A blaze of colour

By Caroline Hammat

Three Adelaide based street artists visited the region over the weekend leaving a trail of colour behind them in both Beachport and Millicent on two privately funded walls

After visiting the region earlier in the year two of the artists Ryan Schlink (Ee karm) and Brian Lacsina (Mosha) were invited back by co-owner of the Beachport Hotel Stewart Wells to paint a shipping container on site.

The duo brought a third artist, Shanyon Fan (Moshe), to assist on the projects.

The proposed site had become an eyesore over recent years with the advertising signs wearing away.

Co-owner of the hotel Stewart Wells said "I wanted to get rid of the old advertising so I ripped everything off and painted it blue.

"We were then going to decide what to do with it and these guys popped up.

"They were in the bar and I overheard them saying they did street art.

"We asked if they could come have a look at the shipping container and they asked if I had any ideas.

Mr Wells floated the idea of having a Kraken's tentacles grabbing a Beachport sign on a piece of driftwood and was happy to let the artists interpret that how they wanted.

"They were really good, really efficient and worked through the rain and wind.

"We will get them back again, we have an outside courtyard area we want them to freshen up."

The second mural project undertaken by the trio was commissioned by the owners of Millicent's iconic two storey art deco Savings Bank building in George Street, Helen Joyce and Colin Davies.

After recently meeting the artists at local arts event Ms Joyce hoped to schedule the men to paint the boundary wall along their rear driveway facing Davenport Street during the Geltwood Festival.

"I've always looked at that wall and thought it's the perfect opportunity for something" Ms Joyce said

"We've got the Mimby Jones Robinson water goddess at the front of the building that's bright colours and I love bright colours.

"I saw that these guys were going to be here in October and I thought it could be a bit of a performance for Geltwood.

"I knew there was going to be an artwalk for the festival and thought it would be good so those people could see it actually happening.

"The art very much draws from street art tradition, this is not fine art.

"I did give them free reign pretty much, my only restriction was that it couldn't incite violence or discord.

Ms Joyce encouraged the artists to work to their strengths which has resulted in large graphic lettering surrounded by colourful alien creatures and landscapes that peek through the bricks.

"It's growing on me, I wouldn't say it's my fave around town, but it's different.

"We need different artists, not the same artists, I think we should be trying to get as many different artists as we can.

"It's a bright spot on a dull day."

The three artists were upfront about their graffiti roots and acknowledged the artform as an important learning ground for not only art but making connections with others in the arts.

Garden time

Get ready for spring gardening and stop by the St Mary's Garden Limestone Coast Plant and Trade Fair this weekend.

Held at the picturesque St Mary's Wines in Penola, the day will give keen gardeners a chance to get ideas, supplies, art and much more. Ian Mulligan said the family had been opening their garden for about 20 years, but decided to add the trade show to the schedule in 2015.

"We wanted to we wanted to bring together a whole heap of garden artists, tradespeople and nurseries together in one spot, so everyone can come and have a look, and then try and show the garden and what these plants are able to do."

Everyone is sure to leave inspired, after exploring the garden, which has been carefully cultivated for more than 40 years.

There is plenty for everyone, and don't be scared to bring the whole family, with a children's area ready for the kids.

"To keep the kiddies happy while the family or Mum and Dad or grandparents have a look around, we've got a kiddies area, as well," he said.

"So we'll have a little petting zoo, bits and pieces and, and the CFS fire truck so they can have a look at what they do."

The fair will be open from 10am to 4pm Saturday and Sunday.

About Us

With the advent of legislation that permits the elimination of a child in the mother's womb, right up to the moment of birth, a group of local people have come together to form LOVE THEM BOTH LIMESTONE COAST INC., which is devoted to the promotion of a better understanding and respect for the life of the child in the time before birth, a proper respect for the life in general and for the promotion of care and protection for mothers, especially during pregnancy.

We plan to make ourselves available as speakers to groups and organizations where there is an interest in seeking better understanding of the practical and moral issues at stake in the decisions affecting mother and child in these circumstances.

One of the major motivations of our move to establish this organization is the MARCH FOR LIFE conducted by LOVE ADELAIDE in Adelaide in February and we hope to promote local interest in this.

Awards step up a notch

By Caroline Hammat

Judging is currently underway for the 2023 Millicent Business Community Association's (MBCA) Outstanding Business Awards (OBA).

After cancelling the gala event in late September due to low ticket sales the incoming MBCA committee have now set a date for a new look award night.

This year's event will be a less formal affair hosted on the balcony of the Grand Hotel, weather permitting.

Planning is well underway for the evening and it is hoped a local acoustic performer is available on the night to entertain guests on arrival and throughout the event.

A brief presentation by joint chairperson's of the MBCA, Mark Braes and Fiona Telfer, will also be part of the proceedings. As joint chairperson Ms Telfer is ecstatic the MBCA is trying something different for the 2022 Awards Night.

"Held up high overlooking the Millicent centre of town, it is quite symbolic of what the Awards are about.

"That is acknowledging the amazing Businesses that provide customer excellence, and employees that are nominated for providing the very best customer service in our town." Ms Telfer said.

The award night formalities are on Thursday, October 27 at 7pm until 9pm, with limited number of tickets available at $10 per person.

Bar service will be available on the balcony and nibbles and cocktail platters provided to ticket holders.

The Employee of the year and Young employee of the year award nominations and winners will be announced early in the evening.

After a short break the general business awards will take place including the 2022 Hall of fame inductee and Community spirit award winner.

Tickets can be purchased from Millicent Chemist and Giftware and South East Property Sales and Management.

Artists leave a trail of colour for public to appreciate

Mr Lacsina is a chef by trade and currently working in a cafe which allows him the freedom to pursue art projects and murals as they arise.

"I've always liked art in whatever form and meeting new people, that is probably the best part" Mr Lacsina said

"They stop and talk, they love the colours and they love the creativity.

A fulltime graphic designer Mr Fan explained his background in graffiti culture came from working in a graffiti shop in China.

"I did a bit of commercial graffiti and commercial street art, my home town in China has around 6 million population with around 200 graffiti artists" Mr Fan said.

"It is not really that popular in China.

"The best part for me is I now have more friends, like Moshia and Ryan, and joined the team.

Mr Schlink is pursuing his passion for art as a full time job.

"The first couple of years was a struggle but in the last two it's really started to pick up.

"Me and Moshia we've been lucky, we have a bit of a profile in Adelaide and have painted a lot of walls in the last two years.

