.

"Today, we feel a part of the Australian wine landscape," Mr Zema said.

"We're enormously proud of our family's achievements and wish to build on this legacy for future generations.

"We look forward to the future and continuing our focus on the care and attention to detail required to consistently create exceptional wines.

"Here's to the next 40 years!"

School opens door to all

By Caroline Hammat

St Anthony's Catholic Primary School in Millicent is celebrating Catholic Education Open Week with a series of activities beginning next Monday.

Open week tours of the school, hosted by the Principal Liza Couzens and School Captains, are taking place on Monday and Wednesday.

There will also be an open classroom showcase on Wednesday afternoon with a BBQ hosted by the Parents and Friends group.

A Thursday Come 'n' Try for the Reception class begins at 2.15pm; bookings will need to be made through the school prior to this event.

Ms Couzens is looking forward to welcoming families to the activities.

"I am really keen to welcome all families to St Anthony's," she said.

"Catholic Schools Open Week provides the occasion to share with the community what opportunities St Anthony's provides each child to thrive and our commitment to learning excellence.

"At St Anthony's this is an important focus for us, we are committed to every child to develop a passion for life, learning and service of others.

"We work in partnership with families to educate and nurture each child, supporting them to thrive and become capable learners and extraordinary human beings."

Class in action: Ms Jones year one and two class begin their morning with reading activities.

The open week is a state-wide initiative of Catholic Education South Australia (CESA) that offers the opportunity for families to visit their local Catholic school and explore the benefits of a Catholic education.

Director of CESA Dr Neil McGoran said: "Catholic Education South Australia is an educational sector that is committed to providing excellence for every child and young person whose learning and education is entrusted to our care.

"We want every student to experience success according to their unique characteristics and talent.

"Catholic schools believe in teaching more than the curriculum. They instil values that last well beyond the schooling experience, they're ingrained for life."

Open week welcome: St Anthony's Catholic School principal Liza Couzens with year six students Alannah Phillips, Luca Hamilton and Lindy Van Eeden in the school's nature play area.

Tree change for metal recyclers, starts new chapter

By Caroline Hammat

After 40 years of family ownership, Millicent's scrap metal recyclers has changed hands.

The new owners, Emma and Gary Soghomonian, have relocated from Sydney to take over the business, after Mr Soghomonian and his father sold their own family-owned automotive recycling enterprise after 20 years of ownership.

Ms Soghomonian explained how they decided to make the move to the region.

"We were having a look around for something new and there wasn't anything catching our eye in NSW, then we started to venture further and further and we found ourselves in Millicent.

"It wasn't planned that we were coming to South Australia but it just so happened that Manny and Judy (Valcarcel-Fuentes) were ready for their next adventure and we saw the business.

"We made a few trips here, sort of fell in love with the area and thought it was about time for a change.

"Also meeting the original owners Joe and Anne has been great, Gary and Joe share their Spanish heritage and get on well, so they have formed a bit of a bond.

Mountain of metal: New owners of Millicent Scrap Metal, Gary and Emma Soghomonian.

"It is daunting coming into a small country town where everybody knows everyone, we are not going to make huge changes, we'll keep it as it is, improve on our quality of service and keep supporting the locals around here."

The new owners are still settling into their new business with settlement taking place early July.

Teamwork: Travis Heyward (left) and his son Zane are the newest employees at Millicent Scrap Metal with Tammy Stuppel who is already familiar with the established business.

"We have all the same employees here, one has retired, and we have since hired a truck driver and another to help in the yard."

In 1979, the business started from humble beginnings in Kalangadoo by Joe and Anne Valcarcel-Fuentes where the couple were caretakers for the local rubbish dump for half a day each Sunday.

From collecting and reselling scrap metal, paper and recyclable cans and bottles to eventually purchasing what was known as a Marine Dealer's licence, the business outgrew the family's small backyard.

Eventually, the family returned to Millicent and later set up the Aberle Street business in 1999, with their two sons Juanito and Manny taking over the business in 2010.

NYE dry zone extended

By Elsie Adamo

Wattle Range Council have approved changes to alcohol-free "dry" zones in Beachport, despite concerns from Councillor Sharon Cox the move could impact tourism.

At a meeting earlier this month, the council moved to implement another dry zone over New Year's Eve in addition to previously implemented zones. The new short-term dry zone will be in effect for 24 hours from 12pm on 31 December, along the Beachport foreshore area.

The dry zone area encompasses Beach Road as well as the beaches, jetty and public spaces from the drain outlet through to Glenn Point, where the consumption or possession of liquor will be prohibited. The dry zone will not affect the consumption of alcohol at private properties.

According to council chief executive Ben Gower, the new zone was a request from the local police force.

Cr Cox raised concerns at a council meeting earlier this month the change could deter tourists from visiting or impact Beachport Brewing Co, which is next to the dry zone.

She said during the discussion she is worried people who had bought sealed goods from the business may be hassled by police when transporting them through the dry zone.

Mr Gower said during the meeting he, along with other council staff, had met with police representatives, who said there had been problems with underage drinking at the previous New Year's Eve celebrations, and the change would allow them to better control future incidents.

Cr Cox said she could not understand why the change was needed, as underage drinking is illegal outside of dry zones already, and the move could be an overcorrection for a few minor incidents.

Councillor Agnew was supportive of Cr Cox's comments, but other councillors present indicated they would trust the judgement of the police on the matter.

Councillor Dunciff said at the meeting that he favoured the motion and was averse to ig-norning police recommendations.

During the vote Cr Cox called for a division on the matter. Councillors Brodie, Burrow, Drew, Dunciff, McGrath, Muhovics and Price voted for the motion, while Councillors Cox and Agnew were against the change.

The motion was carried without amendments.

Association calls for more court support

By Caroline Hammat

A long-term plan to enhance the social side of the Millicent and District Basketball Association (MDBA) through a new $700,000 viewing platform and function room is well underway to completing stage one of the two stage project.

Initial plans were to complete the ambitious build in one stage but a lack of funding has broken the project into two phases.

Stage one is to complete the lower level of the viewing platform which will be encased in glass along the front and sides, and includes two large glass windows to view the back courts.

Plans for this space include a kitchen, bar, seating and amenities block with disability access, and a row of courtside seating along the outside of the new space.

MDBA stadium manager Peter Seebohm said: "The project we are going to finish is about $540,000. We were lucky enough to get a $211,000 grant from the previous Federal Government's Building Better Regions funding and $40,000 from the Wattle Range Council.

"The balance of the project we have either fundraised or borrowed against the project for ourselves."

Explaining the aim behind the new platform, Mr Seebohm said: "We have been really proactive in reducing our power bill in the stadium and have changed our lights four times to reduce them.

"We have put solar panels on, insulated the building, and we have done so many things to reduce everything to keep basketball participation fees as cheap as we can.

"But we haven't done a lot for our members and families, as in providing better facilities, so this project is for our families.

"If parents have their kids (playing) on the back courts, they don't socialise, we have families from Penola, Robe and Glencoe that come here but they sit up in the corner of the grandstand, or they sit out in the back seats.

Function room moves forward: Peter Seebohm in front of the two-storey build which he hopes will be completed before his retirement in March next year.

"There is no intermix so we are trying to develop that social side to it.

"If mums and dads feel happy and welcome than they are likely to keep encouraging their kids to keep active, healthy and keep involved."

The association hopes to have the bottom level of the two-storey viewing platform and function room completed by October 22 in time for the next junior tournament that attracts participants from across South Australia and Victoria.

To complete the second part of the project, a public appeal is underway with tax deductible donations possible through the Australian Sports Foundation website.

Individual and family donors are recognised through plaques, with business support acknowledged with their name on a window or chair.

Stage two will see the upstairs level completed, with windows that run the length of the platform overlooking the rear courts and a grandstand, already in place, for main court viewing.

The challenge ahead for Mr Seebohm is seeing the project completed before he retires in March after 28 years in the position and 50 years' involvement in local basketball.

Three years for cannabis

By Elsie Adamo

A Beachport man has been sentenced to more than three years in prison, having been caught growing more than 300 cannabis plants on Crown land.

Ronald Herbert Nieuwenhuizen was sentenced for one count of cultivating a large commercial quantity of a controlled plant earlier this month at the Mount Gambier District Court.

The court heard that in November 2020, when checking a property on Sir William Mills Drive for a suspected illegal firearm, police found two plastic resealable bags of cannabis and 345 immature cannabis plants growing on nearby Crown land.

A further 54 cannabis seedlings were found in a small cottage on the premises.

After searching a neighbouring property, police found Nieuwenhuizen, who had been living in a caravan on the lot, who later admitted to planting the cannabis.

The court heard it was Nieuwenhuizen who was responsible for watering and caring for the cannabis plants with hopes of eventually selling the marijuana so he could upgrade his caravan.

He admitted to drinking heavily and consuming drugs at the time of the offence, which Nieuwenhuizen's counsel claimed had impaired his ability to make rational decisions.

Judge Geraldine Davison, when handing down her sentence, highlighted Nieuwenhuizen's role in the operation.

"You were a willing and central participant in this drug operation for the purpose of profit," Judge Davison said.

"Your role was to prepare the pots, plant the seedlings, tend the seedlings, and tend to the plants as they grew to maturity.

"I am not satisfied that your role was as limited as your counsel initially submitted.

"I am, however, satisfied that you were not the sole participant in this large enterprise."

Nieuwenhuizen's guilty plea had been considered in the judgement, receiving a prison sentence of three years, four months, and 25 days, which would have been four years had he been found guilty by trial.

A "relatively low" non-parole period of one year was set by Judge Davison due to Nieuwenhuizen's health and role in relation to the cultivation.

While a suspended sentence was considered, Judge Davison ultimately decided it was not appropriate.

"This was a significant and planned criminal operation that could have had a major detrimental impact upon society," Judge Davison said.

"I have taken into account your personal circumstances, including your poor health.

"However, this does not outweigh the need for general and personal deterrence.

"I have determined that there is no good reason to suspend the term of imprisonment that I have imposed; nor can it, in your circumstances, be served on home detention."

Tony Pasin encourages people to apply for the grants.

Grants program open

The Families and Communities Volunteer Grants Program is open for applications again.

A total of $66,225 is available to support eligible not-for-profit community organisations to support the efforts of their volunteers.

Grants of $1000 to $5000 will help volunteers and volunteer groups to buy small equipment, to reimburse volunteers for fuel, to assist with training costs or support promotional activities.

Barker MP Tony Pasin is encouraging volunteer organisations in Barker to apply to the 2022/23 Round of Families and Communities Volunteer Grants Program.

"Volunteers are the lifeblood of our communities across Barker. From the local footy club to soup kitchens, op shops and men's sheds, our communities are better places for the time our volunteers give to them," Mr Pasin said.

"I am pleased to be able to support the terrific work that community groups do to support our local communities. Together we are making them even better places to live, work and raise a family," Mr Pasin said.

Eligible organisations can obtain an Expression of Interest Form from the office of Tony Pasin via email, Tony.Pasin.MP@aph.gov.au or 08 8724 7730.

EOIs are required to be submitted no later than 5pm Monday, September 19, 2022.

Diversity in Council

Diversity unlocks innovation. A simple statement, yet one that has been researched and applied by entrepreneurs in business and leading corporations. In the private sector, diversity will drive growth, profits and a competitive edge.

