Bargains galore at garage sale

Bargain hunters were out early Saturday morning for the Millicent Craft Group's annual garage sale fundraiser held at the RSL hall.

The venue was filled with items to purchase including pot plants, bric-a-brac, clothing, records and tagged electrical items available.

Millicent potters, Sheryl Sharp and Lyn Bowering, put down their clay for the day to help sell second-hand clothing.

Hoon driving film

Police are aware of a video circulating online which shows a dangerous example of hoon driving in George Street Millicent and are investigating the incident.

The video, shared by a local social media page on Saturday morning, went viral with over 250,000 views within three days of being posted.

Local residents believe they heard the incident and said it occurred during the early hours of Saturday morning.

A police spokesperson said the behaviour of the driver and passengers is "reckless and irresponsible."

"Not only could damage be caused to property if the car were to crash, but bystanders or the vehicles occupants could be seriously injured.

"This person does not deserve a drivers licence and police will be investigating to hold this person to account for their behaviour."

Taken from inside the vehicle, the 30 second video shows the car swerving widely across the street with the wheels heard screeching.

The video begins in the vicinity of Acky's Takeaway Deli with the car heading South Easterly down George Street.

As it approaches the main intersection the car spins into a 360 degree turn before continuing to fishtail the remaining length of the street. The Grand Hotel is lit up by the headlights of the car as it spins in front of the hotel.

Hotel manager Leandra Worrell described the behaviour as "irresponsible and dangerous."

Kids deliver bread for the carnival

Moira Altschwager (left) is named in this hospital carnival photo but can you help name the other two children helping carry loaves of bread?

This photo is from the South East Family History Group collection.

Any details which could date or identify the location are welcome.

If you have any information about this photo please contact SEFHG researcher Colleen Hammat at the research centre Wednesday's or Saturday's 1-5pm on 8733 1100 (or leave a message) or via email info@sefhg.org.

Can you identify either of the two children helping Moira Altschwager (left) carry a basket of bread loaves?

Names were quickly found for this under 10's Millicent United Soccer club team photo.

Players identified

The local soccer community quickly banded together to identify the team photo which appeared in the August 3rd edition of The South Eastern Times.

Nominate a high-achieving graduate

Nominations have opened for the 2023 TAFE SA Honour Awards, with the training provider eager to hear from high-achieving regional graduates.

TAFE SA has called on graduates making an impact in regional and remote areas to nominate for the Honour Awards. TAFE SA chief executive David Coltman said it is a great opportunity to recognise the great work of graduates across different career levels, industries and communities.

"As the state's largest provider of vocational education and training, TAFE SA has talented graduates making their mark in traditional fields and emerging industries and others who are using their skills to contribute to their local community," he said.

"We're excited about this year's awards and hearing from more of our alumni.

"We want to encourage graduates to enter this year's awards and share their stories of success."

Nominations can be made online with the TAFE SA website, with submissions open until September 11.

Lucindale man, 49, dies following crash

A MAN has died following a crash on Lucindale Road at Stewart Range.

The single-vehicle collision occurred just before midday on Sunday with the sole occupant, a 49-year-old Lucindale man, dying at the scene.

Lucindale Road remained closed while major crash investigators examined the circumstances surrounding the crash.

This death is the 75th life lost on South Australian roads, compared with 47 at the same time last year.

Correcting the record on school history

To The Editor,

Concerning the article 'Birthday for bush school', South Eastern Times, August 17, 2023 drawing on Mark Greenfield's research into the establishment of the Kangaroo Inn Area School, we have to correct the statement that "the site eventually chosen ... was Section 115, Hundred of Symon".

The site selected at the junction of Clay Wells Road and the Beachport Road on which the school is built was, in fact, section 99, Hundred of Kennion, then part of Gillap Station owned by Max and Mary Engelhart, our maternal grandparents.

When approached, Max Engelhart declined to sell Section 99 for a school, explaining that, as a scrub block, it was essential to supply timber for station fencing and the like.

He was also concerned that the schoolchildren could disrupt sheep movements. In the event, the government compulsorily acquired Section 99 of 16 acres (7.14 ha) which was vested in the Minister of Education (Certificate of Title 3080/70) in June 1962. The conservation value of this slice of natural scrub was not a consideration at the time and it was totally cleared.

Section 115 of 4.18 hectares in the adjoining Hundred of Symon is actually the scrub block adjoining the school oval.

It is true that the late Neil McDonald generously provided land for the school Ag Block. That was at a later date.

Revitalising association

A second reconvened annual general meeting has been called for the Millicent Business and Community Association with plans in place to appoint a new executive committee.

Interest in taking on the executive positions of chair, secretary and treasurer have been expressed with current co-chair Fiona Telfer willing to continue in the role of assistant chair.

Business owners David and Selena Smith have only been in the region a short time but are keen to use their skills and knowledge of governance and business support to assist the organisation and broader community.

Mr and Mrs Smith are prepared to accept the chairperson and secretary roles, if nominated, with Millicent's Banner Mitre 10 manager Katherine Ross offering to undertake the treasurer's role.

The potential new executive met for an hour on Monday morning to discuss the association's current constitution and the steps needed to revitalise the group.

"What we intend to do is not only provide you with an overview of the forward work plan for the association in terms of broad ideas, but also to let you know that we will be out asking for your views about the future of the association," Mr Smith said.

"Anything that is a burning issue for you on the evening, you are more than welcome to let us know what you are thinking."

The reconvened AGM to appoint the new committee will be held in the front dining room of the Grand Hotel at 5.30pm on Wednesday, September 6.

It will be followed by a brief general meeting to discuss priority plans and events.

Community groups, local businesses and community members are encouraged and welcome to attend or send a representative.

David and Selena Smith, Fiona Telfer and Katherine Ross are putting their hands up to form the new executive committee.

Winter Olympian inspires students

By Aidan Curtis

Regional students are learning the importance of chasing their dreams through an Olympics program looking to inspire the next generation.

Winter Olympian Nicholas Timmings visited Kingston Community School and Kangaroo Inn Area School last week as part of the Olympics Unleashed program, sharing his journey with students and some of the challenges he faced. Mr Timmings represented Australia in the sport of skeleton at the 2022 Winter Olympics in Beijing, and the key lessons he learned in reaching that point formed a big part of his presentations. He said the program was especially important for regional students who may not have as much opportunity living away from metropolitan areas.

"I know that first hand, doing a winter sport in Australia, we don't get a lot of opportunities and it's a lot harder to compete," he said.

"I know how they feel and I just want to give them a bit of inspiration so if they do stick it out, they do dedicate themselves, they can get to the top level even having limited opportunities." While competing in skeleton was a big part of his life and he wanted to share that with students, Mr Timmings said the over-arching message of his talks could translate to anything they were passionate about.

"The three things I've learned are taking your opportunities, finding your own passion, then the resilience to continue," he said.

"I just want to impart some of the things I've learned onto these kids.

"At such a young age, they're so impressionable, so it's a good age for them to see these things and have it sink in."

Mr Timmings said the presentations had gone quite well, with lots of students showing they were engaged and asking dozens of questions.

"I think that's the most important thing, is actually having kids who want to know more and have plenty of questions," he said.

"If you don't get an engaged group, you don't know if you're doing something wrong or if sport or your presentation just isn't interesting.

"It's just amazing to have a group of kids with so many questions."

Despite the great engagement, Mr Timmings admitted he was still more comfortable hurtling head-first down an ice track through his sport than he was doing public speaking.

"I feel pretty comfortable at the top of an ice track," he said.

"I don't know what questions I'm going to get [during presentations]."

Olympian Nicholas Timmings shared his passion for skeleton and the importance of following your dreams with students in the region.

Hoon driving

"It's just lucky no-one was injured or killed and no damage done to any buildings," she said.

"There are petitions around the town, we have one in our drive-through bottleshop, to try and get a legal place for people to do this type of thing in a controlled environment."

The video ends as the driver approaches the Millicent Visitor Information Centre while still crossing widely from one side of the road to the other.

SAPOL have been cracking down on hoon drivers, with new legislation coming into effect last year.

The new legislation allows a magistrate to disqualify or suspend a driver's licence sentence and sentence a driver to term of imprisonment for basic and aggravated offences between three-to-five years, and gives SAPOL the right to dispose of vehicle involved in hooning, including crushing them.

IMAG members Chris Hollingsworth and Sandra Melrose are asking people to submit their entries for the Millicent Met.

Wear art on sleeve

By Caroline Hammat

Artists, creatives and fashionistas are being asked to submit their entry forms for the upcoming Millicent Met wearable art event as soon as possible.

The fun runway competition is Imagine Millicent Arts Group (IMAG) major fundraiser for the year and will be held on October 14th with entry forms for the event due Friday September 8th.

Wearable artworks do not need to be completed until October 7th but final planning for the evening will begin once entries are closed.

IMAG member Chris Hollingsworth said "People need to get their entry forms in as soon as possible.

"We need the closing date for entries to finalise everything, like the music.

"There's been a lot of interest and we know people are working on their wearable art but we've had very few entries so far."

Encouraging people to get creative are Sandra Melrose and Chris Hollingsworth, organisers of this year's Millicent Met event.

Six different categories for the event include best dressed, most imaginative, upcycling, people's choice and student awards.

Entry forms are available from the Millicent Library, Heaven on a Hanger, McCourts

Garden Centre or from IMAG members Chris Hollingsworth and Sandra Melrose.

All categories are $20 to enter and $10 for students with entrants receiving an entry ticket for the event.

Millicent Met is the third major fundraiser held by the group and follows on from a successful open garden and art day in 2020 and the Ignition Fitness cocktail and art auction event held last year.

"When it comes to fundraisers we don't do ordinary, we do different" IMAG member Sandra Melrose said.

Money raised by IMAG funds public art projects throughout the town.

The recent large scale mushroom mural in Davenport Street is their most recent and was a collaboration between IMAG and Ignition Fitness whose wall it adorns.

Tickets to attend the Millicent Met runway event are planned to go on sale at the beginning of September.

WEED REMOVAL: Limestone Coast Landscape officer Geoff Bowman supporting students with weed removal at the Valley Lakes/Ketla Malpi at the Young Environmental Leaders session.

Weeds get the flick

About 70 young environmental leaders from across the Limestone Coast made an impact on weed control recently.

Students from the Young Environmental Leaders Program met for the third time this year and gained experience working with the local landscape officers.

