MEMBERS and volunteers from the Naracoorte and Penola Men's Sheds hosted Minister for Human Services, Nat Cook while she toured the south east for the Country Cabinet.

Minister Cook visited both institutes to thank the organisations for building strong social connections for members and giving back to their local communities and received an update on the funds granted from the South Australian government.

"Sheds offer a safe space where local men are given the opportunity to feel productive, valued and belonging to a community," she said.

"The mental and physical health benefits of that cannot be underestimated.

"Quite often the projects these sheds are involved meet valuable community service needs, whether it be creating outdoor furniture for public spaces or mentoring high school students in the use of woodworking equipment. The effects of their labour and social interaction are far-reaching.

"I'm really proud of our government's commitment to supporting local sheds such as Naracoorte and Penola.

"I love visiting Community Sheds and seeing first-hand the amazing work locals are doing to support their members and their broader communities."

Naracoorte Men's Shed chairperson Ern Foster and vice chair Rob Wallis were among many members who welcomed the minister on Thursday October 26 at the facilities adjacent to the Naracoorte Sports Precinct.

"For some of our members, the shed is a place to gather and socialise, while for others there is the opportunity to work on a wide range of personal or community projects," Mr Wallis said.

"We have a comprehensive wood working workshop and a self-contained engineering workshop for members. We support other community groups where we can, such as making children's furniture for kindergartens or memorial sitting benches for sporting clubs."

The grants provided to the Penola and Naracoorte Men's Sheds included funding for Community Sheds, which was specifically developed to recognise the state government's election commitment to invest in community sheds around SA.

The Naracoorte Men's Shed was successful in securing two grants during 2022-23, to support it's growth, including $25,000 to build an extension to the current shed to house engine restoration, and another $18,000 to install a battery for their solar panel system.

"With the solar battery funding we received, we are firming up our power supply with the aim of making us independent of the power grid," Mr Foster said.

"As well as reducing our carbon footprint, we hope to make the shed a safe community hub in the event of power blackouts or extreme weather events." Penola's 20-member shed received more than $16,000 to increase the size of it's outside work area so than members can "move freely and safely around equipment and projects-on-the-go".

THE sun was out for the people and pups at the Pup-Star Party at Macs Hotel in Mount Gambier/Berrin on the weekend.

Showing support and appreciation for the South East Animal Welfare League, Macs Hotel and various local businesses came together to make the day a hit.

Organiser of the event Annie Facy said she decided to run the event as animals have always been important to her, and she wanted to support the South East Animal Welfare League.

"I've always been really passionate about animals and grew up on a farm and around animals all the time," she said.

"SEAWL had recently lost their funding and they were going through that at the time when I decided to do the event."

Ms Facy said that Macs Hotel had always wanted to try and host more family-friendly events and be able to support other local businesses and charities.

Businesses at the event included: Dip 'N' Clip Mobile Dog Spa, Mount Gambier Doggy Day Care, Hollie and Lucy, Collie Park, The Braid Bar by Shear Perfection, Perfect Paws Grooming and Boarding, Phil Ackland Photography, K9's with KAZ and Mismatch Brewing Company. Complete with free beer tasting, a pup obstacle course, and pet photography and prizes for the best dressed pup, the day was a success. Funds were raised on the day for the SEAWL from donations, raffle tickets and entry into the obstacle course.

Ms Facy said she was happy with the attendance on the day and she hoped the Pup-Star Party could be an annual event. "We've been really thankful for the support that we've had from the community for the event," she said.

South East Animal Welfare League (SEA-WL) president Trevor Twilley said the support for the league was felt throughout the day, and with the help of all businesses involved, has helped promote responsible pet ownership.

"It was excellent to see the amount of community support for SEAWL. It was good to see businesses come together," he said.

ering we have a very tight rental market at the moment," they said.

With the Department of Infrastructure and Transport running the government employee housing program a spokesperson said demand often changed and the house would be kept available, despite not being used for more than two years.

"As staffing needs change within towns due to relocations and recruitment of new staff, demand for housing can change at short notice," they said.

"Because of this, the department tends not to sell its vacant properties."

Minister for Infrastructure and Transport Tom Koutsantonis confirmed the property would not be sold, instead confirming he would ensure it was tenanted as soon as possible.

"I have instructed my department to ensure this property is tenanted as soon as possible, whether that be by government employees or for interim use as public housing," he said.

The former resident said it was great to know some action had been taken.

"But it is also disappointing that took a ministerial directive to make it happen and things shouldn't have to go to the minister when there is an asset sitting there doing nothing for two years," they said.

"The department should be a bit more proactive."

Glimmer of hope for Millicent swim season

CAROLINE HAMMAT

OPTIONS are being explored to see if the Millicent Swimming Lake can still open for at least part of this year's swim season.

Last week Wattle Range Council (WRC) staff assisted specialist aquatic engineers to gather soil samples and measure the lake's existing footings.

Thirteen bore holes and four test pits were dug as part of the geotechnical investigations which will assist with the design of a planned reconstruction of the lake.

It is hoped this report will be available in time for the next council meeting on Tuesday, November 14.

Depending on the report outcome, it is likely council will be presented with the option to undertake patch repairs to the lake's surface.

This would enable the swimming lake to be open for a shortened period over summer before reconstruction begins next year.

WRC chief executive officer Ben Gower said the council were exploring options to put a quick patch on. if they can.

"It all depends on the contractor's availability and timing and if the advice is confirmed we will be putting a window of opportunity to council," he said.

"We think it would cost about $100,000 to open. "We hope the council will be in a position to make that decision at the November council meeting."

Mr Gower said if the report information does not arrive until soon after the next council meeting then it is likely a special meeting would be held to minimise delays. Councillors will be available in the indoor trade hall at this year's Millicent Show to answer further questions about the project.

Premier shares good news

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

PREMIER Peter Malinauskas once again praised the Limestone Coast during his recent Country Cabinet meeting.

Last week, the South Australian Cabinet ministers travelled to the region to meet with key stakeholders before hosting a community forum.

Speaking with SA Today, Mr Malinauskas said he had been travelling to the Limestone Coast a lot since taking the top job, something which he said was "never really full blown work".

"I genuinely enjoy the region, the diversity of the industries and there is always something," Mr Malinauskas said.

"Country Cabinets are important because it gives communities direct access to the key decision makers across the state and across all portfolios... we also bring with us the chief executives of every department so we can respond to issues quickly."

He said ministers were expected to be across all big issues and projects, yet it was the "little things" which could make a difference.

"Sometimes it is the little things in which quick decisions can result in practical changes and help people's daily lives," Mr Malinauskas said.

"When people meet directly with the minister and the chief executive, the minister is able to ask what we can fix and sometimes it can just happen which is very rewarding.

"The Limestone Coast is one of the fastest growing regions in the state and is one of the most economically productive regions, the potential is enormous and Mount Gambier is the second biggest city so we have got to invest the time, effort and dollars to reflect the size of the opportunity."

Mr Malinauskas said the major cash injection announcements were not about future elections but instead about what the government said it was going to do.

"If we don't realise all the opportunities of the Limestone Coast, the whole state pays the price," he said.

"If we neglect regional South Australia that is at the expense of everybody, including those in the city."

Speaking on the recent changes to the media landscape in the Limestone Coast, after the launch of SA Today's Limestone Coast Today, he said regional newspapers were the "most powerful" source of local news which existed in most regional communities.

"Regional newspapers have become the touchstone of the community, whether it be from a sporting context, community and activity context or just important information sharing from both the local and state government, regional papers are the principal vehicle," Mr Malinauskas said.

"Without a regional newspaper how do people know about innovation within critical regional industries which might improve an opportunity for growth.

"This is the way information is shared and it is hard to think about a world without regional newspapers."

Mr Malinauskas said there always had to be innovation and new models of service delivery with the media industry being in a "highly competitive market".

"The way people consume the news evolves and it is important newspapers evolve with that," he said.

"It is important for people to appreciate that newspapers are not just a product, it is a service to the local community and it is important that service is treated as more than just a commodity."

Mr Malinauskas also said the new Limestone Coast Today model was a "thoughtful innovation" and he had every confidence it would have a degree of success.

LIONS CLUB OF MOUNT GAMBIER

THE Lions Club of Mount Gambier recently held its dinner meeting for October and was pleased to welcome Zone 11 chair Lion Beryl Mahoney to the club on an official visit.

In her address to the club Ms Mahoney highlighted the activities and community engagements that have kept members busy in recent times with the Mad Minute Project, Lions Eye Health program and various other activities occupying the member's attentions.

As chair Ms Mahoney is familiar with many areas of service that Lions Clubs in Mount Gambier and the South East generally engage in, within their various communities, and seeks to encourage Lions to continue to fulfil their desire to reflect their ethic to serve where there is a need.

It was a special situation for all present to have Ms Mahoney present Lion Graham Carter an Australia Lions Fellowship 50 year medal which recognises the extraordinary achievement of 50 years' service completed as a member of Lions International.

BETTER telecommunication may be on the cards for the Limestone Coast should the federal government commit to funding half the project.

The state government announced its contribution to a $27.7m project, committing $5.5m to help install 27 Telstra towers across the region.

The proposed locations of the towers were recently released during the state government's Country Cabinet visit last week and include areas such as Shaugh, Sherwood, Mundulla and Western Flat.

Other proposed areas include Reedy Creek, Stewart Range, Taratap, Blackford, Coles, Maaoupe, Penola, Mount McIntyre, Rendelsham, Canunda, Robe and Lake Hawdon.

There will also be towers installed at Beachport, Southend, Tantanoola, Kongorong, Conroe, Caroline, Moorak, Yahl, Caveton, OB Flat and Port MacDonnell.

It was recently reported the state government would provide its 20 per cent while Telstra would contribute 25 per cent to the overall cost and local governments would contribute five per cent to its specific tower funding.

It was also announced that the South Australian Forest Production Association would contribute both in-kind and monetarily to the project.

All councils within the Limestone Coast but Naracoorte Lucindale Council had confirmed its contribution.

Last week, Naracoorte Lucindale Council chief executive Trevor Smart stated elected members opted to not contribute its $140,728 over three years due to believing it was not their responsibility as a local government entity to fund what was "the private or federal government's responsibility".

During his visit to the Limestone Coast last week, Premier Peter Malinauskas said the TOWER FUNDING: South Australian Forest Products Association chairperson Tammy Auld with Tes-Itra regional manager Michael Patterson, Member for MacKillop Nick McBride, Premier Peter Malinkauskis, Minister for Emergency Services Joe Szakacs, Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell and Minister for Regional Development Clare Scriven.

Naracoorte Lucindale Council was entitled to a position and it could explain the reasoning for itself.

"My position is that if there is an opportunity for local government to work with the State Government and a big company like Telstra and the federal government to make the project happen then why should we miss out on that opportunity?" Mr Malinauskas said.

"People on the ground, individuals within a community, they don't want to hear that argybargy, they want to see people working together to deliver outcomes.

"We saw an opportunity to be able to do our bit as a state government and that is what Nick McBride and Troy Bell have been seeking to coordinate amongst us all and I think that is a good way of doing business."

Mr Malinauskas said this would deliver outcomes which were what people cared about and said during his meeting with the Naracoorte Lucindale Council he would not "neglect the opportunity" to discuss how he believed collaboration was in everybody's interest.

In response, Naracoorte Lucindale Mayor Patrick Ross the elected members discussed it twice and remained firm on its decision.

Mr Ross said Telstra had recently approached him asking whether elected members were inclined to provide an in-kind service.

"I said I would take that to the members and I have spoken to them informally and I will not be putting it as a motion to the chamber," Mr Ross said.

"The conduct of the chamber is very certain about the way they will vote.'

He said elected members were not opposed to working with other tiers of government in the future and remained firm its intention was to "do the best it could" for the community.

"The elected members of Naracoorte Lucindale Council did not vote against the money, they believe they are not in telecommunications," Mr Ross said.

"It will be interesting to see whether the federal government comes up with the money."

In regards to having the telecommunication towers enhancing fire prevention and emergency responses, Mr Ross said he believed the current government-run radio facilities should suffice.

"I do not know how telecommunications will help with fire prevention," he said. "At the moment the government radio network is the system all emergency services use here and in Australia that is an incredibly good system.