"We've gone down that road of pushing ourselves into other areas so people aren't just looking at us as graffiti artists but artists.

"But it's our roots, its what everything else is based off and we still have a passion for lettering."

Helen Joyce watches on as the three artists make their mark along her driveway.

The brightly painted shipping container now greets people at the Beachport Hotel.

Dog park a worthy item to consider

Standing for Council for the seat of Kintore I have spent the last months listening to community members talk about issues, big and small.

One standout for Beachport is the need for a designated dog park. At the moment, there is nowhere to let dogs off leash, including our beaches. However, as our population increases and our visitor numbers grow, this is becoming a point of frustration both for dog owners and the general public who also use these areas.

As a community, it would be a positive step to look at both a dog park and a small beach area where dogs are allowed off lead, with protection for native plants and wildlife considered.

Possibly this is something for other small towns too.

What the candidates said

The South Eastern Times asked all the Wattle Range council election candidates the same questions.

This week, the question was what is the number one thing you hope to achieve in the next term, if you are elected to council?

Answers are given in the candidates own words. Moira Neagle, Richard Cassidy and Gregory Moore did not respond in time for publication, but their responses will be published in the next edition of the SE Times.

CORCORAN WARD

John Drew

Value for money. Council rates are always front and centre for our community but we're happier if we know we get great value from our rates. It's not only important for residents that our town facilities are excellent but at reasonable cost. Visitors too like the way we look. Tourists bring in money, and attractive town settings encourage them to move here. Businesses prosper as a result and the community ends up with greater choice. My priority in Council has always been and will continue to be, watching our expenditure and ensuring projects benefit our communities. That includes providing value to the whole area, we may not all use the boat ramp, the visitor centres, the playgrounds, the libraries, the Civic and Arts, or the Penola walking trail but for many, these are important in their lives. Being fair, watchful and unbiased is important for our Council Area.

If elected, I will continue to ask the hard questions about cost overruns and project completion while strongly advocating for projects that better our District. Value for money.

David Walshaw

I believe residents and ratepayers look to their elected representatives for leadership and guidance on community issues.

With my extensive experience in leading and managing change at a senior executive level in government and not-for-profit organisations, I can provide this support by putting forward options and presenting alternate views to complex issues at Council meetings.

Developing a shared vision for the community and deciding what needs to be done to achieve that vision is an important role for all elected members.

Supporting and informing the community to endorse and follow that vision (and associated plans) requires the leadership that I know I can provide.

The most fundamental task, if I am successful, is to achieve a strong sense of shared purpose and commitment given the major infrastructure projects which are planned for the next term.

The needs and desires of the community are constantly changing and evolving, and we must be prepared to initiate new policies and activities in response to these changes.

The close scrutiny of annual budgets and monthly financial and project reports are an imperative if we are to ensure the council can undertake projects within its means and not create legacy issues for future generations of Wattle Range residents.

Peter Dunicliff

A Councillor should not have one item as their priority, as this would distract them from the overall operation of council. One area of Council that I pay close attention to is the financial reports and budget spending to make sure ratepayers get best value for rates.

Lee Morgan

My goal is to re-connect Council with the community with Council and hence build trust.

Some may think that's too general and idealistic, but it is important and achievable. The community needs to be consulted on matters that affect their lives whether that be the planting of street trees, new capital road works, streetscape changes, constructing Council buildings and conducting events. Building this trust includes a focus and process for quality customer service, regular maintenance of Councils infrastructure assets (ie roads, footpaths, sports facilities and waste management facilities) and engaging and connecting our business community across the district. In supporting sustainable economic development, engagement will ensure care for our sensitive environment and respect for culture of this unique area.

I have provided 48 years' service to state and territory governments. It takes one to know one. I know how government operates and I intend to return democracy and decency to our citizens.

Dennis Muhovics

My main focus in the next council term is to keep rate rises to a minimum. This can be achieved by controlling budgets and efficiencies in the workforce, when the council starts budget deliberations and councillors are mindful of the costs and impact on the community. We all want more for our rates, but more services come at a cost. The main concerns of most ratepayers are roads, rates and rubbish. We have a large unsealed road network which needs constant maintenance, our recycling centres are very efficient and free.

The Wattle Range Council sets a works budget and then sets the rate level to complete the works programme rather than setting a rate and just spending the income.

My view of this is to make sure that what we commit to as a council is in the best interest of our whole community.

This is my opinion and not necessarily the view of the Wattle Range Council.

RIDDOCH WARD

Dean Burrow

A comment, received in response to my recent articles on the Penola News Face book concerns me. "Council doesn't care!"

My goal is to improve communication between, Council's administration, Councillors and our local community, so that every resident feels confident that a request for a service will be dually considers and wherever, possible provided. We will all then feel that democracy is truly working.

Government, by the people for the people.

Then we will get our priorities right, whether it be a new footpath, improved rural roads, drainage, streetlights, beautiful parks and gardens sporting facilities and the Penola Commonage will be administered in accordance with the "Deed of Trust."

If re elected I trust that I never have to hear, Council doesn't care, because I do care for the welfare of all people in the Riddoch Ward.

However, I am not the Council only one elected member who has to convince five other elected members of the need to provide any facility or service.

Emma Castine

As a new (or returning) resident, this potentially would be my first term, in which I hope to have built a strong understanding of the process of council and to create a transparent and open communication between residents and their council.

I hope to bring a positive energy to collaborate, include and grow the region in agriculture industry and tourism and all the complex infrastructure that that will entail, with an attitude of plenty rather than lack.

I am sure I am in for a steep learning curve and look forward to growing into the position. I believe regional Australia is what most city and international people look at and aspire to. Not that regions should be turned into cities. We have different strengths needs and weaknesses and I hope to embrace that with the guidance of the community.

I am no one man band and will seek understanding and debate as to the best way forward for all concerned hence my great interest and support for the newly formed Penola Ratepayers and Community group to provide that vehicle for my potential term in council. I would encourage all residents to put forward their concerns, ideas and wishes through this group.

Chris Brodie

I want to increase our communities understanding of how council works, what it does, and how much it costs. Most, if not all of this information is available, but some of it is hard to find. Then to assist the community to assess wants, needs & priorities using that information and make sure it gets on the council agenda.

KINTORE WARD

Carrie Adamo

Talking to people over recent months I have been alarmed by the many frustrations people have voiced over council consultation and communication.

I believe effective community consultation is a vital process that underpins genuine community development. It can give residents power over some of the decisions that affect their lives by involving them in the design and implementation of programs and services which impact them.