The students learnt about the importance of clearing pest weeds from the landscape to reduce its impact on the environment.

Limestone Coast education coordinator Vanessa Freebairn said it was amazing to watch the landscape transport as students "embarked on weed removal" in small groups.

"The students all love being involved," Ms Freebairn said.

"When they see how many weeds they have removed in a short amount of time it is very rewarding and they are always eager to do more.

"Many hands make light work which supports the landscape officers when combating weeds in these larger areas such as the Valley Lakes/Ketla Malpi."

Students filled a chipper truck multiple times and witnessed the weeds becoming wood chips, ready to be recycled on the side of the slope which would support the native plants in the area.

They also attended a session in the morning where they learnt more about waste and recycling and were able to discuss their school's sustainability projects with their peers as they embarked on the final term of the Young Environmental Leaders Program for this year.

Stats show the reality of assisted death

The second Voluntary Assisted Dying quarterly report has been released with 40 people receiving the permit between May 1 and June 30.

The program has received positive feedback from participants and their families, specifically concerning the support and care provided to those applying for the permits.

Of the 40 people who received the voluntary assisted dying permit, 32 have died aged from their 20s to 90s.

Of these, 19 people had terminal cancer and five had degenerative neurological conditions.

19 people self-administered medication and eight were supported by a medical practitioner with five dying without using the medication available.

During this reporting period, 40 per cent of people with the permit died in regional South Australia.

There are also 66 medical practitioners who have completed the mandatory training with a further 46 registered or part-way through.

Of these practitioners, 49 are in metropolitan Adelaide and 17 in regional South Australia.

Veteran opens up on war

By Aidan Curtis

This year marked 50 years since Australia's involvement in the Vietnam War ended, with services held around the region to commemorate those who fought for Australia on Vietnam Veterans Day.

To keep the lessons of the conflict alive, Coonawarra and Penola RSL president and Vietnam veteran Peter DeGaris shared his tale of conscription into the war with the Penola Pennant.

Conscription for Vietnam was introduced in 1964 to boost Australia's infantry numbers, and Mr DeGaris was one of more than 15,000 people called into service.

"Twice a year there were ballots done like the lottery you see on TV," he said.

"If you were unlucky enough to have your number called, you received your notice in the post to say you were required to report for a medical.

"If you passed the medical, you then received advice to say you were to report to Keswick Barracks in Adelaide, on the 2nd of May 1968 in my case."

Once he had been cleared to serve, Mr DeGaris was shipped to Puckapunyal, north of Melbourne, to undertake three months of basic training.

"We spent three months there and learned the basics of being in the military - how to march, how to receive corporate discipline, get up with the bugle and go to bed buggered at night," he said.

"At the end of the three month training, you were then given the choice as to what corps you were going to be in.

"I was allocated infantry, as were most of the others, and sent off to Singleton, which was the infantry training centre."

There, Mr DeGaris had three months of infantry training before being allocated as infantry reinforcement and sent to Ingleburn, near Sydney.

He was only there for a couple of weeks before he was called up for rapid deployment to the 8th Infantry Battalion in Malaya.

With the 8th, Mr DeGaris undertook further training with British and New Zealand soldiers over a further 12 months, before a quick break back in Australia.

"I would suggest the 8th Battalion that went to Vietnam was one of the best prepared battalions to go because of that Malayan training," he said.

"[After a week in Sydney] went back to Brisbane and jumped on board the [HMAS] Sydney, affectionately known as the Vung Tau Ferry, which was a converted aircraft carrier."

Mr DeGaris counted himself lucky, having avoided serious injury through a number of operations.

"Reflecting on it, I know I was lucky with a few minor skirmishes in Vietnam and met a lot of good blokes and made lots of memories," he said.

"Having spent five months there, we were out on operation and we came into a fire support base and they basically said to us to get ready because you're going to be choppered back to Vung Tau."

After a whirlwind trip back to Vung Tau, then Saigon, Mr DeGaris and some of his compatriots found themselves at the Sydney airport at two o'clock in the morning, which he said was to avoid war protestors.

A taxi driver told them they would be unlikely to find accommodation and offered to take them to a friend's pub in the city. "The publican asked where us blokes came from, but it was pretty obvious because we all had our rucksacks, and he said, I still remember this, he said 'S**t, would you like a beer?'" Mr DeGaris said.

"The cook was just knocking off, and the publican told him he wasn't knocking off and he was to cook us up some steaks, so we sat around and drank until about half past seven in the morning, laughing and carrying on.

"The publican offered to run us to the airport and 24 hours after walking around Vietnam carrying an SLR, I'm walking around the seats of Melbourne airport sort of half dazed."

A few hours later, Mr DeGaris landed in Mount Gambier and was greeted by his whole family.

"By the time we got back home, I wasn't drunk, but I'd had plenty to drink and mum plonked a feed of roast lamb, which was my favourite tucker at the time, in front of me and I couldn't even eat it," he said.

"We'd been out in the sticks for two weeks and eating rations, so your stomach shrinks."

Mr DeGaris said at the end of the day it was important to remember the Vietnam War and to pay homage to everyone that fought in the conflict, including the Vietnamese soldiers.

Vietnam Veterans Day, or Long Tan Day is commemorated every year on August 18.

Millicent area manager Lyndon Smith and new site supervisor Luke Dohnt with the EPA approved vapour recovery fuel pumps.

Servo back

By Caroline Hammat

Two years since the Adelaide Road service station suddenly closed down it is set to reopen Monday morning under new owners K&S Fuels.

The project has run behind schedule due to the introduction of unexpected Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) requirements.

“That’s what set us back until where we are at the moment,” Millicent area manager for K&S Group Mark Hodgins said.

“There were a lot of civil works done to meet the EPA requirements, we’ve got a water treatment plant put in and vapour recovery system on the fuel pumps.

“In the end we had to tick the boxes, and we have done that.

“We are happy we’ve got the site up and running, it’s probably six months later than we expected.”

Staff are on-site at the new service station preparing to open by 8am for the first day with regular trading times to be 6am to 9pm daily.

“We are getting it all spring cleaned this week and everything fully stocked,” Mr Hodgins said.

“Hopefully it’s appreciated by the community.”

Millicent Service Station site supervisor Luke Dohnt and Millicent area manager Lyndon Smith are working with staff to ensure the site is fully stocked by opening day.

At the time of closing in 2021 Wattle Range Council had owned the freehold of the site for more than 50 years.

By January 2021 it had been sold to K&S Fuels.

Since the Adelaide Road service station closed the only manned petrol station in Millicent has been the 24 hour facility at the Mount Gambier and Williams Road intersection.

Last month the automated Pines Service Station also closed permanently leaving the town with a single fuel outlet.

Foodbank scores grant to boost relief operations

The Limestone Coast’s Foodbank SA has been deemed the winner of this year’s Friends of Stand Like Stone program, which has allowed the organisation to secure a $2,990 grant.

This grant will be used for the purchase of a pallet jack with a scissor lift feature, which will allow the organisation to improve work health and safety conditions for volunteers as well as increasing the overall efficiency for food relief operations.

The Friends of Stand Like Stone program allows individuals and organisations to provide support to the foundation through a number of methods such as donations and service.

Stand Like Stone chief executive Roger Babolka said an annual donation of $500 helped Stand Like Stone to run the “Limestone Coast’s only community foundation”.

“Each year we aim to grow the number of ‘Friends’ and increase the grant allocation,” Mr Babolka said.

“As a result, the perpetual named sub-fund also grows, providing a lasting gift to our community and ensures the growth and sustainability of this amazing program.”

Foodbank SA Limestone Coast branch manager Lynne Neshoda said initiatives such as the Friends of Stand Like Stone allowed both parties to continue their operations to serve the community.

“It’s initiatives such as the Friends of Stand Like Stone Champion grant that not only enables the Foundation to respond to the needs of the communities, but it also enables organisations like Foodbank to continue to provide a critical support service to those in need in this region,” Ms Neshoda said.

BIG WIN: The Limestone Coast branch of Foodbank SA was successful in obtaining a grant of $2,990 from Stand Like Stone’s ‘Friends of Stand Like Stone’ program.

Sky's the limit for lifestyle

By Caroline Hammat

A new initiative offering a range of opportunities for people living with disabilities has recently opened in Millicent.

Located on Mount Gambier Road, the new business offers plan or self managed lifestyle and learning programs.

16 year old business owner Mary-rose Vanderheul had the idea for the business after experiencing her own difficulties with the school system.

"I was really struggling with school, I was trying to do assignments and it just wasn't working for me," Mary-rose said.

"I could see that there was a need for this."

After spending time on market research, Mary-rose saw a gap in Millicent for the range of services she plans to offer.

"It was my nan, who's involved in the sector, that said since Bedford closed down Millicent doesn't have anything."

Although Mary-rose is still a teenager she has the support of her mother, Jaymee Vanderheul, in a supportive administration role as the venture gets established.

"The business is all in her name, it's run by her, I'll do it for six months to help out," Ms Vanderheul said.

The pair have experienced delays in getting the site ready for clients but are hoping a sensory room will be available within the next two weeks.

Sensory rooms offer a safe and quiet space for people who are overstimulated and use special flooring, sensory toys, music and lights to create the environment.

"We're waiting for the flooring, it's been a bit longer than we expected," Mary-rose said.

"The sensory room is something I've been working really hard on, it will be free for anyone to use."

Mary-rose will offer a flexible range of sessions for both groups and individuals which can be booked individually or as part of a larger plan.

Gardening and cooking sessions and a Healthy Me program will be available.

Work options include cleaning and gardening work, assistance with micro enterprise, preparing resumes and basic IT skills.

Respite and transport services will be available and next year the pair plan to open a soundproof multi-media room.

Jaymee has written a 12 week filmmaking program for clients and hopes the room will become a mecca for disability filmmaking and music making in the region.

Limitless Learning and Lifestyle are unregistered providers which means it is not currently registered with the NDIS.

Both women are training for this registration and are still governed by the same rules and regulations as NDIS registered providers.

They currently work with local job providers for disabilities and other disability services in the region.

Although yet to officially open Mary-rose and Jaymee will be at 65 Mount Gambier Road site 9am-3pm each Tuesday and Wednesday and encourage anyone to drop in for further information.

"We've got coffee and biscuits here and we don't mind having a chat with anybody.

"It doesn't matter whether they're on NDIS or not or if they are carers."