"We would prefer it if our first responders were not using their mobile phones because it just takes up space on towers unnecessarily."

Mr Malinauskas said the telecommunications had been an issue in need of being fixed for a "long period of time" with the community being "deprived of access" to the same quality mobile coverage which people in the city "took for granted".

"It doesn't just have implications in terms of inconvenience, it also has implications in terms of economic development as not having access to high quality mobile and data coverage means the potential which exists around them is not being fully realised.

"As a state government we have said there are a lot of opportunities in the Limestone Coast which have not been fully realised because of inaction from state governments in the past and now we are putting our money where our mouth is and making this investment to see economic return."

Road to improvements: Talking highway fixes

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

PLANNING is currently underway to define a program of works for a $500m commitment by the State and Federal Governments to deliver improvements to a number of highways, including the Dukes Highway.

Minister for Regional Roads Geoff Brock and Minister for the Department of Infrastructure and Transport Tom Koutsantonis confirmed the future planning which could include junction upgrades, shoulder sealing, new or extended overtaking lanes and roadside hazard protection.

Wide centreline treatments and further rest area improvements may also be on the cards for the highway's future.

Mr Brock said the South Australia's High Productivity Vehicle Network initiative in Infrastructure Australia's Early-Stage Proposal Priority List was aligned to the strategy and would involve the investigation of key highways across the state.

It would also include highways between state borders and the possible duplication on sections of the Augusta, Duke and Sturt Highways.

'Targeted consultation is underway for the network study with councils and other key industry stakeholders," Mr Brock said.

"It is anticipated the study will produce a strategic business case by the end of 2023."

He said the department would continue to liaise with councils after meeting with councils in the Limestone Coast during the Country Cabinet visit last week.

Mr Brock said there had also been a number of recent developments on other highways across the region including two new overtaking lanes on the Riddoch Highway, new junction upgrades on the Wimmera Highway for Teys and Qube logistics and completed pavement works on the Dukes Highway for the 2022-2024 financial year.

Speaking on the condition of regional roads, Mr Brock said the roads were "considered to be performing well" given the age profile of the road network and following a wet winter.

"The department undertakes regular maintenance inspections of its roads to identify defects and issues requiring maintenance response such as removing debris from the roadway," Mr Brock said.

"In addition, the department also encourages road users and the public to contact the 24-hour Traffic Management Centre for issues they may see that require urgent attention.

"Calling this number to directly report an issue allows the operator to ask for clarification and will result in a timely investigation and corrective action where required.'

The survey is expected to be completed close to the end of the current financial year with results being used to assess functional and structural conditions of the state network.

Weekend of blossoms, beauty

THERE will be three Open Gardens across Penola in the coming weekends, showcasing a range of colourful flowers.

Open Gardens SA has announced the Penola events which will be held on November 11 and 12.

Nancy's Garden is on a large block on the outskirts of Penola with views over the neighbouring paddocks.

There is a wavy ceanothus hedge at the entrance while the block slopes gently downwards to the house.

Modern and heritage varities of roses will be everywhere with a range of flowers in shades of soft apricot, cream and into yellow with hardy perennials and annuals adding bright splashes of colour.

There will also be cerise poppies, tall crimson hollyhocks, pink pigface, iris, salvias and geraniums, with wisteria and glory vine covering the pergola to make a lovely leafy ceiling over the outdoor eating area.

Winding paths link several spaces enclosed with flowers and foliage - one is set in readiness for a teddy bears' picnic.

Trailing plants smother and soften several sets of stone steps and retaining walls built to create level terraces for garden beds and for the expansive lawn.

A pair of magnificent old red gums tower over the swamp at the bottom of the garden where arum lilies, vivid blue water iris and reeds thrive, while an innovative boundary fence has been created from discarded star droppers and recycled timber.

Another highly anticipated Open Garden to be held on the same weekend is Weirs Lane which is a large country garden belonging to rose enthusiasts Jill and Geoff Eckermann, who, over many years have amassed an extensive collection of roses as well as beautiful trees, perennials and hardy succulents.

In spring, the roses put on a spectacular show of colour and perfume with a pretty support act of iris, perennials including salvias, bulbs and succulents, both in pots and in the ground.

The many roses are varied - there are lovely blowsy, modern cultivars as well as heritage varieties, bush roses, a number of the very popular David Austins and climbers - some planted to make a display of colour as they clamber up into trees.

With a backdrop of majestic old red gums, areas of lawn and paths wrap around garden beds filled with foliage and flowers.

Mature trees including three Chinese tallow wood, red oak, silver birches, and Cashmere pines provide shade and shelter, and give the garden a well-established feel.

The final Open Garden held on the weekend is the Kidman Garden.

Nine years ago, Suzie and Sid Kidman relocated to the town and after several years renovating their new home, created a smaller but equally pretty version of their former large farm garden.

Their town garden is compact but overflowing with roses, many perennials including hardy salvias, hellebores, agastache, foxgloves, delphiniums, daylilies, delicate Queen Anne's lace and other old-fashioned favourites.

A tall pittosporum hedge creates a backdrop for a border of roses with flowers in shades ranging from yellow to pink and into red, all underplanted with vibrantly coloured

Pots of annuals add extra pops of colour and throughout, there are succulents imaginatively planted in interesting containers.

Chinese star jasmine along the western boundary fence makes a lovely green outlook from the house and as well as providing perfume when in flower.

Nancy's Garden will be held at 12 Miamba Street, Penola while Weirs Lane will be held at 77 Weirs Lane and Kidman Garden will be held at 16 Hetherington Ave Penola.

All gardens will raise money for the Country Women's Association with general entry costing $10.

Children will be free while Open Garden SA members tickets will be $8.

All gardens will open at 10am and close at 4.30pm.

SOPHIE CONLON

sophie.conlon@tbwtoday.com.au

STATE government ministers have wrapped up their Country Cabinet visit to the region and Member for MacKillop Nick McBride said the visit was an example of why he left the Liberal Party.

While in the Limestone Coast ministers made a number of announcements, but the main event was the Country Cabinet which saw hundreds of community members have a chance to meet with ministers, have a face to face conversation and make their voices heard.

Mr McBride had been advocating for a Country Cabinet to be held in his electorate since the 2022 election and said his endeavours had paid off.

"In our region we prosper, we live well, we look after each other, but we also want support and we want advocation and this is part of that process," he said.

"I hope you can feel my endeavours as a state independent for MacKillop that we are here for the right reasons for MacKillop and the greater Limestone Coast."

Premier Peter Malinauskas said they had jumped at the opportunity to host a Country Cabinet in the Limestone Coast.

"It is not just because of Nick's advocacy, though that has been central to the effort, it is also because your government has a genuine interest in this community," he said

"I do think governments of past, of both political persuasions including my own, haven't necessarily given the level of attention that the broader Limestone Coast deserves.

"I say that for an obvious reason and that is that it is most populous region outside of metropolitan Adelaide, but more than that, it is one of the most economically significant.

"It is not a case of the community in the South East needing Adelaide, the actual fact is the other way around."

He said the purpose of the Country Cabinet was to engage with residents and they were "bloody awesome" events.

"They are unfiltered, they are unscripted, it is politics in the raw and sometimes that is not necessarily in our interest," he said.

VOICES HEARD: Limestone Coast residents had a chance to chat one on one with state government ministers when they visited the region for Country Cabinet. Picture: SUPPLIED

While all members of the state cabinet were present, they were also joined by the chief executive officers of every government department in South Australia, which Mr Malinauskas said gave the opportunity for immediate change.

Sixteen community members were able to have their voices heard during formal proceedings, and many more were able to chat one on one with ministers before and after the event.

A wide range of questions were asked, including several around access to better health care in the region, rare earth mining, and offering special education units in local schools.

Mr Malinauskas said ministers had been given some homework and issues that had been raised during the evening would be followed up.

"Thank you for coming along tonight, and also for the breadth and diversity of the questions," he said.

Mr McBride agreed and said there had been some magnificent questions from a broad base.

"They were well answered and supported by the government and the ministers in their response," he said.

Before the cabinet kicked off Mr McBride said he had received great feed back from constituents, and after he said he hoped it would pay off.

"Having all the ministers in the electorate is going a long way, I hope, to setting some sort of answers in place in the future," he said.

"This was a worthwhile cause, very supported and I am very very pleased.'

New brigade truck just in time for summer

CHARLOTTE VARCOE charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

KEITH residents can feel a little safer, with the Keith Country Fire Service (CFS) Brigade receiving a brand new 44 firefighting truck, just as the Limestone Coast heads into fire season.

The truck - worth $350,000 - was delivered to the Keith CFS brigade last week with Minister for Emergency Services Joe Szakacs meeting with volunteers and CFS deputy chief officer Georgie Cornish welcoming the vehicle.

Ms Cornish said the new truck would ensure the CFS brigade was "well placed" for the summer with the truck dedicated to responding to regional fires.

"The 44 is designed for rural firefighting with more water storage and this truck is a great update for the brigade in time for a summer which we know will see more bushfires than in recent years," Ms Cornish said.

"We also encourage everyone to start

kacs said.

"We want to get the best technology into the hands of our hard working volunteers and we are very pleased we are doing that.

"This is a truck which has had a significant value add from local South Australian jobs."

He said across the upper and lower south east there was a significant number of CFS and other emergency service appliances.

"The main take out for me is the extraordinary capability that our agencies have both individually but also the cooperation we see with the ambulance, CFS and the State Emergency Services working closely together."

The delivery comes as the fire season officially begins this month.

Mr Szakacs said he was pleased to help

Advisory council new date

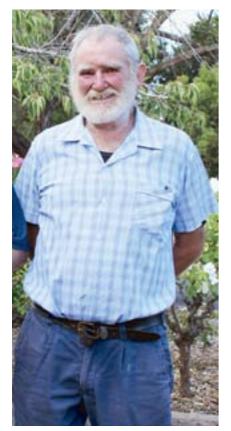

MILLICENT Health Advisory Council (MHAC), recently held their Annual General Meeting on October 19 but a lack of quorum has meant it will be reconvened.

Chair of MHAC, Kevin McGrath, is encouraging interested community members to attend the upcoming rescheduled meeting.

MHAC will have a trade stall at this year's Millicent Show in conjunction with the Millicent and Surrounds Health Support Group.

The stall will provide an opportunity to ask members about what is involved when joining the advisory council.

MHAC's AGM will be held in the Millicent Hospital Training Room on level one, Thursday, November 9 at 5.30pm.

NEW DATE: Chair of the Millicent Hospital Advisory Council, Kevin McGrath, welcomes all to the reconvened AGM.

Spotlight on council

Dear Editor

Local government is once again in the spotlight for matters including amalgamation and lack of nominations at election time.

Some suggest voting should be compulsory but a responsible vote will be best achieved where only the interested voters participate.

What benefit would result from the disinterested voters' influence?

Among the reasons for declining numbers seeking a council role could be that it is seen as mostly 'giving the nod' to agenda items derived from remote sources like State and Federal Government and even the UN.

In contrast, approval of building and development has mostly been removed from local council decision.

Keen councillors might prefer a more purposeful role.

I also acknowledge that individual councillors who attempt to represent constituents with views which differ from the mainstream can be ostracised.

Not very encouraging for independent thinking or the buzzword 'inclusion'!

The Premier recently tested the appeal for amalgamation with a poll of voters in the City of Mount Gambier and neighbouring Grant Council.

This was solidly rejected but the call for more amalgamations is again before us.

There is a need to consider the benefits frequently promised at the 1997 round of amalgamations.

In fact, there were none because the very few efficiencies were more than dominated by increased staff, including more middle management and deputies and more office space often requiring upgraded office buildings.

No increase in services or reduction of rates has been noticed. Amalgamation means the emphasis on dealing with "local' matters by local people is diminished.

Any form of centralisation means a loss of local input and the chance of a quick response to satisfy local people.

Good news for you: anticipation

NOEL MITAXA

A 17-HOUR flight from Dubai to New York meant booking a window seat to survey the scenery.

With a flight path encompassing the Middle East, eastern Europe, and Scandinavia, I also anticipated seeing some writer friends' towns along the New England coast as we neared New York.

As expected, after leaving Dubai, I saw the Gulf states, Iraq, and Türkiye, then the Black Sea and Crimea. But at Kyiv, thick clouds took over.