In local government, that same diversity not only brings forward new ideas but supports and shapes strong and vibrant communities. With the democratic process working overtime in SA across the state, federal and local council elections, this is an important time for our Council to be reflective of the community they serve. That means encouraging people to run for council who are traditionally under-represented. What constitutes an under-represented group varies for different councils, but generally includes young people, women, those from different cultural backgrounds, First Nations communities, and people with disabilities. At the 2018 council elections, this approach achieved a significant increase in the representation of women.

The need to encourage and support those thinking of running for council is even more important than ever in 2022, with challenges of voter fatigue and difficulty of our economic conditions.

In the economic aftermath of the Covid-19 pandemic and with accelerating cost of living pressures, governments at all levels are determined to support communities during these challenging times while continually delivering services, maintaining a balanced budget and building communities.

Local Council decisions impact all community members, that's why it's so important for council members to be truly representative of their communities, so all views and interests are considered.

This is your opportunity to have your voice heard and be a representative for your community in a proactive and meaningful way, whilst making sound business deci-

Community member David Walshaw is planning to write to Consumer and Business Services (CBS) about local community radio station 5THE FM, after no response to membership applications has been received.

Mr Walshaw was one of 70 community members who submitted membership applications last month, but no response has been received to any of the applicants.

"We have had no response, I am concerned the membership applications have not been actioned," Mr Walshaw said.

"People who were at the meeting are asking what is going on, as they have heard nothing."

Mr Walshaw told the South Eastern Times he plans to write to the CBS compliance and enforcement unit about the situation.

"I want to let them know what has happened with our membership applications, why is there no public officer, why has there been no notification of the Annual General Meeting (AGM)," he said.

"All we are asking for is some transparency...all we are hearing is a deafening silence from the radio station.

"There are 70 local people who want to know the progress of their application and what has happened to their application money."

The station has not publicly advertised its AGM, which according to a copy of its constitution, must be held within three months of the end of the financial year.

The South Eastern Times made multiple attempts to ask 5THE FM for information on if the memberships would be processed or when the station's AGM would be held. No response was received at time of print.

David Walshaw said he just wants to process to be transparent. Picture: FILE

Remember the fallen: Vietnam veteran Neville Dixon will commemorate this fallen comrades today.

Picture: ELISABETH CHAMPION

Lest we Forget

Locals will gather at the Penola War Memorial today and pay tribute to the brave Australians that fought in the Vietnam War for Vietnam Veterans Day.

The day, which is also known as Long Tan Day, commemorates the brave Australians that fought in the Vietnam War.

It is held on August 18 to commemorate the Battle of Long Tan where, in a rubber plantation, Australian soldiers fought one of the fiercest battles in 1966.

The men of the 6th Battalion Royal Australian Regiment faced a force of around 2000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops.

The battle resulted in the largest number of casualties in a single operation since the Australian Task Force had established its base at nearby Nui Dat the previous April, with 17 Australians killed in action and 25 wounded.

Penola Vietnam veteran Neville Dixon said he joined the army at the young age of 21, in search of a great adventure to get him away from his farming life in Kalangadoo.

"I enlisted in 1966, because I missed the call up," he said.

"I just wanted to get away from home for a while because we're out on a farm, so I joined the Army in September 1967 for three years."

He was sent to Wagga Wagga for recruit training and then to Ingleburn for infantry training, which was "fairly intense".

"The battalion had to be ready by November 1968 to go to Vietnam, so training was very intensive to get us ready."

He was then posted to the ninth battalion, which embarked to Vietnam on November 10, 1968.

He said things became more real for all the men once they landed in Vietnam.

"None of us had ever been overseas before. I think reality sort of struck when we were getting off the boat - before we got off the boat, they handed us live ammunition," he said.

"In Australia you'd use blanks and things like that, and then it suddenly dawned on us, this is real."

In his company he served with keen young men that had signed up willingly, but also with national servicemen - men who were conscripted.

"I've always felt that we shouldn't have called people up and send them off to Vietnam, because we didn't even do it in the First World War," he said.

"That was my feeling, but I was keen to serve.

"Before I went in I didn't know a lot about Vietnam, but to me, it was an adventure until things got a bit real."

Like many that served in Vietnam, he saw many of his fellow soldiers fall, many to landmines, and had a few close calls himself.

"In one case, I was walking through a gap in the bamboo and the lad behind me walked on a landmine and it went off, but luckily it went off in the ground and never sprang out the ground," he said.

"It threw him about 10 metres and I was just in front of him, he broke his legs but he came good - he was very lucky.

"Another incident not long after that, there were three of us standing with our platoon sergeant, and he stood on a mine, and we were sort of standing in a group.

"The thing jumped out the ground and never went off."

Although the experience was tough, and like many other returned soldiers, Mr Dixon experienced trauma and loss, he left the service with many good mates.

"It was an experience - sometimes I wonder why I did it but with me coming from a farming area around Kalangadoo, I had a fairly sheltered life," he said.

"The thing that I liked the most is I got to know and become good mates with people from the inner suburbs of Melbourne and Sydney.

"You become good friends when people normally wouldn't. So I had friends from outside of farming - that's what my father told me, he told me he said, 'You need need to get away and mix from other people besides the farm boys.'"

A service will be held at the Penola War Memorial Park at 11am.

New build forum

By Elsie Adamo

Wattle Range Council held a community forum on Tuesday night in Beachport to answer questions and take feedback on its proposed multi-million administration office.

Held at the Beachport Cinema, only around 10 local community members attended the interactive session. The event was run similarly to the forum in Millicent last month, with council chief executive Ben Gower giving a presentation during the session outlining the main details of the project. The audience was encouraged to ask questions during the presentation, with many taking the opportunity. Most questions were about the design of the building and the consultation process that has been undertaken. The new centre would provide for all office-based council staff who are currently working in three separate locations, including the main office which was built in the 1930s as a school and Mr Gower said was beyond renovation. Similarly to the Millicent forum, Mr Gower offered to show community members the current council offices. The decision to proceed with the new service centre is expected to be made by the newly elected council in early next year and if successful, will go to tender. If approved, the new office building will not be in use until 2025.

In association with State Heritage, Penola's branch of National Trust SA has developed a mobile phone app to enable people to learn more about historic sites within Penola on self guided tours.

The name of the app is SA Heritage. The following is one of the subjects from this app.

BALNAVES STORE

The pioneer township of Penola, which had an unusually high percentage of Scottish immigrants, including Jane and Robert Balnaves, was once referred to as Little Scotland.

Indeed, a visiting journalist declared that "Penola is one of the quietest of our townships [but] so hospitable are its inhabitants, no-one can get through a day there in under a bottle of whisky".

The original section of this store which fronts Church Street was built by Mr Simon McKenzie, another Scot who operated it for several years before selling to Mrs Maria Nash, who in turn sold it to the Balnaves family in 1891.

Jane and Robert Balnaves had arrived in South Australia in 1855 and in Penola in 1858 where Jane soon opened a General Store.

Balnaves Ltd General Store, as it became, served Penola and the outlying districts selling groceries, clothing, footwear, hardware, fuel, glassware and crockery. In subsequent years five generations of the Balnaves family owned and operated a store on these premises.

At the time of the outbreak of the Second World War, the store employed 19 people.

The second half of the store, the northern section, was built in 1953 and operated as the Ladies Department of the General Store.

Since its purchase by a great-grandson of Jane Balnaves, the building continues to remain in the family.

Ericka who owns the shop immediately across the Town Square, is the seventh generation to operate under the Balnaves name in Penola.

Mentoring continues

By Caroline Hammat

A partnership between Millicent North Primary School (MNPS) and the Millicent Men's Shed (MMS) established in 2015 is still going strong.

Each Friday afternoon for two terms a group of year six students venture to the Fifth Street site and are mentored by men's shed members to create their own woodwork project.

MNPS teacher Kylie Peace said: "I think they get a lot out of it; it's lovely for them to have the mentors and it's been really positive."

Over the two terms it is hoped the current students can complete two projects each.

The program aims to build self confidence in the students, get their imaginations working and apply what they learn in school to something practical.

Student Cylas Goodes joined forces with new mentor Tim Grosvenor and told the South Eastern Times about his project.

"I'm making a box with a hinge and lock, it's been three weeks now and it's been awesome," Cylas said.

Mr Grosvenor said of his involvement: "I enjoy helping the boys because it gives me an opportunity to learn more from the experienced hands like Tom (Briggs) and Tony (Glowacki). This is my first time and it's a good fun opportunity."

Artisans at work: Millicent North Primary School students Alex Treloar, Josh Tsigros, Axel Joyce, Connor Lynch, Lachlan Thomas and Cylas Goodes with mentors Tom Briggs and Tim Grosvenor.

All welcome: Darryl Looker, Simone Berry and Orr and Tim Grosvenor look forward to welcoming others to the latest low impact activity on offer to the community.

Hits and giggles: Organisers of the new table tennis club trial the tables set up in court three.

Locals go batty for table tennis in new social club

By Caroline Hammat

Plans are underway for a new Millicent table tennis club to be up and running within the next month.

Two table tennis tables have been donated to the Millicent Squash Club by Wattle Range Council after they were recently purchased for the regular school holiday program, Full throttle in Wattle.

The idea for the club was first floated at the Millicent Expo for new residents held in April 2021 when Tim Grosvenor asked organisers, Simone Berry and Darryl Looker, if there was a local table tennis club that he and his wife could join.

Ms Berry said: "It's been a long time coming, I'm hoping within the next month we can get this done."

"We had been looking for table tennis tables and talked to all the schools in the area chasing them because we are trying to do this for nothing."

The new start-up is planned for Mondays with both a day and night session available to cater for a range of demographics with Mr Grosvenor and his wife Orr running the day session and Ms Berry and Mr Looker in charge of the evening games.

Up to 48 people can be accommodated comfortably at this stage with the potential to purchase more tables as needed.

The tables will only be available for use during these sessions and will be packed away each week as all available courts are used regularly.

"We have no idea what it's going to be like," Ms Berry said.

"If there are people who want to play competitively then we will put the call out for competitive people; we need to see what style everyone wants to play, we might set up one table for competitive and one for casual.

"We haven't worked out a fee structure yet - it's early days."

A good turnout for the table tennis competition held in the Millicent Gallery during the recent school holiday program has Ms Berry optimistic about the future of the club

"Apparently they loved it and had an absolute ball - it's exciting."

All ages and skill levels are welcome to join the table tennis sessions with an opening date still to be confirmed.

Quiz night at Penola

Penola High School hosted the MASA Quiz night last week in the school hall.

Past students of Penola and surrounding high schools may have memories of attending Quiz night in the hall with others from across the region.

The night has not been held in the hall since 2019, so it was fantastic to have it back again in 2022.

More than 110 students attended from Tension Woods College, St Martins Lutheran College, Mount Gambier High School and Penola High School.

Throughout the night, students attempted maths, general knowledge, sudoku puzzles, word scrambles and number challenges, competing in one of three age divisions.

Penola fielded six teams, with one of the Penola junior teams placing first in the general knowledge category; congratulations to Kiara, Ashlee, Mia and Keira.

It was a great opportunity for students to participate in such a fun night and being able to mix with other students from different schools.

Special thanks go to Winsley Wighton, Silvana Stevens and Mike Hentschke for their efforts in making the night happen.

Winsley volunteered her time and knowledge to help the event run so well, whilst Silvana went over and above what was asked of her to make the night run smoothly.