By Caroline Hammat

Bargain hunters were out early Saturday morning for the Millicent Craft Group's annual garage sale fundraiser held at the RSL hall.

The venue was filled with items to purchase including pot plants, bric-a-brac, clothing, records and tagged electrical items available.

Earnings from the day totalled close to $1700 which included $290 in raffle tickets with funds going toward the craft centre's building extension.

The extension planned for the Fifth Street site will almost double the size of the existing building with approximately $40,000 needed to begin building to lock-up stage.

Millicent Craft Group treasurer, Emillia Tidy, said

"We are close, our garden day fund-raiser in November will hopefully raise the final funds needed."

The craft group currently has a membership of around 60 with the centre now used everyday of the week.

"Our pottery group had a waiting list, so we expanded to the weekend," Ms Tidy said.

"Other groups are also nearly at capacity.

"We are hoping to offer more sessions once the extension is complete because we will be able to have two groups at one time using the centre."

Visitors from Moana Beach in Adelaide, Melissa and Leilani Rangī, found a few treasures to take home with them.

Craft group member Anna Jones had help from volunteers Colin Davies and Rob Hamilton to help sell the donated goods.

Millicent potters, Marie Farmer, Sheryl Sharp and Lyn Bowering, put down their clay for the day to help sell second-hand clothing.

Selling kitchen goods are Cleone Bryant and Carol Baxter, members of Monday's artist group held at the Millicent Craft centre.

Niki and Jim Martin were bargain hunting for craft magazines.

Key throws hat in the ring

By Tyler Redway

A Limestone Coast deputy principal Matthew Key, has thrown his hat in the ring to be nominated as the next Australian Education Union (AEU) SA Branch president.

This move will put Mr Key in direct competition with incumbent AEU SA Branch president Andrew Gohl.

Mr Key, who is the deputy principal at Mulga Street Primary School in Mount Gambier, said he always thought this would have been a decision made towards the end of his career and added he decided to take this step after becoming “disillusioned” and “burnt out” by the education industry.

“Recently, I have been talking to a number of trusted people and I have been thinking if not now, then when?” Mr Key said.

“I have always been really passionate about the advocacy and collectivism of unions and the power people have in numbers, but I think in particular being a part of the education workforce for a while, I can feel the tiredness and disillusionment of so many people who are now burning out.

“Instead of sitting in the background and jumping up and down about it, which I have been doing at branch council and different forums, I thought I really needed to put my name forward and put myself in a position as someone who is based at a school at the moment to be willing to come out of that school with the perspective and go in to represent others who are in the same position.”

Mr Key said while he wanted to represent teachers from their perspective, he added there were also decisions made by the current leadership which he did not agree with.

“There have been a lot of calls made which I don’t think have been the right ones and I don’t feel the union is effectively representing what staff on the ground actually want from their union,” he said.

“A lot of the rhetoric which has come out of the union has been talking about bringing back the attraction to country areas, but it’s not looking after our members who are here now.

“We have been talking a lot about housing which is a bit frustrating knowing there is a really clear State Government strategy around housing at the moment and I feel like jumping up and down about this will not cause any more action than what we have already seen.”

Mr Key said he would like to see members

Mulga Street Primary School deputy principal Matthew Key has come forward as a candidate to become the next president of the Australian Education Union’s South Australian Branch. Picture: SUPPLIED of the AEU spending more time in schools as he felt there was a “big disconnect” between schools and the union.

“So much of the work is done out of the building in Adelaide, but it seems like there is a big disconnect from the realities in the classroom,” he said.

“I do think considering the union should be made up of educators that we should be ensuring those elected people are in classrooms at least for a week a year, or more to be able to understand first-hand the impact of decisions and policies coming through from the government so they can better place themselves when making those decisions.

“I am lucky at the moment where I am now in the position as a deputy principal to a school and so in this role, I do support and teach in classrooms but I also work alongside SSOs, teachers and the kindergarten on site as well.”

Mr Key said he aimed to build the trust of the AEU again as he felt the declining membership had an impact on the effect the union could have on government decisions.

He said it was important for the AEU to use elements from all members as he believed everyone in the role had some form of helpful knowledge to share.

“Working collaboratively as a team is important, there is a whole range of knowledge across our membership and a lot of combined experience of union members which is not being capitalised at the moment,” he said.

“It’s about having the vision to bring the union back to being a representative body which works first and foremost in the best interests of members.”

Mr Key said even if he was not successful in becoming the next president of the AEU SA Branch, he would still continue in a job which he truly enjoyed.

“I would definitely continue to be an activist in the union, particularly through the branch council, but more importantly I would be able to continue doing the important work at my school at the moment,” Mr Key said.

“My contract continues on so I will potentially be looking at stepping away from my job in order to do this work but if I am not successful then I still get to do a job I love.”

Virtual fencing to the fore

Momentum is growing for a national animal welfare code that could pave the way for virtual fencing across Australian farming businesses.

It follows a recent dairy innovation day at Mount Gambier where virtual fencing was highlighted, and a study tour.

Each state has its own animal welfare code and while virtual fencing is allowed in other states, it is outlawed in Victoria and South Australia.

With support from the DemoDAIRY Foundation, several South-west Victorian dairy farmers recently learnt about the potential benefits of virtual fencing to manage herd grazing and movement during a New Zealand study tour.

One of the farm consultants leading the SW Farm Business Discussion Group, Angus Drummond, said there was a lot of interest in a farm using a Halter collar app for virtual fencing, prompting a suggestion to lobby the Victorian Government to allow their use in the state.

Dairy Australia principal scientist, John Penry, said a study completed in 2021 into virtual fencing funded by the Australian dairy levy with other government support was positive about the technology.

"The research work on balance was favourable about the technology," Dr Penry said.

"Dairy Australia's role is to point to the evidence base and that four-year study is still relevant. Whilst today's technology might be a slightly differently designed collar, the premise for how it works is still the same.

"Based on overseas and Australian studies and experiences, it's a reasonable thing to look at as an option."

Since completing the study, the commercial company involved has focused on applications in the northern beef industry.

"Unfortunately, animal welfare codes differ between states," Dr Penry said.

"Presently any virtual herding technology relies on an electrical pulse and audible warning. This technology can be used in other states but not Victoria and South Australia because it doesn't fit within their animal welfare codes," Dr Penry said.

Dairy Australia principal scientist, John Penry.

Halter representatives and a farmer in their testing program attended the South Australian dairy innovation day, creating strong interest.

"There is definitely interest around how farmers could use that sort of technology to make grazing management simpler and less time consuming, particularly during the calving period," Dr Penry said.

"The technology by and large seems to work and there are relatively few animals that can't be trained on it. A next step for Australia would be to get a more homogenised between-states animal welfare code."

Dr Penry said Dairy Australia believed it would be in the country's best interests to have uniform animal welfare codes between the states.

"That's not specifically about virtual fencing but as a general principle," he said.

ing but as a general principle," he said.

DemoDAIRY Foundation is keen to support south-west Victorian dairy farmers to improve their knowledge and advance their careers.

New smart farming 'engine' to overcome future issues

Establishing a network of long-term research trials into climate smart farming is on the agenda in South Australia, after an $8 million grant was delivered from the Federal Government's Future Drought Fund.

Led by Flinders University and the South Australian Research and Development Institute (SARDI), the funding will bring together 39 research partners, which includes farming and agri-business stakeholders, to use a new research engine.

SARDI agronomy program leader and Flinders affiliate associate professor Dr Rhiannon Schilling said the funding would help bring together key farming communities and leading researchers.

Dr Schilling said the program would establish a network of research trials to test applied science and climate-resilient solutions.

"We are bringing together leading South Australian farmers and researchers to develop new solutions to overcome future climate challenges," she said.

"We will test, refine and deliver drought-resilient innovations for dryland broadacre cropping, livestock and mixed farms."

Vice-Chancellor Professor Colin Stirling said the funding would help the university to highlight the state's reputation as a world leader in climate-smart farming.

"This significant grant injection – the largest under the Future Drought Fund – heralds a new era of partnership between Flinders and SARDI," Professor Stirling said.

"This research partnership will drive the development of solutions to tackle drought preparedness here in South Australia and beyond and Flinders University is excited to be part of this next era of pioneering research."

Picture: ALISTAIR MCLELLAN FROM PIXABAY

The South Australian trial sites, which include areas of pastoral, low, medium and high rainfall zones, should help fast-track research.

There are four major themes:

Tailor made climate smart grain and feed
Soil improvement practices to advance soil health

Use of precision livestock strategies for healthier livestock

Increasing landscape diversification

The project will access SARDI's research facilities at Minnipa, Turretfield, Struan and Loxton to establish Climate Resilience Discovery Farms.

Funds need balance: NFF

The National Farmers' Federation (NFF) has welcomed the announcement by Prime Minister Anthony Albanese and Agriculture Minister Murray Watt of $38 million from the Future Drought Fund to boost the farm sector's resilience to climate change and dry conditions.

However, NFF vice president David Jochinke noted the funding would primarily be directed into research and long-term trials and while much needed, it did little for the here and now.

"We are staring down the barrel at an El Nino bringing drier conditions this growing season," Mr Jochinke said.

"Improving long term resilience is important, but climate research can't come at the expense of preparing for the drought just around the corner."

The NFF said the Future Drought Fund had to continue to include projects which would directly build resilience for when the next drought hits. "Resilience is farmers' middle name, but we can't outrun the increasingly severe and frequent drought cycles.

"It's imperative the government focuses on climate change resilience but not at the expense of drought preparedness. "We need to find the balance between being ready for the next drought while ensuring there's continual investment into innovation and technology so agriculture can adapt to our changing climate.

"This balance is what the farm sector needs to keep up with growing demand for food and fibre, and to reach our goal to be a $100 billion industry by 2030."

National Farmers' Federation vice president, David Jochinke.

Lamb, mutton production records broken across the board

The Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) has released its quarterly statistics on livestock slaughtered and meat production, highlighting record lamb production and growth in mutton production across the board so far this year.

According to Meat & Livestock Australia (MLA), Australia produced the most lamb on record in the calendar year 2022. For the first six months of 2023, lamb producers are tracking 7.7 per cent above year-on-year levels or 20,000 tonnes.

"This indicates another strong, potentially record-breaking year for Australian lamb producers," according to Stephen Bignell, manager, market information, at MLA.

"Following a significant flock rebuild over the last few years, we have seen significant lamb slaughter across the nation in the first half of this year.

