Original reunion group organisers areVal Verhoeven (nee Varcoe), 1960-63 teacher Margaret Boardman (nee Storck) and Leonie McMillan (nee Hann).

School memories shared

20 past students and one teacher from Millicent High School recently gathered for their annual meet up at the Somerset Hotel.

The reunion group attended the old Millicent High School between the years of 1955-1963 with some of the younger students making the move across to the 'new' high school on Mount Burr Road.

Sue Hann organised this year's lunch taking over from Dianne Keatley who has rallied the group together fo the last three years. Alternating between Mount Gambier and Millicent for their informal get togethers the group have now been meeting for around 10 years, with former students coming from across the state to join in.

The reunion has grown from an original group of six who eventually began inviting students from other year groups to join them.

"It was Deanna Ferguson's idea, she got about five of us together and we met at her house to talk about it" former high student Valerie Verhoeven said.

Remembering the fallen

More than 100 people attended the Coonawarra-Penola RSL Rememberance day service in the Penola War Memorial Park last Friday.

School representatives, local organisations, RSL, local Council and members of the public laid wreaths prior to the start of the service which began with eleven tolls of the Presbyterian Church bells at 11am which was followed by one minutes silence.

Penola's oldest surviving World War two veteran, Roen Lynn attended the service along with his family who travelled from Adelaide and Melbourne.

Roen celebrated his 97th birthday last week.

The Ode of Remembrance was recited by Mr DeGaris and the Last Post was played.

Poppies were distributed at the ceremony.

Penola's St. Mary's Anglican priest, Father Lyndon Sulzberger also participated in the service.

A new life for iconic wall

By Caroline Hammat

It's been 10 years since the Millicent Shell Garden on Williams Road was knocked down to make way for the Boneham Aged Care Services extension.

At the time the Millicent Museum were able to salvage several mosaic sculptures from the unique garden started by Iris Howe in the 1960's and extended by the next owners Don and Ailsa Salmon.

The largest piece rescued from demolition was the iconic shell garden wall used for countless photo opportunities.

Tourists and locals alike would place their head in one of two holes in the wall to briefly become a mermaid or King Neptune made entirely of broken crockery and decorated with shells.

During transport to the museum the large structure broke into several pieces and then sat on site for many years while a safe display solution was sought.

It became clear the wall was going to be expensive to rebuild and would need to conform to current occupational health and safety guidelines.

Museum volunteer John Murby has been a leading figure in problem solving and working toward an outcome for the piece.

In the past three months Mr Murby has designed and created a steel frame to house the wall.

With assistance from other volunteers the large heavy stone pieces were glued to a backboard within the frame.

"We glued it, then filled it, mortared all the joins and added new shells where we could" Mr Murby said.

"It's just been sealed and all that's left is to get the crane in to move it and put it up.

"That's the big moment, whether we are successful or not."

John Murby has played an important role in restoring the iconic shell garden wall.

Museum volunteers have spent the last two years piecing together a small display of the smaller salvaged pieces and are anticipating the installation of the final drawcard in the coming weeks.

Due to safety restrictions the wall will not be used as originally intended but it is hoped that the memory of the shell garden will continue to inspire through this small display of items.

The project has been able to proceed with volunteer support and generous donations from the Millicent Business Community Association and family members of Iris Howe's.

Other members of the public have come forward and donated smaller items purchased from the shell garden before it was demolished.

Museum volunteers Jim and Louise Hyland are planning to donate a large information sign to help finalise the display.

Robert, Jed and Kate Fioravanti had their photo taken with the wall in 1998 just before the garden closed to the public.

Median house price rise

Millicent's median house price continued to rise as seen in the quarterly figures released by the Real Estate Institute SA (REI-SA).

In REISA's quarterly report a cooling of the volume of sales is being recorded across the state, despite this median house prices have held strong.

Figures from the September quarter show the median house price in Millicent has grown 21.43% in the last three months. Surging from $280,000 in the previous quarter to $340,000.

In the past 12 months this has resulted in a 37.37 per cent increase in the township's median prices, jumping from $247,500.

The number of house sales has continued to decline and this reflects the market across the state.

REISA attribute the slowing of sales to the current economic climate and substantial interest rate rises.

New middle school open

By Kathy Fennell

Penola High School proudly invited parents, friends, community members and distinguished guests to the official opening of their new Middle School area last Tuesday night.

Guests were greeted on the front lawn by the Middle School ambassadors, and enjoyed a BBQ before being ushered into the front foyer for the welcome address and opening.

The Middle School ambassadors welcomed guests and introduced principal Steve Carli-Seebohm, who spoke saying: "The middle school hub, created for students in years 7 and 8, has the ability to be utilised in a number of ways, allowing students to be able to work collaboratively, and in partnership with not just their teachers, but also their peers." Steve then went on to say, "This inclusive classroom learning environment will offer multi-functionality for delivery of learning experience, and will continue to focus on contemporary and best practice pedagogy and teaching methodology, now, and into the future."

Former, Penola High School principal Peter Muller was then brought forward, speaking about what the school was like during his tenure from 1982-2001 compared to now, before he formally opened the new area.

Guests then commenced a tour visiting the new classroom spaces and facilities, with students sharing their learning. In addition to the classrooms, the area also provides a STEM space, where students learn and develop skills and knowledge in the areas of science, technology, engineering and mathematics

Middle School Coordinator Rikki Helps was very pleased with the turnout and was incredibly proud of the participation of the student body, saying "Following restrictions over the

Help protect our endangered plovers

Residents of the Limestone Coast are urged tional Landcare Program. to help protect hooded plovers.