Mike Hentschke, who is recovering from a knee operation, also attended the evening to coordinate the scoring, despite being on leave.

Thanks go to all students, teachers and parents who volunteered or assisted on the night.

"I feel proud to be a part of such an exceptional school community that goes above and beyond to give students opportunities like this," principal Lesley Okholm said.

Nominations open for local council elections

Nominations open for local government elections across the state next week on Tuesday, August 23 and close two weeks later at midday on September 6.

All positions, including Mayor, are open to nominations in the four yearly local election.

The current Wattle Range Council has seen the resignation of three councillors since the 2018 November election with Corcoran Ward councillors Glenn Brown and Graham Slarks and Rick Paltridge from Riddoch Ward not seeing out their full terms.

Mr Brown resigned within 12 months of the election count with a supplementary election called and Councillor Dennis Muhovics filling the role.

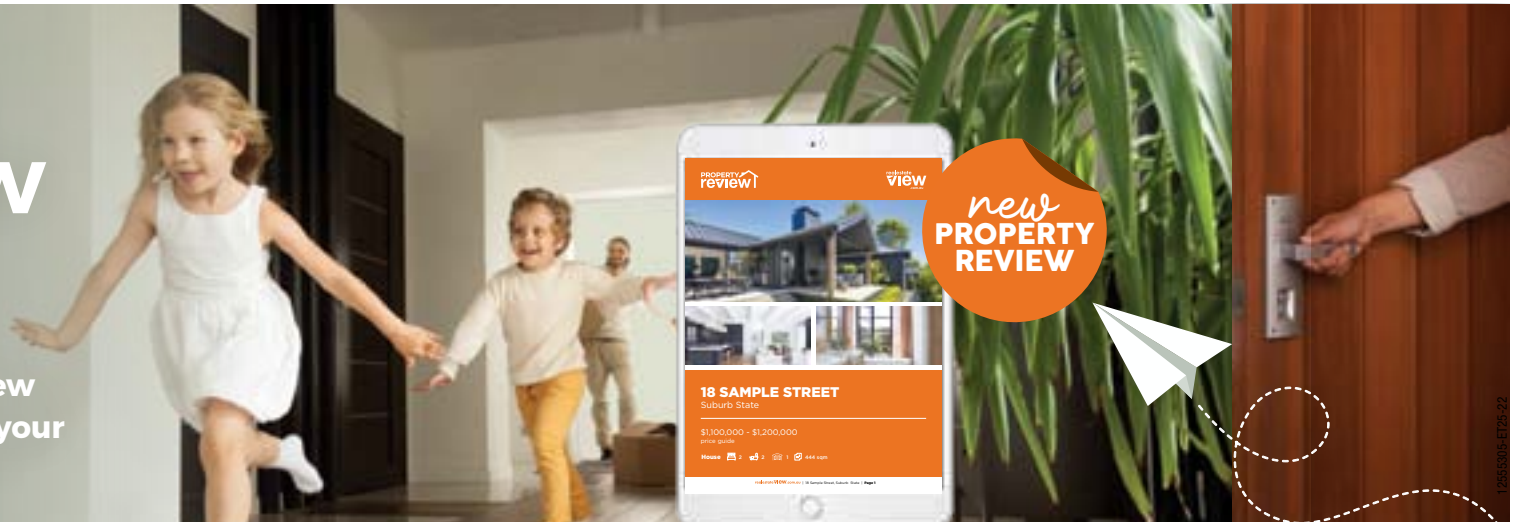

Rick Paltridge from Riddoch Ward resigned in August last year and was replaced unopposed by Councillor Chris Brodie.

Due to the resignation of Mr Slarks within 12 months of the next election date, no supplementary election was needed. Mailout of ballot material to electors will begin October 14 with voting closing November 10.

One of the wine show organisers, Aulrich Grey-Smith, in front of the hall where the judging will take place.

Limestone Coast wine show opens

Entries are open for the 2022 Limestone Coast wine show, held from October 17-21.

This will be the 21st showing of the event.

The event is open to any producer who sources fruit from the Limestone Coast zone, with online nominations open until Friday, August 19.

Organisers are anticipating a strong response from exhibitors on the back of a high-quality vintage and revamped trophy system, with a new Cabernet award up for grabs.

The event's most popular class has been split into two categories according to vintage: the HR (Ron) Haselgrove trophy for the best Cabernet Sauvignon up to three years old from the Wrattontully wine region and the Seguin Moreau for the best Cabernet four to six years old.

"The Limestone Coast produces Australia's best Cabernet and the growing number of exceptional entries in this category reinforces the quality.

"Limestone producers are very proud of what they are bottling and are willing to put it forward for judging scrutiny, so we want to make sure that they are given the best possible platform to shine," organiser Mr Aulrich Grey-Smith said.

While entries of Shiraz and red blends have remained steady over recent years, growth in the other red's category has prompted organisers to split the Peter Wehl trophy for best other single variety, categorising entries according to French or Iberian origin to not only capture style differences but reflect the rise of alternative varieties being grown locally.

In further changes for 2022, the Museum trophy will award both a white and a red wine winner, while the Provenance class, which celebrates wines with consistency and strong cellaring potential, will have a single trophy rather than separate awards.

The two major awards are the Bill Redman trophy for the best wine of the show and the Arthur Hoffman trophy for the Viticulturist of best wine of the show.

"The changes in the trophy line-up reflect the evolving nature of the wine industry as producers respond to both local and global consumer trends and continue to innovate."

The Limestone Coast has a long and proud history of winemaking, but it is our progressive approach to all aspects of the craft from viticulture to marketing that ensures our continued success, and this is something that the wine show is really keen to celebrate," Ulrich said.

While the 2021 wine show was judged by an all South Australian line-up, this year's event will also welcome judges from Western Australia, Victoria and Tasmania.

The 2022 show will also see the return of the International judges following a Covid pause, with the New Zealand editor of Gourmet Traveller Wine, Jane Skilton MW accepting an invitation to take part.

Jane last attended the event in 2016, declaring the 2014 Majella Shiraz her stand out wine.

Tasmania's Stargazer Wine chief, Samantha Connew, the 2007 International Winemaker of the Year, will return for her third year as Chief of Judges.

The 2022 wine show committee members are Sarah Pidgeon, Ulrich Grey-Smith, Amy Blackburn, Lewis White, Lauren Hansen, Sean Murphy, Matilda Innes, Natalie Cleghorn, Daniel McNicol, Carolyn Brown and Steve Brown.

Judging will take place at Rymill Hall in Penola from Monday, October 17.

Winners will be announced at a trophy dinner hosted by the Mount Benson/Robe wine regions on Thursday, October 20.

Increase to worker spending

Robe Council approved a $215,000 increase to the council's employee budget in a council meeting last week.

According to the report written by council chief executive James Holyman the increase is being sought following a review of the corporate services and finance portfolio of which gaps in staffing and duties were identified.

Mr Holyman said in the report said the additional funds would help bring some of the work in-house that consultants had previously been completing.

"Much of this funding already exists and has been spent on key consultants and advisors over the last two years," the report said.

"Savings are likely to contribute to a percentage of this amount long term."

The funds will help fund four new positions, the asset and project officer, community wastewater management systems officer, contracts and work from home officer, and a governance officer. A further $20,000 will also be made available for the environmental health officer position.

The motion was carried at the council meeting last week.

Robe Council chief executive James Holyman said the funds would help fill key gaps in staffing. Picture: FILE

Container concerns

Wattle Range Council has raised concerns about shipping containers that are being used unlawfully within the region.

With a building materials shortage and a contractor shortage, many in the region have started to look for alternative and affordable ways to create new structures when needed, leading to an increase in interest for shipping containers for storage, or even habitation.

Wattle Range Council staff have observed a recent spike in the installation of shipping containers on land without the required development approvals, and the council's Building Officer Jake Turner said some community members do not seem aware of the rules around using shipping containers on properties.

"In some cases, people are simply placing them on their properties without knowing that it is unlawful development," Mr Turner said.

"Shipping containers and Atco Huts are just like any other building and need to go through the same planning and building approval process."

Council have warned the maximum penalty for an unlawful development is $120,000, and they generally are made aware of any such developments wither by anonymous reporting, routine property compliance inspections, or from conveyancer checks associated with the transfer of property ownership.

Director Development Services Emma Clay said it was important to get the proper approvals.

"Getting the right approvals ensures that development is appropriate for where it is proposed, constructed in a way that is safe and compliant with the Building Code and Australian Standards," Ms Clay said.

"Council wants to ensure that the use of shipping containers does not detrimentally affect the quality and amenity of our local community."

To avoid problems, Ms Clay said she recommends residents considering using a shipping container should contact the Council before purchasing.

"We have a team of planners and builders who are happy to provide some preliminary advice about the planning process, if there will be any issues with zoning and where on the property a proposed shipping container can be situated," says Ms Clay.

"Getting this information at the start will avoid unnecessary headaches down the track, including possible enforcement action by the Council."

Beachport Bulletin publishes 150th edition

By Elsie Adamo

The Beachport Bulletin celebrated 150 issues in its current format recently.

First published in 2005 as a fortnightly newsletter, the Beachport Bulletin now runs monthly updating the community with Beachport news and notices.

Current editor Julie Moran has been involved since the very beginning, watching the publication transition over the years.

"It originally was connected with the school and went home with kids," she said.

"You could also pick it up at Beachport businesses, but it was started before we had social media.

"It used to be people would drop off their articles to the Beachport Deli, and we would have to hand type them."

Nowadays you can pick up a copy at the Beachport Deli or subscribe online for it to be emailed to your inbox. Interest in the publication has also expanded past just long-term locals.

"Because we have so many holiday houses in town, those owners subscribe to it so they can see what is going on around town," Ms Moran said.

"It is a good way for them to keep up."

Paula Tsernjavski signed on to help edit the Beachport Bulletin in 2015, looking for new ways to be involved in the community after she retired.

She said it has been nice receiving some positive feedback since starting the publication.

"People enjoy having a look through it," Ms Tsernjavski said.

"We get a few responses saying they have really enjoyed a certain article."

While Ms Moran enjoys it, she said keeping the Beachport Bulletin at times can be a big commitment, and they would appreciate some extra help.

"We totally rely on other people to give us stories," she said.

"It would be helpful to have some more volunteers and contributors, to help keep it going.

"As you can imagine, it is a fair bit of work to get it done every month."

EDITORS: Beachport Bulletin editors Paula Tsernjavski and Julie Moran look back over previous editions of the.

Ms Moran said it can be a bit of a slog to find the stories to fill the Bulletin with each month.

"We totally rely on other people to give us stories," she said.

"Sometimes you are looking around the week before wondering 'what can we put in this month,'" Ms Tsernjavski added.

If you are interested in contacting the Beachport Bulletin team to volunteer, you can email them at beachportbulletin@gmail.com.

The Bulletin was originally established by Pat Crowe and Carrie Adamo, who lived in Beachport and worked as teachers at Millicent North Primary School in 2005.

"Back in the day, we both travelled from Beachport to Millicent together regularly, and chatting away we thought there was an opportunity for our community to have its own news and information," Ms Adamo said.

"With the support of the staff at Beachport Primary School, joining with very impressive skills of some locals coming forward in the community, we launched a fortnightly edition."

Ms Crowe who now lives in Mannum, said it was great to know the publication was still going strong.