"Over 11.5 million lambs were processed to June 2023 which is the second highest start to a year since 2018 when over 12 million lambs were slaughtered.

"This is an extra 1.24 million lambs slaughtered when compared to 2022, an uplift of 12 per cent year-on-year."

This quarter has also seen lamb production records broken, with 149,385 tonnes being produced in Australia, which is 4 per cent more than the previous record set in June 2018. Mutton production is also seeing higher levels than previously recorded. Sheep slaughter for the quarter was 2,550,700 head – the highest in nearly four years. According to Mr Bignell, nearly five million sheep have been processed so far this year.

"This is an extra 2,024,800 compared to the same point in 2022, equating to an additional mutton throughput of 68 per cent year-on-year," he said.

"Victoria is contributing the most to the big jump in mutton slaughter, with Victorian processors working through one million sheep so far this year.

Lamb and sheep proceeds were above Q1 2023 levels and the same as March 2021. The gross value of sheep and lambs slaughtered increased 1.9 per cent to $1.2 billion.

In financial year 2023, lamb and sheep farmers made $4.8b for the sale of animals to processors.

Baked Eggs with Veggies and Fetta

Cook + Prep Time: 25 mins

Serves: 4

Ingredients

- 4 eggs
- 120g baby spinach leaves
- 100g semi-dried tomatoes, chopped
- 70g Danish fetta cheese,

- crumbled
- 2 tbsp roughly chopped fresh basil
- 4 shallots, thinly sliced
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- Wholegrain slices of toast, to serve
- Black pepper, to taste, to serve

Method:

1. Preheat oven to 180°C/160°C fan forced.
2. Place spinach in a non-stick ovenproof frypan over medium heat with a drizzle of olive oil and allow to wilt slightly.
3. Add tomatoes, fetta, basil and shallots to the frypan and mix gently together. Drizzle with the olive oil.
4. Create 4 indentations in the mixture and gently crack an egg in each of the indents. Cover with foil and bake for 15 minutes, or until the egg whites are set and the yolk is cooked to your liking. Season with black pepper to taste, and serve.

YOUR WEEKLY TV GUIDE

PICK OF THE WEEK

THE BLOCK
Nine, Sunday, 7pm

Other than the skyrocketing prices and evolving trends, not much has changed to The Block format throughout its 19 seasons. Once upon a time, plantation shutters were universally installed onto just about every window, but these days, long sheer curtains have taken over. Similarly, a study was once lucky if it got a look-in on The Block floor plan: now a dedicated home office is as essential as a toilet. How times change. Tonight, the teams reveal a modern-day home's pièce de résistance: the work-from-home space. But will rain ruin one team's hard work? How will the judges, including new face on the block Marty Fox (pictured, far right, with fellow judges Neale Whitaker, Darren Palmer and Shayna Blaze), react to this once-boring room?

WHAT'S ON THE BOX?

EVA LONGORIA: SEARCHING FOR MEXICO

SBS, Thursday, 8.30pm

Hot off the press after Stanley Tucci's culinary knock out Searching for Italy, glamorous Eva Longoria (pictured, Desperate Housewives) embarks on her own foodie jaunt, exploring her Mexican heritage and the country's rich food culture. Tucci - who also executive produces this six-part series along with Longoria - was the consummate host in his series, which was a visual delight, and Longoria's offering looks just as delectable. In tonight's premiere, the Texas-born star visits her adopted hometown, Mexico City, the place she met her husband. After tonight's tacos, churros and baked concha, later episodes explore the cuisines of Yucatan, Oaxaca and Veracruz.

QUESTION TEAM

SBS Viceland, Monday, 8.30pm

Quirky and deadpan, Richard Ayoade (pictured) prefers to live his TV life on the unexpected side. As such, any game or panel series the British comedian hosts - he has Travel Man, Gadget Man, The Crystal Maze and Was it Something I Said? on his impressive resumé - is never going to stick to the rules. In this unique panel show, a crowd of different comedians appear in each episode to compete. The catch? They bring their own self-written questions on their chosen subject. In this season two premiere, Josh Pugh is all about the world's strongest man, Jo Brand concentrates on chocolate and Thanyia Moore (pictured, left, with Brand, Ayoade and Pugh) has her microscope on movies.

WTFQAQ

ABC TV, Wednesday, 9pm

If you're wondering, it's pronounced "what the FAQ". Premiering tonight, this rambunctious and inquisitive new eight-part series is a little like Google as a live entertainment show, complete with musical sequences and comical asides. It's presented by a team of wisecrackers - Lawrence Leung (Maximum Choppage), Lou Wall, Kirsten Drysdale (The Checkout), Chas Licciardello (The Chaser), Alex Lee (The Feed) and Cameron James (pictured, from left) - who will do whatever it takes to answer viewers' burning questions. In each episode around six questions are dealt with, such as, "Why is yawning contagious?". This boisterous shebang includes expert interviews, experiments and demonstrations.

EVs - myths versus reality

By Chris Riley, Marque Motoring

The Electric Vehicle Council (EVC), the national body representing the electric vehicle industry in Australia, has moved to dispel some of the common myths about electric vehicles.

MYTH 1: NOT ENOUGH DRIVING RANGE

Today's EVs have enough battery range to meet the average Australian's driving needs for over a week.

Current EVs have an average battery range of 480km but the technology is advancing so rapidly that new models can drive for almost 550km on a single charge.

The average Australian drives 38km per day so an EV owner can go for at least 10 days without a recharge.

Unlike petrol cars, you can recharge at home or anywhere with access to electricity.

MYTH 2: CHARGING TAKES TOO LONG

Charging times are falling quickly as technology advances.

Residential chargers are able to fully charge EVs in around six to eight hours, depending on the vehicle's capacity.

This means you can easily charge your car overnight.

Public fast chargers are able to get you back on the road much faster.

Leave your car at a charger while you go shopping or to work and in three hours, it'll be fully charged.

Ultra-rapid chargers can add 300km of range in 10 minutes.

MYTH 3: THERE'S NOWHERE TO CHARGE EVS

While 80 per cent of EV drivers globally charge their EV at home, there is still a need for public charging infrastructure.

An ever-expanding network of public charging infrastructure is being installed across Australia.

Private companies have been building networks along highways, and both federal and state governments are now investing too.

Local councils are supporting local communities to make the change by installing chargers in local public areas, and it is increasingly common to see EV chargers in shopping centres.

If you check out the charger map on our website, you can get an idea of coverage.

That coverage is only going to keep getting better as uptake increases and more charging stations are rolled out.

MYTH 4: EXPENSIVE TO BUY

The upfront costs of EVs are currently more expensive than conventional vehicles, however powering your EV is much cheaper – about 70 per cent cheaper per kilometre in fact.

That means the average EV driver saves $1600 on fuel costs each year.

There are also a growing number of new mid-range EVs available in Australia this year.

These include the MG ZS EV ($44,990), BYD Atto 3 ($48,011) and Nissan Leaf ($50,990) plus on-road costs.

EVs are only going to become more affordable with time.

According to Bloomberg, falling battery prices mean that the total ownership costs of EVs is already the same as conventional vehicles and that upfront costs will be cheaper by 2025.

As competition, investment, and innovation increase, the costs of EVs will continue to fall while conventional vehicle prices stay the same.

MYTH 5: EXPENSIVE TO RUN

EVs have lower running costs than internal combustion engine vehicles (ICEVs).

Fewer moving parts mean that EVs require less maintenance.

With an EV you don't need to replace filters and spark plugs, change oil, or repair the Teslas charging.

Mercedes-Benz EQS.

BYD Atto 3.

transmission, head gasket or engine.

In 2018, maintenance and servicing savings of an EV were estimated at $300-$400 a year.

Contrary to a popular myth, EV batteries last as long as the lifetime of your car.

Most vehicle manufacturers offer an eight-year or 160,000km warranty on batteries.

Another massive saving from EV ownership is fuel.

Battery EVs don't need any petrol or diesel and are charged with electricity.

The average Australian drives 15,000km and spends around $2160 on petrol per year (14 cents per km).

An EV travelling 15,000km would cost around $600 per year (4 cents per km) in electricity costs.

MYTH 6: EVS ARE INFERIOR PERFORMERS

Unlike conventional vehicles, EVs deliver full torque instantly, meaning they can accelerate much faster than equivalent combustion engine vehicles.

EVs also often have their batteries placed along the bottom of the vehicle, lowering the centre of gravity and providing better handling and cornering.

MYTH 7: EVS ARE A PASSING FAD

Around the world, the EV industry is booming.

In 2022 10.2 million EVs were sold worldwide, or 14 percent of total vehicle sales.

China led the way with 5.9 million or

30 percent with Europe sales at 2.6 million (23&percent;)

Australia is lagging because of a lack of EV policy leadership from governments.

In 2022 just 3.1&percent; of total sales were fully-electric vehicles although that ratio has jumped significantly to 7.4&percent; in the first half of 2023.

Leading the way was the Tesla Model Y which was the highest selling vehicle behind the Toyota HiLux.

As state and federal governments are belatedly recognising the importance of EVs and more and more lower cost EV models come on the market along with hundreds of new chargers being built across the country, EV sales will continue to grow.

MYTH 8: JUST AS BAD FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

Battery EVs have zero exhaust emissions, so that alone makes them better for the environment than an internal combustion engine vehicle (ICEV).

Research shows that even if an EV is charged by coal-fired electricity, it still generates lower net emissions than ICEVs.

As grids become cleaner, EVs become cleaner too.

It is an unavoidable truth that the only way for Australian states to reach their net zero emission targets is with electric vehicles.

Additionally, EV batteries can be used well after their EV end-of-life.

Once a battery reaches 70 per cent capacity, it is no longer fit for use in a vehicle.

However, vehicle manufacturers and private companies are leading the charge in battery recycling and re-purposing, ensuring that zero emissions vehicles really have a low impact to the environment.

MYTH 9: BATTERIES ARE DANGEROUS AND COSTLY

Driving a vehicle with a battery is no more dangerous than driving a traditional Internal Combustion Engine vehicle (ICEV).

In fact, evidence suggests that lithium-ion batteries used in EVs are in fact as safe or even safer than conventional fuel.

There are numerous studies that show that fires in EVs are no more likely or even less likely to occur than fires in ICEVs.

In Australia, Fire and Rescue organisations do not treat EVs as any more dangerous than ICEVs.