In the Kintore Ward I would like to attend all relevant meetings in Furner, Rendlesham, Hatherleigh, Southend and Beachport over the next four years of the council term. I would initiate a Kintore Focus Group, based on the old Kintore Consultative Committee, to workshop council business on priorities and directions the community set.

I would also look for community feedback on how Wattle Range Council could be better communicating with the residents.

The work Council undertakes should not be a surprise to anyone.

Sharon Cox

To improve the communication between WRC and ratepayers. Unfortunately, this is an area that needs attention. I will be making myself available to all ratepayers by showing a physical presence in my ward, I am hoping that ratepayers will also be able to help with this by approaching me with any concerns that they may have.

SORBY ADAMS WARD

Deb Agnew

If elected I aim to represent the electorate and the community. To have a good general knowledge of the area, the issues, our people and to listen to community views.

Dale Price

My goal is to achieve efficient and cost effective delivery of services in an equitable way across the community. That will mean we seek to broaden the rate base to industries that are not paying their fair share, make difficult decisions to ensure value for money for all residents and that staff have the resources to deliver projects and services efficiently. Council should continue to advocate for resourcing from other tiers of government to upgrade roads, health, telecommunications, housing and other infrastructure. I will also continue to ensure transparent decision-making is a hall mark of our Council.

Robert Stewart

I hope to bring a fresh face with new ideas and different approaches to previous ideas placed in the too hard basket to council if elected.

Art auction ignites interest

By Caroline Hammat

Imagination was certainly ignited on Saturday night as 150 people attended a unique cocktail event staged in the outdoor gym area of Ignition Fitness organised by the Imagine Millificent Arts Group (IMAG).

Tables, chairs and marquees transformed the area into an entertainment hub for the evening and guests were treated to a grazing box and free drink on arrival.

Local music duo Jb and Crowie provided the entertainment throughout the evening with plenty of guests hitting the temporary dance floor.

An art auction was a highlight and 37 lots were on display throughout the night and open for early silent bids.

Auctioneer Trevor Rayson dressed with artistic flair for the night and provided some light hearted commentary, encouraging art lovers to dig deep resulting in several items receiving spirited bidding.

The successful auction raised almost $3,400 with the highest single selling item an original painting by local artist Peter Dunn who donated the artwork.

The painting title Seahorse was purchased by Chris Hollingsworth.

Including ticket sales the event raised almost $6,500 for the group.

IMAG member Ms Hollingsworth said

"We were totally blown away with the support we received from the community and the amount of money we raised was way beyond our expectations.

"It has had such a positive effect on our group and our involvement in the community and we can't thank everyone enough."

The event was an IMAG fundraiser to raise money for a proposed mural on the large wall at the back of the centrally located gymnasium.

Festival returns in glory

By Caroline Hammat

The return of Millicent's Geltwood Festival after a two and half year delay has been worth the wait.

Millicent was abuzz over the weekend as locals and visitors to the town took advantage of the spring weather to enjoy the events on offer.

Geltwood Festival was officially launched at Friday night's exhibition opening of Rachelle Denny's stunning and unique quilt display at the Millicent Library.

Ms Denny is an award winning international tutor with a passion for free motion quilting and opened this years festival.

Five workshops were spread out over the weekend ranging from traditional patchwork to painting.

All workshops received a great response with some booked out and others close to capacity.

Geltwood committee member Julie Wesolowski curated the quilting workshops and said

"The workshops were very successful and all of the participants want the teachers to come back next year."

Pat Muhovics, organiser of the two Jacky Morris painting workshops held at The George hotel, said

"Everyone seemed really happy with it, the results at the end looked so good and I was very impressed.

"Jacky was very happy with the venue, she said it was ideal."

Sunday's Lions family and market day was a hit with a variety of stalls, activities and events on offer.

Over 30 stalls lined the street alongside a live snake pit, children's games, CFS trucks and many local shops opened their doors as well for the day.

Alan Rolfe from the Millicent Lions club said

"It was a lovely day, we had a bit of a rain-bow to start with but we didn't get any rain.

"We are really pleased with the day after so long due to Covid and are really happy with it, it was marvellous."

Complementing the market day was the Millicent National Trust museum's open day and the model railway display at held at the RSL hall.

Both the museum and the model railway display enjoyed a steady stream of visitors over the course of the weekend.

Limestone Coast Model Railway Group member Arthur O'Connell who co-ordinated the train display said the feedback from the exhibitors and the community was positive.

"The response from the exhibitors was fan-

Maureen and Stan Mansas were visiting from Gisborne in Victoria and were impressed with the market and vibrancy of Millicent's George Street during market day.

tastic, they thanked us for a great weekend and were all very happy with the weekend and how they were looked after" Mr O'Connell said.

"The biggest joy for us, and the exhibitors, was the look on the kids faces when they came and had a look at the trains.

"That made it worthwhile, they loved it.

"It was an absolute pleasure for our group to put on and the benefit to us was we made over $1,000 and there is the possibility of getting new members to our group."

Geltwood Festival's four day event ended with Monday's Quilting convention.

Although numbers were down on previous year's conventions it was a successful event with guest speakers Ms Denny and the president of the South Australia Quilting Group Heather Ford.

Both guest speakers had hosted popular workshops during the festival.

"I think we are just starting to gather momentum post covid so we didn't expect it to be as successful this year" Ms Wesolowski said.

"Although the day itself was really good and all the feedback has been really positive.

"I think word will spread and by next year we will be back up with our numbers."

After a successful relaunch of the Geltwood Festival committee member Ms Muhovics said.

The Millicent Gymnastics Club put on a display during market day to a large crowd on interested onlookers.

"Council should be commended, they expanded into the vintage craft workshops which were free of charge or minimal cost.

"They have huge potential and I think people will be looking for those next year.

"I think it worked well that people had a lead into the festival rather than just that one weekend.

"We did have a lot of support from council staff particularly Caroline Hill, Amy Lawlor and Tamara North.

Next year it will be 20 years since the festival was first launched in 2003 and a decision is yet to be made if the festival goes ahead in its traditional months of March/April or at a later time as trialled this year.

"Personally I don't mind when it is, I thought weather wise it would be better in March but we couldn't have had a better weekend" Ms Muhovics said.

Visiting the CFS display are the Kimberley and Christopher Haworth with their children Chance and Alaska.

Watching one of the five model train displays intently are Leo and Kobe Skeer.

Here’s cheers to 40 years

More than 150 Coonawarra vignerons and locals gathered at Zema Estate in Coonawarra to celebrate the ‘40 years of Zema’ on Sunday, October 2.