"This was of course before social media, so it is fabulous that the Bulletin remains a strong part of the social fabric of Beachport," she said.

Celebrate 2022 Book Week

Book Week will be celebrated at schools in Penola, Nangwarry and Kalangadoo as well as the Penola Community Library from August 22 to 26.

McKay Children's Centre students will also visit the library for the celebrations.

Major celebrations will be held on Wednesday, August 24, apart from Kalangadoo, which will be on Tuesday, August 23.

The theme this year will be 'Dreaming with eyes open'.

The event is promoted by the Children's Book Council of Australia (CBCA) and promotes the joy reading can bring to young minds.

Book Week was first held in 1945 and has continued since with a whole week of book celebrations with Australian authors and illustrators.

There will also be colourful displays, activities and competitions.

On the Wednesday, students will have a full dress up day depicting the theme.

According to the CBCA, Book Week gives children, teachers, home educators, parents and guardians an excuse to dive into the world of children's books together.

They are exposed to new authors and their works, providing a refreshing choice of literature to choose from.

By creating an annual event out of reading that everyone looks forward to, children are likely to look back with fond memories and continue reading as a hobby later on in life.

Reading is extremely important for children's cognitive and emotional development.

It equips them with vital literacy skills and widens the scope of their imagination.

Book Week also recognises up-and-coming writers whose work deserves to be seen and read.

Every year, a short list is drawn up of the best books of the year, giving the authors and their stories well deserved recognition.

Mrs Heather Devlin from the Penola Community Library gets prepared for Book Week.

GSR an off-road machine

By Alistair Kennedy, Marque Motoring

Mitsubishi Pajero was introduced in Australia in January 1983 where it was in the vanguard of the move to refined, easy to drive suburban SUVs.

It provided levels of comfort and convenience that were unknown in moderately-priced off-roaders at that time, yet with the macho look of a true off-roader.

Now, nearly 40 years later, Pajero is still competing strongly against a vast range of competitors in the large SUV segment.

The current Pajero Sport isn't a variant of the standard Pajero, now discontinued, but a vehicle in its own right.

It comes in four variants: five-seat GLX, seven-seat GLS, Exceed and GSR.

All are powered by a 2.4-litre turbo-diesel engine.

GLX and GLS come with the choice of two or four-wheel drive; Exceed and GSR are 4WD only.

Prices range from $44,440 for a 2WD GLX to $61,440 for the 4WD GSR.

Our test vehicle was the flagship GSR model.

Pajero Sport comes with the latest iteration of Mitsubishi's Dynamic Shield styling, with the projector headlamps positioned outside of the daytime running lights in a continuation of the grille.

The grille features a black honeycomb design.

All the exterior lights are LCD.

Depending on the variant there are up to seven body colour options, two of which, Black Mica and White Diamond are exclusive to the GSR.

It also features black exterior and interior accents, with matching black 18-inch alloy wheels, front and rear bumper garnish, radiator grille and roof rails.

The Diamond Black GSR also gets a black roof.

Inside the Pajero Sport the design is neat and functional with soft touch features adding a premium feel.

Its seats are large and comfortable and the steering wheel is adjustable for both height and reach.

The centre console has a modern shape and there are lower trays in the dashboard forward of the shift lever and under the tunnel-type floor console, allowing access from both sides, giving improved utility and convenience.

There's plenty of headroom in all seats and second row legroom is reasonable.

The second-row seatback can also be tilted.

Third row seats, as always, are best suited for young children.

Rear storage space in the seven-seat Pajero Sport is minimal with the third-row seats in place although the base can be folded back allowing the back to fold perfectly flat to expand the space up to 673 litres depending on the variant.

There's also a shallow compartment in the floor the full width of the back with a lid to hide smaller items from view.

Power comes from Mitsubishi's tried-and-true 2.4-litre MIVEC direct-injection turbo-diesel engine with outputs of 133 kW at 3500 rpm and 430 Nm at 2500 revs.

Transmission is an eight-speed automatic.

All Pajero Sport 4WD models come with Mitsubishi's Super Select II 4WD system.

There are four drive modes: 2WD High Range, Full Time 4WD and High and Low Range 4WD with locked centre differential.

Four Off-Road modes are also available: Gravel, Mud/Snow, Sand or Rock.

Standard safety features include seven airbags (front, side, curtain and driver's knee); ABS brakes with emergency brake assist, electronic brakeforce distribution, brake override and emergency stop signal; stability, trailer and traction control; forward collision mitigation system; hill start assist and descent control; adaptive cruise control; reversing camera; rear parking sensors; and two Isofix child seat anchors.

Exceed and GSR add blind spot warning; rear cross traffic alert; lane change assist; mis-acceleration mitigation system; adjustable speed limiter and speed limit display; multi around monitor (optional on the GLS); and front parking sensors.

All models get an 8-inch colour touchscreen, upgraded to LCD in the Exceed and GSR.

The entry-level GLX comes with Bluetooth connectivity with voice control and audio streaming; digital radio; Android Auto and Apple CarPlay smartphone mirroring; four USB sockets and one HDMI input; and a 4-speaker sound system.

GLS adds two extra speakers and integrated satellite navigation.

Exceed and GSR also get an 8-speaker premium sound system together with access to a smartphone app which allows a range of features to be operated from outside the vehicle including tailgate opening; vehicle status check; fuel consumption check; car finder function; set-up notification and Apple watch connectivity.

Pajero Sport is a large vehicle so getting into it can be a task for smaller occupants although a side step and grab handle should alleviate the problem.

Variants above the GLX also come with a powered tailgate and a kick-motion sensor.

As with most of its direct competitors Pajero Sport is built on a utility platform, in this case the Mitsubishi Triton with which it also shares the same engine.

There's plenty of grunt when needed and semi-serious off-road credentials but still smooth and comfortable on the bitumen.

Featuring seven seats, the new Pajero model still holds comfort for all passengers and gives the vehicle a premium feel.

Towing capacity is 3100 kg.

Around town it has a tight turning circle for its class of 11.0 metres.

Power assist has been calibrated to reduce steering effort when stationary or at low speeds while providing greater feedback at higher speeds.

The Pajero Sport offers an easy, relatively refined drive with a nice blend of power and control.

Given its real off-road capability it is not as compliant or gentle as those bitumen-only SUVs but it's certainly comfortable enough.

Fuel consumption is listed at 8.0 litres per 100 kilometres, we averaged 9.6 L/100 km.

Mitsubishi Pajero Sport is a genuine all-rounder that's equally at home carrying out domestic duties in the urban environment where it's likely to spend most of its time, as it will be in demanding off-road territory that would stop its softer rivals.

It's well-priced and comes with Mitsubishi's well-promoted 10-year warranty – provided that its always serviced at a dealership and doesn't travel more than 200,000 kilometres in that period.

YOUR WEEKLY TV GUIDE

PICK OF THE WEEK

CURIOUS AUSTRALIA SBS Viceland, Thursday, 8.30pm

If you're in need of some heartfelt inspiration on an ordinary Thursday night, do yourself a favour and tune in for this enlightening escape into the fast-paced world of an athlete. "Run Girl" is part of SBS's Curious Australia initiative, which champions a diverse range of innovative documentaries that explore under-represented people in contemporary Australia. This thoughtful doco follows Olympic track athlete and Ethiopian refugee Bendere Oboya (pictured) as she pivots from the 400m track to the 800m. Dealing with both self-doubt and enormous ambition, it's a rewarding exploration of determination and courage.

GARDENING AUSTRALIA ABC TV, Friday, 7.30pm

There's a season for everything in the garden (or planter box); when this beloved show goes off air once a year it takes time to acclimatise and adjust to Friday evenings without the enthusiastic banter and tips from presenter Costa Georgiadis. The hosts deserve a well-earned rest, of course, but the viewing public's yearning for the plant-loving series never wanes. This week, Friday night is once again in full bloom because Gardening Australia is back. Breathe a happy sigh of relief as Sophie dives into soil science, Costa visits a laneway transformed by love and plants, Tino resets the veggie garden for spring and Tammy meets home hydroponic growers.

BACK ROADS ABC TV, Monday, 8pm

Some towns are just brimming wonderful people, and Pinnaroo is one of those places. The tiny South Australian town, on Victoria's border, is explored by Landline reporter Kerry Staight, who revels in what must be one of her most fun assignments yet. This small town punches above its weight, with some admirable initiatives and projects that place the health and happiness of its inhabitants at the top of the pile. Staight learns about the "Pinnaroo Project", an enterprise which ensures residents all have access to art. She also rides a kids' bike, checking out the dirt track built by dads during lockdowns, and meets Demi Tsai (pictured, right, with Staight), the owner of a much-loved local food van.

MARTIN CLUNES: ISLANDS OF THE PACIFIC Seven, Wednesday, 8.30pm

If you've seen Men Behaving Badly or Doc Martin, it can be a bit discomfobulating to hear Martin Clunes' (pictured, right) voice enunciate god-like over spectacular footage celebrating the wonder of the Pacific's natural environment. But the former comedian is a veteran presenter of documentaries, with his enthusiasm for narrating in a very dramatic fashion his new trademark. In the second part of this astounding series, Clunes is in Vanuatu, where he climbs a volcano and meets a tribe who worship the late Prince Philip; before encountering a princess in Tonga. Clunes behaves like he's on holiday and it's infectious.

Bell to reach 350th

Nathan Bell is set to play his 350th game for the Tantanoola Football Club on Saturday.

Bell's journey with the Tigers began when he was eight years old in the mini's.

His first taste of premiership success came in 1995, where he captained the Junior Colts side to victory.

He played his first A Grade game as a 15-year-old in 1997 and was a part of the Reserves premiership in 1999.

From 2000, he was a regular in the A Grade side and took out the A Grade coach's trophy that year.

Known for his run and creativity as halfback flanker, Bell used his pace and football smarts to set up his side's opportunities in attack.

2006 was a memorable year for Bell when he captained the A Grade side to their first premiership in 20 years.

He also played in the Mid South Eastern Interleague side and earned best on ground honours before he represented the South East Zone team.

In 2007, he was best on ground in Interleague and played in another grand final.

Bell's time in A Grade saw him win the best team man on three occasions and in 2008, he took home the most consistent honours.

His presence with the Tigers remained prominent off the field as he coached the 2007 Junior Colts to the premiership and was named the Mid South Eastern Junior coach of the year. After a couple of seasons away from the club, he returned in 2011 as A Grade assistant coach.

Bell moved to B Grade in 2012 and was vice-captain of the 2013 premiership side.

In 2014, Bell won the Walker Medal, the Tantanoola B grade best and fairest and was awarded Playing Life Member of the Tantanoola Football Club.

In 2015, he took over the helm as coach and took his side to the B Grade premiership in 2016.

Bell is one of the most decorated players in Tantanoola history and is considered the ultimate team man.

His family is also prominent around the club, with his three children Kaden, Jobe and Marley all amongst Tantanoola's ranks, while his wife Chloe is the secretary of the club and head trainer.

Nathan Bell will don the Tigers guernsey for the 350th time this weekend.

Medal contested at Penola

Last Wednesday the Moss and Wild Monthly Medal was contested by women at the Penola Golf Club.

The competition was a stroke round and players needed to count their putts as well.

Penny Young claimed a narrow win in A Grade with an impressive nett score of 74.

She was closely followed by Kathleen Collins, who was runner-up, just one stroke behind with a nett score of 75.