Last year, nesting season for the Hooded Plovers shared a positive trend in several regions including the Limestone Coast compared to previous years fledged chicks.

Hooded Plovers are one of Australia's top 20 threatened bird species, estimated at fewer than 800 birds in South Australia.

Supporting the vulnerable species by protecting them from predators and restoring and protecting habitat is an important project of the Limestone Coast Landscape Board funded through from the Australian Government's Na-

Robbie Andrew, Project Coordinator of the Our Coorong | Our Coast project urges visitors to the region to be mindful of nesting Hooded Plovers during the warmer months.

"During the summer months the birds lay their eggs in the sand, and to protect the eggs, will try to lead predators away from the nest, leaving them vulnerable to trampling," Robbie said.

There are a few things we can do to support Hooded Plovers during their breeding season such as:

• Keeping your dog on a leash at all times and walking near the water's edge

- Paying attention to Hooded Plover awareness signs at beach entrances
- Keeping away from temporary fenced off areas on the beach that are there to protect nests and chicks
- Moving away quietly if you spot hooded plovers on the beach

"As we share our coastal landscape with them, we can all play our part in looking after chicks to give them the best chance of survival.'

After a tough election race, the results are in.

There will be some familiar names returning to the chamber, and a few new ones.

Des Noll will serve as mayor for another term, after running unopposed.

In the Kintore Ward, Sharon Cox, who has previously served in Corcoran Ward, will be returning, and newcomer Richard Cassidy will join her.

In Riddoch Ward, Emma Castine beat out the incumbent Dean Burrow, and Chris Brodie will retain his seat.

In Corcoran, returning to the chamber will be John Drew, Moira Neagle and Dennis Muhovics, and they will be joined by David Walshaw and Peter Dunnicliff, who previously served the Kintore Ward.

There will be no changes in the Sorby Adams Ward with both Dale Price and Deb Agnew re-elected.

Mr Noll congratulated all the newly elected councillors and said he looked forward to serving the next term with them.

"Across the state and the Limestone Coast, there are substantial changes which I think demonstrates that democracy is alive and well," he said.

'It's a very exciting time at the beginning of a term, because we have new elected members, and we have existing members that have been returned to their respective wards and I know they'll be excited about it in commencing a new term for the next four years, serving the community at the highest level.'

"It is very good mix, and there's nothing better than solid robust debate in a constructive way in a council chamber.

"Then once we've had that debate, then we leave that debate in the chamber and everybody goes away, working together.

We look forward to serving the community at the highest level, and building our community with diversity and infrastructure that everybody that everybody needs zand wants to provide.

"It Just makes Wattle Range a better place to work and play.'

He said he was excited about the future and moving forward with the administration building project.

"We've got the administration building, that's going to be an exciting project.

"There'll be lots of debate about that, of course, but I'm very confident that our community is really comfortable with that project, and it's going to have a lot of spin off in terms of employment, and continued maintenance into the future.

"So it's going to be an asset that will be with us, with our community, well into the future and providing work and contractors and those sorts of things well into the future. So we will be excited about that.'

The new council will be sworn in in the coming weeks and the first council meeting of the new term will be on November 29.

Alittlelessthan50percent of the Wattle Range council residents voted, with a total of 48.09 per cent of eligible voters returning their ballots. Kintore ward had the highest number of returns, with 56.26 per cent of residents returning a ballot and Corcoran had the least, with only 45.45 per cent of people voting.

Penola artist Cate Bell won the mixed media category with her artwork titled Gotta Love the Weekends

Diversity on clear display

By Caroline Hammat

It was standing room only at Friday night's annual Wattle Range art exhibition opening as family, friends and art lovers flocked to admire the work on display.

This year's major prize was awarded to Robe artist Jojo Spook for her work The Hitchhiker.

The large sculptural work of a stingray with a smaller fish attached to its back is made up of three pieces using discarded fishing nets called ghost nets.

The use of marine debris highlights the environmental message with art show judges noting it was also about supporting each other and finding connections where ever we are.

Also carrying a marine theme is Jennifer Rigney's large acrylic painting of Kondolin the whale which was runner-up in the prestigious award.

The exhibition was well supported by artists from around the region with 182 artworks on display in the gallery and another 70 displayed within the library.

Acknowledging the diversity of art in the exhibition Wattle Range Council Mayor Des Noll officially opened the exhibition noting how this diversity is a strength of the region.

This year celebrates 30 years of the Millicent Gallery with Wattle Range Council's Manager Libraries and Cultural Services Janice Nitschke touching on the gallery's history.

Ms Nitschke praised the work of artist Barbara Wallace in driving council to originally build the gallery and County Arts Representative Jill McLean influence was mentioned.

Ms McLean was a passionate advocate for the arts, country regions and their communities and helped drive a vibrant arts community.

This year's exhibition judges were Dr Lisa Slade, the current Assistant Director Artistic Programs at the Art Gallery of SA, and Kay Lawrence AM an Emeritus Professor at the University of South Australia.

Ms Lawrence was instrumental in the design and lead artist/teacher for the 1986 Millicent Tapestry located in the Millicent Gallery Library.

Before announcing this year's award winners Ms Slade asked if the Wattle Range community knew how lucky they were to have such powerful advocates for the arts such as Mayor Noll and Ms Nitschke.

"It's really just such an honour to be in a place that places art at the very heart of the identity of this community." Ms Slade said.

The exhibition is currently open until December 21st and public voting is underway for the people's choice award.