MYTH 10: EVS WILL CAUSE BLACKOUTS

Managed correctly, EVs can increase the reliability of the grid, while reducing the unit price of electricity for everyone, even those who don't drive an EV.

New EV models are now enabling battery discharging, which means that during times of peak demand EVs can put electricity back into the household or grid.

This would actually reduce the chance of blackouts by flattening peak demand.

Roosters show their class

By Lachlan Onions

ROBE 9.15 (69) d MOUNT BURR 5.0 (30)

Robe kept its top-two hopes alive with a commanding victory over Mount Burr in the penultimate round of Mid South Eastern football on Saturday.

The Roosters started strongly in their final home game of the season but poor kicking meant they could only take an 11-point lead, despite having six more scoring shots than the Mozzies.

However, Robe was more efficient in the second quarter as it kicked three goals to take a 36-12 lead at the main break.

With the game still in the balance, the Roosters stepped up in the third term to take a stranglehold of the contest.

Mount Burr was kept scoreless in the third quarter while the hosts scored 3.7 (25) to lead by 49 points at the final change.

The Mozzies showed some fight with three majors in the last quarter but it was only a consolation as the Roosters claimed a 39-point win.

Henry Lawrie's strong season continued and was best on ground for Robe.

Lawrie has been a reliable contributor this campaign and has been named in the Roosters' best in 14 of his 15 games this year.

Joel Bryant and playing-coach Nathan

Brown were the other standout players for Robe with the latter kicking three goals.

Zac Deane was the only other Rooster to kick more than one goal as he ended with two majors, while Bryant, Sam Huebner, Max Robertson and Hamish Smith all kicked one goal each.

For Mount Burr, Jackson Dean was best on ground, while Jack Gregory continued his impressive form in front of goal as he kicked three majors.

With the Mozzies having a bye next week, Gregory has all but locked in the leading-goalkicker award for this season with 65 goals.

His closest opponents are Andrew Hyland (54) and Colby Munro (51), who both have one game to play but will need a miracle to claw back the deficit.

Robe's victory has set up a tantalising finish in the race for second spot with Hatherleigh, Robe and Kalangadoo all tied on 44 points.

However, the Eagles have a percentage boost over Robe that is roughly 100 points greater, while Kalangadoo only narrowly trails the Roosters by a few goals.

With Port MacDonnell hosting Hatherleigh next week, it means that the door is still ajar for either the Magpies or the Roosters to take second spot and earn a place in the qualifying final.

KEY PLAYER: Zac Deane kicked two goals for Robe on Saturday.

Robe was too strong

ROBE 50 d MOUNT BURR 41

A STRONG, contested game saw Robe claim a hard-fought victory over Mount Burr in Round 17 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

The Mozzies made the trip up to Robe and came out with a solid start, moving the ball well in their attack line, with goalies Ebony Clark and Lauren Wheeler shooting with confidence, while Robe took the first half to find their feet.

However, once they settled, Tori Gluyas shot with accuracy, while Robe's Lucy Perkins was moving and directing her teammates well.

In an even first term, scores were locked up at 12-all at the first break.

The second quarter saw Mount Burr's defensive pressure in the ring by Madi Haggett and Olivia Dean make it hard for Robe's goalies and picked off a few turnovers.

With Laura Schultz' run down the court, they transitioned the ball with ease into the goal circle.

The last five minutes of the quarter the Roosters stepped up their defensive pressure in the ring and Emma Grant started to rebound and pick off a few passes.

Robe claimed the quarter by two goals and led 24-22 at half time.

Both teams made changes at the main break, with Mount Burr's goal attack, Wheeler changing with Ashlee Dean.

Robe's Ellen Ramke came on at wing defence, while Halle Carter went to goal attack and Gluyas took the bench.

The Roosters stepped it up a gear in the third, with better defensive pressure down the court.

They took a few chances and backed each other up, while Demi Carter found her confidence and shot 11 goals for the quarter.

Mount Burr struggled in its attack line with the pressure of Grant and Georgia Perkins in the circle.

Robe won the quarter by seven goals to extend the lead to 39-30 at three-quarter time.

The last quarter once again saw no changes and Mount Burr came out fighting hard for the win.

However, Robe remained calm under pressure and made sure they scored their goals.

Mount Burr's Ebony Clark shot with accuracy - shooting seven from seven for the quarter. However, it was not enough to get them over the line, with Robe coming away winners 50-41 in an entertaining contest.

Best players for Robe were Grant and Perkins, with Haggett and Schultz best for Mount Burr.

Magpies hot in cold

KALANGADOO 64 d HATHERLEIGH 37

MISTY rain and a bitterly cold breeze greeted players at Hatherleigh for Round 17 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

But that did not deter Kalangadoo from taking control of the contest and running out convincing winners.

As expected, both teams started with high physical intensity, with Kalangadoo wing attack Jayde Peacock putting her body on the line.

Ebony McDiarmid had her eye in early, shooting 11 straight at goal shooter for the Magpies before missing a shot.

Both Lauren Kain and Lara Munro made it difficult for Erin Watson and Rosie Nettle to get the ball into their attack line, getting their hands to the ball and rebounding strongly. Kalangadoo got the break early and were up by 10 at the after the opening term.

Hatherleigh made one change with Maddie Redman coming into goal keeper.

That had an immediate impact as she combined well with Lara MacGregor at goal defence to claim intercepts and start pegging back the margin.

The increased defensive pressure from Tegan Telfer, Watson and MacGregor in the mid-court appeared to rattle the Magpies, who made some uncharacteristic bad passes which were quickly pounced on by the Eagles.

Maddie Pulmer and Demi Vanderhorst had plenty of opportunities, well fed by Nettle, but were not able to make it count on the scoreboard.

At the other end McDiarmid continued to shoot with accuracy, with another eight goals and no misses.

Hatherleigh outscored Kalangadoo by two goals in the quarter, but it could have been more if they had been able to land more shots, which saw the Magpies up by eight at the main break.

Changes from the Hatherleigh coach saw Nettle off, Telfer move into wing attack, Elly Redden back on at goal defence and MacGregor into wing defence.

However, it was the unchanged Kalangadoo that started the quarter with a bang, quickly adding to, and extending the lead.

Centre Jane Auld was having a great tussle

TOUGH CUSTOMER: Kalangadoo's Jayde Peacock proved a handful on the attacking wing for Kalangadoo.

with Watson and started to get the upper hand.

Chloe Peacock also hit her straps at wing defence to curb the influence of Telfer.

Abbey Duncan moved well in the circle with McDiarmid to ensure the star shooter got plenty of the ball, despite the efforts of Redden and Redman.

A handy 15 from 18 attempts saw Kalangadoo start to run away with the game with a comfortable 15-goal lead going into the last term.

To start the the final stanza it was more changes from Hatherleigh, with Nettle back on at wing attack, Telfer back into wing defence and MacGregor off, while Kalangadoo stuck to its starting seven.

The physicality with which both teams started the game with continued, with Pul-mer and Vanderhorst feeling it from Kain and Munro.

However, Vanderhorst continued her high work rate down the court and shot with accuracy.

Telfer ran hard and stood strong against the strength of Jayde Peacock, while Watson tried valiantly to stop Auld.

Despite the best efforts of Redman and Redden, McDiarmid still had plenty of opportunities to score and did not let her team down, shooting 15 straight to end with a game-high 18 for the quarter.

Kalangadoo ran away with the game to win by 27 goals.

Best players for Kalangadoo were McDiarmid and Auld, Telfer and Vanderhorst best for Hatherleigh.

Hawks lift in final term to record big win

KONGORONG 46 d NANGWARRY 17

ROUND 17 of Mid South East netball saw Nangwarry travel to Kongorong to take on the young Hawks in cold and windy conditions.

Kongorong got off the line early, scoring the first three goals of the game, moving the ball quickly and with accuracy.

Nangwarry took a while to settle with the ball and had limited attempts in the first quarter due to Kongorong's intense defensive pressure led by Riley Buckingham in goal defence.

Claire Ferguson led for the Saints through the middle, tussling with the Hawks Rach Perry, giving her side some speed and carry.

Evie Sealey shots nine goals from 11 attempts for the quarter to help the Hawks gain a 12-goal lead at quarter time.

The second quarter saw Nangwarry with work to do so they swung Cassie Dinnison and Hayley Vanderhorst, with Dinnison back in goals.

That provided more movement and speed coming from the Saints attack end.

However, Buckingham was well supported by Emily Lightbody and Ebony Lawson and the defensive pressure did not ease up.

Down the other end Nangwarry's Kayla Gray and Carly Ploenges worked overtime to try to limit the scoring opportunities of the Hawks.

They were able to limit the damage to four in the quarter to give the Hawks a 16-goal lead heading into half time.

The third quarter saw the wind pick up and the Hawks get complacent, producing a more even contest across the court.

Gray and Ploenges took advantage of every missed opportunity by the Kongorong goalies, giving their attack line plenty of opportunity.

Ferguson took charge in attack, feeding accurately into Dinnison and Tahlia Wilson who converted their highest scoring quarter for the game.

Even with the increased ball into the attack line, Kongorong looked dangerous at times with their pressure, causing multiple held balls for the quarter.

The lead heading into the final quarter was 17, with Kongorong 33 to Nangwarry 16.

The final quarter saw Kongorong switch on, with Buckingham and Sealey pushing hard and connecting well to lead their team to outscore the Saints 13-1.

Ploenges contested well, with Gray snapping up any rebound, but any ball sent down the Saints attack end was scooped up by the Hawks defence either through transition or by the strong rebounding of Lightbody.

Ferguson and Perry continued in a strong contest throughout the game, both at times influential for their side.

Kongorong was able to run out winners in the end with the final score 46-17.

Best players for the victors were Riley Buckingham and Sealey, with Gray and Ploenges best for Nangwarry.

Magpies eye off second

By Lachlan Onions

KALANGADOO 9.10 (64) d HATHERLEIGH 6.16 (52)

In what was set to be a prelude for finals, the Magpies outflowed the Eagles to claim a 12-point win in Round 17 of Mid South Eastern football on Saturday.

In cold and windy conditions, Kalangadoo took control of the contest early.

With the wind in their favour, the Magpies had possession in their half for the majority of the quarter but struggled to make the most of their chances in what was a hard-fought clash between two sides vying for a place in the qualifying final.

Kalangadoo booted three goals in the first term to take a 23-9 lead at the first change.