It was a strong round from Young as she also claimed the putting trophy with a very impressive 25 putts for the day.

Sue Kilsby won the nearest to pin with an excellent drive on the 13th hole.

Barbara Provis was the winner in B Grade with a nett score of 72.

Provis claimed the win by the barest of margins as she defeated runner-up Pat Boyd on a count-back.

The winners walked away with prizes from Moss and Wild.

On Saturday's nine at nine competition, Katie Lewis claimed the honours with the best score of the day.

Berkin brings up milestone for the Eagles

The milestones have come thick and fast at the Penola Netball Club, with Tammie Berkin the latest to reach a milestone game.

Berkin played her 150th game for the Eagles on Saturday.

She has been a stalwart of the C Grade side and has coached the team on numerous occasions.

Berkin's leadership has meant she has been elected as captain of the side on multiple occasions throughout her career.

She is a consistent centre court player, who offers great feeding, patience and poise with the ball.

Berkin also possesses a strong ability to take intercepts.

Her impressive performance on the court have earned her a number of awards throughout her career, which includes a league best and fairest, a club best and fairest and has been named most consistent on two occasions.

Along with her individual accolades, Berkin has also claimed a C Grade premiership in 2014 and was a hero when she came off the bench to help the Eagles claim the B Grade premiership in 2016.

She is invaluable to the Penola Netball Club and has been on the committee for over five years.

Berkin is prominent off the court and has taken on a number of different roles.

She has been known to always help out behind the scenes and was more recently awarded her C Grade umpires badge.

Her talented daughters, Elise and Heidi, also play for the netball club and she takes great pride in supporting them.

Social bowls winners Derk Pietersma and Jim Campbell.

Runners-up Derek Bowering and Steve Skeer.

Millicent bowlers return to the greens

There was a change in fortunes for bowlers at the Millicent Bowls Club last week.

Two weeks ago, after nine ends, all games were washed out due to heavy rain.

However, fast-forward a week and the weather was a polar opposite.

There were 31 players who registered for the latest round of social bowls and they were treated to sunny skies with a light breeze.

Before play started, all bowlers were informed the sheets for the Championship Mixed Pairs and Championship Triples were now out.

Players were also reminded if they needed new uniforms to contact bar manager Arthur O'Connell as soon as possible.

Jim Campbell and Derk Pietersma teamed up to claim the win with a score of 35+28.

Steve Skeer and Derek Bowering were runners-up with a score of 33+19.

Other winning teams were: A triple of Rob Atkinson, Frank Cooper and Kym Stewart 32+1. Graham Loveday and Iain Campbell 31+10. Lurlene Reinders and Steve Carnellor 31+8. Ian Ross and Aaron Emonson 31+6 and Joy Warren and Andre Reinders 30+4.

Roosters fall to Mozzies

Mount Burr 49 d Robe 40

A tight contest played out between Robe and Mount Burr in Round 17 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

With both teams fighting for a spot in the finals, it was always going to be a hard-fought game.

Mount Burr came out firing, with Ebony Clark dominating the girl circle, shooting 13 of their 15 goals and only missing two for the quarter, which made tough work for Robe defenders Georgia Perkins and Ellen Ramke.

Mount Burr held a tentative five-goal lead at quarter time to set the win up.

Robe found it hard to settle in attack, with some poor decision making which saw Madi Haggett and Olivia Dean capitalise on any possible turnovers.

The Roosters enjoyed good passages of play when they worked together but Mount Burr once again won the quarter by three goals, with an eight-goal advantage at the main break.

Robe came out firing in the third quarter, with Sarah Laurie dominating the goal circle and shooting 10 of their 13 goals for the term.

Robe defenders Kimberley Austin and Perkins put the pressure on Mount Burr's goalies, with Sarah Nulty struggling to settle in the first half of the quarter.

With extra confidence, the Roosters seemed to play a better team game for the quarter, which they won by two goals.

However, they still trailed by six goals at the final break, with a big job ahead to claim the win.

Mount Burr's Madi Haggett was in good form on the weekend, named in the best for her side. Picture: FILE

The Roosters closed that to four goals at one stage but Mount Burr stepped up, as Nulty found her feet at goal attack and dominated the circle, with precise feeds from Laura Shultz and Meg Fennell.

Robe had its chances but Mount Burr came away with a nine-goal victory after displaying plenty of fight and determination.

Best players for the victors were Schultz and Haggett, with Annie Hunter and Perkins best for Robe.

Tigers take it up to top side

Tantanoola 49 d/w Kalangadoo 49

It could not have been a more even Mid South East netball Round 17 clash on Saturday when Kalangadoo travelled to face Tantanoola, with a draw the final result.

The Tigers won the toss and chose the centre pass, which they utilised well through Emma Gould who put her side's first score on the board.

Kalangadoo responded much the same through their goalies who did not waste time with the ball, with precision feeding from Jayde Peacock and Sophie Wrightson.

The quarter went goal-for-goal, with both sides not giving an inch but it was the Magpies who were able to turn ball over and convert through accurate shooting from Abbey Duncan.

Kalangadoo headed to the first break with a three-goal advantage.

Neither side made changes going into the second quarter and it was much like the first.

It was the Magpies who were able to turn ball over with some impressive defensive mid-court pressure and quick conversions in the goal circle.

Kalangadoo extended its lead going into half time, up by four goals.

The Magpies made changes going into the third quarter, with Georgia Gentile having a rest and Chloe Peacock coming on at wing defence to try and slow the ball down in the Tigers attack line, which seemed to pay dividends.

Defensive efforts from Lauren Kain and Reanna Weatherall saw them turn over crucial balls for their side and extend the lead to six goals at the final break.

It set up an intriguing final term which did not disappoint, as both sides fought hard for every ball but it was the Tigers who came out firing.

The home side made changes, with Gould coming out to goal attack and Jami Walker back to goal shooter, which kept Kalangadoo's defensive unit busy.

The Tigers were not going away without a fight and the hands-over pressure in the goal circle by Tayla Rowe and Kate Bromley saw some missed shots by the Magpie goalies.

The intensity built as the clock wound down and the Tigers outscored the visitors to level the scores at 49 apiece at the final whistle.

Best players for Tantanoola were Michelle Robinson and Rowe, while Duncan and Kain were best for Kalangadoo.

Glencoe turns the tables

By Trevor Jackson

Glencoe 16.7 (103) d Kongorong 11.11 (77)

There was plenty of pride on the line over at Glencoe, as the Murphies hosted Kongorong in Round 17 of Mid South East football.

The Hawks were up to the challenge early in the contest, claiming the first quarter by a solitary point before the Murphies began to find their recent form and control the game.

By the main break Glencoe had turned the tables and built a 22-point advantage but the Hawks were not done and again took the challenge up to the Murphies in the third quarter.

However, by the final break the margin still stood at 15 points in the hosts' favour, with plenty to do in the final stanza if the Hawks were to make inroads in the contest.

Kongorong managed to find plenty of ball up forward but could not convert for maximum benefit, going down by 26 points.

Alex Hentschke topped the score sheets for the victors with four majors, Patrick Mitchell contributed three, with Zacc Cocks and Dylan Pfitzner adding two each.

It was unfortunate for Jarrod Ryan who kicked five majors in a losing side.

For Glencoe coach Tom Edwards it was a welcome result. Which continued the recent form shown by the Murphies.

"It was a good game of footy, a good arm wrestle for the majority of the day," he said.

"We managed to get that two or three goal buffer for most of the game but credit to Kongorong, they played well."

With the Murphies down by a point at the first break, Edwards said it was a matter of focusing on their own brand of football.

"We talked about doing the fundamental things right," he said.

"We were a bit slow on the overlap - they were getting the ball out of their backline and transitioning pretty easily to their forward line.

"We nipped down on a few of those things and made sure we put enough pressure on to get the ball back in our hands. We just had to up our pressure and be accountable for our opponents. We did that in the second quarter and managed to kick a number of goals."

The Murphies enjoyed a good spread of contributors on the scoreboard, with Hentschke leading the way.

Edwards said it was good to see the big forward on his game.

"We have had a good range of goal kickers the last few games. We always encourage our mid-fielders to kick a goal and they have done that recently.

"I was really happy with Alex Hentschke, he has hit some good form and has been a good target up forward. He has tidied up his goal kicking and has been leading the way."

Unfortunately it is too late for Glencoe to make finals but the recent form has given Edwards some reasons to be positive.

"We have certainly turned the season around a bit and worked on a few things," he said.

"We have started playing some good team footy and we have managed five wins in a row.

"We let ourselves down early in the season and dropped a couple of games we probably should have won but I am still happy with the boys' efforts and their willingness to turn it around, even though we knew we couldn't quite make it. It is still positive to roll into next season with a bit of confidence we can match it with some of the better sides."

That positive attitude and confidence will again be a focus this weekend when the Murphies face Port MacDonnell.

Edwards said if all goes well, his side is a good chance to claim one last win.

"We are very confident in our game at the moment. If we play our brand of footy and stick to that we will give ourselves a good chance to win."

Eagles apply pressure to claim victory

Hatherleigh 50 d Port MacDonnell 31

Hatherleigh hosted Port MacDonnell in their last Mid South East netball home game for the season and claimed a comfortable victory.

Injury played its part in the Eagles' lineup, after a late withdrawal from Georgia Hunter due to an ankle injury, along with Abby Wight, who also missed the game with an ankle injury.

This made way for Rosie Nettle to step up and take on the goal shooter bib after playing a full game of A Reserve.

Despite the setbacks, the home side came out strong and controlled the first quarter, playing with patience as the new combination settled.

The Eagles applied heavy defensive pressure early and were able to force the Demons into creating errors, which saw the home side take a seven-goal lead at the first break.

The second term saw changes for Port MacDonnell, with experienced goalie Toni Gilmore to the bench, replaced by Kirby Carrison.

Hatherleigh stepped up a level and continued its dominance from end to end.

Maddie Redman and Rosie Nettle worked well together and were able to find space and convert.

Port MacDonnell continued to work hard to transition but Hatherleigh's defence had all the answers

The third quarter was more even as Port MacDonnell was able to find Lara Wilson and Kirby Carrison in space.

Hatherleigh still remained in control, but the circle defensive pressure from the Demons made Tegan Telfer and Erin Watson work the ball around until they were able to find the best option.

The Eagles continued to push hard in the final term to assert their authority on the contest.

Demon Liza Mutch ran hard all game and was able to create some turnovers, while half way through the last quarter Hatherleigh youngster Niah Faulkner took the court at goal shooter for her first A Grade game.

She combined well with Redman and was able to find space and put some shots up.

Hatherleigh strung together a consistent four quarters which resulted in a 19-goal win.

Best players for the victors were Telfer and Lara MacGregor, with Wilson and Mutch best for the Demons.

Majors hard to come by

By Trevor Jackson

Hatherleigh 10.27 (87) d
Port MacDonnell 8.4 (52)

The Mid South East football match of the round played out between Hatherleigh and Port MacDonnell on Saturday, with the Eagles claiming the honours in a tight contest on the scoreboard.

In reality the Eagles had 37 scoring opportunities, to the Demons' 12 but inaccuracy in front of goals kept the latter in the Round 17 contest until the final siren.

The groundwork was laid in the opening term where the Eagles put on three major scores and six minors.

The Demons continued to show more composure in front of the big sticks but the sheer weight of Eagles' possession soon played against them.