The sky finally cleared over the deep blue of the Baltic Sea, and as Sweden's long white coastline came into view, it reminded me of the wide sandy beaches back home in Australia. However, this "wide sandy beach" got wider, eventually blanketing Norway's spectacular fjords, and I realized that snow had replaced any sand. Soon afterwards, a very well-named Iceland interrupted the Atlantic Ocean's expanse.

As I pointed it out to my neighbour, who was from India, he gasped: "How can people breathe down there?"

For him, having only known the Himalayas, snowfields were high-altitude areas with limited oxygen; while as an Aussie, I expected an extended white coastline must surely mean that Sweden must have huge beaches.

Later, we soared over Greenland – surely an inaccurate name for such a vast whiteness.

But then my anticipated New England flyover evaporated, for we kept flying inland before unexpectedly turning to approach New York from the west.

Expectations are often shaped by experience, which makes it vital for kids to have regular positive, respectful input.

This helps to feed their creativity and sense of fun; and to delay the onset of cynicism or suspicion that flavour much of the adult world. Comedians and magicians mix our experience with our expectations, building the suspense before they ambush us with well-timed punchlines or sleight-of-hand tricks. Punchlines suddenly make sense; even if explaining or repeating them reduces their effect; while illusions can still baffle us even after several repeats, with the Magic Circle Club keeping members sworn to secrecy.

Faith enlarges our expectations; especially if life is turning stale or sour; for faith invites us to step into God's experience and insights, which far outstrip our own. Better still, God's punchline is for hope instead of humour; and he never uses sleight-of-hand.

God's secrets are open to anybody, because he loves us as we are, and he loves us - and everyone else - too much to leave us as we are.

Boost to firefighting efforts

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

THE south east will welcome an additional fixed-wing aircraft and a Black Hawk helicopter to help boost water bombing capacity in the region, bringing the region's aircraft firefighting fleet to six.

The announcement comes as fire danger season is expected to kick off this month.

Two observational helicopters will continue to support firefighting operations including advising ground crews on fire direction, size and spread.

It will also allow incident management personnel the ability to undertake real time reconnaissance work.

The additional aircraft was announced during last week's Country Cabinet visit to the Limestone Coast with Minister for Emergency Services Joe Szakacs and Minister for Regional Development Clare Scriven meeting with Country Fire Service deputy chief officer Georgie Cornish.

Deputy chair of the Green Triangle Forestry Industries Hub Laurie Hein was also in attendance with Member for MacKillop Nick Mc-Bride.

During the announcement, Mr Szakacs announced the State Government had contracted Helifarm and Aerotech to provide the service with the aircraft expected to be based at the Mount Gambier Airport.

"These are a critical frontline asset and they do an outstanding job," Mr Szakacs said.

"They are quick, efficient and the way we operate here across the state is that we want to make sure the first arriving firefighter can look up and see a plane or aircraft.

"Knowing that we are coming into a hot, dry season and knowing our fire activity is becoming frequent, more severe and more intense, we want to make sure we are prepared."

He said the state government wanted to have the best aircraft to support its communities and firefighters during the coming season.

"Most importantly we want to get the best tools that we can to attack those fires quickly," Mr Szakacs said.

Ms Cornish said the aircrafts would also be equipped with advanced technology such as infra-red sensors and high-definition cameras to further observe and strategically map our firefighting tactics.

"Aerial observation aircraft fly above the firebombers so that our aircrew can relay critical information to each other and to the pilots to ensure the water and suppressant drops hit their mark," Ms Cornish siad.

"It is an integrated firefighting approach and the support these aircraft and their pilots offer our crews is invaluable.

"The contractor's pilots are well trained in understanding bushfire behavior, terrain and weather conditions and each year, the Country Fire Service conducts extensive aerial exercise training drills ahead of fire danger season."

Mr Hein also welcomed the new aircrafts, stating the additional funding and support would go a long way in improving fire protection and early detection in the region.

'The forestry industry itself is continuing to invest through an industry funded helicopter over the last two years which will be upgraded to a larger capacity helicopter," Mr Hein said.

"We have just finished some work on the establishment of a new dam in a strategic location and it is proof of concept dams and that we work closely with the South East Drainage Board and the Country Fire Service.

"That has been a great collaboration and we appreciate their cooperation and we see this as one of a number of additional water resources which will service the region in the future and add to the capacity and aerial attack side of it."

Mr Hein said the industry would continue to work closely with the State Government to invest and manage fire "much better" than in the past

Both Mr McBride and Ms Scriven also supported the announcement with Ms Scriven noting the importance of increasing firefighting capacities for the local communities and key industries.

Mr McBride noted the recent bushfires across the Limestone Coast in recent years and said the best technology and information possible would put the community in "great stead" for protecting assets and people.

Club goes ahead in leaps and bounds

THE Millicent Gymnastics Club is going from strength to strength with membership more than tripling in the past 18 months.

Club manager Fiona McDonald said in 2021 the club had about 40 members; today it has about 200.

"Offering additional session days and classes has proven popular," Ms McDonald said.

"We offer flexibility in what we deliver, catering for various groups, including tailoring activities for NDIS participants.'

Ms McDonald said the support from the community has been tremendous.

"Adults have been embracing gymnastics contrary to the perception that gymnastics is only for young children," she said.

"The age group ranges from four months to 61 years old, with people travelling from as far away as Keith, Naracoorte, Robe and Mount Gambier.'

Gym members were busy last week clearing the Mary Whitehead Hall making way for the annual Millicent Show.

"It's a huge task and more than 30 members helped pack all the gym gear away for the weekend," Ms McDonald said.

"We have some amazing gear including equipment donated from the Sydney 2000 Olympics.'

Ms McDonald hoped that, in the future, the club will be able to negotiate with the Show Society to provide gymnastics displays during the show weekend in the hall.

"Given the growing popularity of gymnastics in the region, I'm confident that a display will provide mutual benefit by attracting more people to the Millicent Show and promoting physical activity to the wider community," she said.

"Along with physical benefits, gymnastics assists in building confidence and inadvertently strengthen an individual's mental

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Keith community is $250,000 closer to a revamped Don Moseley Park playground after the state government announced the surprise funding.

Members of the Keith War Memorial Community Centre gathered at the park last week to meet with Premier Peter Malinauskas, Minister for Planning Nick Champion and Member for MacKillop Nick McBride, to accept the funding.

In total, the project is estimated to cost more than $1m with the community already raising more than $500,000 between the Tatiara District Council contribution, a donation made by Bendigo Bank and a recent donation made from Variety South Australia.

The project plans include new sand play areas, log and rope ladders, platform towers, hidden caves, a timber boardwalk and a rockclimbing wall.

There will also be accessible shared paths and equipment in a fenced and well-lit space while the popular monorail and other public amenities will remain.

Memorial centre junior chair Sarah Secker said the surprise funding was wonderful and would help enormously to meet the initial goal.

"We did not dream we would get that much, we thought the Premier was just doing a regional visit," Ms Secker said.

PLAYGROUND FUNDS: Premier Malinauskas has announced funding for the Don Mosely Park.

"The children were quite surprised but are absolutely delighted and it is great to also hear the government backs charities like the Variety Bash and other contributors."

She said at the moment the committee was speaking with local tradespeople while still working off of conceptual estimates.

"I think now we have a really good figure on our hands because our vision is to revamp the playground and the park," Ms Secker said.

"Most of the infrastructure here is through either donations or projects facilitated by us so our vision for the playground is that it is really tired and at the end of its usual life.

"We want to put in a community asset which will keep the community going for the e next 20 years."

One of the main aspects highlighted by Ms Secker was the nature playground which she said would be really fantastic.

"We are regional and so I think having a nature playground makes perfect sense," she said.

"The community has been right behind us and this is a community of doers and the feedback has mostly only been good with only excitement."

Ms Secker said the community had only begun fundraising for the upgraded facilities in March which she said was a short amount of time in comparison to other community projects. "We are on the Dukes Highway and we want the playground to look pretty and we want it to be a big smile for people who come through and use our facilities," she said.

"It is a very important rest and revive spot and we know we are two hours from Mount Gambier and two hours from Adelaide and we are on the track to Melbourne so it is common sense that Keith is on the map."

Mr Malinauskas said the State Government was "attracted" to situations where multiple levels of government were cooperating to achieve outcomes.

"As a parent, playgrounds have a whole new value and meaning and they do add value to the community," Mr Malinauskas said.

"You have got to have things like this for children to be able to enjoy in a really healthy way and not only talk and engage with each other but also enjoy the company of others in safe environments such as the slide."

Mr McBride said he understood how important the playground was to the Keith community.

"As the local member, I am aware of the importance of this playground – not just to the local community, but to families travelling between Adelaide and Melbourne," Mr McBride said.

"It provides a welcome rest stop, and encourages people to discover, and spend time - and money, in this rural township."

Development for the playground is expected to be completed in late 2024.

Students searching for Cookie the chook

STAFF and students at Millicent's Newbery Park Primary School are hoping someone has seen one of their missing garden chickens, Cookie.

The brown chicken had returned from school holidays with her flock after being cared for by eco learning educator Angela Jones during the school break.

It was a hot day so the chickens had been allowed to free range outside their garden area but come lock up time the chicken was nowhere to be found.

Ms Jones and the students are still hopeful they might see Cookie come home.

"We are hoping there is someone nearby who might have adopted her," she said.

"The chickens are all very tame and friendly, she could have just wandered into someone's place."

If anyone has seen Cookie during the last two weeks, contact the school on 8733 2864.

MISISNG CHOOK: Angela Jones with Crispy, who looks similar to Cookie, is hoping someone may be caring for the chicken after she wandered off.

THE Millicent Show office has been a hive of activity over the last week as organisers are busy taking indoor and outdoor show entries and field non-stop phone enquiries.

Spanning three days the gates will open Friday at noon for the 146th annual show.

President of the Millicent Show Society Brett Keatley said all last year's favourites will be back and extra trade stalls had been booked.

'The speed shear went off quite well, the shearing shed was packed last year, so we decided to go with that again.

"We've got two eating areas, one between sideshow alley and the shearing shed called The Shearer's and the other one toward the lawnmower racing is called The Graziers.

"And Vera's Kitchen which provides a light lunch with all proceeds going to the show society

"Matt Bubner is back as our roving spruiker to let everyone know what is going on and when.

"Unfortunately there are no motorbikes again this year, we are hopeful we can still get them back next year."

With $12,000 in cash and prizes up for grabs the Speed Shearing event beginning at 6.30pm is sure to be a highlight off Friday night. The Millicent Speed Shear includes four grades Novice, Intermediate, Seniors and Open. In each grade there are cash and prizes up to fifth place and best local and best lady out of each grade.

Tegan Faulkner is organising the event and is keen to see the return of the Iron Man Competition which was a highlight of the 2019 Millicent Show shearing event.

The competition sees teams of four compete against each other. "They need to eat a raw egg, a dry weetbix, a couple of tablespoons of sugar and then skull a can of lemonade.

Then they need to shear a sheep on a pedal powered shearing plant.

"The crowd absolutely love this event, it's always a big thrill and a lot of fun.

"Shearer's can register on the day but we are discouraging it so we can get our sheep numbers organised ahead of time.

"We are hoping to have all our entries finalised by today.

Those interested in registering can contact Tegan Faulkner of Quality Wool on 0474 656 501. Following the speed shear event local band Incarnation will take to the stage and play old school rock and roll from the seventies through to the eighties.

The ever popular Friday night fireworks will no doubt draw a crowd and signal the night's end for some.

Gates open at 9am on Saturday morning with all the show favourites and some new drawcards. Australian Bush Buddies have recently moved to the region and are a new addition to the animal nursery.

The licensed wildlife demonstrator educators offer an intimate wildlife experience with the opportunity to touch and cuddle native Australian animals.

Wildlife educator Louise McKay said: "We will have things like saltwater crocodiles, squirrel gliders, baby ring-tailed possums and different lizards.

"Boo Boo our masked owl will be there, on a glove, that people can touch.

"We also have pythons that people can touch and hold themselves.'

This year's show also includes the Kid's Retreat for younger children on Saturday.

Children up to five or six years old are welcome in the white marquee which will include six volt car rides, face painting and other fun games.