However, the Eagles disrupted the Magpies' flow and had several chances to claw back the margin if it was not for poor kicking.

In what was a gritty contest, Kalangadoo went into half time leading 4.7 (31) to 2.7 (19).

The reigning premiers flexed their strength in the third quarter with the wind on their side as they kicked five goals to extend the lead to 33 points with one quarter left.

However, with the Eagles having the wind in the final term, the game was far from over.

Kalangadoo was held goalless in the last quarter and only added two minor scores in the last stanza as Hatherleigh controlled the contest.

The Eagles stormed home with three majors in the last quarter but ultimately fell short as the Magpies held on to claim a 12-point win.

Kalangadoo coach Alex Lyon was delighted with his side's efforts as they rebounded from a disappointing defeat a week earlier.

"It was fantastic, the boys were fantastic," he said.

"It was a massive boost for us, especially after our last one against Port MacDonnell where they outplayed us completely.

"So it was a really good response and our pressure was really good all day."

For Kalangadoo, Tye McManus was the star of the show as he dictated play around the contest.

He was supported by Liam Hay, Mitchel Lowe, James Pratt, Tom Schumacher and Sam McManus, who were all pivotal for the Magpies. It was a strong performance across the board from the Kalangadoo forwards with Jack Casey, Ben Gregory and Sam McManus leading the way with two goals each.

Lyon heaped praise on several of his players across the midfield and back six with Tye McManus the standout.

"Tye (McManus) was fantastic," Lyon said. "All the mids were really good."

"Connor Gentile had a really good run on the half forward flank and I thought our back six were really impressive, led by James Pratt and Mitchel Lowe."

For Hatherleigh, playing-coach Gerard McGrath was the best on ground in defence, while Tom Hutchesson continued his stellar form as he booted four goals for the game.

The Eagles' defeat to Kalangadoo has sealed the minor premiership for Port MacDonnell, who is eight points clear of the Eagles, Magpies and Roosters with one round left.

Glencoe holds on in classic battle of powerhouses

GLENCOE 36 d TANTANOOLA 35

Glencoe and Tantanoola faced off with a top two Mid South East netball position on the line.

The two powerhouse clubs did not disappoint, with the game going down to the wire as the Murphies claimed the honours by the barest of margins.

The Murphies were without goalie Jenna Paproth for the Round 17 clash and relied on the experience of Laura Childs to fill her role.

Glencoe took the first centre pass and was immediately met by strong physicality from the Tiger outfit.

The pressure caused an early missed shot and rebound opportunity for Tayla Rowe who capitalised and gave Tantanoola an early two-goal buffer.

From there time in possession was fairly even, with both mid-courts working hard to get the ball to circle edge and deliver to their respective goalie combinations.

Sarah Edwards and Chelsea Owen worked overtime in the Glencoe defensive end to not allow Emma Gould or Keryl Ousey any easy ball under the post, despite the height mismatch.

However, the range of shot did not seem to be a problem for Ousey and her long-range accuracy provided a relief from the Murphies' defensive pressure.

Tantanoola entered quarter time with a 12-8 lead.

The second quarter was run by the defensive ends and resulted in a low-scoring quarter.

Owen wore Ousey like a glove which allowed Edwards to have a fly at some balls down the court.

The aerial ability from Owen and speed of Edwards combined began to mount pressure on the Tantanoola feeders in Jami Walker and Kate Varcoe as any feed that was not pin-point resulted in a turnover.

Down the other end the defensive combination of Rowe, Kate Bromley and Casey Walker continued to apply body and intense hands-over pressure.

The Glencoe mid-court combination of Donna Jaeschke and Alice Tentye had to work patiently to find a safe entry to the post.

The Murphies were able to peg back their deficit by two goals entering the main break trailing 15-17.

Heading into the second half the Tigers swapped Gould back to goal shooter and Ousey out to goal attack.

The Murphies remained unchanged but entered the second half with an intent to turn the score in their favour.

The Glencoe side showed their class with each player getting the better of their opponent.

Cocks and Childs worked in unison to find some easier ball under the post.

The play-making ability from Childs and strong front cutting began to work its wonders and opened up Cocks at the post, where she was able to take the majority of the shooting workload.

Tentye and Jaeschke increased their workload and drove with intention to the circle's edge where they delivered the ball with precision.

In defence, Edwards and Owen continued to dominate and make life hard for the Tantanoola attack end with intercepts aplenty, as well as taking the majority of the rebounds.

The tussle between Chloe Pfitzner and Jami Walker was intriguing, with both players getting the upper hand throughout the game.

Pfitzner began to reap the rewards of her early blocking work to gain some important intercept ball in the third term.

The Tigers were unable to match the Glencoe intensity and entered the final break with a five-goal deficit.

The final quarter was intense from the start, with both teams wanting to secure a top-two position.

Gould and Ousey returned to their starting positions, while Bromley and Rowe swapped bibs.

Bromley worked hard to confuse the space for Cocks and put pressure on the pass from the circle, while Rowe utilised her long arms to attempt to gain some deflections.

Despite drawing some whistle, Rowe

Pressure: Tantanoola's Keryl Ousey under pressure from Glencoe's Chelsea Owen.

stuck to this game plan and got some crucial turnover ball.

Edwards, Owen and Pfitzner continued to apply pressure to the Tantanoola attack line and get some important touches.

Jami Walker stepped up in the final quarter, working early on her prelims to find some more space and feed with an increased patience.

With around five minutes to go the Murphies still held the five-goal lead but a timely missed shot and a few errand passes let the Tigers back into the game.

With the game on the line for both sides the play got scrappy, as everyone put their body on the line.

The Glencoe side showed maturity to keep their cool in the loud final minutes and hold on to a one-goal lead for a nail-biting win.

Best players for the victors were Childs and Pfitzner, with Rowe and Varcoe best for Tantanoola.

Hyland's big haul sees the Saints score second win

By Trevor Jackson

NANGWARRY 11.11 (77)
d KONGORONG 8.11 (59)

A six-goal haul to Andrew Hyland helped Nangwarry to a win over Kongorong in Round 17 of Mid South East football on Saturday.

The victory moved the Saints off the bottom of the ladder for now, with a chance to finish in that position at the end of the minor rounds.

That would be a first for the Saints since 2012, but it still relies on Kongorong to lose in Round 18 against Tantanoola.

As for the game, the Saints were ahead at every break, with a solid 25-point half-time advantage.

The Hawks threatened to rain on the Saints' parade in the third term, where they found better use of the ball and finished off well with four straight goals.

The Saints were more inaccurate for the term but still held a handy 15-point advantage at the final break.

From there Nangwarry was able to hold on to record its second win of the season by 18 points.

Hyland was the major focus up forward, with Joel Virtanen adding a further two majors.

At the other end of the ground Matthew Roberts was also in good form with five goals for the Hawks.

Murphies put on a clinic

By Trevor Jackson

GLENCOE 17.16 (118) d
TANTANOOLA 6.5 (41)

Glencoe put on an impressive display of football on its home deck to account for Tantanoola in Round 17 of Mid South East football.

The Murphies were simply dominant all day, not allowing the Tigers to have any easy shots on goal.

A 21-point first-quarter lead set the scene and the Murphies simply went on from there.

By the main break the margin had stretched out to 41 points and the game was all-but over.

While the Tigers continued to fight hard, the Murphies were more determined, with a six-goal final term putting the icing on the cake.

Goals were shared around for the victors, with 10 individual contributors.

Best of those was Dylan Weaver rounded out the multiple goal scorers with two each.

It was a welcome result after an up-and-down season so far for the Murphies, who sit out of finals contention in sixth position.

For coach Tom Edwards it was a pleasing result after what he considered to be a good month of football.

"It was a good game ... we played really well," he said.

"We have been playing some pretty good footy for about a month now, we have hit a little bit of form and Saturday was the same.

"It was a pretty wet, greasy day, but I thought we played really well in the conditions."

Edwards said it was also an important win after going down to the Tigers the last time the two sides met.

"We went down to Tant the first round over there, so it was important for a bit of redemption," he said.

"We were confident we could get the win and a lot of our younger blokes played well.

Edward said it was a tough, contested game and to win the majority of contested ball in the conditions, then apply scoreboard pressure was pleasing.

To ice the game with a six-goal final term was also something not lost on the coach.

"We have talked all year about trying to show our intent, be physical and use a lot of intensity around the ball," Edwards said.

"That's what I asked of the boys in the last quarter.

"I said we had to keep winning the contested ball, keep showing we are a good side, fight to the end and continue to build the score.

"I was really happy we were able to do that."

With forward/ruckman Henry Smith out of the contest, Edwards said it was important to have a wide spread of scorers, as Alex Hentschke had to concentrate on his ruck duties, rather than swap up forward.

As it panned out, spearhead goal kicker

Tory Weaver was held to just two goals, with the mid-field stepping up to help fill the void.

"We are very fortunate at the moment to have a very good mid field," Edwards said.

"One of the best parts is we are able to get forward, kick goals and contribute.

"We also have a couple of really good young blokes playing in the half forward area who can pop up and kick goals.

"I was happy we could get a good spread because Tory Weaver only kicked two.

"He has been good for us all year and has kicked a lot of goals.

"He was held well so it was good we had others bob up and kick goals."

As for Hentschke's role, Edwards said the big man revelled in the conditions.

"Alex had to take the reigns for the ruck for most of the day and it suited him because he could get to a lot of ruck contests and he is really good around the ground," he said.

"Because it was so contested there was a huge amount of ball ups ... he is a really good tap ruckman and can use his body well and position himself well to give us good use, which he did, especially in the last half."

Edwards said the club has placed a lot of importance on the younger players coming through after many injuries to key players this season.

He said they stood up when their opportunities came, which was the case on Saturday.

"We have a good spread of younger ones who have come through the colts the last couple of years and a couple who are still in the colts now," Edwards said.

"This back end of the year has been good for them.

"They have been able to get a lot of game time and build a lot of confidence.

"Blokes like Isaac Mulraney and Will Maloney, they are just starting to build into their senior careers.

"They are a year or two out of colts and are starting to build their tank a little bit and get their confidence up.

"They will be good for us in the future."

To finish the minor rounds the Murphies face a tough challenge in Kalangadoo this coming weekend.

However, it not something Edwards is too concerned about.

"Kalangadoo at Kalangadoo will be a tough task," he said.