Millicent RSL remembers

By Caroline Hammat

Over 150 people gathered at Millicent's Cross of Sacrifice last Friday November 11th to honour the service and sacrifice of the armed forces. President of the Millicent RSL, Chris Mathias, welcomed all in attendance and spoke briefly about the history of Remembrance Day.

Those in attendance were asked to remember the service men and women whose lives were lost and the Indigenous soldiers who served in wars not of their making.

We were reminded of the legacy of families left to cope with grief and of the surviving veterans who suffer. Mr Mathias mentioned the current conflict in Ukraine, sabre rattling by North Korea and potential action by China in Taiwan and said

"There has never been a greater risk to our democratic way of life than that which faces us around the globe today.

"It is against these threats that we must always be prepared.

"War is an ever present part of life on earth." Wattle Range Mayor Des Noll spoke at the service about Stanley William Agnew whose story is included in the local history book Honouring our fallen. Stanley is named on the Millicent Cross of Sacrifice, Glencoe War Memorial and Nangula Soldier's Memorial Hall.

He was only 23 when killed on the battlefields of the Western Front, September 26th, 1917. Stanley Agnew's grave was never located and his name is included on the Menin Gate memorial at Ypres, Belgium.

The flags were flown at half mast and a minutes silence observed at 11am. Wreaths were laid by Millicent RSL subbranch, Millicent Legacy, Millicent High School, St Anthony's, Millicent North and Newbery Park primary schools, McArthur Park and Millicent North Kindergarten, Wattle Range Lionesses, Millicent Lions Club, Wattle Range Council and the Kent family.

RSL members Barry Baker, Stephen Tidy, Richard Taylor, Bob Evans, Chris Mathias with honorary chaplain Paul Hales.

WRC Mayor Des Noll and CEO Ben Gower laid a wreath on behalf of the council.

Students Astyn Baker, Oliva Hassell and Alexis Hoffmann had the honour of representing Millicent High School.

It was a double celebration in Penola on the weekend when Penola residents Leigh and Anne Miller joined with their many relatives and friends to celebrate their 70th birthdays.

The evening was held in Rymill hall where guests travelled from all over South Australia and Victoria.

It was a very musical evening with several guests entertaining the gathering with a range of songs accompanied by guitar, ukelele and other instruments.

Harvest trucks on roads

Grain Producers SA (GPSA) has reminded motorists to be aware of the thousands of additional heavy vehicles on the road over the coming months due to the anticipated large grain harvest in most parts of South Australia.

GPSA chief executive officer Brad Perry said many of the extra heavy vehicles will be on country roads during harvest.

"The prospect of high grain production volumes throughout South Australia means more heavy vehicle traffic on our country roads, so road safety must be at the forefront," Mr Perry said.

"Motorists are urged to be patient and exercise caution when interacting with the thousands of extra heavy vehicles on the road over harvest."

Mr Perry said the wet conditions also provide additional challenges for all motorists to be aware of during harvest.

"In many areas on-farm the ground is sodden, so for the grain producers and carriers it's important to have a level access point at paddock entry or loading for heavy vehicle accessibility and safety in all weather conditions," he said.

"With such a wet start, harvest in South Australia will continue throughout the festive holiday season, so for those travelling during this period it's important to plan your trips ahead, drive to the conditions and ensure it is completely safe before overtaking trucks and large agricultural vehicles."

He added for heavy vehicle operators, it was also a timely reminder to make sure their vehicles were properly registered or permitted and were properly checked before being used on the roads.

"Whether it's a farm-owned heavy vehicle or grain producers using contractors to cart grain, the message from us is clear," Mr Perry said.

"Take your time to ensure you've considered any risks and put appropriate steps in place to make your harvest operations safe." Some tips from the South Australian Department for Infrastructure and Transport (DIT) for sharing the road with heavy vehicles include:

- Plan ahead, be patient and alert, and drive carefully.
- Don't exceed the speed limit.
- Drive to the conditions, especially when visibility is low.
- Ensure it's safe to do so before overtaking trucks and large agricultural vehicles, and leave plenty of room.
- Slow down when approaching slower vehicles, or vehicles entering or leaving the road.
- Be aware of blind spots for heavy vehicles, as they have bigger blind spots than cars.

Motoring

Cross means business

By Alistair Kennedy, Marque Motoring

The brand-new Toyota Corolla Cross is a compact SUV that is likely to scare the pants of every other competitor in its highly-competitive market segment.

After a long period when Toyota's smallest SUV, the RAV4, grew into a mid-sized model leaving the compact field open to numerous competitors from other brands, it now has three vehicles in contention, Yaris Cross, C-HR and now the Corolla Cross.

There are three Corolla Cross three variants, GX, GXL and a new name, Atmos.

As is the norm with Toyota each comes with a hybrid option which adds between $2500 and $3000 to the price while GXL and Atmos are also available with all-wheel drive.

Prices, prior to on-road costs, range from $33,000 for the entry level 2WD GX petrol through to $49,050 for our test vehicle, the Atmos AWD hybrid.

Although it sits on the same platform as the Corolla hatch, the Cross has a completely different body as befitting an SUV.

The styling is quite conservative but that's unlikely to deter the typical Toyota buyer who prefers function over fashion.

While it shares much with the Corolla its outer appearance is more mini-RAV4 than maxi-Corolla with a snub-nosed grille featuring the Toyota logo, with blue highlights in the centre.

GXL and Atmos add front fog lights, enhanced LED headlights and roof rails.

The Atmos gets a two-piece panoramic moonroof.

Anyone stepping up from the latest Corolla hatch or sedan will have no problem adapting to the dashboard layout of the Cross because, apart from the new touchscreen (more later), they are all-but identical.