The afternoon was hosted by Nick, Francesca, and Demetrio Zema and catered by Chardonnay Lodge.

Guests enjoyed Zema Estate wines and some treasures from their cellar including 1986 Shiraz, 1998 Cluny, and premium 2006 Saluti.

Nick Zema was thrilled so many people could attend.

“We owe so much to the help and passion of our family, friends, and the Coonawarra community,” he said.

“We are very grateful to everyone who has supported us by grabbing a bottle of Zema at their local bottle shop, visiting our Cellar Door, or who have come along to an event.”

Zema Estate’s cellar door is open seven days a week.

Motoring

All class behind the wheel

By Alistair Kennedy, Marque Motoring

Mercedes-Benz has updated its E 350 sedan, coupe and convertible models with mild hybrid technology adding extra power, smoother engine response and lower fuel consumption.

Five variants are available: E 200, E 350 and AMG E53 with the coupe body plus E 350 and AMG E 53 convertibles.

The E-Class is the mid-sized model in the Mercedes-Benz passenger car range.

The current Benz family styling has been adopted with a diamond patterned infill to the grille and the traditional three-pointed star in the centre.

Headlights are Multibeam units with 84 individually controllable LEDs with adaptive high beam.

The wheels on the E 350 are 20-inch AMG multi-spoke alloys.

The optional Night Package adds some attractive exterior design elements.

Although most current convertibles come with solid roofs Mercedes has catered for the motoring purists by sticking with a traditional fabric roof.

There's a wide range of body colour choices, nine of them standard or no-cost option colours available as well as two cost options.

The standout to our eyes, and most who saw it, was the rich burgundy Rubellite Red in our test car.

Four fabric soft tops are available, we had the matching dark red.

Obviously, as a two-door, access to the rear seats is through the front doors, unless you're young and agile enough to jump over when the top is down.

Once seated there's decent legroom although the passenger sitting behind the driver may occasionally need to compromise.

To cater for rear seat occupants the front doors are wide and need to be opened cautiously in tight parking spaces.

All Mercedes E 350 variants have leather upholstery with a choice of five different colour combinations.

All three E350 variants come with a 2.0-litre, four-cylinder turbo-petrol engine generating 220kW of power and 400Nm of torque with a nine-speed automatic transmission sending power to the rear wheels.

The EQ Boost system uses a 48-volt integrated electric motor to add up to 10 kW and 150 Nm for short periods.

Additionally, the system utilises high-efficiency energy recuperation to supply power to the battery, making it possible to drive without the combustion engine.

The E 350 sedan and coupe variants do the zero to 100 km/h sprint in 5.9 seconds with the convertible only marginally slower at 6.1 seconds.

Standard safety features across the E-Class coupe and cabriolet range include nine airbags, enhanced ABS brakes; electronic stability control program; acceleration skid control; active bonnet; tyre pressure warning; run-flat safety tyres; traffic sign assist; and a 360-degree camera.

Attention Assist uses a sensor and detailed algorithm to detect fatigued driving behaviour.

Driving Assistance Package Plus adds active distance assist; autonomous emergency braking; brake assist with cross-traffic function; lane keeping and lane assist; stop-and-go assist; blind spot monitoring; evasive steering assist and route-based speed adaptation.

Pre-Safe Plus helps prevent, or reduce the effect, or rear collisions crashes.

If the car's rear radar detects a potential

Large capability: The mid-sized E 350 Merc convertible combines sheer driving fun with long-range grand touring capacity.

rear-end collision, it rapidly flashes the rear hazard warning lights to alert the driver.

Specific features in the E-Class convertibles include with head air bags in the doors and specifically-designed roll-over protection.

A head-up display is available with the Vision Package option.

The Benz E250 uses the latest version of the company's MBUX widescreen multimedia system.

Information is displayed on two 12.3-inch high-resolution digital screens.

In front of the driver is the digital instrument cluster with the central touchscreen providing access to the usual range of features including smartphone integration with Apple CarPlay and Android Auto; Bluetooth phone and audio; wireless smartphone charging; and embedded NTG6 satellite navigation.

Our test car had the optional Burmester premium sound system.

There's also remote interactivity with other vehicle functions through the Mercedes 'me Connect' app.

At start up the central information screen displays the following warning, no doubt at the behest of the M-B legal team, "Do not let the system distract you from the traffic situation".

While this clearly applies to every new car nowadays it's even more relevant to the E-Class because there's so much to learn before hitting the road.

There's also a plethora of tiny controls on the chunky Nappa leather AMG steering wheel feels great

We couldn't have picked better weather for our test and did a couple of open-air runs along our favourite route on the Central Coast hinterland.

Opening and closing the roof takes around 15 seconds and can be done at speeds up to 30 km/h.

We escaped from Sydney's urban jungle, including its numerous tunnels, with the roof

Tight fit: The interior of the new Merc convertible has a need for a compromise for back seat passengers sitting behind the driver but comes with full leather upholstery.

closed and found the interior to be quite well insulated.

Once the top was folded, we were able to activate the Aircap auto draught-stop and air scarf neck-level heating systems to reduce the effect of the outside elements.

Although we didn't need it, seat heating is available.

Fuel consumption is excellent, listed at 7.8 litres per 100 kilometres on the combined cycle.

We averaged 8.2 L/100 km overall, managing just 6.4 L/100 km during our two rural grand touring cruises.

With so many SUVs on the road, all providing differing degrees of sensible and practical motoring it was an absolute delight to enjoy a really enjoyable driving experience with the Mercedes-Benz E 350 Cabriolet.

There's sufficient interior space to almost qualify as a family vehicle although most of the time should be spent out on the open road.

It's high comfort levels, smooth and powerful engine and excellent fuel economy make it an ideal long-distance grand tourer.

WHAT'S ON THE BOX?

PICK OF THE WEEK

FISK
ABC TV, Wednesday, 9pm

It's wonderful to see series creator Kitty Flanagan (pictured) showcase her many talents in this warm-hearted and deliciously awkward comedy. The second season kicks off as Helen Tudor-Fisk (Flanagan) deals with a nuisance claim made by a dead woman's lodger. While the legal probate cases continue to bring fresh colour each week, this season we also get to see more of the ensemble cast including Julia Zemiro, Marty Sheargold and Aaron Chen. These hilarious regulars go toe to toe with a who's who of Australian comedy guest stars. This week, Denise Scott returns as book club member Leslie, while Marg Downey is back as professional interlocutor Lindy.