Rob's Carriages is another new addition providing horse-drawn carriage rides around the show grounds. South Australian Lawn Mower Racing Association (SALMRA) returns as part of their lawn mowing racing competition circuit.

The Grand Parade is the forerunner to Garner's Demo Derby which is always a crowd pleaser and signals the end of Saturday's activities. Horse events continue on Sunday and the Showgrounds Market will be open until noon.

SHOWTIME: The Iron Man event is crowd favourite during the shearing competition.

Seawall to combat erosion

tyler.redway@tbwtoday.com.au

CONSTRUCTION on a $2.6 million seawall extension along Kingston SE's Wyomi Beach will commence next month to prevent any further damage caused by coastal erosion.

The project, which is aided by federal government funding, will have the ability to build two 170-metre extensions on either side of the existing 350-metre wall in hopes it will reduce costs of Kingston District Council's current sand nourishment processes.

Kingston District Council chief executive Nat Traeger said the council had been putting sand nourishment measures in place for the last three years until a conclusion could be reached on how the community wanted to deal with the issue.

Ms Traeger said the erosion in Kingston caused by storms and high tides had sped up to the extent where several houses and properties would be at risk of collapsing by 2030 if it wasn't for their sand nourishment.

"Essentially it's a sacrificial buffer zone, so we move all of the sand to one side of the sea wall and then the winter storms erode it away and behind it are geotextile sandbags," Ms Traeger said.

"Some of it is hard to tell because we move thousands of cubic metres of sand into the sacrificial buffer so it doesn't happen.

"If we hadn't done that, then it would have continued eroding and the current adaptation says this particular area in Kingston is eroding at a metre a year."

Ms Traeger said there would be additional risk to public assets such as powerlines, walkways and roads if there had been no precautionary measures taken.

She said the cost to maintain Kingston's coast had reached more than $10 million in the past five years, which the new seawall would help to reduce during the next 50 to 100 years.

PLAN IN PLACE: Kingston District Council chief executive Nat Traeger said the new $2.6m seawall extension would hopefully prevent huge damage and cost for the Wyomi Beach sandbank.

Ms Traeger also said the council's next priority would be the Cape Jaffa coastline, which had also suffered significant erosion damage to its region.

"Once we have finished our rock sea wall extension at Wyomi Beach, which should offer protection between 50 to 100 years, then we can move our attention to Cape Jaffa," she said.

"In this last winter alone, we have lost 27 metres of coastline."

Minister for Environment and Water Susan Close said there were many local challenges for South Australian coastlines, some which had to do with the way marinas had been constructed to disrupt the "flow of coastal processes".

"If you add climate change to this not only with the temperature but also the intense weather events, it causes damage which takes a very long time for nature to put back together," Ms Close said.

"We have all three of those issues going on all the time and we have a lot of coastline without much population on it.

"While councils and the state government does what they can, I think while we are starting to talk about dealing with the impact of climate change, we need to be talking to the federal government as well because it gets to a level of expense which is beyond any of us locally."

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE: Damage caused by erosion at Kingston's Wyomi Beach. Pictures: SUPPLIED

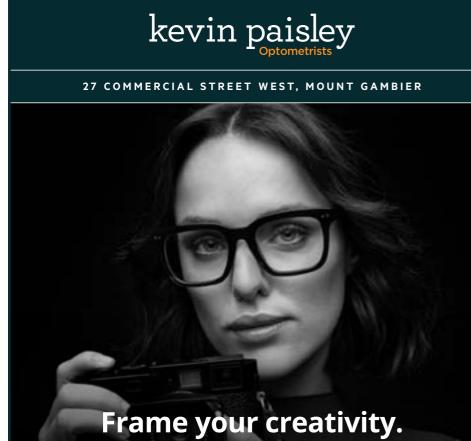

Ms Close said she wanted to better understand the pressures being put on coastal communities such as Kingston so the state government could respond accordingly.

"The biggest challenge for all of us is money, the impact of climate change costs a lot and we are all struggling with how to make priorities and how to spread the money around," she said.

"The $2.6m is a joint funding between the state and federal governments which has gone towards this, so I'm interested to know if this is going to be enough for the job or if there needs to be more.

"I want to understand what the pressures on the council are and what their short term plans in terms of coastal erosion are."

Minister grilled on healthcare

SOPHIE CONLON

IMPROVED access to health care and services in the Limestone Coast was one major concern aired at last weeks Country Cabinet.

During the cabinet session several community members shared their worries around access to vital health care in the region.

John Miller, a urologist who regularly visits Naracoorte Hospital, told cabinet services for urological patients in the Limestone Coast were lacking.

"I have been coming down for 25 years, I am a consultant urologist dealing mostly with bladders, prostates and kidneys, on three occasions I have attempted to work out of the Mount Gambier Hospital only to be thwarted by the system," he said.

"My colleagues down there are in the process of withdrawing their services because it is not manageable and Country Health SA does not seem to be doing anything about employing a urologist to work in this very prosperous and needy section.'

Minister for Health and Wellbeing Chris Picton said he was aware there was a lack of urologists in the Limestone Coast and said he had discussions with Limestone Coast Local Health Network (LCLHN) chair Grant King.

"I know they do have this on their radar in terms of trying to recruit somebody," he said.

Dr Miller also expressed his concerns with not having a da Vinci Surgical System, a machine used in complex surgery using a minimally invasive approach, available within the state's public health system. Mr Picton said there was an arrangement with St Andrews Hospital allowing public patients to access their machine and the Royal Adelaide Hospital was working on bringing the first public machine to the state. "That is the first one we will have access to and then there will have to be future consideration on additional machines in other health care regions across the state," he said.

"I think we need to bring that back into the public system I am very much of the view that where we can do things ourselves in the public system then that is a much more preferable outcome." Lucindale resident Geoff Robinson addressed the cabinet and said the community was concerned with Country Health Connect changing the access to community nurses at the Lucindale Medical Centre.

"This limits the access of residents at Lucindale to have face to face advocacy services, if the people of Lucindale do not know if the staff are available on Monday, Wednesday or Friday this will eventually discourage people from accessing the service," he said. Mr Pic-ton said instead of having a nurse at the centre with no appointments booked on a Monday, Wednesday or Friday, the LCLHN was looking at spreading appointments across the week when there was a demand.

"Obviously that's not meeting the expectations of Geoff, representing the community," he said.

"I think we need to have an opportunity to sit down at work that through, obviously it is important that we maintain those local nursing services for people in Lucindale and do it in a way which is going to get the most effective outcome." Another health concern was aired by Limestone Coast Radiation Treatment Working Group member Deanne Carmody who spoke about about the need for radiation treatment in the region.

"I just want to extend another invitation to you both, Mr Picton and premier, to visit us in Mount Gambier and to discuss this further with the working party," she said.

Mr Picton avoided the invitation, but acknowledged the work the group was putting in and said the feasibility study currently underway would determine if radiation became available at the Mount Gambier and Districts Hospital.

OUESTIONED: Minister for Health Chris Picton answered guestions from the community on Thursday.

Scholarships on offer

THE Stand Like Stone Foundation is seeking scholarship applications from students of the Limestone Coast.

Scholarships are open to students of all ages who are seeking financial support to achieve their educational goals in 2024, from kindergarten through to tertiary and trade based studies.

Stand Like Stone Foundation CEO Roger Babolka said the educational scholarship program was designed to support people and their education who have a connection to this region.

"From our scholarship round last year, we were able to offer 30 students across our region with $75,000 in scholarship grants," he said.

Kelsie Wilkinson is a former Millicent High School student, and was successful in obtaining a scholarship Rackhams sub fund last year, and through the Millicent High School sub fund in 2021.

These scholarships have assisted Kelsie with the financial costs of study and have allowed her to obtain her Bachelor of Secondary Education (Honours).

"An aspiration of mine has always been to return to the Limestone Coast area and to be a teacher in the local schools, giving back to the community who helped me achieve my goals," she said.

Mr Babolka said that the ongoing generosity of donors is the reason they are able to to continue supporting local students in a variety of ways, whether it's paying for school fees, assisting with the purchase of course equipment, assisting with general living expenses or accommodation costs for students studying away.

"We're extremely proud of what our scholarships can achieve, so we really encourage all those students and families in the Limestone Coast that are needing some support to get on board and apply," he said.

Scholarships are now open, with applications closing November 30. Application forms and further information are available from www.standlikestone.com.au.

Vibrant year of arts ahead

NEAVE MOORE

COUNTRY Arts SA has announced big plans for the 2024 program, including new exhibitions, stage shows and performances and music events for the south east region.

At the Country Cabinet, Minister for Arts, Andrea Michaels assisted Country Arts SA Chief Executive Anthony Peluso in launching the 2024 program from Naracoorte High School where visiting local government elected members, the Limestone Coast community and members of state government were able to attend.

Mr Peluso said that together, the community shares an understanding that arts and culture offers an opportunity to come together and celebrate what's great about the community.

"It gives us moments to reflect on our lives, the lives of others and to make out community a more vibrant, diverse and exciting place to live and work... and that is the ultimate goal for us in the country and society, that all of us can live regionally and work in the arts at the same time," he said.

"This year has marked a milestone for Country Arts SA, it's 30th year bringing regional South Australians together with amazing art experiences.

"Over that time we have provided $12.75 million in support for for visual artists and groups and hosted 48,248 events which 9.6 million people have enjoyed."

Minister Michaels announced the statewide tour of First Nations dance company Bangarra with their major new work, Yuldea, which will be performed in Mount Gambier.

"Each year we look ahead with renewed vigour to another stand-out season and arts opportunities to enrich and enliven regional South Australia," Mr Peluso said.

"Next year is no exception and we look forward to sharing Bangarra's exquisite Yuldea across the state.

"Bangarra is one of the nation's finest contemporary dance companies bringing inspiring Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander experiences that promote awareness and understanding of First Nations culture."

Also to visit the Limestone Coast are events including Marcia Hines - Still Shining - The 50th Anniversary Tour, Harbingers: Care or Catastrophe, Symphonie of the Bicycle, 360 Allstars, and the Paper Boats' Seven Little Wonders.

EROSION: Southend residents met with three levels of government in front of the town's closed main beach.

CONCERNS: Deputy premier Susan Close met with managers of the Southend Tourist Park Claire and Jack Hubbard who show the extent of the damage impacting the park.

Pleas for action on erosion

CAROLINE HAMMAT

SOUTHEND residents gathered at the town's beachfront caravan park last Thursday to meet with three levels of government.

Minister for Environment and Water Susan Close visited the town to hear community concerns about erosion of the town's main beach.

Federal member for Barker Tony Pasin, Member for MacKillop Nick McBride, Wattle Range Councillor (WRC) Sharon Cox and WRC director of engineering services Peter Halton were also in attendance.

Mr Pasin had previously invited Ms Close to view the erosion threatening the caravan park and listen to community concerns first hand.

"I do appreciate you coming following the invitation," he said.

"It's one of those things that it doesn't matter how much you read, until you stand here and look at it you don't get it."

Mr Pasin urged the work be expedited and that state and local government partner so the work could be "taken to the next level."

"If there was a co-investment in the co-design process to solve this problem then there would be a greater level of faith in the commu-nity going forward that actual infrastructure build would be met," Mr Pasin said

Mr Halton asked the minister to look out for the council's recent grant application for sand replenishment.

"We have put in the application for $80,000, with $20,000 coming from council, to at least get sand here for a stop gap," Mr Halton said.

"Currently the beach is closed in this section

"If you have a look at the escarpment it is just horrendously dangerous.

"That is not ideal coming up to summer and it's not ideal for the community to see their main beach closed.'

Manager of the Southend Tourist Park Claire Hubbard said the minister of the issue they face as a business.

"It's really hard to get people in when I have to add a disclaimer with every conversation by telling people you can still see our beautiful beach but you can't actually access it, you have to go a few hundred metres," she said.

"If they can't access it, they aren't interested and are looking at booking elsewhere.

"It's really disheartening."

Southend resident Mark Fabris raised concerns about the Lake Frome outlet.

"You can see now the benefits of diverting excess water into Lake George, the water running out here kills our seagrasses which causes erosion.

"Diverting water into Lake George and sorting out Lake Frome is all part of it.

"It's all interconnected."