That's not a criticism because we've always loved the stylish yet functional Corolla design.

What they will appreciate is the extra interior space that the SUV conversion has brought to the Cross with more headroom throughout and plenty of leg and foot room in the rear seats for all but the tallest of occupants.

Only the Atmos comes with a folding centre armrest complete with twin cupholders.

Boot space varies according to driven wheels and powertrain, ranging from 380 litres in the Atmos AWD hybrid up to 436 litres in the 2WD non-hybrid GX and GXL.

Atmos comes with a powered rear hatch and kick opening feature.

Power for the Corolla Cross petrol variants comes the well-established Toyota four-cylinder 2.0-litre inline engine that generates 126 kW and 202 Nm from 4400 rpm.

Hybrid versions employ a 2.0-litre Atkinson cycle petrol engine teamed to an electric motor on the front axle for a combined maximum power output of 146 kW.

The GXL and Atmos hybrids add a second electric drive motor on the rear axle. Fuel consumption in the petrol 2WD Corolla Cross is a claimed 6.0 litre per 100 kilometres and 4.4 L/100 km from the AWD Hybrid.

The all-new Corolla Cross is Toyota's latest compact SUV

In addition, GSX gets parking support brake with vehicle and object detection and a panoramic view monitor.

Atmos adds pedestrian detection to the parking support brake feature as well as advanced park assist.

Corolla Cross has yet to receive an ANCAP rating but the maximum five points would seem certain.

Corolla Cross is the first Toyota in Australia to get the brand's new multimedia system.

The entry-level GX uses an 8.0-inch touchscreen, GXL and Atmos get a 10.5-inch screen.

The resolution is sharp and fast to respond with the option of using voice activation.

Satellite navigation is standard in the GXL and Atmos.

There's wireless Apple CarPlay and wired Android Auto along with a single Type-C USB port in the front console of the GX and two in the centre console of the GXL and Atmos.

Behind the steering wheel there's a 7.0-inch digital instrument cluster in the GX and GXL, with a much larger (12.3 inch) one in the Atmos.

Corolla Cross also gets the latest version of the Toyota Connected Services communications system that uses the myToyota Connect smartphone app to allow owners to do such things as remotely check the status of the doors and lights, access information such as the vehicle's last known location and recent trips, or start the engine or climate control.

The interior of the new Corolla Cross is identical to its sedan and hatchback counterparts, apart from an updated touchscreen.

hicles with an electric component.

Suspension is well-balanced although we did get knocked around when maneuvering bines a lighter lithium-ion battery with a more powerful main electric drive motor. Everything about the new Corolla Cross

Power is linked to either two or four wheels via a sequential ten-speed continuously variable transmission (CVT).

In addition to the usual mandatory safety features all Corolla Cross variants come with eight airbags, blind spot monitoring, rear cross traffic alert; and ISOFIX child seat anchors.

Also standard in all models is the latest Toyota Safety Sense 3.0 package which adds a pre-collision safety system with pedestrian and cyclist detection, active cruise control, lane trace and departure alert with steering assist, lane change assist with deceleration assist, road sign assist, door exit warning and automatic high beam. The taller body of the Corolla Cross assist with access while the higher driving position, large windscreen, side windows and mirrors together with a relatively narrow A-pillar combine to provide excellent visibility to the front and side, only let down a bit by a fairly skinny rear window.

There's a reassuringly solid feel to the Cross and it's easy to drive and park around the urban environment which is most likely to be its home with steering which is relatively light but direct and intuitive.

Apart from the battery-only start and silent running the Atmos hybrid that we tested had that sharp acceleration that we enjoy in all vethrough a badly-cratered section of our drive courtesy of some recent flooding.

Toyota is playing a waiting game in adopting pure electric and plug-in hybrid technology relying on the hybrid variants that feature across the range with sub-5.0 L/100 km fuel consumption relatively easily achieved.

It's quite rare for road testers to be able to match or beat the optimistic fuel consumption numbers that car company's publish but we were able to average 4.3 litres per 100 kilometres during our week in the Corolla Cross AWD Hybrid, just under the listed 4.4 L/100 km.

In one 40-kilometre rural run we got down to 3.6.

Helping these impressive results, Corolla Cross is the first local model to get the 5th generation Toyota hybrid powertrain which compoints to it being a major success for Toyota.