GUILLAUME'S PARIS
SBS, Thursday, 8pm

French-Australian chef Guillaume Brahimi (pictured) continues his tour of the arrondissements (that's districts to us Aussies) of Paris as his latest journey takes him to the 11th and 12th boroughs. Brahimi's homecoming, to the place where he first made a name for himself in the kitchen, is full of nostalgia and adoration for the city of lights. This week, he shows off Paris's sweeter side when visiting a chocolate factory. Run by Alain Ducasse, this factory is much fancier than anything you might have seen before.

WELL TRAVELLER
10, Sunday, 4pm

With the stress and anxiety of the past few years, mental health and wellness have never been more important. In this thoughtful series, champion surfer Layne Beachley travels the country and talks to well-known and everyday Australians about life-changing wellness experiences. Among the familiar faces sharing their rituals are Megan Gale, Turia Pitt, Barry Du Bois and Adam Goodes. Beachley also meets several people doing it tough and helps them reset their lives. The locations featured are a mix of well-kept secrets and famous holiday destinations, showcasing plenty of spectacular scenery and inspiring activities to fuel desk-bound daydreams.

THE BLOCK
Nine, Monday, 7.30pm

It's time for the couples to get their hands even dirtier as Landscape Week kicks off on The Block. There's plenty of mud-slinging on display as Ankur and Sharon (both pictured) are once again in the budget spotlight, while Jenny almost comes to blows in a disagreement with her landscaper. It's an epic undertaking – transforming and redesigning 10 acres of backyard in seven days – but the Blockheads clearly aren't afraid of a challenge. With pressure mounting as auction day approaches, it's understandably tense when host Scott Cam and his offsideer Shelley Craft arrive to get the lay of the land.

Solid week of fishing

By Jamie Coates

We had it all this weekend, rain, sunshine, strong winds and at times even no wind.

Luckily the worst of the weather still was not too bad and fishos managed to hit the water.

The offshore fishos found fish from out on the shelf, through to the inshore reef systems.

Those who did venture to the shelf found some good numbers of Blue Eye Trevalla and Hapuka in the 400-450m depth range.

Geoff and Zac Currie boated some very nice samples of both species, including Geoff's first hapuka.

On the way home the boys stopped for a quick drop in 150metre waters and Zac picked up a ripper tassie trumpeter just as the cherry on the cake.

Boaties from up around Beachport and Robe have been into the sharks over the last few weeks.

Wayne Walker boated a couple of beauties last Monday in the Beachport area, a schoolie over 20kg and a beast gummy of nearly 30kg.

This time of year is always great fishing for sharks in the bay there.

Schoolies and gummy sharks are in good numbers and you've got the protection of the bay, so when conditions are right, it's worth having a crack.

In a bit closer to shore off Port MacDonnell, the bottom fishing in 55m to 70m has remained excellent.

I've heard of Snapper to 80cm, Blue Morwong to 70cm and Nannygai over 2kg, that's before we even mention the sharks.

Gummies and schoolies over 20kg have been common, and some guys have been boating multiple big sharks in a session and just letting them go.

There have been whispers there could be tuna still sneaking about along the front but no one has hooked up.

Speaking with a few boaties out there, one crew saw School Tuna jumping in 100 metre waters late last week, while some cray fisherman have spotted big bait balls with birds, seals, dolphins and whales feeding on them which is exactly where the big tuna will be hanging out.

The surf fishing has been good, and the salmon numbers are still impressive.

Guys throwing lures have found plenty in the Beachport Salmon Hole again and a real mix of sizes have come through.

If the weather is perfect for us, it's usually too good for the salmon, and they'll be hanging back hard on the reef.

On days where the sea is up and the wind is blowing, salmon are in the middle of the bay and just about everyone will be within casting distance.

The Canunda and Carpenter Rocks fishos have found some more nice fish but it seems to be the bait anglers with the upper hand.

The concentration of fish is unlike the Salmon Hole, so the beauty of the baits is the fish will come and look for the smell.

In other off-the-beach news, there's been a few early season whiting caught around Cape Douglas, Nene Valley and Carpenter Rocks in the late afternoons which has been great to see.

The Port MacDonnell Breakwater has been on the go again, the boaties have had no trouble finding a nice feed of whiting, while the land-based guys who fished the jetty and boat ramp in the evenings have both been finding some good fish.

Other areas for the boaties have been Green and Danger Points, Blackfellows Caves and Carpenter Rocks.

Garfishos have had another great week on the fish, and to echo the last probably 8 weeks now, it's been a good even split of fish between the boaties and the waders.

The usual hotspots such as Petrified Forest, Hutt Bay and Cape Douglas, Livingstons Bay and Pelican Point have all produced well.

October is always a great month for the squid fishos in Livingstons Bay.

We just need a couple days of flat seas and the water clears up just nicely and is perfect for squidding.

There has been some absolute beauties caught over the last couple of weeks, one beast I know of weighing in at 3kg.

I haven't heard much from the Port MacDonnell Jetty from the squidders but I did notice a few fresh ink spots on the jetty so they must be starting to kick into gear now.

The freshwater scene has been full of news the last few weeks, with all the trout lakes still producing some nice fish but the biggest has been Rocklands.

There have been some very nice fish caught over there recently, with Callop, Murray Cod, Australian Bass and Redfin boated.

The Glenelg River has fished well again for the Bream and Perch guys, with some beauties to 50cm boated.

Wayne Little had a red-hot session just before the sun went down, he boated good numbers of fish to 48cm and even had a few multiple hook-ups.

The Mulloway news again has been patchy and light on but there has been some fish caught.

The Estuary has been the main area for activity and if the water starts to clean up and become nice and tidal, I think we'll see more and bigger fish filter through.

This week definitely looks fishable for most anglers, as usual, keep an eye out on the swell and wind if going offshore.

Until next week, safe fishing!

Cup honours for south-east

A contingent of 28 South East junior tennis talents have returned to the region after a successful campaign at the 2022 State Foundation Cup tournament in Berri recently.

The ninth annual event saw 168 players from across South Australia represent the six regional areas of the state.

Players from the Southern Ports Tennis Association joined forces with the Mount Gambier and District Tennis Association to represent the South East region.

At the end of the tournament the Under 17's claimed the overall honours with an undefeated record, while the Under 15's were also victorious.

Early challenges presented themselves as rainy conditions gave players their first taste of playing on grass courts in the wet.

However, the South East showed resilience and adapted well.

The 15's and 17's looked strong early to record convincing wins in the first three rounds.