In response to the issues raised Ms Close said the state government were able to secure a grant from the federal government for a wall at Kingston SE.

"My hope is that if we can get a good design here we can get some federal money and state money,' she said.

"This has got a lot of merit and I understand that you are in danger of losing the commercial heart of the community.

Before leaving Ms Close acknowledged the residents who made an effort to meet with her. "I really appreciate that you bothered to come out," she said.

"I've heard it, I'll share it with my colleagues, get the report, do the analysis and then we will go forward."

Other issues raised by community members were the condition of the Southend jetty and the Southern Ports Highway intersection.

Shining a light on our history

tyler.redway@tbwtoday.com.au

KINGSTON locals are looking to seek help from the state government in order to maintain and upgrade the historic Cape Jaffa Lighthouse.

Kingston SE National Trust secretary Alison Stillwell said the lighthouse was a very important landmark due to its connection with so many members of Kingston's community.

"It is associated with so many people in this community on so many levels whether they are descendants of keepers who worked on the station, whether they were involved with its relocation or whether they have just been involved as volunteer guides now it is a museum," Ms Stillwell said.

"We would like to be able to access any sort of funding opportunities we can and generally have their support for the importance of this structure and what it means to the state."

Ms Stillwell said there was no particular target for the amount of funding, but said there needed to be more specification on what needed to be done to improve the lighthouse's structural integrity.

Kingston National Trust chair Maureen Andrews said the Cape Jaffa Lighthouse played a "pivotal role" in Kingston's identity as an iconic tourist landmark and a piece of history.

Ms Andrews said while there was funding available from the Department of Heritage, it would not be enough to fully resolve some of the issues facing the lighthouse.

"It's important not just for this community but in the context of the Shipwreck Coast trail, Kingston is also a part of that fascinating coastal history and the stories of the intrepid keepers and their families," Ms Andrews said.

"There are some funding opportunities directly from the Department of Heritage, but it isn't nearly enough to deal with the sorts of issues we have here, especially if we want to do a good job so it will last ten years and beyond.

LONG WAY UP: South Australian Deputy Premier Susan Close and Kingston National Trust secretary Alison Stillwell climbed to the top of the Cape Jaffa Lighthouse while admiring the view of Kingston's unique coastline.

"We believe this structure has significance way beyond this community and we would like to see it being recognised."

Ms Andrews said the Kingston community was currently working towards raising funds for the lighthouse project, but it would not be enough to complete the task without aid from the state government.

PRESERVING HISTORY: Kingston National Trust secretary Alison Stillwell explained to Deputy Premier Susan Close what needed to be done to the Cape Jaffa Lighthouse in order to help preserve its extensive history and its deep-seeded connection to the Limestone Coast.

SHINING A LIGHT: South Australian Deputy Premier Susan Close, pictured centre, was welcomed to Kingston SE by Member for Mackillop Nick McBride and Kingston National Trust secretary Alison Stillwell, who presented the minister with the Cape Jaffa Lighthouse's current state.

"We are looking into the hundreds of thousands in order to get the job done, it is going to be more than a few cans of paint and some sandpaper," she said.

"The deep-seeded corrosion issues have to be properly dealt with or it won't be worth doing the job at all.

"Our worst fear would be we may have public access constraints because it would be deemed unsafe, it would be incredibly heartbreaking."

During her visit to the Cape Jaffa Lighthouse, Minister for Climate, Environment and Water Susan Close said while structures like the lighthouse were crucial parts of South Australian history, there was still a lot of expenses when it came to upkeep.

"Obviously without the volunteers from the National Trust, it would not be possible to have these, so I am very grateful to those volunteers who choose to put their time and effort in," Ms Close said.

"Every so often we do need to find ways to find additional works which reach beyond the volunteers.

"It's an important injection into this kind of maintenance but I am grateful we have members of the community who have chosen to keep this lighthouse going, not only as a piece of history but more importantly as a place for people to learn about that same history."

Ms Close said there were regional grants available which provided as much as $250,000 for stage heritage locations, which any organisation could apply for freely.

"I wanted to see it for myself and meet the local volunteers first and then we will have a look at if any of those grants can be looked at to see if we can support some funding here," she said.

"Listening to the two experts, their real concern is this is, of course, a hostile environment for metal objects due to the salty air and the harsh weather.

"There is a lot of concern from them how there needs to be a thorough repainting particularly for the understory but I don't know how much that will cost and I don't know the expertise required but I do know this is an expert level job and requires more than volunteers getting together."

Time to rock on the rails after five-year hiatus

CAROLINE HAMMAT

THE long dormant Millicent railway line will soon be rumbling again but this time with the sound of rock and roll instead of trains.

Local community radio station 5the FM is revitalising the Rock on the Rails event which first made an appearance in 2018 but hasn't been held since.

It is the second major fundraiser the station will host this year following the successful Spicks and Specks Trivia night held recently.

Committee member and host of the popular Wednesday Night Experience program, Chris "Cutthroat" Copeland, is part of the small sub-committee organising the event.

"The Spicks and Specks trivia night went really well with 280 tickets sold, if we get the same kind of numbers I'd be happy" he said.

"Rock on the Rails was tried a few years ago and this will be vastly improved, we've put together a good show of local artists.

"Our aim is to improve this, we've got a dream to make this bigger and have a nice annual music festival."

The line-up includes local solo artists Jack Lane and Jason Baker performing the first two sets of the afternoon.

As the evening sets in Limestone Coast bands Stamina, Smelling Salts, Incarnation and F.R.F (formerly Jimi Top) will perform, with Millicent band Oath finishing off the evening.

The railway lands behind the station will be fenced off for the event with Stef's Transport supplying a trailer for the bands to perform on.

Ticket holders are welcome to bring along blankets, bean bags or chairs to set up on the grassed viewing area.

Several local food vans, an ice cream van and a coffee van have been booked and tables and a seated dining area will be available. LET'S ROCK: Chris Copeland and Jack Lane, with station mascot Bear, are encouraging people to save the date for the upcoming rock festival.

"We encourage people to come along, support the radio station and enjoy a good afternoon of local live music which we don't really have anymore" Mr Copeland said. "This is the start, we are hoping to build on this to get bigger name bands." Free entry for those under 13. Rock on the Rails will be

Tickets can be purchased online and are $15 for non-members, $10 for members and free entry for those under 13. Rock on the Rails will be held Saturday, November 18, 2pm-9pm and tickets will be available at the gate.

New rooms

FOUR newly-built premium single rooms will be available at Resthaven Mount Gambier from mid-November, following a renovation at the home at 24 Elizabeth Street.

Manager Belle Kerr, said the four new rooms are very spacious, with high ceilings and wide doorways.

"They are in a great spot on the ground floor, with close access to a dining room and a lovely internal courtyard," she said.

"They all have modern ensuites with brand new fixtures and fittings, along with smart TVs with WiFi.

"Our light-filled home features a cafe area, communal hall, multiple lounge areas, and a pool table.

"There are also delicious meals cooked fresh onsite, and a dynamic lifestyle program with games, craft, bus trips, and concerts.

"If you are interested in joining our vibrant site community and enjoying one of the beautiful new rooms on offer, give us a call on 8726 3400 to arrange a tour."

Established in 1935, Resthaven is a South Australian not-for-profit aged care provider, offering the full range of aged care services throughout the Limestone Coast, metropolitan Adelaide, the Adelaide Hills, Murraylands, Riverland, Fleurieu Peninsula and lower Barossa region.

THERE are some benefits to being an older citizen, for some it means the chance to wind back their working commitments, take more time to enjoy family or even being able to pack their bags and enjoy some travel.

For South Australians over the age of 60 years there are some benefits to be had, such as discounts on meals, health and wellbeing products, retail, cinema tickets and so much more.

The South Australian Seniors Card is available to permanent residents who are aged 60 or older and who are not working more than 20 hours per week in regular paid employment, with part-time and casual employees being able to average their hours over a 12-month period. HOW TO APPLY

IOW IO APPLY

To access a free Seniors Card, residents can apply online or pick up an application form at a South Australian public library.

When applying online be prepared to have either a driver's licence, medicare card or pension card number to confirm identity or when signing the form a witness aged over 18 years must sight a proof of date of birth such as a birth certificate, passport or driver's licence.

The card should arrive in about two weeks along with a copy of the Seniors Card Discount Directory, Your Lifestyle Guide which lists a multitude of discounts and benefits that have been offered.

HOW TO USE

A list of businesses and organisations which endorse the SA Seniors Card can be found on the website listed below, and some will have the option displayed in literature such as a menu or pamphlet.

The only thing card holders have to do is ask for the discount and produce their card.

One of the best uses of the card can be during holidays or trips around the state, with discounts such as enjoying 18 holes of golf at Lucindale Golf Course for $20, getting cheaper rates at the Corny Point Caravan Park or enjoying a meal at pubs around the state.

Not only can the card be used in South Australia, but when travelling interstate most businesses and organisations who support the individual state government seniors cards program will allow holders to use the SA card.

Special offers such as discounted tickets to theatre performances, concerts and festivals are continually listed on the website, offering some great savings as either a percentage or set discounts for admission tickets.

Inclusive SES unit thriving

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

MULTICULTURALISM within the Bordertown State Emergency Services (SES) unit is alive and well.

The unit has been recognised in the past for its diverse crew, with a large number of its members being migrants.

Long serving Bordertown SES volunteer Zandro Stamaria said he first volunteered in 2009 after moving to Bordertown for employment.

"Being a part of the SES is tough but it is more of a choice," Mr Stamaria said.

"When I came to Bordertown people welcomed me and my family and so in return I joined the SES and I have never regretted it."

He said although there were tough times the volunteers would encounter he was still happy to help the community during "unfortunate events".

"You cannot describe the feeling when out of nowhere someone you do not know comes and thanks you," Mr Stamaria said.

"I would ask them 'for what?' and they would tell me I helped them out and that is priceless."

He said since joining the SES it had helped him become part of the community and also allowed him to reach out to the community as well.

"It is a small community and everyone knows everyone but it helps," he said.

Tatiara District Council mayor Liz Goossens also commented on the benefits having a multicultural community has had.

"It has been fantastic and there are certainly a lot of volunteers who are part of the unit," Ms Goossens said.

"But it is also the fact they are bonding within the community and you cannot bond much more than going out to an emergency and working together and we desperately do need them to be a part of our community."

She said the broader community had embraced overseas workers and volunteers and said it was fantastic to have so many join the SES.

"We certainly value the fact they want to be part of the emergency services teams and make this their home now."

The diversity of the unit was first acknowledged in a national report in 2018.

The report, 'Building Capability in Emergency Services: Diversity and Inclusion in Communities' highlighted the large number of volunteers from the Philippines who also live in Bordertown.

Speaking last week, chief officer of the South Australian SES Chris Beattie said part of that report involved investigations and research into diversity in foreign emergency services.

"Given the multicultural nature of the community and Bordertown, this unit was a national showcase with regard to its integration of people from a whole range of countries," Mr Beattie said.

"Whether they were working at the meatworks or in the local industry, contributing to the local emergency services was seen as leading the best practice in terms of bringing communities together."

He said the local unit also recently had a large number of Fiji and workers who had joined the unit, completing their road crash rescue training.

"Unfortunately as we know this part of the state has its very unfortunate fair share of motor vehicle accidents and so it is important that we have those sorts of capabilities," Mr Beattie said.

"I think for people that come to work in places like Bordertown from other parts of the world, being part of the emergency services gives them a network and a good connection to the broader community."

Printing press to call local art gallery home

NEAVE MOORE

THE Naracoorte Regional Art Gallery will receive funding for the purchase and training of a new printing press, following popular feedback from the visiting Barbara Hanrahan print exhibition in early 2023.

The press will be funded by the South Australian government and was put forward as a project to be considered by Naracoorte Lucindale Council Arts and Culture Facilitator Jane Ellis, following positive feedback and interest from workshops and an exhibition earlier this year.

Two workshops involving Drypoint printing and Lino printing were hosted by Sally Caston, an Adelaide Hills artist in June.

Gallery secretary Lesley Cook said that Barbara Hanrahan's work was "extraordinary" and the workshops provided created lots of interest in the community.

"On the last day the girls came in to me and said 'we need to keep doing this'," she said.