"We have been playing good footy for the last month so we will go over there, try to give

Double chance on the line

By James Murphy

PORT MACDONNELL v HATHERLEIGH

The Mid South Eastern football ladder could not be much tighter and it will be a race to the finish this weekend to secure a double chance in finals.

Port MacDonnell is now safe in top spot and the final four is locked in.

However, as we enter the final minor round there remains room for movement inside the four.

Second place - and with it a double chance - is up for grabs, as Hatherleigh sits level on wins with both Robe and Kalangadoo.

Just over two per cent separates the sides and as such Saturday's games will be all important.

Hatherleigh has the toughest task and a meeting with the Demons will put the in-form Eagles to the test.

They must win the top-of-the-table clash if they are to hold onto second place, as the Roosters and Magpies both face kinder fixtures.

Robe plays Nangwarry and should produce a percentage-boosting win, while Kalangadoo plays Glencoe and should also get the job done comfortably.

As such, Hatherleigh will seek to replicate its Round 9 performance, where it blitzed Port MacDonnell by 42 points.

That game was played in muddy conditions and had the Eagles hold their rival to just three goals.

William Chay was their best on the day, while Patrick Chay top scored with three majors.

For the Demons Ned Wilke was the top performer, while the likes of Colby Munro, Wade Chant and Mark Smith all come off solid games in their last outing.

Kev Thomson kicked a bag of five goals

TOP CONTEST: Hatherleigh and Port MacDonnell meet in a top-of-the-table clash to conclude the minor Mid South East football season.

against the Magpies in Round 16, where they bested the reigning premiers by 43 points.

Port MacDonnell has not lost a game since the Round 9 clash with Hatherleigh and enters Saturday's rematch off a string of seven wins.

The Eagles also held a seven-game winning streak, until a loss to Kalangadoo last round.

It is undoubtedly the match of the round and could go either way, but the Demons should enter finals with an eighth consecutive win on their home deck.

Magpies aim to climb high

By James Murphy

KALANGADOO v GLENCOE

The Magpies will be well placed for victory when they host Glence in Round 18 of Mid South Eastern football.

A win would guarantee Kalangadoo stays in the race for second place, but it will need to be by a decent margin to make up its percentage disadvantage.

The main threat to Kalangadoo's qualifying final hopes is Robe, as the Roosters play Nangwarry in what is sure to be a hefty percentage boost.

However, the reigning premiers will take confidence from their previous outing against the Murphies.

In Round 9 the Magpies dealt Glencoe a 35-point defeat.

If not for a third-quarter comeback where the Murphies piled on five goals, the damage would have been far greater.

Sam McManus and Zacc Cocks were the best players for their respective teams on the day, with both continuing to feature highly since.

Tye McManus enters the round off a best-on-ground performance against Hatherleigh, while Jack Casey, Ben Gregory and Sam McManus were the leading scorers for Kalangadoo last week.

Glencoe has been a solid unit in the second half of the season and the Magpies may find it a harder nut to crack this time around.

Dylan Childs has been in impressive form, as has coach Tom Edwards.

They are joined by the likes of Patrick Mitchell, Alex Hentschke and Cocks, who have all been impressive, while Tory Weaver has been the Murphies' main goal scorer this campaign.

Glencoe should put up a fight, but on the eve of finals the Magpies will be in full flight and hard to beat as they prepare for their premiership defence.

FINAL ROUND: The Magpies will look to swoop on Glencoe when they meet in Round 18.

Roosters nicely perched for surprise top-two finish

By James Murphy

NANGWARRY v ROBE

After a shaky second half to the season, Robe now has the potential to jump back up to second place on the ladder.

The Roosters visit Nangwarry for Round 16 and a big win is needed to gain the percentage required to jump Hatherleigh and secure the double chance.

However, should Hatherleigh lose to ladder leader Port MacDonnell this week, a win alone should suffice in handing Robe a top-two finish to the home-and-away season.

Last time the side played Nangwarry the margin was 113 points, with a similar outcome predicted this weekend.

The Saints will be buoyed by their second win of the season - the first time the club has achieved such a feat since 2012 - and will want to see the season out strongly.

However, the odds are not in their favour and the Roosters seem to have rediscovered their early-season form at the right time of year.

The return of some injured players has helped the cause and Nangwarry will be up against it on Saturday.

Henry Lawrie has been a standout for the Roosters this season and has been in their best 14 times from 15 games.

He will be well in the running for Mail Medal honours and enters the round off a best-on-ground performance against Mount Burr.

Coach Nathan Brown is also exciting to watch and he slotted three goals against the Mozzies.

After an interrupted season due to injury he will be eager to be back to his best heading into finals.

LEADER: Nathan Brown will lead his Roosters to a healthy win over Nangwarry this weekend.

For the Saints Tyler Virgo was the best of the bunch in their win over Kongorong, while the ever-reliable Andrew Hyland top scored with six goals.

Hyland sits second in the league goal kicking standings with 54 majors - an impressive feat playing in a side which has won only two games.

Robe should win comfortably and give itself the best chance for a top-two finish.

Kongorong Hawks desperate to avoid wooden spoon

By James Murphy

TANTANOOLA v KONGORONG

The only game which has no impact on finals whatsoever will be played at Tantanoola between the Tigers and Kongorong.

The only possible change the match can make to the pecking order is if the Hawks win.

That will lift them off the bottom rung of the ladder and hand the wooden spoon back to Nangwarry.

However, to say Kongorong has struggled this year is an understatement and the club song has not been sung by the A Grade since back in Round 4 against Glencoe.

That is the Hawks' only success for 2023, leaving plenty of work to do over the off-season.

Tantanoola on the other hand has put together some decent performances and currently has won five of its 15 matches for the year.

Those successes did not come recently though and the Tigers struggled against Glencoe last round, succumbing to the Murphies by 77 points.

The previous week they managed just three points against a ruthless Hatherleigh, which followed a 111-point thrashing by Port MacDonnell.

Jack Dawe will hope to lead his Tigers to victory to see the season out on a high, while the likes of Cade Kelly, Brandon Pitts, Bradyn Reilly and Troy Hatt have also been recent players of note.

Kongorong will look to the likes of vice captain Matt Cordy, while Will Vickery comes off a best-on-ground performance.

Ethan Norman, Lennox Lewis and Michael Waters have also been solid of late, but the odds are stacked against the Hawks again this week.

LAST HURRAH: Kongorong's Lennox Lewis will hope to help his team off the bottom of the ladder on Saturday.

Finals just around corner

KALANGADOO v GLENCOE

THE Mid South East competition concludes its minor season this weekend with the netball match of the round between top-placed Kalangadoo and Glencoe.

The Magpies have top spot tied up regardless of the result thanks to a healthy percentage advantage, while the Murphies are also locked into second place.

The aim for the Murphies will be to rock the still undefeated Kalangadoo before a rematch in the qualifying final in a couple of weeks.

Kalangadoo defenders Lauren Kain and Lara Munro combine well in the circle and will create havoc for Glencoe's Jenna Paproth and Chantelle Cocks.

Donna Jaeschke and Jane Auld will have a tough tussle through the midcourt, with both players fighting to create turnovers for their respective teams.

Kalangadoo goalies Ebony McDiarmid and Abbey Duncan combine well in the circle.

They move and shoot with accuracy, but will be matched by the pressure from Glencoe defenders Sarah Edwards and Chelsea Owen.

The pressure and drive down the court from both teams will be intense, with everyone fighting to win the ball.

A tough tussle will unfold which is likely to go the way of the Magpies.

PORT MACDONNELL v HATHERLEIGH

Last time Port MacDonnell and Hatherleigh met the two teams shared the points for Round 9.

Both sides will look to redeem themselves after the draw, although the fixture is a dead rubber with no movement possible on the ladder.

Eagles goalies Maddie Pulmer and Demi Vanderhorst will need to shoot with accuracy and face the pressure of Port MacDonnell defenders Alana Berkefeld and Alysha Coon.

Kate Faint and Shannon Scheidl will work hard through the court to earn possessions for the Demons, creating shooting opportunities for their team.

Elly Redden and Maddie Redman are a strong defensive combination for Hatherleigh and they will apply pressure to Demons goalies Megan Hein and Kori Collins.

The shooting duo will need to reward every turnover for their team in what could be another tight four-quarter tussle.

Once again the match has the potential to go either way, but regardless of the result it will be the final outing for both teams this year.

TANTANOOLA v KONGORONG

The Hawks make the trip over to Tantanoola this weekend to play off against the Tigers.

The hosts will be hard to beat, with Tantanoola holding third place while Kongorong sits out of contention in eighth.

Providing the game goes as expected and the Tigers prevail, they will finish the minor season in third place with an elimination final against Robe to come.

Both the Hawks and Tigers have a lot of drive with high work rate across the court.

Kongorong goalies Evie Sealey and Tilah Buckingham will work tirelessly to earn possession and put the points on the board for their team.

At the other end Tantanoola's Emma Gould and Keryl Ousey shoot with accuracy and move well within the circle.

They will be tightly guarded by Hawks' defenders Emily Lightbody and Riley Buckingham.

Tantanoola's Kate Varcoe and Kongorong's Rach Perry will have a tough tussle for any loose balls throughout the court, while Tigers defenders Kate Bromley and Tayla Rowe will relish any errors in the Hawks' attacking third.

This game should go the way of the Tigers, but Kongorong will play out the four quarters with gusto.

NANGWARRY v ROBE

Robe travels to face a winless Nangwarry this week and the Roosters are in the box seat for a good win.

Demi Carter and Tori Gluyas combine well in the goal circle and will provide headaches for Saints defenders.

The shooting duo are fed well from outside by centre Annie Regnier and Nangwarry's Kayla Gray and Carly Ploenges will be under constant pressure in the defensive third.

They work tirelessly for the Saints and are capable putting hands over ball and creating turnovers for their team, which will be worked back down the court with help from Claire Ferguson.

Nangwarry's Tahlia Wilson and Cassie Dinison are able to combine well in the goal circle and will need to shoot with accuracy, or chase up any rebounds.

Robe defenders Georgia Perkins and Emma Wheel will snatch up any loose balls and pressure the circle hard.

Robe will come away with the win and carry momentum into finals, while Nangwarry will look to improve next season.

Double chance lock

MILLICENT 54 d NORTH GAMBIER 43

It was a battle for the double chance when North Gambier headed to McLaughlin Park to take on Millicent and in the end the Saints earned the top-two finish.