It was a similar scenario in the second term, before Hatherleigh held a handy 22-point advantage at the final break.

By that stage the final result was all-but set and the home side ran away with a comfortable victory.

There were only three multiple goal kickers for the victors, with Patrick Chay contributing three majors, while Joe Ferguson-Lane and Brad Mitchell added two each.

Coach Jake Dowdy thought his side controlled the contest but was a bit disappointed with the inaccuracy in front of goals.

"Without having a crack at Port Mac, we probably should have won by more," he said.

"As for the inaccuracy in front of goals, Port Mac pushed us wide a little bit but I think a lot of it was just the day.

"We missed a few easy ones as well.

"It is okay, as long as we get it cherry ripe when it comes finals time and it doesn't cost us at the time.

"Against Glencoe it cost us but on the weekend we were able to grind away and got away with it."

Apart from the kicking issues, Dowdy was pleased with the game plan and the way his players went about their work.

"I think we controlled everything," he said.

"We were winning the ball and using it well.

"The ball was in our forward 50 for most of the third quarter so I was happy with that.

Joe Ferguson-Lane looks to get a kick away under pressure from Port MacDonnell's Kevin Thomson.

"A couple of times they went coast-to-coast and scored which was a bit frustrating.

"They would go in once and score while we were peppering the goals but that's footy."

The Eagles still enjoyed a spread of goal kickers, despite the low-scoring nature of the contest.

Some changes were also made to the usual structure, with Dowdy playing a backline role before heading to the bench injured.

From there centre-half-forward Darcy Batemen headed down back and Hatherleigh was still able to find a way to score.

"We were still scoring without the two of us there and I think it is pretty important to have those options," Dowdy said.

"Joe Ferguson-Lane is a six-foot-three on-baller which is handy to have.

"He pushes forward and he kicked two goals in the last quarter on Saturday.

"They were pretty hard ones too - everyone was kicking points and he just went bang, bang, 40-metres out on a fair angle."

The Eagles face the benchmark Kalangadoo this weekend in what promises to be an intriguing contest.

While it may be a dead rubber as far as the ladder is concerned, heading into finals Dowdy said it was an important hitout.

"After Kalangadoo has been belting everyone and us being a bit up and down, we both get to see where we are at," he said.

"I think it is important - you get a win you build a bit of confidence running into finals.

"For us, considering we won the first one, if we can beat Kalangadoo again, we will take a bit of confidence and might make them ask a few questions.

"But it will be a hard game."

Murphies make light work of Hawks in Round 17 clash

Glencoe 74 d Kongorong 32

Glencoe showed why it sits in second position on the Mid South East netball ladder, with a big win over eighth-placed Kongorong in Round 17 on Saturday.

In the absence of Jenna Paproth, Laura Edwards stepped into the goal attack role and worked hard to create space for her fellow shooter Mali Glencoe nda Markiewicz.

The Hawks were put on the backfoot early with the floating Glencoe defence proving too hard to penetrate.

At Kongorong's attacking end, the height of Tilah Buckingham was the preferred avenue to goal and her battle with Glencoe's Chantelle Cocks was on from the start, with neither player backing away from the long, contested balls coming into the circle.

Markiewicz had it her way in the opening quarter, scoring 20 goals for the Murphies to set them up with a 12-goal advantage at the first break.

Glencoe started the second quarter as they did the first and looked for any interceptions on offer.

Cocks won front position on Tilah Buckingham and began hunting for balls outside the circle, taking some impressive intercepts.

Ashlea Edwards worked patiently to find scoring options in the goal circle, despite the pressure applied by Kongorong's Emily Lightbody.

The defensive duo of Riley Buckingham and Sarah Lucas did their best to gain possession for the Hawks but their long ball transition was easily turned over by Glencoe's defence.

Glencoe defenders Sarah Edwards and Cocks kept the Hawks shooters to just five goals for the quarter, with a 27-goal advantage at the main break.

Kongorong's defence lifted after the break in what was their last half of netball for the season.

However, Laura Edwards steadied in attack for the Murphies, as she continued to drive hard and draw a defender to free up Markiewicz.

In a much tighter quarter the Murphies extended their lead by only four goals.

The final quarter forced the Murphies away from their preferred steady game style as the Kongorong side confronted them with plenty of body-on pressure.

Kongorong's Kate Wright and Glencoe's Chloe Pfitzner had an impressive battle on the wing.

Mid-way through the quarter Riley Buckingham left the court, which saw Lightbody take the goal keeper bib, with youngster Jas McKinnon into wing defence.

Tilah Buckingham continued to be the focal point in the Hawks attack end, shooting the entirety of their goals in the second half.

The Hawks continued to persist with long transition balls which were strongly intercepted by Sarah Edwards or Pfitzner.

In the end the Murphies were far too strong and claimed a big 74-32 victory.

Best players for the victors were Markiewicz and Laura Edwards, while Lightbody and Riley Buckingham were best for Kongorong.

Mozzies tough it out

By Trevor Jackson

Mount Burr 9.18 (72) d Robe 9.7 (61)

Mount Burr ensured it would play finals after a Mid South East football Round 17 victory over Robe on Saturday.

However, it was a game the Mozzies had to fight for, as the hosts came out of the blocks in ominous form.

Robe had built a handy 15-point lead at the first break but the visitors rallied and despite some inaccuracy in front of goals, held a nine-point advantage at the main break.

The Roosters were not about to go away on their home turf and fought back in the third quarter but the Mozzies were up to the challenge and continued to push hard into their attacking zone.

Five minor scores for the quarter overshadowed the two majors but it was enough to remain in front for the final stanza.

In another relatively even term, the Mozzies did enough to hold the Roosters at bay and leave no doubt about their fourth position on the ladder.

Hamish Smith was again in fine form for the victors, with six goals to his name.

Victorious coach Reece Duncan said it was a tough contest, with the Mozzies' inaccuracy costing the side early.

"We were inaccurate but Robe certainly brought the pressure," he said.

"They played tough physical football, took it up to us and made us earn everything we got.

"It was a tough game."

The pressure was certainly on from the outset, as both sides had five scoring shots but Robe converted well, with four major scores while Mount Burr could only manage one and a handful of behinds.

Duncan said there were a few issues which played out in the opening term.

"It was hotly contested football and our forward entry in the first quarter hurt us," he said.

"We were kicking over leads, missing our kicks.

"We have been pretty good with our forward line entry this season but Saturday we just weren't on."

Duncan said they addressed the issue at the main break, going back to basic in an attempt to correct those issues.

"At half time we talked about having to reset," he said.

"There was nothing we could do about the first half, we just had to go out, take an extra moment to steady ourselves and deliver the football.

"It was all about the small stuff, it is a simple game, you just have to kick to a lead."

While there was a slim chance the Mozzies might not make finals, Duncan said he wanted his players to take matters into their own hands and leave no doubt about their post-season action.

"We went there to win but were probably a bit slow at times," he said.

"We had to work a bit harder than we maybe thought but the result put to bed any other problems going forward.

"Whether they are big wins or skinny wins, we will take them.

"A win is a win at the end of the day and if we want to play finals football, we have to scrap out the ugly wins and the good wins."

This weekend sees the Mozzies take on Tantanoola and Duncan expects another tough contest.

The tigers were touched up against Kalangadoo last week and would surely want to finish their season on a higher note.

"Those boys will be itching to finish the season well," Duncan said.

"They took it up to us the first time we played them, so we can't sit on our laurels because we have to make sure we are playing good football heading into finals the following week.

"I expect another tough game and hopefully the boys will be up and about and ready to roll."

Rhys Gamble was in good form for Mount Burr on the weekend, named best players as the Mozzies ground out a tough win over Robe.

Magpies stage ravenous attack against the Tigers

By Trevor Jackson

Kalangadoo 24.21 (165) d Tantanoola 1.4 (10)

Kalangadoo made the trip across to Tantanoola for Round 17 of Mid South East football and returned with a big win.

A steady start saw the Magpies with just five major scores in the opening half, with an unbalanced 5.15 (45) to 0.3 (3) scoreline at the main break.

Accuracy in front of goals was proving an issue for the Magpies but they began to find their range after half time, with a more clinical nine-goal haul from the third term.

The Tigers found their first and only goal for the match in that term but were 92 points out of the contest by the final break.

The Magpies then finished in style with a 10-goal final term.

Much of the scoring came from the hot boots of Michael Krieger and Ben Mules, who banged on seven majors each.

Patrick Davies, Ben Gregory and Lachy Jones added two majors each.

Kalangadoo captain Mitchel Lowe was awarded best player, with his run out of the defensive zone invaluable as the business end of the season fast approaches.

For coach Kevin Stark it was an interesting game of football, with the result not indicative of the contest.

"It was just one of those days where it never felt like we got that far out," he said.

"It was a tough day to get going, doing exactly what we wanted, which is partly credit to them.

Kalangadoo's Lachy Jones takes a comfortable overhead mark during the Magpies' demolition of Tantanoola on Saturday.

Picture: TREVOR JACKSON

"The scoreboard just ticked over and got a bit larger than I thought it would."

With just five major scores and 15 behinds on the board at the long break, Stark said he addressed his players and looked to correct the unbalanced statistics.

"The margin wasn't that great but we had generated a lot of scoring shots," he said.

"That was a pleasing stat but we felt like we had a lot of the ball and a lot of the play but hadn't converted that into as accurate scoring as we would have liked."

As has been the case for much of the season, Krieger was a strong focal point up forward.

Few teams have been able to contain him and even when he is quiet, there seems to be plenty of other options for the Magpies to utilise.

Mules was a prime example with his seven goals on Saturday.

Stark simply said the strength of his forward line is everyone who plays in attack is an avenue to goal, which makes for a tough defensive effort from any opposition.

The other pleasing statistic for the coach was how his players ran out the final term, despite holding a 92-point lead at the last break.

"We have made an effort to really try to stay focused and keep on the ball for the full four quarters," Stark said.

"You have to try to keep your finger really on it and make sure you put in good four-quarter efforts.

"The first time we played Hatherleigh we found out what happens when you are asleep at the wheel and you can't afford that against strong sides.

"It is something we have tried to be conscious of and not slip into any bad habits."

That will certainly be put to the test this weekend when the Magpies host Hatherleigh in the final minor round of the season.

While nothing will change regarding ladder positions, Stark sees it as anything but a dead rubber.

"It is a big game for us," he said.

"They had a good win over Port Mac at it seems like they generated a fair few chances.

"Last time we played them they showed what they can do.

"We are really looking forward to this weekend and pretty keen to have a crack."

Finals spot on the line this weekend

By Lachlan Onions

With just one round of Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara netball left in the regular season, Penola's fate is in its own hands when it hosts Padthaway on Saturday.

The Eagles will make finals and keep their premiership defence alive if they can dismantle the Lions.

However, a defeat will mean Naracoorte can steal fifth place if it defeats Mundulla.

Penola enters the final clash of the home and away season as firm favourites against Padthaway.

It has been a unforgiving season for the Lions, who have yet to register a win in their 13 games thus far.

When these two sides met in Round 7, it was one-way traffic as the Eagles claimed a 34-goal win and scored 22 goals in the first quarter alone.

Penola's goalies Ash Earl and April Possingham, were best on court during the reverse fixture and will look to continue their impressive form before finals.

Possingham has been one of the Eagles' most consistent performers and leads the competition with 488 goals in 12 games this season.