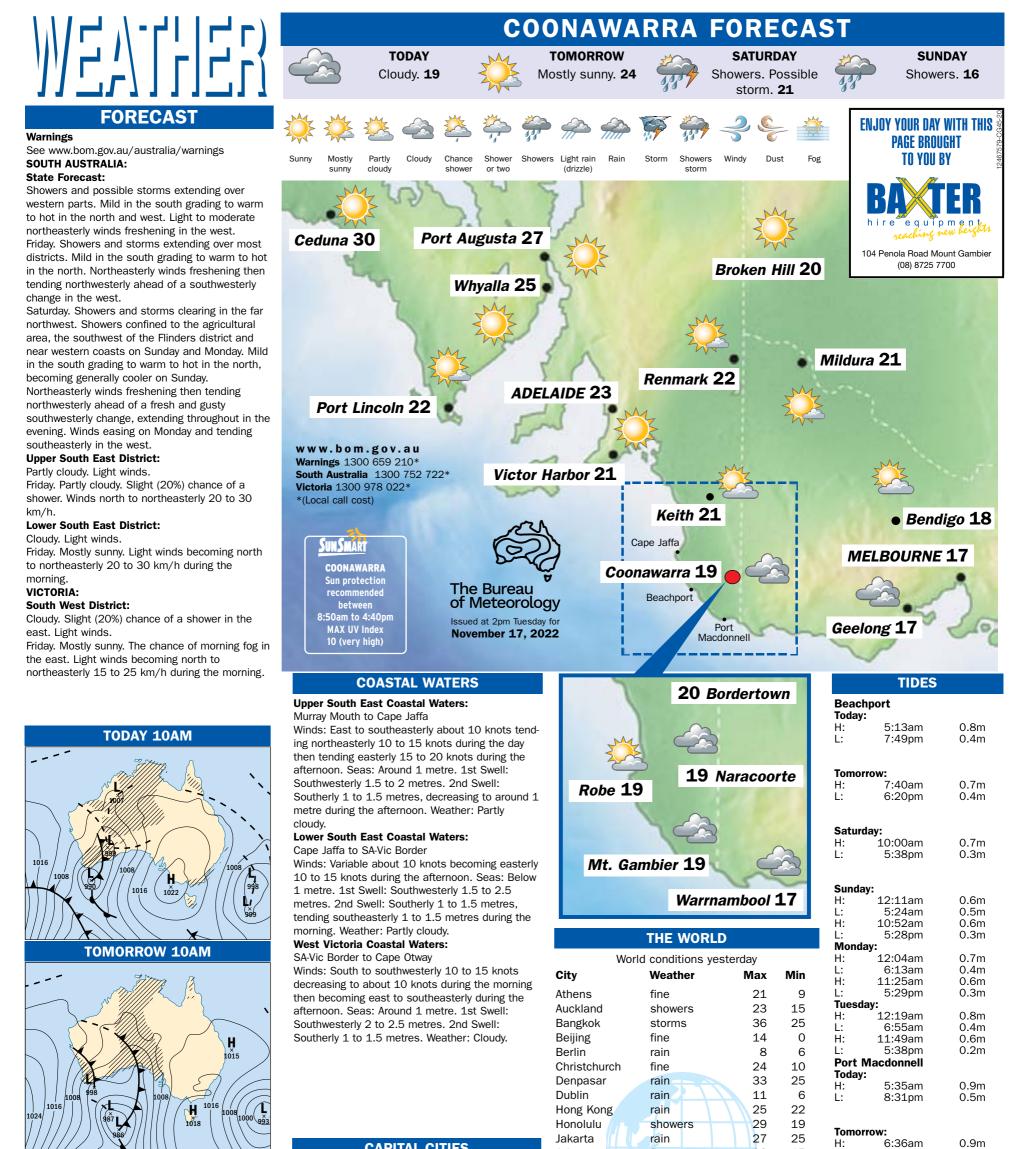

The Corolla name brings decades of credibility while the SUV body adds the familyfriendly practicality that is so popular at this time.

Add it's neat styling, comparatively spacious interior, capable performance and excellent fuel economy and we expect it to overtake its compact SUV rivals within the next 12 months.

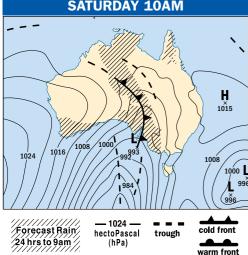

All Toyotas now come with a five-year, unlimited kilometre warranty.

This can be extended to seven years on the engine and driveline, and 10 years on the hybrid battery, subject to all scheduled servicing being done at Toyota dealerships.

There is also five-year capped price servicing due every 12 months or 15,000 kilometres at just $230 per visit.

YOUR WEEKLY TV GL

HOUSE HUNTERS INTERNATIONAL 9Life, Thursday, 8pm

It may be low budget and sometimes painful watching house hunters state the obvious - with corkers along the lines of "that window lets in a lot of light" or "there's a bathtub in the bathroom" - but following people's journeys buying a home overseas is compelling. The destinations are as varied as they are interesting, and it's always fascinating to see how this US series frames an Australian location. Tonight, a designer from Cincinnati and her paramedic husband are looking for the perfect abode in Logan, Brisbane, so that he can attend medical school. A pool may be a must because, as the real estate agent declares, "If you don't have a pool in Australia, you're going to bake!"

SHETLAND ABC TV, Saturday, 8.20pm

The landscape of Shetland - from its windswept, snow-covered hillsides to the moody, surging beaches and cloud-studded blue skies - would be the stunning main character in this sombre British crime drama, if it weren't for Douglas Henshall's (pictured) arresting performance. In season six, which premieres tonight, Henshall's Detective Inspector Jimmy Pérez faces personal tragedy and hardship; his haunting glances and expressions speak louder than words as a perplexing case rears its ugly head. When a local lawyer is shot dead in broad daylight, Perez must return from his mother's funeral to investigate. In a fitting scenario, he has an ample supply of suspects.

MY LIFE IS MURDER 10, Wednesday, 9pm

A new episode of this colourful crime series sees breadbaking detective Alexa Crowe (Lucy Lawless, pictured) investigating the murder of a high-end jeweller. When a compulsive liar confesses to the crime, it falls to Alexa to discern fact from fiction. Beautiful locations and a specific Kiwi comedic sensibility set this whodunnit apart, but the quality of guest stars also impresses. This week look out for comedian Bill Bailey (Black Books) as an unreliable delivery driver and Martin Henderson (Grey's Anatomy) as Alexa's brother Will

Hill climb record gets reset

By Trevor Jackson

A late run by Dan Day has seen the Legend of the Lakes hill climb record fall in dramatic style.

In his penultimate run of the weekend Day beat his previous best time of 49.89 seconds, set back in 2017.