The Tigers were missing starting goal attack Macey Griffith but fortunately had talented utility Luran Norman able to take that bib.

While she had not played with Grace Potts before, Norman was certainly a capable replacement.

It was a tight first half with Millicent leading by one goal at the first change and two at the main break.

The defensive pressure was through the roof from both sides as they looked to deny easy access to the respective sides' tall shooter - Millicent's Tabatha Sanderson and North's Potts.

Their direct opponents, Stella Mobbs and Portia McRae, did the best they could to deny access but it was a whole team project for both sides.

It was in the third quarter the Saints made their move, generating more scoring opportunities and extending the lead out to seven.

It was Demi Verbena's most productive quarter and the Saints' goal attack netted six from eight, on top of what was a four-quarter performance of providing accurate feeding to Sanderson.

CONTEST: North Gambier's Mel Renko and Millicent's Lisa Duldig fight for possession.

The Tigers just could not find a way to reduce the Saints' advantage.

Despite a perfect shooting performance from Potts in the final quarter, Millicent was able to post an 11-goal victory - winning every quarter on its way.

The news was not all good for the Saints, with reliable wing attack Daisy Tunkin dislocating her finger in the final quarter.

However, hopes are high with two weeks until Millicent's second semi-final clash with West Gambier, she should be right to go.

Tunkin's exit saw the mid-court rejigged and allowed Kimmi Tincknell into the contest after a month-long break.

In the end, both sides would have appreciated the finals-like hit out.

North now quickly turns its attention to a knockout semi final against East Gambier this weekend, while Millicent enjoys a week break before a qualifying final blockbuster with West.

Saints rise above the Tigers

"On the ground, he was super aggressive with his tackling and pressure."

Gallio was also impressed with the contributions from Hamish McRae, Dylan Tincknell and Jacob Carger.

"Dylan Tincknell was super in the backline for us," he said.

"He is just a competitor and does the team things really well.

"Hamish McRae, the last few weeks he has been giving us plenty of run through the midfield and Cargs (Jacob Carger) had probably his best game of the year.

"It was a four-quarter performance, he got a lot of the footy and drove the ball forward a lot for us."

Frazer Bradley led the way in the forward line with four goals for the Saints.

"His last few weeks have been really good, he is a good athletic kid and provides a good target for us," Gallio said.

For North, Sam Stafford put in a strong display despite the result with four goals for the contest, while Bradley Adams was best on ground.

The Saints now have a week off to prepare for a qualifying final against West Gambier, while the Tigers gear up for a must-win first semi final against South Gambier.

Good luck for all bowlers

This week 33 players took to the greens to play 20 ends of 2-4-2 bowls.

LUCK was on all players' sides at the Millicent Bowls Club, as the rain came just after the games had completed, with lightning and thunder.

With a good score of 36+30 shots up, the team of Peter Dunningcliff and Steve Skeer claimed the win, ahead of Malcolm Wright and Peter Scanlon with 35+31shots up.

Other winning teams for the day: Arthur O'Connell/Andre Reinders 34+11; Mary Clifford/Jim Campbell 32+18; Lurlene Reinders/Steve Carnellor 32+11; Terry Lonergan/John Buhlmann 32+5; Sam Schofield/Rod Gibbs 31+4; Graham Loveday/Ian Ross 31+2.

Meanwhile, the fortnightly Sunday social bowls saw 30 players take part in a 2-4-2 game.

After the completion of the game, members enjoyed a sausage sizzle before the winners were announced.

The winning pair for the day were Terry Barnes and Rod Gibbs with a score of 31+27, ahead of Alan Correll and Aaron Emonson with 29+14.

Vote for change on table

By James Murphy

THE Penola Football and Netball Club has passed a motion to vote on a change of leagues in 2024.

Approved by the club executive, the decision will now be put to the members with a vote held on August 31.

Should the verdict be in favour of change, the Eagles would leave the Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara league to join the six current Western Border football and netball clubs in a revamped seven-team competition next season.

"We will be going to a vote to see if we align with the six clubs who have been playing in the Western Border," Penola Football Club president Matt Tilby said.

"We are going to a vote with the need for a two-thirds majority (67 per cent) to head that way."

Tilby said the club has remained transparent with its members throughout the discussion periods, which had involved correspondence with the South Australian National Football League (SANFL) and Western Border clubs.

"We have tried to keep our members informed as best we can," Tilby said.

"We have worked through with both the football and netball juniors and seniors.

"Both committees have been working hard looking at what the future would look like down that way.

"We feel there is enough evidence to suggest it is an option for our footy club."

While there had been discussions with SANFL, Tilby said the state's sporting body had taken a backseat and was not dictating the negotiations.

"SANFL has overseen the process and have been there in the background, but they have left it fairly well to the clubs to see what we can work out," he said.

VOTE INCOMING: Penola Football Club president Matt Tilby shed some light on the coming vote for a change of leagues in 2024.

Picture: FILE

That has helped keep the best interests of the clubs at the centre of the discussions.

Tilby said many of the positives surrounding the potential move were focussed on Penola's junior ranks.

"In the junior competition they run down in Mount Gambier kids can get aligned with their clubs at the age of eight," he said.

"We have a separate school boys competition which doesn't follow our senior competition."

Tilby said the ramifications of that was Penola losing potential junior players to other clubs.

"We would be looking to join and have kids starting at our club earlier, which we see as a really big positive, rather than losing them to other clubs where they can play earlier - which has been a bit of a trend at Penola," he said.

In addition, not all clubs in the Kowree Naracoorte fill every netball grade, with some Penola teams not able to play each week as a result.

At this stage Penola is the only club in the mix to join the Western Border clubs.

"I believe the competition will have the potential to grow, but in 2024 if we were to join it would be a seven-team competition," Tilby said.

Information packs will be sent out to Penola members this week detailing the finer details of the move prior to next week's vote.

Eagles in the box seat as finals fever hits Penola

By Lachlan Onions

It is finals time in the Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara Football and Netball Leagues and once again, the Eagles are prominent.

Penola has hosting duties for the first final, with the second and third-placed sides from each grade doing battle in qualifying finals.

In the football, there is one team that has made finals for Penola and it is the Reserves, who finished the home-and-away season in second place.

The Eagles will contest a qualifying final at McCorquindale Park this Saturday, with the first bounce at 12.20pm.

Penola will take on the third-placed Kingston, with the winner set to take on the minor premiers Mundulla next weekend, while the loser will play the winner of Keith and Lucindale.

The Saints will head into this clash confident of a result as they claimed victory in both clashes against the Eagles this season.

The Reserves footballers will be joined by several Penola netball sides in finals this season.

This Saturday alone, there will be three netball sides in action at Penola and then one side playing at Keith on Sunday.

Penola's Division 1 girls will be the first Eagles side to take the court when they face Naracoorte at 10.30am.

In the two clashes between these sides this year, the game at Penola ended in a draw, while the Demons claimed a win on their home court later in the season.

The second team in action will be the A Reserves netballers, who will take on Border-town at 1.30pm.

The Eagles will be boosted by the fact that they have matched up well with the Roosters this season and have won both clashes this season.

Concluding proceedings at McCorquindale Park will be the A Grade netballers at 3pm when they take on Lucindale.

A blockbuster clash is expected in this game with the 2021 premiers taking on the 2022 minor premiers.

In the two meetings between these sides, the wins have been split one apiece.

Penola claimed a 21-goal win back in Round 7 but Lucindale won by eight goals on the weekend just passed.

Then, on Sunday, the 13A netball side will play a do-or-die elimination final against Border Districts at Keith.

In the two clashes between these sides, the games have been split one win each.

There are two other Penola netball sides in finals with the C and B Graders both having the first week off after claiming the minor premierships in their respective grades.

Heidi Muhovics impresses at Millicent

In lovely sunny conditions, there were 23 women who played a stableford round for the Heather Walker Memorial Trophy and the third round of the Olympic event at the Millicent Golf Club last week.

Kirsty Bailey claimed the victory in A Grade with a score of 34 points. She was closely followed by Robyn Walters, who scored 33 points.

Walters' round included a birdie on the 13th hole. Heidi Muhovics had the round of the day in B Grade with an impressive score of 37 points. Carmel Cory was runner-up with a score of 35 points.

Muhovics claimed the win in the nine-hole competition with 20 points on the front nine.

Bronwyn Clarke, Julie Howe and Sue Ireland were the ball winners. Kathy Webber was the nearest to pin on the third hole, while Julie Howe was the nearest on 13th.

Sharne Peacock was the nearest for the second shot on the fifth hole and Liz Redman was the closest for the second shot on the 17th hole.

MILLICENT 11.8 (74) d
NORTH GAMBIER 9.7 (61)

MILLICENT ended its regular season on a high note with a 13-point win in miserable conditions in Round 16 of Western Border football.

In a back-and-forth contest, Millicent coach Clint Gallio was pleased with the way his side held on to claim the victory headed into finals.

He said in a game like that, it would have been easy for his side to lie down with it having no impact on the ladder.

However, the Saints stood tall to claim a confidence-boosting win over North Gambier with finals now on the horizon.

"It was quite pleasing that the boys were able to hold on and fight it out to grab a win," Gallio said.

"It showed a little bit of maturity, we did not play the best footy but sometimes that happens.

"It was sort of a funny game, we controlled it early but they came back at us a bit and played some really good footy.

"If you drop a game like that with the week off, you have a couple of weeks to think about it, so it is always nice to win a tight game like that going into finals."

The Saints had the wind in their favour in the first quarter and used it to their advantage as they held North Gambier scoreless in the opening term.

However, Millicent could only muster up two goals in the quarter and only led by 15 points at quarter time.

The Tigers fought back in the second stanza with three majors and trailed 27-18 at the main break.

However, with the wind in their favour once again, the Saints began to show their class as they booted five goals in the quarter to take control of the contest.

Millicent held the upper hand at the final change with a 27-point lead but there was still a glimmer of hope for the Tigers.

North kicked four goals in the last term to claw back at the deficit but it was ultimately too little, too late, as the Saints held on to win by 13 points.

For Gallio, there were several players who stood out but none like Finn Grimes, who put in a best-on-ground performance in the ruck.

"He (Grimes) is just super competitive and a real team player," Gallio said.

"His last few weeks have been really good and on Saturday, he just competed and worked hard at both ends and a lot of the time gave us first use of the footy.