Up the other end of the court, Kaitlyn Ward has been a key player for the Lions in the circle, with 319 goals for the season.

However, Maddy Teakle and Brooke Klemm will look to reduce the impact of Ward, as they did last time these two sides played, where the Lions' shooter was restricted to just 29 goals for the game.

Despite its loss to Kybybolite in Round 15, Penola will bounce back to claim the win on Saturday and seal a place in this year's finals series.

Brooke Klemm will look to put in a strong defensive performance when Penola takes on Padthaway on Saturday.

Maney remains at the helm for A Grade

By Lachlan Onions

The Penola Football Club last week announced Brad Maney will continue as A Grade coach for 2023.

Maney said he was over the moon to continue as coach of the Eagles.

"It has never been lost on me how much of an honour it is to coach the club," he said.

Maney's first season in charge has been far from easy as the Eagles have claimed just the one win this season.

However, despite the difficult results on the field, he said there has been plenty of growth off the field.

"It hasn't been the easiest season for my first year but I'm really thankful the committee have put their faith in me to lead the club forward," Maney said.

"Hopefully next season is a lot more successful on-field but we have made a lot of strides off-field that I am proud of."

He said it was a credit to the Penola Football Club for being able to look past the results and see the growth which has occurred internally.

The Eagles coach also praised the playing group for the support and faith they have shown him each week.

Maney said it was at first a challenge for him to coach whilst on the field as a player.

"It is a hard balancing act but definitely in the second half of the season, I have found that balance a lot better and I think it has helped the players," he said.

With the Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara football season set to come to a conclusion this weekend for Penola, Maney said work for 2023 started "two or three weeks ago."

"I would love to say I will take two or three months off and completely refresh but I think that's unfair to the Penola Football Club," he said.

"I need to continue to build my relationships with each player and each stakeholder."

Brad Maney will remain in charge of the Penola A Grade football team in 2023.

He said recruitment is already underway for 2023 and the club has some "really good things in place" for recruitment.

"We have been heavily into recruiting and trying to add some players into our group," Maney said.

He is excited for the future of the club as a number of young players have had breakout seasons in his first campaign at the helm.

"I think this year has been really invaluable with the amount of young players we have been able to get games into," Maney said.

He sides the likes of Taj Messenger, Kaleb Messenger, Jacob Robbie, Caleb Lythgo, Gerard Merrett, Sam Klemm and James Foggo are all young players who will have a massive part in the Eagles' next premiership tilt.

"I think a lot of growth is going to happen," Maney said.

One last time for 2022

By Lachlan Onions

Penola will host the Padthaway Lions in the final round of Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara football on Saturday.

It has been far from a great season in terms of results for the Eagles, but coach Brad Maney said there were still plenty of positives to be taken from this season.

Penola has won just the one game this year, while Padthaway is seventh on the ladder with six wins.

Both teams enter this clash with the knowledge they will not be in this year's finals series so will be eager to end the season on a high note.

When the Lions hosted the Eagles in Round 7, Padthaway claimed a 33-point win.

Tobin Cox led the goalkickers for the Lions and Penola will need to shut him down if they are to stand a chance in Saturday's clash.

Cox has been a constant threat in the forward line this season with 43 goals in 13 games.

The Eagles have been boosted by the recent return of Gus Eckermann, who has made an impact since he re-joined the side this month after a long stint out with an injury.

As always, the likes of Brock Egan, Brad Bryant, Zac Deane and Brad Merrett will be crucial for Penola.

Bryant and Merrett have been two of the most consistent players in the league and will likely have an impact on Saturday.

Maney said his side will look to relish the final game of the season and make the most of the last week of the campaign.

"This week is just about enjoyment and enjoying being around each other," he said.

"We won't train together again after this Thursday until probably mid-December.

"We love being around each other so we are going to enjoy it and we are going to have a good week on the track.

"We're really confident we can win the game of football."

Maney said the club is set to end the year on a high, with a function on Saturday night, followed by a Life Member's Day on Sunday.

"We have a really good week planned to finish off our season and there are some netball teams we need to get around for finals," he said.

Scott Merrett will look to put in a strong performance in Penola's final game of the season this Saturday.

Netball finals are upon us

Millicent v West Gambier

The first Western Border netball grand final berths will be up for grabs this weekend when the second semi finals are contested at McDonald Park.

The A Grade clash between Millicent and West Gambier will be one to watch, with both sides in impressive form this year.

Their three previous meetings have all been close. The Saints claimed the first win by three goals, while West took the second by two and Millicent secured a 10-goal win in the final time they met in the minor round.

It sets the stage for a tense second semi final as both sides look to earn the easy route to the grand final.

They have been the two teams which have had the least injury and unavailability this season.

However, in Round 16 against South Gambier, Millicent's Georgia Clarke suffered a serious knee injury which has sidelined the wing defender, who also had her time in centre.

It means Lillie Paul, who has been given plenty of exposure to A Grade action this season, will take on a mid court role.

Her speed, defensive talents and creativity with ball in hand will keep the Saints right in the fight.

The challenge for the 2021 runners up

Millicent's Lisa Duldig will look to control the mid court when the Saints play West Gambier in this week's qualifying final. Picture: JAMES MURPHY will be limiting the scoring opportunities for West's Sarah Ritter and Lisa McGregor.

That will require a whole team defensive effort.

Portia McRae will take responsibility for Ritter and their battle will go a long way to deciding the result.

Hannah Nitschke will need to go step for step with McGregor, who is the architect of the West attack play and feeds the ball with precision to Ritter.

Paul and Lisa Duldig will also need to be at the top of their defensive game, denying Mi-kaela Horrigan and Tara Bryant easy access to the circle.

The Bryant-Duldig battle will be another key match up.

Bryant has been outstanding this season and her hard running ensures she impacts both ends of the court.

However, they do not come much better than Duldig in the mid court and she has always prided herself on her hard work.

West, of course, has a similar challenge to Millicent - they need to limit supply to Tabatha Sanderson and Demi Verbena.

Sanderson is strong under the post and Verbena is creative and deadly from long range.

Paige Nitschke is unassuming but never wastes a possession and uses her smarts to find good position on the circle's edge.

West's Zoe Malseed will need to wear Paige Nitschke like a glove and work together with Bryant to pressure the feed so Jade Ritter and Amy Cram can pounce on poor feeds or inaccurate delivery. The Roos' defensive duo are also strong rebounders so accuracy will be a key for the Saints.

It is a match which really is a toss of the coin but Millicent should prevail in a tight encounter.

SECOND SEMI FINAL SCHEDULE - MCDONALD PARK

■ Court 1: 13 and Under A - Millicent v West Gambier, 9am; 15 and Under A - Millicent v North Gambier, 10.15am; 17 and Under - Millicent v South Gambier, 11.30am; A Reserve - Millicent v East Gambier, 1pm; A Grade - Millicent v West Gambier, 2.30pm.

Undefeated young Saints finish on top

By James Murphy

Millicent's Under 12A footballers have topped the Western Border competition with a grand final win in Sunday's Western Border Junior Football League Under 12A Carnival at Vansittart Park.

Played in a round robin format, the young Saints were undefeated in their four minor round games, which set up a grand final berth against North Gambier.

After a 23-0 win in their meeting earlier in the day, Millicent entered the clash as the favourite.

The youngsters were again in fine form and held the Tigers to one goal, while piling on five goals five to finish 29-point victors.

Millicent Under 12A coach Nat Robins was proud of his team on the day.

"No team scored against them until the grand final, so the boys played really well," he said.

With a few top-age players unavailable throughout the year, Robins said it was only the second or third time he had a full team at his disposal.

"They all played really well," he said.

"We were hoping we would make the grand final, but we were able to rest some of those older kids during those games to keep a bit of run in their legs for later on.

"It all worked out in the end."

Cruz Gibson did well to score two goals in the decider, while Ryder Lindner and Byron Noble were impressive both in the grand final and throughout the day.

Robins was pleased with the performance of his team, which had done well throughout the year as well.

While a grand final win is something special, he said the most rewarding thing from the season was watching the youngsters develop their skills and enjoy the game.

"It has been a good year, seeing them all develop and have fun," Robins said.

Grand final berth up for grabs in WBFL

By James Murphy

South Gambier v Millicent

The Saints will march into McDonald Park with one thing on their mind this Saturday.

Up against South Gambier in the Western Border football qualifying final, the winner is guaranteed to play in the 2022 decider.

With so much on the line, Millicent will hope to replicate its Round 16 result, where the reigning premiers blitzed the Demons by 45 points. The Saints have been in a rich vein of form and have not lost a game since their Round 11 meeting with South.

The recent return of playing coach Clint Gallio and star Tom Hutchesson to the field has buoyed the side, with it nearly at full strength.

Sam Waring and Finn Grimes spent the last few minor rounds on the sidelines due to injury, which has left the ruck work to youngsters Jaxon Cushion and Jacob Todd.

While the young guns have excelled in the position, the return of either of their starting rucks would be a huge bonus.

Up against South's Mason Hein, who has been in exceptional form, another tough battle can be expected around the stoppage.

Millicent's Tom Hutchesson and fellow Saints will fight for the first A Grade Western Border grand final berth. Picture: JAMES MURPHY

Both teams boast a similar forward line, with one key target, but a wealth of goal-kicking potential coming through the midfield.

South playing coach Brayden Kain has been the danger man for the Demons and secured the league goal kicking award with a total of 59 for the minor season.

However, the likes of Brodie Foster, Mitchell Sims and Colby Munro are also capable of kicking a bag, leaving it a guessing game for Saints' defenders on the day.

Millicent is not without its own firepower and the Saints have looked to Dylan Bromley for some big hauls this season. He finished up third in the goal kicking, while comes off a seven-goal haul against South in their final minor round clash. Hutchesson also made his presence known in front of goal on that occasion with two, while captain Jacob Carger has been another reliable option.

Sam Willis has been in impressive form in recent weeks and he is another capable of tearing up in front of goal, while his impact through the middle proved the difference last time around.

For South Todd Reid and Taylor Saffin will be hard nuts to crack in the backline, while through the middle the likes of Josh Woodall, Brett O'Neil and Brock Keding are key ball movers. Of their four meetings this year, the tally sits at two apiece, which makes things difficult for tipsters. Millicent may have the slight edge due to their most recent success, but finals is a different ball game and a high-intensity battle can be expected.

Whatever the result, the loser will receive a second chance against North Gambier in the preliminary final, while the winner will enjoy a week off before the big dance on September 3.

A top-of-the-table clash

By Trevor Jackson

Kalangadoo v Hatherleigh

The final minor round of Mid South East football throws up a couple of interesting contests, despite final berths being set.

The most anticipated is the Kalangadoo v Hatherleigh contest, with the two top sides to face off prior to their next clash in the post season.

Any result will not change the structure of the top four, with the Magpies clearly the benchmark at the top of the ladder.

Hatherleigh sits a couple of games behind in second but the last time the two sides met the Eagles came away victorious.

That was back in Round 9 when the Eagles were out to an eight-goal to one behind first term to set up the 42-point victory.

It was the only loss for the Magpies so far through the minor rounds and sets up an intriguing clash on Saturday.

Both sides appear to be at or near full strength, with no excuses and none implied by either coach.

Magpies coach Kevin Stark is keen to show the strength of his side as the finals loom and it is a similar scenario with Eagles coach Jake Dowdy.