The Under 17's were untouchable, while the Under 15's had an exciting one-game win against Hills Fleurieu and a close loss against Upper Northern and Yorke.

However, they had done enough to win by one rubber.

The Under 13's and Under 11's showed good improvement throughout the week as the youngsters thrived on the opportunity to play tennis and make new friends.

Both teams finished fourth in their age groups, which put the South East in second place overall for the tournament.

Cade Kelly also took home an individual accolade, as he was presented with the sportsmanship award for the 17 and Under Boys, as voted by the opposition players.

The team events were then followed by an individual tournament as players in the 11, 13, 15 and 17 and Under divisions vied for selection in the South Australian Regional State team.

It was the first time the Under 11's were included in the individual tournament, with Foundation Cup Under 17 winners Shaun Robinson, Cade Kelly, Zayne Young, Emily Jolley, Jorja Mitchell and Jess Stutley.

South East's Tom Handbury winning the event.

Hamish Gordon finished runner-up in the 13 and Under boys, while Sam Haase finished third for the age group.

Lucy Handbury also finished runner-up for the 15 and Under event, as did Jorja Mitchell in the 17 and Unders.

The performances of all four players earned them selection in the regional state team, which will represent South Australia in Queensland in early 2023.

Thanks went out to coaches Dave Boyce and James Phillips, who mentored and supported the players in the months leading up to the event and during the week in Berri.

Team managers and unit supervisors Wally Young, Dave Cole, Matt Haase, Ruth Thami and Mick Ellis were also invaluable throughout the process.

‘Great teamwork’: South Australian athletes honoured

South Australians who participated at the 2022 Birmingham Commonwealth Games received Australian Sports Medals in a ceremony at Government House last week.

Marathon gold medallist Jessica Stenson, born and raised in Naracoorte, was among the list of worthy recipients, as both athletes and officials were recognised with the prestigious award.

First awarded in 2000, the Australian

Sports Medal commemorates sporting participation in multi-sport events including the Invictus Games and Olympic Games.

In a continuing trend, South Australians participated and medalled at the 2022 Commonwealth Games at rates greater than what may have been expected for the state's population.

Minister for Recreation, Sport and Racing Katrine Hildyard commended the athletes on their achievements.

“It is a great privilege to join with these remarkable athletes and officials to celebrate their incredible collective efforts in Birmingham this year,” she said.

“Great teamwork underpins success and our athletes, coaches, officials and administrators all worked together to achieve terrific results in Birmingham.

“I congratulate every recipient, each of whom played an important role in the team's success.”

Stenson was joined by 16 other individuals who were presented the award.

RECIPIENTS: Edgardo Coumi, Christopher Flavel, Graeme Frislie, Breanna Hargrave, Ella Jones, Lauren Mansfield, Alessia McCaig, Tahlia McGrath, Samantha Okely, Cal-lum Peters, Alyssa Polites, Miles Scotson, Jessica Stenson, Amanda Tscharke, Isabella Vincent, Marena Whittle and Beau Wootton.

Walters’ career best win

By David Gilbert

The Wayne Walters stable is currently the biggest in the Limestone Coast - by a fair bit - and had the honour of winning the first local cup of the season at Penola on October 9.

That was courtesy of Ali Orphan who produced the best win of her career to take out the 1700-metre Kalangadoo Cup for jockey Kate Walters.

Ali Orphan had won the previous start in BM 58 grade at Mount Gambier and handled the rise in class to beat her seven rivals fair and square.

Backed from $12 into $8, Ali Orphan was still last at the 400 metres and defied the pattern of racing up until then to run home strongly near the rails and win by nearly a length.

Budding apprentice Maggie Collett and senior rider Eran Boyd shared the honours on the day with doubles each.

Boyd's second leg of her double came aboard the Adelaide galloper Transference and was a late pick up ride for her, as she replaced Christine Puls who was doubly engaged and opted to ride Aeecce Prince.

Glenburnie co-trainers Bob and Kane Post won the opening event when Allgo kicked clear inside the furlong and then withstood a strong rally from the favourite Hasta La Mis-sile.

Collett tactically won the 1700-metre maiden plate when she shot the Sue and Jason Jaensch trained Costa Margo to a four-length lead at the 500 metres and, despite seemingly walking over the line, had just enough in hand to hold off Ravnika.

Trainer Peter Hardacre justified the trip from Murray Bridge with one runner for the day when Destiny's Republic ($8-$5.50) led and beat Thanasi by a head in the 1100-metre BM 62 handicap.

Despite fine conditions, it was one of the Dominant: Hawks return to winning ways under lights

By Lachlan Onions

Hatherleigh 6.4 (40) d South Gambier 3.2 (20)

Hatherleigh continued its strong start to the season with an impressive win over South Gambier in round 2 of Limestone Coast under 16 girls football on Friday night.

After winning their two games in the double-header in Round 1, the Eagles fired out of the blocks to take a 14-0 lead at the first break.

The dominance continued into the second term and the Demons were unable to find a way through the strong Hatherleigh backline.

Th Eagles kicked two goals straight in the second quarter to take a 26-point lead at half time.

After a dominant first half from Hatherleigh, South Gambier looked like it had no way back.

However, a resurgence from the Demons changed the shape of the game.

South Gambier kicked three goals in the third term and held the ladder-leaders scoreless to trail by just eight points which set up a thrilling final quarter thanks to a spirited fightback.

However, the Eagles soon snapped back into action and kicked two goals in the last quarter and restricted the Demons to just two points in the final term to round out 20-point victors.

Amber Chester led the goalkickers for the game with two, while Hannah Bellingier and Edie Easterby continued their strong form from Round 1 with the former named best on ground.

Sophie Wight kicked a goal for the Demons and was named best on ground for her side.

Kongorong 5.2 (32) d Kybybolite 2.2 (14)

After a disappointing first round where the Hawks were unable to win in the double-header on their home deck, the reigning premiers bounced back to claim a relatively comfortable win in the second game of the round.

Kybybolite looked to put its home ground advantage to full use as it set out to claim revenge in a clash which was a replay of last season's semi-final, where Kongorong defeated the Tigers at the same venue.

Much like the semi-final where these two sides met last, it was an even battle in the first quarter.

However, this time both teams managed to kick major scores in the opening term.

At the first break, the Hawks held a six-point lead with the score 3.0 (18) to 2.0 (12).

After an arm-wrestle of a first quarter, the Hawks spread the wings in the second stanza to give them some breathing space and took a 13-point lead at the long break.