He equalled that time on on his seventh of the weekend, but on his second-last time up the hill the clock displayed a time of 49.88 to set a new benchmark.

However, Day went one step further and in the top 10 shootout lowered the mark even further, squeezing everything possible from his Subaru for a scintillating 49.45-second run.

It was a record Day had hoped to break but took his best effort right on the death-knock.

"Crossing the line my dash flashes up a time so I instantly know where we are at," he said.

"You feel on the limit of grip in every corner and braking zone so you know it is going to be something special when you cross the line and you haven't missed any gears.

"I knew the last one was good but I didn't expect it to be a 49.45.

"I am ecstatic with that.

"I was definitely trying my hardest."

The weekend was certainly no cake-walk for Day, who had his share of gremlins pop up.

An issue with the new paddle shifters for the gearbox saw him unable to find fifth gear as he ran up the open section of the hill past the Devil's Punchbowl.

That was one area Day could pick up time with the new turbo and engine setup in the Subaru.

"Saturday looked a bit challenging with the gear shift issues we were having," he said.

"All Saturday we were battling grabbing fifth gear, which cost us a lot of time on that important part of the track.

"Saturday night we looked at the data and in-car footage and decided we would lift the rev limit up out of the way and hold fourth gear for longer.

"We calculated the terminal speed would be 194 kilometres-per-hour in fourth gear, which would do the job nicely.

"We made some adjustments in the ECU and a bit taller tyres to help with the gearing and managed without fifth gear to make it all work."

Apart from the mechanical issues, Day also faced the threat of the weather intervening.

By the time Saturday was done and dusted, Keven Mackrell held the upper hand with the fastest run.

Sunday's weather forecast did not look promising for Day, but in the end the weather turned it on and so did Day.

"I am super happy and couldn't have gone any better," he said.

"It was good to have Kevin back as well because he is always there or there-abouts – I like being pushed along. "Unfortunately he had some mechanical issues."

Mackrell did enough early in the weekend to run second with a time of 52.06 seconds.

Each year it is suggested the limit of grip has been found.

It has taken Day five years to break his previous record, something so many people suggested could not be done.

Day said to achieve that goal meant small improvements in many areas of the track.

"Our top speed in the middle section before the bus stop, we are usually around 190kph and I think we logged 196 or 197," he said.

"The Bosch Motorsport ABS was a big advantage because it gave me confidence to brake late into the bus stop so I could carry that speed for longer.

"We also had more power down the bottom, with the turbo coming on earlier.

"All the improvements paid off in all parts of the track.

"It is the best combination I have had the car in as an all-round hill climb car.

"It has the top end power, the speed and the low end performance for the tight stuff." But the question now is can Day break his own record again?

He is currently the only driver to have achieved a time below 50 seconds, with Mackrell close, but not quite there.

Day believes it is possible, but accepts the limit of grip is close.

"To be nearly into the low 49s, I am very happy with that," he said.

"But there has to be a limit somewhere.

"There are a few people around the pits saying surely 48s are possible.

"When you get to this pointy end of times, the improvements slow down, as you look to shave off .1 of a second here and .1 there.

"We will find the limit eventually and a 48 may be possible in the right conditions, with the gear working appropriately."

No run seems to be perfect, with Day actually struggling to find fourth gear on his record run towards the bottom of the track.

He said it would not have cost much time, but that in itself suggests a faster time can be achieved.

"It is very challenging," Day said.

"Under 50 seconds is a short amount of time and percentage wise, to improve you are looking at micro adjustments to get it right.

"There are no areas we can pull a chunk of time out – it has to be a little bit everywhere.

"When I crossed the line on that last run I knew it was close to the limit. "I was close to walls, just making it into corners, with everything just holding on.

"I can't see any room for any more speed or improvement – we are probably not far off the limit of how fast we can go up that hill, but every year we will keep trying to get back to that benchmark."

Numbers down but keen

However, 24 regulars bowlers still showed up for a game, with reasonable weather for the competition.

The winning team consisted of Brian Goode and David Reichelt with a score of 35+17.

Steve Skeer and Brian Roper finished runners-up with a score of 32+17.

Other winning teams: Derek Bowering/Peter Bateman 33+9; Steve Carnellor/Jim Campbell 32+17; Ross Warren/Eddie Hann 31+2; Ian Ross/Andre Reinders 30+4.

Runners-up, Steve Skeer and Brian Roper.

The Penola Bowling Club held its women's invitational fours day last week, which was contested by teams from across the South East.

In second place was the Beachport team of Annemarie Goode, Jill Preston, Lynette Smith and Maureen Ruffin, while Penola's own Maria Hunter, Margaret Hanel, Kaye Batt and Christine Skeer rounded out the podium in third.

In other news, Round 6 of the Friday Pennant season produced two losses for Penola.

Division 1 Red suffered a narrow three-shot loss to Mount Gambier 48-51, while the Blue team was bested by Millicent Red 29-55.

There was a positive turnaround on Saturday, when all three Open Pennant sides claimed victory.

Tennis returns to Penola

Fours' toug

The rain put a dampener on Round 4 of the Southern Ports tennis season and only two matches were completed, one at Lucindale and the other at Penola.

NARACOORTE 16-139 d PENOLA 7-88 Penola hosted Naracoorte in its first home game of the season.

The weather looked questionable but the rain held off until nearly the end of the day.

Naracoorte secured four mixed doubles, with some comfortable wins at the top.

Naracoorte's Katelyn Baker was a member of the doubles side which was tested by Penola's Caroline McGrath and Joshua Searle and the set went down to a tiebreak, which was won by Naracoorte.