"We applied for a grant somewhere else but didn't get it so I mentioned it to Jane and she is our local representative with Country Arts SA and unbeknown to me she had a meeting with them and put forward this project."

Ms Cook said that the next step for the Gallery will bring together a printing group now that a printing press can be funded.

"It is a very simple printing press but we will have to have some training before it can be used," she said.

"It will be very precious so we want to make sure that we take care of it, when we have it."

Marking a milestone: Six decades of society

THE Millicent Field Naturalist Society recently held a morning tea and memorabilia display to celebrate 60 years since they first formed in 1963.

To commemorate the anniversary further, the group decided to install three seats along the walking track at the Penola Conservation Park.

Group member Rosey Pounsett said it was their way of marking the occasion.

"We wanted to commemorate the 60th anniversary in such a way that would assist people to enjoy the natural spaces in our region," she said.

"At our last working bee, we installed the last of the three seats and put commemorative plaques on all of them.

"We also assisted with the clearing of the walking tracks."

Although the group heard lots of birds during the working bee they were preoccupied with the task at hand and were unable to compile a list.

Members did sight a red-necked wallaby and an echidna.

Telford Scrub Conservation Park will be the group's next outing planned for Sunday, November 19.

The outings are free for anyone to join with more information available from the Millicent Field Naturalists Society.

MILESTONE: Millicent Field Naturalists attach plaques to the recently installed commemorative benches.

NEW SEATS: Barry Schriever, National Parks and Wildlife Services Ranger in charge of Mount Gambier Area Parks, with members of the field naturalists, Stewie Pounsett, Sue Black and Helen Bawden.

Remembrance Day Lest We Forget

"At the going down of the sun and in the morning, we will remember them"

MINUTE OF SILENCE: Paying their respects on Remembrance Day.

They will be remembered

AS a mark of respect to those who have died and suffered, Australians are encouraged to pause at 11am on November 11 to observe one minute's silence and reflect on the loss and suffering caused by war.

The idea of one minute's silence was first suggested in a letter published in the London Evening News of 8 May 1919 by Edward George Honey, an Australian journalist working in london, who proposed "five silent minutes of national remembrance" as a tribute to the war dead.

King George V tested the practicality of five minutes' silence, and issued a proclamation on 7 November 1919 which called for two minutes' silence.

At 11am on 11 November 1919, Australians paused for the first time in silent tribute to the members of the 1st Australian Imperial Force (AIF) who had died in the First World War.

In 1997, the Governor-General issued a proclamation urging all australians to observe the one minute silence on Remembrance Day.

Traditionally, poppies are worn on Remembrance Day. The tradition has its origins in a poem written in 1915 by Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae, who was inspired by the thousands of red poppies that grew across the battlefields of the Western Front.

Story set in stone

THE Australian War Memorial this year unveiled a sculpture of Lieutenant Colonel Vivian Bullwinkel AO, MBE, ARRC, ED, in the grounds of the Australian War Memorial, the first of an individual nurse or woman.

This sculpture stands as a constant reminder of her exceptional military service and importance to the story of Australian nursing.

A collaborative project with the Australian College of Nursing, the sculpture recognises not only Bullwinkel, but all Australian nurses who have lost their lives, survived atrocities or made sacrifices while serving their country.

"I'm inspired by the thought that generations of children to come will see a figure in bronze of a nurse and midwife at the Australian War Memorial," Australian College of Nursing CEO, Adjunct Professor Kylie Ward, FACN, FACHSM, Wharton Fellow, GAICD, said.

"The sculpture will be a powerful and long-lasting symbol of nurses' selfless service to Australia and its citizens whether in war or in peace."

Dr Charles Robb, a Brisbane-based artist, was chosen to create the work through an invitation design submission. Robb's work tells more than just Bullwinkel's personal story, but has captured the challenges and accomplishments of all Australian nurses.

"I've had the joy of spending the last few years spending time with and obviously working on the sculpture but also researching into Vivian's awe-inspiring life," Dr Robb said.

12645617-ET44-23

"The key thing that I wanted to achieve was to capture a likeness and a sense of the way she carried herself in the world. This quite strong and self-contained individual while reflecting the perseverance that drove her."

The sculpture includes 22 inlaid stainless steel discs reflecting the 22 victims of the Banka Island Massacre. The discs are arranged at the base of the sculpture as a reflection of the stars that would have been visible in the night sky on 16 February 1942.

Australian War Memorial Director, Matt Anderson said: "We are deeply grateful for the opportunity to commemorate Vivian Bullwinkel."

"Vivian's name should be renowned in every Australian household, as should the story of her inspirational life as a courageous leader, a proud nurse and the first woman to serve on the Council of the Australian War Memorial."

Head of art at the Australian War Memorial, Laura Webster, said: "Charles Robb has created a truly moving sculpture that represents the strength, kindness and warmth that comes across from reading about her incredible life."

"Vivian Bullwinkel's story is now set permanently in bronze at the Australian War Memorial."

EXCEPTIONAL SERVICE: The sculpture will be a powerful and long-lasting symbol of nurses' selfless service to Australia and its citizens whether in war or in peace.

On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month, we will remember them.

Remembrance Day Lest We Forget

"At the going down of the sun and in the morning, we will remember them"

EVENT RETURN: Kokoda Legacy participants cross a river for the 30km hike/trail run.

Legacy event is back on

AFTER an overwhelming response and unrelenting requests from passionate participants, the renowned Kokoda Legacy event makes a triumphant return to Canungra's Kokoda Barracks this Remembrance Day.

This extraordinary event, orchestrated by the Kokoda Youth Foundation, first emerged in 2022 as a heartfelt tribute to the 80th anniversary of the 1942 Kokoda Campaign, returning this year in celebration of the centenary of Legacy Australia.

In 2022, the Kokoda Legacy event proved to be a remarkable success, raising a substantial $47,820.97 for each of its beneficiary organisations, the Kokoda Youth Foundation and Gold Coast Legacy. Both these local charities are steadfastly committed to transforming the lives of individuals within the Gold Coast community.

Originally conceived as a one-time affair, the event's resounding success and the impassioned pleas of its dedicated participants have compelled its return.

the outstanding efforts of Legacy Gold Coast within our community.'

Craig Kingston, president of the Gold Coast Legacy club, expressed his delight at the event's revival.

"Last year, the money raised enabled us to provide vital assistance to over 1,100 Gold Coast families of veterans of the Australian Defence Force who have given their lives or health for their country," he said.

"We were able to provide services like home visits, bus trips, advocating for entitlements, educational/social/financial support and holiday camps for our Legacy children following the support of the community through the Kokoda Legacy event."

This year's Kokoda Legacy promises to be an unforgettable tribute, combining physical challenges with heartfelt remembrancea fitting way to honour the memory of those who made the ultimate sacrifice in the name of their country. Featuring course options of 5km, 10km, 20km, or 30km, there's a distance suitable for every fitness level. Plus, children under the age of eight can join for free, while registration fees begin at just $20.

Path to independence

THE Australian War Memorial has acquired four traditional woven Tais cloths made by a remarkable women's weaving collective in Timor-Leste.

The cloths represent the East Timorese people's path to independence.

The colourful Tais were created to represent the shared history between the East Timorese people and the Australian Defence Force during the Australian-led Peacekeeping mission, INTERFET, between 1999 and 2000.

"The acquisition of these beautiful Tais allows the Australian War Memorial to tell the story of the Australian-led deployment to Timor Leste. But most importantly, it also allows us to consider the impact of the conflict on the East Timorese people and to see it through their eyes, and expressed in their culture," director of the Australian War Memorial, Matt Anderson, said.

"The four Tais were selected for their significant cultural values and ritual uses. They will help us to reflect on the resilience and strength of the East Timorese people.

'We are honoured to have these items in our collection and to be better able to tell the story of the causes, conduct and consequences of successive Australian deployments to Timor Leste in a way the Australian public can both understand and appreciate.

Following an official handover ceremony at the Australian Embassy in Dili in July 2023, the Tais have now arrived in Australia. They were crafted by the LO'UD Cooperative, a small non-profit organisation run by rural women living in a remote area on the southern tip of the island. The Tais reflect the diverse voices in the Memorial's collection that represent the ADF's role in peacekeeping in the region.

12645617-ET44-23

"LO'UD's journey is Timor's journey, their experiences mirror the nation's, and their Tais reflect the nation's culture and spirit," president of ETWA, Deb Salvagno, said.

"The weaving of Tais cloths has a deep cultural significance, because the work is highly symbolic of the remarkable bravery and resilience of the resistance movement that was present in Timor-Leste during the Indonesian occupation."

Before independence, many East Timorese were killed, and as many as 500,000 were displaced from their homes. About half of these left the territory, in some cases under threat of violence.

The acquisition of these Tais cloths is a testament to the Memorial's ongoing commitment to honouring the shared history of Australia and its neighbours in the Asia-Pacific region.

Ilda da Cruz, LO'UD Cooperative coordinator, Timor-Leste said: "Tais express Timor-Leste's diverse cultures and are our most enduring cultural art form. The Tais designs are from Iliomar, but they represent the women of our nation to the people of Australia."

PATH TO INDEPENDENCE: Following an official handover ceremony at the Australian Embassy in Dili in July 2023, the Tais have now arrived in Australia.

Set to take place on the hallowed grounds of Kokoda Barracks on Saturday, November 11, 2023, Remembrance Day, the event will commence from the Canungra Area Golf Club. Anticipating the participation of approximately 1,500 individuals, this unique experience grants exclusive access to Kokoda Barracks-a privilege not granted to the general public at any other time.

Doug Henderson, the founder of the Kokoda Youth Foundation and a Vietnam Veteran, spoke of the decision to resurrect Kokoda Legacy for one final year.

"We are honoured to commemorate Legacy Australia's centenary with the return of the Kokoda Legacy event," he declared.

"The Kokoda Legacy event not only provided invaluable support to our local youth programs but also contributed significantly to Government snaps up land

THE State Government has purchased 90 hectares of farmland at Eight Mile Creek on the Lower Limestone Coast as part of a wetland rejuvenation and restoration project.

Karst rising springs and alkaline fens are spring fed wetlands which span from Beachport to Portland.

The springs are rare and are among just three similar systems in the world.

They are an often threatened ecosystem, home to about a third of freshwater fish found in South Australia.

The property is home to three karst springs, and was purchased as part of a two-part project that will proceed over the next few years.

The surrounding land was once a thriving wetland and is a nationally threatened ecological system, but has restoration potential.

Landholders, Kevin and Susanne Smith said they had always known the land must be kept wet for it to remain healthy, and it was great it had finally been recognised.

"This project is an opportunity for agriculture, the environment and even local tourism," they said.

"Agriculture and the environment can work together, and in doing so, it will help secure the water for our farming community into the future."

The restoration of the wetlands will see a range of rare and endangered flora and fauna protected and rehabilitated, better protected valuable groundwater sources and reduce the risk of sea water inundation.

Stage two of the project involves the purchase of a further 95 hectares by the Burrandies Aboriginal Corporation and will also provide on Country employment opportunities for local Aboriginal people.

Minister for Climate, Environment and Water Susan Close said the project would also help improve water security in the region and provide opportunities for local Aboriginal groups to care for Country.

"The karst springs along the Lower Limestone Coast are an extremely rare and vulnerable habitat and this purchase will help protect this unique habitat for future generations," she said.

"We need to protect our water resources and ecosystems and industries that depend on them for future generations."

Chair of the Limestone Coast Landscape Board Dr Penny Schulz said that Karst springs are important to our community.

"Many people don't realise just how rare they are globally and that there are more hidden around our southern coast," she said.

"Their perseverance, willingness to continue to work with us and commitment to thinking differently will leave a lasting legacy in the region."

Dr Shulz said that restoration projects on the land should commence by winter 2025, and invited the public to keep up to date with the progress of the project and get involved.

MUSICAL DELIGHT: The St Martins jazz band performed during the exhibitions opening night.

CROWDS have been delighted with the opening of St Martins Lutheran College 2023 Art Show hosted at the Riddoch Arts and Cultural Centre.

Judge April Hague said all the artworks looked amazing and were of a high quality.

"I'm just astounded at the level of creativity," she said.

"I had a lot of trouble trying to judge the best print, [I'm] a bit of a fan of digital art and that was quite a tough section."