Kongorong was held scoreless in the third quarter but Kybybolite was unable to put a dent into the margin as it only managed a solitary behind for the quarter to trail by two major scores at the final change.

The Hawks added their fifth goal of the game in the fourth quarter to ensure victory and claim an important four points.

Kongorong vice-captain Jasmin McKinnon impressed and was adjudged best on ground for the game, while Hawks captain Evie Sealey kicked three majors in the contest.

The Tigers’ two goals came from Elise Hahn, while Chloe Stewart was best on ground for the hosts.

After two rounds of action, Hatherleigh remains in top spot on the ladder, ahead of North Gambier, Kongorong, South Gambier and Kybybolite.

The Eagles’ Niah Faulkner leads the goalkickers with eight majors this season.

She is closely followed by North Gambier’s Claire Mitchell, who has kicked six goals in two games thus far.

Finn Malone and his Magic teammates will contest the 2022 Millicent Junior Basketball Tournament this weekend.

Tourney to test juniors

By James Murphy

Millicent will be a hive of activity when the 2022 Millicent Junior Basketball Tournament attracts around 80 teams to the city this weekend.

Associations from across South Australia and western Victoria will attend the tournament and compete across eight age groups for the annual two-day event.

Millicent stadium manager Peter Seebohm looks forward to the tournament and said it was all hands on deck this week to ensure everyone would be accommodated and catered for.

“We have teams from Portland, Warrnambool, Keith, Naracoorte, Bordertown, Mount Gambier and Millicent,” he said.

“We also have a sprinkling of three or four teams coming out of Adelaide and a couple of teams from Melbourne.

“We are reasonably happy with how it has turned out.”

Terang will be absent this year, due to complications putting teams together due to Covid precautions.

However, Seebohm expected there would still be up around 180 games played over Saturday and Sunday.

“We are using seven courts,” he said.

“We have the three courts at the stadium and four school gyms we will be using.”

From a local perspective, Seebohm expected a few of the Millicent Magic sides to be up the pointy end of the competition.

“Our 14 girls, 16 girls will be very competitive,” he said.

“We are expecting our 18 boys and 18 girls to be very competitive.

“We will have a few teams who will feature towards the end of it.”

However, they will be up against some tough opposition, particularly in the top age groups.

“We have some reasonably strong Under 18 boys teams coming,” Seebohm said.

“The two teams coming out of Melbourne are Division 1 teams out of the Melbourne competition.

“They are going to take some tossing.”

Seebohm gave credit to the countless hours put in by volunteers and event organisers and looked forward to seeing the juniors hit the courts this weekend.

Penola bowlers on the greens with some fine results

Last Wednesday, the Ladies' Norma Whitehead Memorial 100up Singles were played and Maria Hunter took out the title for 2022 over Meredith Hinze in a very close game.

On Friday, the Women's Division 1 Red Team impressed with a 32-shot victory over Kingston with wins in both rinks.

The final score of the contest was 59-27.

However, the Division 1 Blue side was unable to match the results of their counterparts and were defeated by Port MacDonnell.

After making the trip to the Bay, Penola went down 39-53.

On Saturday, the Open Division 1 side travelled to Kingston and came home with a win by 2 shots 78-76.

Meanwhile, Division 3 South lost to Mount Gambier RSL Blue by 21 shots, with the final score 60-81.

On Sunday, the Men's 100up Singles were played with a number of close contests before the final.

John Davidson and Ken Batt battled it out for the title where the game went down to the final end.

Davidson trailed 91-99 on the final end but managed to score 10 shots to claim a thrilling 101-99 victory and seal the 2022 title.

Cricketers stand at the crease

By Lachlan Onions

The Millicent and Naracoorte cricket competition is set to resume this weekend with nine teams from the South East battling for supremacy.

After the Millicent and Naracoorte competitions merged last season, the amalgamated league kicks off on Saturday for Round 1.

Millicent and Naracoorte Cricket Association vice-president Michael McGurk is confident ahead of this summer and said "everything is in place reasonably well," after a long off-season.

Inclement weather across the region has meant it has taken slightly longer for turf pitches to be ready for the summer of cricket but this is an issue which Millicent and Naracoorte cricketers will not have to contend with.

"We have all hard wickets, so unless it rains on the day, there isn't any issue," McGurk said.

All eyes will be on Rendelsham this season as it looks to defend its premiership from last season.

"Rendelsham will be the team to beat I think, they won it last year and have some very good cricketers between the ages of 20 and 30," he said.

"Millicent Blackcaps have got a fairly young side and they played off in the grand final last year so they will be good again."

McGurk also said Mount Burr and the two Naracoorte sides will be the teams to watch out for.

There will also be some fresh faces with new teams set to mark centre on Saturday.

"Kingston went into a recession last year but they have entered a new team this year, so we will pick them up again which is good," McGurk said.

"The Millicent Footballers and Beachport Furner have had to merge just due to a lack of numbers."

McGurk hopes more teams can join the competition in the future.

"We had a bit of interest from Padthaway - they folded last year and were trying to get a team together but they couldn't find enough numbers," he said.

"Edenhope were the same, they have been folded for a couple of years and were trying to get a team together as well."

McGurk said moving forward, if these teams can find enough players, they will be welcomed into the competition.

"It is a bit of a shame, once teams go into recession the players tend to go elsewhere and it can be hard to get them back together," he said.

The first ball of the summer is set to be bowled at 12.30pm on Saturday with four games across the South East.

Footballers Furner Beachport will host the Millicent Blackcaps, Kingston will host Mount Burr, Rendelsham hosts Lucindale and Robe will host the Naracoorte Townies.

Rare and beautiful machinery, such as Rene Felke's Volkswagen Karmann Ghia, have all added to the nostalgia of the Legend of the Lakes hill climb over the years.

Falcon GTs such as this version from Rob Vanderkamp are always popular at the Legend of the Lakes hill climb.

Hill climb back and bigger

By Trevor Jackson

It is almost that time of year when the Valley Lakes precinct erupts with the roar of race engines as the annual Legend of the Lakes hill climb events hits town on November 11, 12 and 13.

After two years of Covid-affected events, this year will see the biggest field in the 17-year history of the hill climb, with a bumper 90-car entry list for the Friday and 150 starters for the Saturday and Sunday.

The list includes current "Legend" Dan Day with his wild Subaru WRX, along with former title holder Kevin Mackrell, who have missed the last two years due to Covid border closures.

Both have made several improvements to their cars, which adds up to an exciting weekend for the outright honours.