In the singles, Naracoorte's women won all six sets and were assisted by Will Malone, Stephen Biggins and Norbert Wende from the men's side.

keep the tennis flowing.

With scores at 12-10 in favour of Lucindale, the last two doubles pairings braved the elements to get a result.

The top Robe men's pairing of Egan Regnier and Paul Rains both scored three convincing wins, while the reliable Mark Buckett and the ageless Pete Lawrie were dominant down the order for the Cockatoos.

Mon Crossling and Andrea Buckett scored a great doubles win after going down in their respective singles matches. BEACHPORT 7 v LUCINDALE WOMBATS 6 (tied rubber)

The rain brought the clash between Lucindale and Beachport to an early end on Saturday.

Both teams were commended for Penola's Daniel Hackwill, Searle and Ben Wurst all won some much-needed sets.

In the doubles, Poppy and Kelsie Moyle-Read sensed the urgency and won 9-0 to secure the 13th set and the match for Naracoorte.

Four more doubles played out with only the women's bottom double rained out. LUCINDALE COCKATOOS 13-124 d ROBE ROOSTERS 10-103

The Cockatoos hosted the Robe Roosters at a damp Lucindale but managed to sneak in enough tennis before the heavens opened.

The scores were tied 3-3 at the end of the mixed doubles when the first rain delay occurred but there was enough of a break to their willingness to play and were closely matched before the rain kicked in.

Ella Crocker, Vander Maywald filled in and Tom Handbury switched to the women's comp for the day.

In the end, a tie was declared as the rain ended proceedings early.

In Round 5, everyone will be looking for some more sunny weather.

Four games will be played at Lucindale, with play starting from 12.30pm.

The Wombats will look to cement their place on top with a win over Naracoorte, while Beachport will have a tough game ahead when it faces Frances/Lucindale.

Penola will travel to Robe to take on the Rebels, with Penola still in search of its first win.

'New level': Girls show strong hand

By Trevor Jackson

While the Millicent Magic women have left no doubt about their strength in this season's Country Basketball League, Saturday night they took it to a whole new level.

The Magic simply smashed the Surfcoast Chargers, with a huge 118-47 result.

The onslaught began early in the game, with a 23-12 opening term favouring the home side. A similar second term saw a 22-12 return, but from there the magic began to hit their straps and open the margin.

A 39-8 third term put the result beyond doubt, with a final-quarter 34-15 blast to round it out.

With just seven players on the roster, the Magic could have been excused for relying on the experience of Jasmin Howe (8) and Alana Berkefeld (7).

However, it was the younger members of the roster who stood up and banged on the points.

Georgia Winter finished with a huge 36 points, followed by Poppy Venn with 29 and Edie Easterby 22, while Tayla Rowe added 14. For coach Damien Venn it was a good result with the limited roster. "It was pretty good with a couple of players missing," he said.

"The first quarter we had to battle away a bit.

"They started off alright and had a couple of big girls who were causing us some issues.

"We made some adjustments there and in the second half, we shot 39 points in the third quarter."

Much of that effort came off the hand of Winter, who Venn said was in impressive form.

"Georgia Winter shot the lights out, Poppy shot the lights out and Edie had a pretty good game too," he said.

Apart from the younger members of the team, Venn said he was also impressed with the leadership of Howe.

"She wasn't shooting the ball that well and other people were, so she took a step back," he said.

"She is great for us, she just guides, is a wiser, older head on the court trying to teach these kids how to do it properly.

"She could have kept jacking them up but she stepped back and that is a good sign for us.

"If they all get going in the same game, look out.'

Venn said Howe was an important part of the roster this season, with her ability to bring the younger players into the game in a pressure situation.

For now the Magic shifts its focus to the Icehouse where they will face a tough Mount gambier roster on Friday night.

Venn said it was an important game in the scheme of the season and should be an entertaining clash.

""We are looking forward to play the Mount but we will have a couple of players out," he said.

"But we can't make excuses ... we have to play with what we have."

The top-of-the-table clash will take place at the Icehouse on Friday night at 6pm.

Magic perform

Frazer Bradley added 22 and Haggett 19. The win was impressive, considering the Redbacks were top of the table.

"We knew it would be tough, but we knew they were a couple of players light on so it was a chance to see where we were at," Dean said.

"They came across undefeated but it probably helped us a bit Mount Gambier could beat them up on Saturday night and we got them on a loss.'

Dean said the plan for thew weekend was to hopefully lock down second place on the ladder and his players could not have done a better job, especially with the performance of Dunmore for the visitors.

"Dunmore shot the lights out but Jackson Bowden hung in with him and again was able to score back the other way," he said.

"That was good for him and his experience and exposure at that next level."

The weekend's result showed the side is up for the challenge and can play a disciplined contest.

"We have talked about it, since the Portland game, we need to get better at controlling our emotions and focus on playing basketball rather than worrying about the umpires and the opposition so much," Dean said.

"That has been the pleasing thing the last two weeks - they have just gone out and done the job."

With a big clash against Mount Gambier fast approaching, Dean said his players were ready for Friday night's contest.

"It is always good with the cross-town rivalry," he said.

"It will be top spot up for grabs potentially. "We will go there confident, with a bit of our height and athleticism and the young guys who have no ceiling on where they can get to.

Top teams dominate

NORTH GAMBIER 3.2 (20) d SOUTH GAMBIER 0.0 (0)

Friday night's Round 6 of Limestone Coast Under 16 girl's football went as expected, with the top teams proving too strong for their opposition.