With such an array of work, Ms Hague said it was difficult to pick the best in show, instead giving the prize to two students, year 12 student Levi Newton and Angus Patterson in year 11.

"I just couldn't split the two pieces that I selected for Best in Show, they just blew me away," she said.

Levi made a sculpture of Mickey Mouse out of chocolate, while Angus did a detail drawing with ink on a scroll.

"I could just see the amount of time that had gone into both of those pieces and the level of detail in the drawing was astounding... Both works were very impressive.

"And with the sculpture, it's amazing, I just look at it and go, 'how did you do that? where did you come up with that idea?',"

The exhibition is open to the public in the King's Gallery at The Riddoch Arts and Cultural Centre until Friday, November 10.

Viewers have the opportunity to vote on their favourite artwork in the 'People's Choice' Award, announced once the exhibition has closed.

YOUR WEEKLY TV GUIDF

PICK OF THE WEEK

THE BLOCK Nine, Sunday, 7pm

After the marathon 51 episodes of fervent painting, tiling, setting up candles and/or flowers and general bickering between the contestants, it's finally time for the moment of truth: auction night! It might only feel like yesterday since last year's couples gave us both boom and bust tales in the tree-change spot of Gisborne, but now it's time to find out if Charming Street, in coastal Hampton East, will serenade everyone with fairytale results. If host Scott Cam appears a little nervous and sweaty, it's understandable; real estate is an unpredictable beast. Will millionaire veteran bidder Danny Wallis come out to play? And can this year's villains, Kristy and Brett, win their happily ever after?

PAULA MCINTYRE'S HAMELY KITCHEN SBS Food, Thursday, 8pm

Wondering who Paula McIntyre is? All you really need to know is that she's a delightfully no-frills, direct Irish chef with a love for traditional Irish fare; this series teaches a thing or two about Irish lingo and cuisine if you aren't already familiar with a smokie scotch egg or roozle breid tacos. McIntyre (pictured) has a stunning seaside view from her kitchen window, but manages to abscond this idyllic spot to head out and source her fresh produce in the wild. Tonight, a piece – otherwise known as the humble sandwich – is on the menu. But this isn't a slapdash bread lunch, of course – Paula joins a father-and-son fishing duo to catch its filling: the lake-dwelling, white-fleshed pollan.

OLD PEOPLE'S HOME FOR TEENAGERS ABC TV, Tuesday, 8.30pm

Slip a generous box of tissues beside the couch for tonight's stirring season final. Narrator Annabel Crabb admirably keeps her composure as the teenagers and retirees open their hearts for the final episode, culminating with a heartwarming variety show at the retirement home. At a catch-up 10 weeks later, psychologist Dr Sophie Li tests the teenagers' confidence and wellbeing to gauge the progress they've made since the start of this intergenerational bonding project. The smile-inducing variety show features singing, piano, comedy and even a kazoo, but it's the speeches that generate some big nerves for the teens, with Addison drawing on his new friendships for inspiration.

THE INVISIBLE EXTINCTION SBS Viceland, Wednesday, 9.30pm

You'll feel compelled to bin your hand sanitiser after this pressing documentary that toes the line between funny and fascinating. Endearing microbiologists Gloria Dominguez-Bello and Marty Blaser, who also happen to be partners, are on a mission to save humankind's vanishing microbes before it's too late. Bacteria is our friend and ally in this eye-opening exposé of the harms of antibiotics, C-sections and processed foods – and the unexpected value of poop – as the duo travel from the US to Venezuela, China, Israel, and Switzerland to highlight the destruction of our inner immune defences.

FURRY friends were the star of the show at Macs Pup-Star Party on the weekend. The day was a chance for people to bring their pups along and enjoy a day in the sun. The event included stalls, a pup obstacle course and a charity raffle with all funds raised being donated to South East Animal Welfare League.

Spring Vegetable Pie

Prep time: 10 minutes Cook time: 45 minutes Makes: 6

Ingredients:

- Butter and flour for greasing
- 2 sheet frozen puff pastry, just thawed
- 450g bag frozen chopped spinach, thawed

Method:

- 1. Preheat oven 200°C (fan forced). Grease and flour a round sponge sandwich tin 20cm (base) X 3.5cm (sides).
- 2. Arrange pastry on top of each other to form one thick sheet of pastry. Roll out carefully until pastry measures 27 cm square. Drape the rolled pastry into the tin. Pushing in sides and allowing the pastry to overhang at the points.
- 3. Reserve 2 tablespoons of beaten egg for glazing. Squeeze spinach through a fine sieve to remove excess liquid. Transfer to a large bowl and use your fingers or a fork to separate spinach. Stir through garlic, green onion, dill, ricotta, Romano cheese, zest and remaining eggs. Add ricotta and feta

Recipe courtesy of Australian Eggs.

- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- ¹/₂ cup green onions, finely chopped (approx. 3)
- ¹/₄ cup chopped fresh dill
- 1/2 cup grated Romano cheese
- 2 tsp finely grated lemon zest 200g fresh ricotta, crumbled
- 150g Greek feta, crumbled
- Salt and pepper to taste fold through spinach mixture. Season with salt and pepper. Set aside.

- 4. Spread spinach mixture inside the pastry. Fold the corners in toward the centre.
- 5. Brush pastry with reserved beaten egg. Bake 40-45 minutes, or until puffed and golden brown and the centre is set. Stand for 15 minutes before slicing and serving. TIPS:
- To loosen pie from tin, run a kitchen knife around the edges to loosen the pastry from the tin. Invert gently and place onto a serving plate.
- Replace Romano cheese with Parmesan or mature tasty cheese.
- Store any uneaten pie in a sealed container for up to 2 days. Reheat in oven or air fryer

Indian Lamb Biryani with Eggs

- 1. Heat oil in a large, non-stick frying pan over medium high heat. Add the onions and cook for 6-8 minutes, stirring occasionally until the onions are golden brown. Remove half the
- up the lumps until browned and crumbly. Add curry paste and mix well. Stir in water and simmer for 5 minutes or until sauce has reduced a little.
- small saucepan. Just cover with cold

(korma, rogan josh or madras)

- ¹/₂ cup stock or water
- 5 eggs
- 2 x 250g sachet microwave basmati rice
- 2 tbsp toasted flaked almonds (optional)
- 30g salted butter, melted
- Mint leaves, to garnish
- Yoghurt raita and fried paratha bread to serve top of the lamb curry. Snuggle eggs into the rice. Scatter over almonds and reserved onions. Pour over melted butter and cover with lid. Heat over low heat until warmed through. Garnish with mint. Serve immediately from the pan with yoghurt raita and paratha.

- Substitute lamb with beef mince or replace mix with vegetables such as zucchini, broccoli and sweet potato.
- For slow cooker method combine half the onions, mince, garlic, curry paste and water in a slow cooker and

HOROSCOPE by Lilith

Your year ahead

When Venus – the planet of beauty, art, cash and romance – moves into her favourite zodiac placement this week, who can resist a little lashing out on something utterly luxurious, some heart and spirit-lifting treat, that gorgeous love gift for someone special...

(Mar 21 - Apr 20) They say where there's a will there's a way, and where there's an Aries, best not be getting in the way of that will. With your master planet Mars in its most forceful position, it's wise not to impose your vision; better to magnetize support through goodwill and generosity. Best day: Monday 6 November

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 20)

Jupiter in your sign is as much about process as results, and with pleasure principle Venus, your galactic guide, entering into her most refined mode, this week's interpersonal communications will respond to gentle encouragement and thoughtful gestures more readily than pressure – meaning bulldozing won't be well received. Best day: Wednesday 8 November

GEMINI

(May 21 - Jun 21) You talkative Twins sometimes aren't able to shine at your verbal and voluble finest during November's cautious, closemouthed energetics. But that's not such a bad thing when, particularly this week, it fosters the art of listening and learning, which isn't possible when you're doing the talking. Best day: Saturday 11 November

(Jun 22 - Jul 22) With wilful Mars in my-wayor-the-highway mode, this week's deepwater energy could be quite emotional, so use your Cancerian sensitivity to choose which communications tame or inflame interpersonal dynamics. Try to stay focused on what all parties need to feel acknowledged and secure. Best day: Friday 10 November

LEO (Jul 23 - Aug 23)

Venus, moving to her happy place, showcases your majesty's diplomatic talents and artistic skills. Put these into the service of the common good or a cause dear to your heart and the rewards will be outstanding in terms of inner riches: the most precious kind of wealth in these trying times. Best day: Sunday 5 November

(Sep 23 - Oct 23) You Venusians have the finest astral assistance possible this week from your guiding planet in her favourite homestay – your stylish, artistic sign – where she's at her frisky, flirty best. And she's also agitating for a pre-festive season update to your wardrobe, brand, relationship and end-of-year plans. Best day: Thursday 9 November (Aug 24 - Sep 22) Yes, November has its undeniably itchy and scratchy aspects, with Mars sparking drama divas to arc up with hissy fits and dummy spits, but ruffled feathers can't help but settle again as your planet ruler Mercury heads into the sign of The Bigger Picture and blue sky dreaming. Best day:

Tuesday 7 November

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 22)

Watch out world, as this week's dynamic duo of potent Sun and motivating Mars in your no-holds-barred sign express their explicit wishes. This determined coupling ensures you won't brook indecisive waffling or lacklustre commitment or anything less than total engagement in whatever venture you're heading. Best day: Saturday 11 November

SOLUTION

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23 - Dec 21)

When Mercury finally zips into your inclusive sign late this week, it's tempting to focus on fun and ignore warning signs. But rushing into arrangements without due diligence could mean damage control when the celestial messenger retrogrades next month in peak pre-holiday season, so take the time you need. Best day: Monday 6 November

(Dec 22 - Jan 20)

This week's megadose of celestial energy in your zodiac zone of groups and contributing to the collective couldn't be more opportune for addressing your attention to that special project on your plate. If any part of that includes the subject of legacies, this is a particularly well-aspected time. Best day: Wednesday 8 November AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 18)

Vivacious Venus, in a fellow-air sign like yourself, lightens and brightens this week's, and the rest of the month's, intensity. A welcome relief, so use the opportunity to indulge your creative talents, reengage your social circle, renew those feel-good routines and refresh your living space. Best day: Friday 10 November

PISCES (Feb 19 - Mar 20)

This week's stars suggest taking some space, quietening your mind and asking what to do next. Have a notepad ready to write down any inspiring downloads or lightbulb insights. Feeling resistant? What harm could there be in trying something that might be life-changing in the best possible way? Best day: Thursday 9 November

IDEAL GROPPING AND GRAZING FARM

THIS impressive, homestead is a rare find, combining the pleasures of tranquillity and uniqueness with rural farming lifestyle. History shows Old Coonalpyn Homestead was built in three stages between 1863 - 1902. Old Coonalpyn Homestead was known as Coonalpyn Station and the Head Station for the several other surrounding Pastoral Leases. Some of the properties near Coonalpyn Station still bear the name of the Outstations.

Owned by the current family since 1973, the Homestead preservation and restoration has been ongoing for 50 years. Over this time the property covering 99.14ha (245ac) approx. has successfully produced good quality wheat and barley, Faba beans, and canola.

A substantial area of clay spreading has been conducted over a three year period at 70 tonnes per acre. Cropping is conducted on a rotational basis generally within a pasture renovation program. The balance of the property is under strong productive mixed pastures of clovers, medics lucerne, and several grasses. This pasture mix provides good quality fodder all year round with little hand feeding of the livestock. "Old Coonalpyn Homestead" has an aura of history about it, along with a vibe that makes everyone feel welcome. There is room to breathe, wonderful space and a view from every window.

It's open spaced living room and lounge area is bathed in light, colour and warmth provided by the numerous windows and stained-glass features and surrounded by natural rural beauty.

It is a substantial and historical stone homestead, consisting of 3 large bedrooms, a formal lounge room, large dining room, sitting room, kitchen, main bathroom, and second shower and toilet off the laundry.

There are several open fireplaces, and the main lounge room has an inbuilt slow combustion heater and ducted evaporative cooling throughout. A 2800W Solar system will help to keep your energy costs to a minimum.