Neither is taking this game for granted, with confidence and momentum the main outcome of a victory.

The Magpies have claimed huge wins in all other games this season, while the Eagles have experienced mixed results, still with only three losses.

A key for a Hatherleigh victory would be to

The top two Mid South East football sides - Kalangadoo and Hatherleigh - will go head-to-head in the final minor round game of the season. Picture: FILE curb the influence of Magpies spearhead Michael Krieger, who has amassed 80 goals so far from 14 games.

Krieger has no influence on the scoreboard in the Round 9 clash, which suggests to keep him quiet will go a long way for a Hatherleigh victory.

Of course the Magpies boast a long list of contributors on the scoreboard, as do the Eagles.

For Hatherleigh it will be about remaining composed in front of goal when the chance to score is on offer.

Kalangadoo holds the home-ground advantage and it is hard to tip against the Magpies juggernaut in its current form.

Hatherleigh will fight it out to the end but the Magpies will head to the post season with the psychological advantage after a hard-fought victory.

Port MacDonnell v Glencoe

At the time of going to print a venue for the Port MacDonnell v Glencoe clash had not been finalised.

Due to the state of the Demons' home ground, Tantanoola has been suggested as an alternative.

Either way this is set to be another cracking contest.

While Glencoe is out of contention for finals, the Murphies recent form suggests they will be a real chance against the reigning premiers.

The Demons will want to carry as much momentum as possible to the finals series in the hope to replicate last season's success.

When the two sides last faced off it was a big win to the Demons but the Murphies have come a long way since then.

However, with the finals around the corner, the Demons should be able to take care of business and run out a close victor.

Mount Burr v Tantanoola

Again this game will have no bearing on the finals structure, Mount Burr has the most to gain from a solid performance.

Tantanoola will want to finish its season on a high but the Mozzies want momentum as the finals kick off next week.

Back in Round 9 the Mozzies claimed the win over the Tigers but by just five points.

Since then Mount Burr has hardly put a foot wrong, apart from a loss to top side Kalangadoo.

The Mozzies have managed to grind out a couple of tight wins to show they are up for the fight.

Going on recent form, this game should go the way of Mount Burr comfortably and provide some real confidence heading into the finals series.

Nangwarry v Robe

Nangwarry will go into its last game of the season with the hopes of upsetting Robe.

The home-ground advantage will certainly help the Saints but they will need to be at their best to claim the points.

Nangwarry broke its losing streak this season and would have hoped for a couple more wins but that was not to be.

However, Robe has not been in the best form in the back end of the season but did push Mount Burr to the final siren last round.

The Saints cannot move off the bottom of the ladder and the Roosters cannot make the finals.

It places little importance on the contest apart from a bit of pride to round out the season.

While Nangwarry will push hard, Robe should claim the points in a tight contest.

Final minor round throws up challenge for netballers

Mount Burr v Tantanoola

The final minor round of Mid South East netball is important for both Mount Burr and Tantanoola.

The winner will secure a spot in the top four to play finals, with the loser's season then in mothballs.

The Mozzies will host the contest and will need to use their home court to advantage.

Mount Burr defenders Olivia Dean and Madi Hagget may be young but have shown their maturity this season, with both players bringing strength and determination to the defensive circle for the Mozzies to force any opponents to earn every possession.

At the other end of the court Tantanoola's Kate Bromley and Tayla Rowe also combine well and put the pressure on for their opposition, forcing errors and creating turnovers.

Tantanoola goalies Emma Gould and Jami Walker are accurate and fed well from outside the circle by Casey Walker and Madi Kelly.

This game will be a tough one and has the potential to go either way.

With both teams vying for a spot in the finals, it will definitely be one to watch.

Nangwarry v Robe

Nangwarry hosts Robe, with the Roosters all-but guaranteed a finals berth.

Robe currently sits in third place on the ladder, equal on points with Tantanoola.

The Saints are yet to win this season, suggesting Robe is in the box seat to claim the points and leave no doubt about their position.

Both teams have seen season-ending injuries but have been able to fill those positions.

Robe's goalie combination of Halle Carter and Sarah Laurie are accurate and will use any opportunity to score, even under the defensive pressure of Hayley Burner and Carly Ploenges.

The Saints shooters Ange Pratt and Tahlia Wilson will also work hard to score every opportunity for their team.

In the defensive circle for Robe, Georgia Perkins and Ellen Ramke will work tirelessly to put the pressure on Nangwarry's shooters.

Robe's Annie Hunter and Nangwarry's Ebony Lawson will have a good tussle down the court.

Hatherleigh will push Kalangadoo to the limit during the final minor round of Mid South East netball on Saturday. Pictures: FILE

In the end the Roosters will be too strong and finish the day with the win.

Hatherleigh v Kalangadoo

Hatherleigh heads to Kalangadoo this weekend to face off against the Magpies.

Hatherleigh's strong defensive combination of Demi Vanderhorst and Lara MacGregor will work overtime to put the pressure on the Magpie's goalies.

Abbey Duncan and Kori Collins will earn every possession and score with accuracy.

At the other end of the court Hatherleigh has had a few changes in their goal circle due to injury and could utilise a few combinations but will be led with strength from inside the circle by Maddie Redman.

Mount Burr and Tantanoola will fight for a finals position in Saturday's final minor round of Mid South East netball.

Kalangadoo's defenders Lauren Kain and Reanna Wetherall will put the pressure on in the circle, limiting scoring opportunities and creating turnovers for their team.

The Magpies' strength as a team will show through and they will come away with another win.

Port MacDonnell v Glencoe

Port MacDonnell hosts Glencoe but the venue was still undecided at the time of going to print.

With the football oval still in poor condition due to the recent rains on the refurbished surface, Tantanoola has been suggested as an alternative.

Malinda Markiewicz is a focal point in the circle for Glencoe and when combined with Jenna Paproth they are a force to be reckoned with.

Port MacDonnell's Alana Winter and Belinda O'Dine will have to work overtime to shut down their influence.

For the Demons, the combination of Toni Gilmore and Kirby Carrison work well together in the goal circle and are fed well from outside the circle by Liza Mutch and Narelle Lewis.

Sarah Edwards and Chantelle Cocks are strong in the defensive circle for Glencoe and will fight to create turnovers and secure any rebounds from Port MacDonnell's goalies, with great hands-over-ball and movement throughout the circle.

Chloe Pfizner and Donna Jaeschke also have the ability gain intercepts down the court and force errors through Port MacDonnell's attack line.

The Demons will not go down without a fight but Glencoe will come away with the win.

Changes are afoot for football in the Limestone Coast, with SANFL in planning mode in the wake of Casterton Sandford's bid to enter the Mid South Eastern Football League in 2023. Picture: FILE

Footy changes on the way

By James Murphy

The future of Limestone Coast football and netball is back in the limelight, with all three leagues under assessment by the South Australian National Football League (SANFL).

This follows a member's vote at the Casterton Sandford Football and Netball Club on Sunday which passed the motion to apply for a change of leagues from the Western Border to Mid South Eastern competition.

An application has now been received by SANFL from the club, but the cascade effect is far more complicated than reviewing a single team's wish to switch leagues.

It has brought all three South East leagues under the microscope, which includes the Western Border, Mid South East and Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara competitions.

SANFL Country Football Manager Shawn Ford spoke to The South Eastern Times this week to shed some light on the situation.

"That application, which has been accepted by us, will now trigger an independent investigation committee," he said.

"That will be formed by three community football committee members.

"They will start to put a 60-day plan in process, as of (Sunday).

"That means they have 60 days to review the entire region - how Casterton fits into Mid South East, what happens if that was to go forward and where that leaves the other five (Western Border) clubs."

Ford said all options are on the table and SANFL has now called on leagues and clubs to have their say on the matter.

It will not be the first time clubs have been pressed for their opinion, with the WBFL and MSEFL surveyed last month on a proposed combined 16-team competition for 2023.

While the proposal was voted against, the verdict went down to the wire.

"Out of 175 votes, the difference between yes votes and no votes was only six votes in total," Ford said.

"The general consensus around the region is people are looking for change and they see the need for change.

"What that change looks like is yet to be determined, but SANFL is very much looking to be collaborative with clubs."

Ford said the cooperation and feedback from clubs would be vital in steering the outcome over the next 55 days.

"We are hoping clubs can now put their best ideas forward and hopefully we can work out a way together," Ford said.

"The last thing we want to do is come in and start telling people what to do.

"Everyone has a real option now to be in a driver's seat and help us map out a way forward."

Ford said communications had been ongoing with the MSEFL, WBFL and KNTFL, with an "enormous" amount of work done over the last two years.

Faced with a possible restructure of football and netball as we know it in the region, the main problem which has been encountered so far is the imbalances between the two codes, as well as the junior ranks.

"To give a scope of the conversations which are happening on a daily basis - if people were to draw a line straight across the A Grade (football) teams in the entire region, it is quite simple to work out who plays who based on strength," Ford said.

"What it is really difficult to try and ascertain is how does that impact the juniors below them and how does it impact the netball as well.

"Those things need to be considered."

During an uncertain time, Ford said there was one certainty - change is imminent.

He said a large issue currently faced by clubs in all three leagues was the crossover between grades, as some players are required to back up two or three games across juniors or seniors.

In addition, the dominance of some clubs within any of the three leagues can not be denied, while in contrast, bottom-order teams often struggle to fill sides each week.

The situation is not unique to the Limestone Coast and Ford said similar issues are faced across the country.

"This isn't an isolated region - this is happening all over Australia at the moment," he said.

"We are seeing it in different leagues all over the country at the moment.

"Right now, over the next 60 days, we are encouraging all leagues to be open and transparent.

"We are really hoping everyone gets on the front foot here and declares their position right now, from juniors, through to netball and openly have honest conversations."

Ford said the sustainment of clubs and their history was of the utmost importance and he understands the coming months would be a sensitive time for many.

"One thing we really do need to be aware of is SANFL certainly isn't coming in to say if you are struggling, that is the end," he said.

"We are coming in and saying how do we best help those clubs that are struggling and what is the best way forward so we can make sure they can continue building their club into the future?"

"We are not coming in and trying to cut up competitions just for the sake of it, we are really working with everyone in the region to try and find the most sustainable outcome for football and netball moving forward."

When asked if there was a perfect outcome from a SANFL point of view, Ford said the simple answer was no.

Throughout the year SANFL has conversed with players, coaches, captains and executives from all three leagues in both netball and football ranks.

"Everyone you speak to has a different idea, but the flow on effect is it doesn't necessarily fit with the opposing sport, or the younger leagues," he said.

"At the end of the day, someone will be upset.

"There is no perfect answer, which is why we need to continue having these conversations and see where it all lands."

Ford said there are already a handful of options on the table, which started to take shape in the lead up to Casterton Sandford's vote last week.

However, he was unable to disclose any information on what they might be.

All things considered, Ford stressed a proactive approach was a necessary action.

"We are really trying to get on the front foot here and are requesting the assistance of the current leagues and the clubs within those leagues, to come help drive the strength of South Australian football into the future," he said.

"I think everyone right now is in the driver's seat at club level and they can have a real say on how this goes.

"What we would strongly encourage now is for people to take the blinkers off and have a look at what this thing looks like in 20 year's time, when the kids who are only just starting out, are coming through to play A Grade football or netball.

"It can't be a matter of what does the future look like next year, or the year after that - we are really starting to future-plan moving forward."