Second-placed North Gambier visited home team South Gambier, with the Demons in third on the ladder.

However, despite their positions, the Tigers held the upperhand to hold South scoreless for four quarters.

The opening term was a deadlock, as neither side touched the scoreboard, before North found the big sticks in the second.

It carried an eight-point lead into half time, which was followed by another scoreless quarter at both ends.

The game remained up for grabs heading into the final stanza, but the Tigers put their foot down to score two goals and push out to the final 20-0 victory.

An even spread in front of goals saw Georgia Gentile, Gabrielle Tilley and Winnie Zadow all convert, while it was the efforts of Eadie Mustart who impressed most.

She received the best-on-ground honours, while Heidi Berkin, Gentile and Penny Coleman were also in fine form.

Kaylee McNair and Becky Davis rounded out the best for the Tigers, in another solid team performance.

For South it was Ella Guest who received the nod from her coaching staff to be named

Round 4 impacted by rain

By Lachlan Onions

Round 4 of Millicent/Naracoorte saw all four games abandoned due to the weather.

However, there were two games which saw at least some action take place before the rain began to fall.

Kingston made it to 5/35 off 13 overs against Millicent before play was halted. Jacob Todd continued his impressive start to the season and took three wickets off seven overs.

Todd struck with just the third ball of the game when he bowled Kingston captain Mathew Cridland for a duck.

He was supported by Ashton Lindner, who took two wickets for the Blackcaps and the visitors found themselves on top before rain intervened.

Elsewhere, Rendlesham managed to bat for a full 40 overs against the Naracoorte Townies before the game was brought to an abrupt ending.

Brock Summerhayes claimed the early wicket of Ayden Reid, which brough Dylan Clough to the crease.

Clough took the game by storm and scored 88 runs off 86 deliveries in an inning which included six 4's and three 6's before he was dismissed LBW by Harry Schroder.

Rendlesham was also supported by Zach Jones and Jacob Carger, who both put in handy contributions before Brad Wight and Hugh Armfield scored runs rapidly to end the innings.

Wight scored 40 runs off 22 balls, while Armfield scored 23 runs off 11 balls.

The reigning premiers ended their inning with an impressive score of 5/240 before the game was abandoned.

The result further increases North's safety in second place, now with a three-win buffer to the third-placed Demons.

HATHERLEIGH 9.9 (63) d KONGORONG 2.3 (15)

The rematch between ladder leader Hatherleigh and reigning premier Kongorong unfolded in a similar fashion to their Round 1 meeting.

The Eagles won every quarter to walk away with a commanding 48-point victory.

A couple of first-quarter majors set the scene for the victors and with two more in the second term, they held a 26-point advantage at the main break.

two Hatherleigh goals, but this time the Hawks had an answer with two majors of their own.

However, the margin remained at 28 points heading into the final change, which left plenty of work to do for the 2021 champions.

The Eagles wasted no time in silencing any hope of a comeback and they held Kongorong scoreless for the quarter, while adding three goals to push out to the eventual 63-19 point result.

front of goals Niah Faulkner had a day out.

The Eagles' captain bagged four majors for the day and was joined by Amber Chester as the only other multiple goal scorer with two.

Kongorong looked to Stevie Collins, Cedar Scott and Jordy Heraper on the day, with Addison Graney and Evie Sealey the only Hawks to find the big sticks.

Hatherleigh remains undefeated at the top of the premiership table after six games, while Kongorong will be desperate for its second win of the season when it plays Kybybolite next round.

Magic men standing tall

By Trevor Jackson

The Millicent Magic men left no doubt about their intentions when they hosted the Surfcoast Chargers on Saturday night in Round 7 of the Country Basketball League.

The Magic claimed an easy 133-69 win in the end, set up with a blistering first quarter.

While the Chargers would normally have felt good about their 21-point opening term, the Magic blew them out of the water with 42 first-quarter points.

The second term saw a more even affair, but from there it was again all about the Magic.

The third term saw 34 points to the home side, with the visitors only able to add 20, while a final-stanza blitz saw another 35 added to the Millicent scorecard, with the Chargers adding just 11 more.

Solid efforts from Cameron Primmer (28) and Declan Coles (22) provided the Chargers with something to smile about, but it was Jackson Bowden who topped the list for Millicent, with 30 points to his name.

Fellow Magic players Jack Haggett (27), Kade Bradley (25) and Harry Mules (10) all reached double figures in the whitewash.

"Surfcoast was a good win to peg back a bit of percentage after the Portland game," coach Darren Dean said.

"We knew they were undermanned but they were super competitive.

"The scoreboard probably didn't reflect the game."

Dean said he gave youngster Bowden the job of defending Primmer, which he was up for. "Jackson was able to score off him so got reward for his efforts," he said. "All 12 players scored on the night which was pleasing.

"Kade (Bradley) had a terrific weekend across the two games.

"He stepped up offensively and defensively." The Magic continued on their winnings ways on Sunday, with a hard-fought 104-92 victory over the Ararat Redbacks.

Prior to Round 7 the Redbacks had sat top of the ladder, but a defeat at the hands of Mount Gambier on Saturday night was followed up with another loss to Millicent and the standings have now changed.

The Magic were forced to fight hard for the win, with Redback Zac Dunmore in impressive form around the hoop, finishing with a gamehigh 38 points, while Josh Fiegert contributed 26. However, Millicent had an answer as the game tightened down the stretch and claimed the win in a tough hit-out.

Bowden continued his good form with 24 points, but it was Kade Bradley who top scored for the home side with 25.