Day currently holds the record for quickest time up the hill, with a blistering 49.89 seconds, which he has not been able to break.

By all accounts the time is on the edge of how fast the course can be traversed, but that will not stop Day, or anyone else, from attempting to lower it further.

Day has further incentive to not only set a fast time, but to win the event, which would be his seventh in a row, equal to Peter Gazzard's long-standing record.

The event, run by the South Eastern Automobile Club, was the brain child of Lionel Stingers, which he saw come to fruition before his passing.

Since then the running has been taken over by long-time club members, including clerk of course Kevin Raedel and assistant clerk of course Peter Lock.

Raedel said all was looking good to put on an exceptional event, albeit with some compromises to include such a large field.

"It is the biggest field we have ever had really," he said.

"We have over 30 reserves for Saturday and Sunday and we will try to run 90 cars on Friday instead of 75.

"It might be a bit slower but it should go well.

"We will then have 150 starters for Saturday and Sunday – last year we had 145 entries and started with 132."

Lock said the club always looked to include as many runs up the hill per competitor, which set the event apart from other similar hill climbs around the country.

"I think we have more runs traditionally than most other hill climbs," he said.

"Some will pull the pin at three or four, but we are disappointed with only five.

"If everybody plays nice we will be right."

A new challenger for the outright honours has also emerged, with Adelaide driver and engine tuner Doug Johnson ready to take on the likes of crowd favourites Day and Mackrell.

"Doug Johnson has a two-door GC8 WRX," Raedel said.

"He won the Port MacDonnell hill climb and has come back for Legends.

Kevin Mackrell will return to the Valley Lakes this year to tackle the Legend of the Lakes hill climb in November.

Pictures: FILE

"He will be fast.

"Track knowledge could hurt him a bit, but by Sunday he should be right."

Of course the focus is not just on the outright victory, but also the class battles throughout the field.

A wide range of categories ensure many vehicles are catered for by all levels of driver and machine.

A popular category is the Group N, which includes some classic vehicles such as older GT Falcons, Mini Coopers, Toranas and the like.

Lock pushes his Mini up the hill each year, but concedes he is not in the running for outright honours.

That goes to one particular GT Falcon.

"There is one GT in particular I can't beat," he said.

"The other one I can beat, but not (Rob) Vanderkamp.

"He is head and shoulders above the rest of the class.

"We all fight for second spot ... he is unbelievably quick.

"I watched him around Mallala a lot of years ago and he is the same there.

"He just makes other GTs look like learners."

Vanderkamp, like many other entrants, has attended every running of the hill climb, creating a strong following from the Limestone Coast supporters.

A large contingent of Subarus and Mitsubishi Evos will be present, along with various other more exotic vehicles, such as Porsches, Lamborghinis and the like.

This year the live streaming will continue, bigger and better than before, so while there will be no big screens around the venue, spectators can keep up to date with everything in real time, including split times up the course.

Busses have also returned, with spectators able to head down to the bottom of the course between runs to take in the entire atmosphere of the event.

"We really want to get the spectators down the bottom to soak up the atmosphere," Raedel said.

"We haven't had people down there for two years now, but this year there will be plenty of catering at the top and bottom of the course.

"People can walk through the pits, chat to the drivers and see all the cars.

"They can watch the start line and enjoy some static displays."

The size of the field this year could be attributed to the lack of Covid restrictions now in place around the country.

The Victorians were shut down for a long time through the pandemic and missed a lot of racing.

Now that has all changed, the numbers have again swelled, but also the financial support for the event.

"It the biggest ever sponsor list we have had in 17 years," Raedel said.

"They are mainly locals and a few from Adelaide starting to chip in.

"It is pleasing to see so many sponsors jump on board."

There will be no event at the Rail Lands on the Thursday prior to the hill climb, but the organisers hope to have a welcome at the Valley Lakes instead.

Entry for Saturday and Sunday is just $10, with Under 16s free, so it is well worth heading up to the Lakes to see what all the hype is about.

Magic sneaks in a thriller

By Trevor Jackson

An impressive effort from the Millicent Magic men saw a Country Basketball League win in their first outing.

The Magic hosted the Colac Kookas and just got across the line with an 82-80 victory.

The game went right down to the wire as the Kookas put up a three-point attempt with just seconds on the clock, but the ball did not go down and Millicent celebrated.

It was a game of ebbs and flows, as the Magic began slowly and let the Kookas out to a handy 15-point advantage.

They turned that around in the third term to close the margin, with just a few shots in the contest heading into the final stanza.

The Magic held sway from there, but had to fight hard down the stretch, as big man Finn Grimes and the dangerous Kade Bradley (12 points) were both fouled out of the game with around four minutes to play.

According to coach Darren Dean, both players had been quite influential during the night.

"They both battled against Jamieson Hultgren - he is about 205cm so they were giving away a bit of height," Dean said.

"Finn got two fouls in about 30 seconds to finish his night.

"Kade was having a reasonable night.

"He quietened the big fellow down in the second half, giving away a foot but was smart with his body and game sense.

"It hurt us because we had to go back to Harry Mules, who gave away plenty of size too."

Despite the miss-match, the Magic were able to hold on down the stretch and secure the win in dramatic fashion.

Much of that came through the hard work of Jack Haggett, who racked up 27 points with tough work inside the key.

"Jack was good in offence and defence," Dean said.

"He had a good battle with Jordan Lingard - they played most of the night on each other and had a good battle.

"He was our best player by far, had a lot of shots inside, created opportunities, took rebounds and claimed second efforts.

"For someone who could blow over in the wind, he was able to get some good boards for us offensively."

Dean said Frazer Bradley, who contributed 16 points, ignited the side in the third term with two big triples to get back on track.

However, it was the final choice by the Kookas which puzzled Dean somewhat.

"There were a lot of fouls in the game and everyone who drove to the basket, the defence was generally called a foul against," he said.

"They had an opportunity to score and tie it up, but they chose to shoot the three and missed it.

"It was a bit odd they tried to shoot the three rather than taking the easy option to shoot the two."

Regardless, the Magic secured a well-deserved victory, which Dean said was pleasing in their first game for several years.

"We haven't played in this comp for three years and some of these boys haven't played together at all or not much.

"It is good to get them all together.

"The chemistry is starting to build and hopefully it continues as the season goes on."

The Bradley boys and Haggett were joined by Jackson Bowden in double figures, with 11 points to his name.

The Magic now have a week off for the Millicent tournament, before heading to Portland to take on the Coasters.