The gardens along with fruit trees that surround the homestead integrate peacefulness and productivity. Your inspection is recommended to really appreciate this unique establishment and loca-

HOME FOCUS

"BROGANS" - PRODUCTIVE AND VERSATILE

CLASS 'A' Cropping and Grazing Opportunity - "Brogans" is best described as an appealing, productive property. Boasting A grade cropping, and grazing, consistently producing high yields of cereals, legumes, oil seeds and hay crops on a consistent basis.

Held by the Wardle family for 60+ years, this 326.9 ha (808 acres approx.) property principally has soils of very fertile black/ chocolate loam soils over limestone.

It holds all the elements of a productive mixed farming operation, with good quality soils, substantial rainfall, ideal climate and conveniently located only 2.1 kms west of the Riddoch Highway, approximately 9 kms North-West from Naracoorte on Wardle's lane

Nutrien Harcourts Rural Real Estate Specialist Geoff Watts has said he looks forward to receiving considerable interest from potential buyers now that this property is on the market, due to its great location and capacity for production. "This property offers plenty for a productive farming operation" Mr Watts said.

The soil types are ideal for a broad range of crops with a very good past production history.

"Brogans" includes a hay shed, along with sheep and cattle stock yards. This property is very well fenced into 6 paddocks and watered via bores with mills and a solar powered pump.

HOME ESSENTIALS

A neat as a pin productive holding, close to Naracoorte on proven, productive, fertile soils.

The property has been leased for approx. 14 years and during this time has predominately been cropped. Currently leased which expires 1 April 2024. Handy properties such as "Brogans" are hard to come by.

CREATING a modern yet timeless feature wall that leaves a lasting impression in your home can be a daunting and unfamiliar task.

Whether the aim is to inject playful colour into a child's bedroom or add a touch of sophistication to a kitchen, a textured feature wall is guaranteed to bring the 'wow' factor into any living space.

Accent walls have long been an affordable way to give a space a facelift.

Dulux Colour Expert Andrea Lucena-Orr says when it comes to creating a feature wall, you must work it so it harmonises with your existing colour scheme, furniture, and accessories.

"Consider the kitchen, for example; Dulux Design Stainless Steel Effect used on cabinetry will complement an already industrial-looking space, whereas the Dulux Design Suede Effect is more suited to creating a luxurious and moody feel – perfect for a formal living or dining room.

"Other popular design trends we are seeing include concrete and metallic accents. Dulux Design Concrete Effect in

Disco fundraiser a success

NEAVE MOORE

THE Naracoorte Town Hall was packed full of locals who came together to support Darcel Catermole and raise money for her and her family and enjoy an evening of music.

Darcel Catermole was recently diagnosed with motor neurone disease (MND) and the members of the Naracoorte Friends with Benefits group decided to bring back the Mickey's Disco event to town.

Prior to the event, Robyn Norman, a member of the Friends with Benefits (FWB) group, thanked the various member of the community and businesses who donated drinks or items to be auctioned off on the night.

"Our local area is very generous and giving and we are very appreciative of the support that is helping us to help others," she said.

"We have had many businesses and groups come forward and donate to the disco, which means that we can give more of the proceeds to Darcel and her family.

"Darcel is a local girl and many people know her and her family, so by doing this disco we are doing what we can to give back to her and support her.'

Almost 150 tickets were sold before the night, and more guests bought tickets at the door, raising money for Darcel and her family to go on a holiday and enjoy time together.

Members of the Friends with Benefits group have thanked everyone who was involved with putting on the disco, including the bar staff and skilled workers behind the music, including Brett Rumball, Shane Francis and Scott McBain.

Showcasing their talents

CAROLINE HAMMAT

MUSIC lovers are in for a treat next Tuesday evening as the inaugural Millicent High School's Music Showcase takes place.

Students from year seven to 12 will be performing a diverse range of music across several genres showcasing their musical talent.

Both junior and senior concert bands will perform and two school rock bands will play sets.

Performances from student vocalists and piano players are also on the program.

Evelyn Wood has been teaching music at MHS since the beginning of 2022 and has seen the program grow substantially in that time.

"Students have been working extremely hard to get this music program together to present to the public, this is our first major event," she said.

"It is their first chance to really perform in the groups they are in, which is exciting."

Lucas Simmons and Aleesha Sayer-Renshaw are members of the senior concert band who are performing at the showcase.

Both students performed with the concert band during last year's seniors month and this year's event, held last Friday.

Aleesha, who plays the violin with the concert band, will perform a piano solo publicly.

"It's the first time I've done something like that," she said.

"I'm looking forward to playing a solo, it's Ghost of You by 5 Seconds of Summer."

Aleesha has been a member of the school band since year eight and first began playing an instrument in year four.

Lucas also started playing a musical instrument in primary school and will be playing the trumpet in the upcoming performance.

"I'm looking forward to playing for the audience," he said.

The Music Showcase is at the Millicent Civic and Arts Centre at 5.30pm, Tuesday, November 7.

Tickets are $2 each and available at the school's front office with a limited number of tickets available at the door.

MAKE SOME NOISE: Violin player Aleesha Sayer-Renshaw, drummer Casper Gordon and guitarist Jordan Bohlin rehearse for the upcoming showcase.

sophie.conlon@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Mount Gambier/ Berrin community will come together soon to craft a giant seaweed sculpture which will raise awareness of the resilience and fragility of the ocean and bring a bit of beauty to the city.

Gunditjmara artist Tabitha Williams was granted $13,610 from the City of Mount Gambier for her project Sea Weave, which will be crafted using First Nations weaving techniques.

Ms Williams said she was excited to receive the funding from the councils 2023/2024 Creative Arts Fund, which would allow her to host community weaving sessions.

"Rather than it being just a one off activity where we hold one weaving session and develop an end piece, the idea for this project is to go out to where people already are to host sessions," she said. "At the end all the small rounds will be stitched together into a big sculpture of algae and the idea is to raise awareness of how important algae and seaweed is to our oceans in the Limestone Coast." She hoped the finished sculpture, made up of about 1000 weaved rounds, would be displayed at Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre, with the opportunity to tour it in the city.

While Ms Williams had an idea of what the finished product would look like, she said there was beauty in a community project in that plans could change.

"Because it is a collaborative and communal artwork, the community will have a big say in what it looks like at the end," she said.

"That is the real beauty of communal dit things, I've put forward and proposed what the sculpture will look like, but once community have woven all their little rounds that will determine what it will look like in the end."

The project will use Ngarrindjeri weaving techniques, which Ms Williams learned from Ngarrindjeri weaver Aunty Ellen Tevorrow, and is teaching to her daughter Mabel Peisley, who is Boandik, Ngarrindjeri and Gunditjmara. "This is an opportunity for Mabel as a young weaver to participate," she said.

"It is really important to us as Aboriginal people that we support our young people to take leadership in projects like this so I proposed her to be a part of this project."

Ms Williams said she was looking forward to sharing weaving with different groups and organisations such as schools, art groups and nursing homes.

"Weaving is a really mindful practice, I am really excited to take it to the community," she said.

"The most important thing about this project is not so much the end outcome, but the process, it's an opportunity for the community to get creative."

PEUGEOT E-PARTNER

BY ALISTAIR KENNEDY, MARQUE MOTORING

PEUGEOT Partner is the smallest of the French carmaker's commercial van range, sitting behind the mid-sized Expert and large Boxer.

There are three grades - City, Pro and Premium - with the choice of short and long wheelbases in Pro and Premium.

The range also includes the e-Partner, the first fully-electric Peugeot to come here.

Our test vehicle, the fully-electric e-Partner Pro LWB is priced at $59,990 plus on-road costs.

Petrol versions range from $32,990 for the SWB City to $43,490 for the LWB Premium.

STYLING

Partner is a neat and attractive vehicle with a relatively small grille above a black-checkered fill.

The side features scalloped inserts above both wheel arches and parallel cladding at the bottom of the doors.

Although the two Premium variants come with 16-inch alloy wheels, the e-Partner Pro gets 16-inch steel.

LWB Premium and e-Partner are 4.75 metres long, just over 2.10 metres wide with mirrors open and stand just under 1.90 metres high.

Turning circle is 11.4 metres.

With the batteries in e-Partner located under the floor load volume is 3.9 cubic metres and it can carry a 735 kg of payload. INTERIOR

Partner City and e-Partner come with two bucket seats but with no centre console or storage space between them.

There are cup holders at the top of the dashboard for both driver and passenger.

Pro and Premium petrol variants get three bucket seats.

While the centre seat is too small for travelling any distance it can be fold back and lock in at 90-degrees to provide the sort of storage that you'd normally get in a centre console.

Alternatively, with the base in place, the backrest can fold forward to reveal a flat desktop which can slide forward to open up a small space for pens, notepads and the like. It can even swivel sideways.

All models get the Peugeot i-Cockpit dash-board design which has been progressively added to the company's passenger vehicles with each upgrade.

The small, chunky steering wheel might look a bit out of place in a commercial vehicle but it feels nice and, importantly, sits below the level of the instrument cluster, avoiding the need to look through it at the dials.

Access to the storage area is through sliding doors on both sides or rear barn doors which can be locked in at 90-degrees or opened to a full 180-degrees.

The interior can cater for a 1.2-metre square pallet.

ENGINES/TRANMISSIONS

The petrol Partner models have a 1.2-litre Euro-6 compliant three-cylinder PureTech turbo-petrol engine.

It generates 81kW in the Partner City and 96kW in the other variants, with 230Nm of torque in both tunes.

Power is transmitted to the front wheels

ROAD TEST: Peugeot e-Partner adds an electric option for urban van operators.

tomatic emergency braking, forward collision warning, lane departure warning, lane keep assist, speed sign recognition, tyre pressure warning and a high level third brake light at the top of the rear door.

Partner Premium and e-Partner add advanced driver attention alert and speed limit recommendation.

e-Partner also gets an Acoustic Vehicle Alert System that generates an artificial sound when travelling at low speed to alert pedestrians. INFOTAINMENT

Display is through an 8.0-inch colour touchscreen (5.0-inch in City) mounted at the centre top of the dashboard.

It's easy to reach and intuitive to use with most features located there.

The picture is sharp and clear, especially important for the reversing camera which plays such an important role in any van without side or rear windows.

The audio and air conditioning controls are circular knobs, also within easy reach.

All models above City get built-in satellite navigation, Apple CarPlay and Android Auto connectivity, DAB digital radio and voice recognition.

The screen in the e-Partner also displays an 'electric' menu where you can view live energy flows, consumption statistics and the ability to schedule a delayed charge.

DRIVING

Access into the Partner for people of average height is easy without little bending or climbing required.

through an eight-speed automatic transmission with a six-speed manual for City.

e-Partner is powered by a single electric motor linked to a 50kWh lithium-ion battery that produces 100kW of power and 260Nm of torque and delivers a WLTP range of 258km.

While that range is relatively low when compared with passenger EVs, e-Partner is unlikely to spend much time outside of urban areas and so will never be far away from charging infrastructure.

SAFETY

48 Wednesday, 1 November, 2023

Standard safety features across the entire Partner range include six airbags, electronic stability control. ABS brakes with electronic brakeforce distribution with brake assist, hill start assist, programmable cruise control, speed limiter, rear parking sensors and 180-degree reversing camera.

Variants above the entry-level City add au-

The seats are well-shaped and comfortable.

The e-Partner is a surprisingly enjoyable vehicle to drive, more like an SUV than a van and with the normal EV benefits of sharp acceleration and smooth, silent running.

Visibility to the front 180-degrees is excellent with large windscreen, side windows and mirrors

To rear it's a different story, with no windows either on the side or rear of the vehicle.

The rear vision camera does have a wide span but caution is needed when reversing.

There are three driving modes in e-Partner: Eco providing 60kW and 190Nm, Normal (80kW/210Nm) and Power (100kW/260Nm) with that last mode ideal for transporting heavy loads.

e-Partner comes a Mode 3 public sta-tion charging cable but, oddly, not the usual domestic cable which needs to be

Indicative charging times are about 7.5 hours from 0-100-percent via a 7.4kW Wallbox, or around 30 minutes with a rapid charge from 0-80-percent capacity via a 100kW DC charger.

With the battery fully charged the range showed at 282km, quite a bit above the WLTP range of 258km.

At motorway speed it dropped quite dramatically, however, 4km for each kilometre travelled – but then levelled out when we hit the suburbs.

SUMMING UP

Load-carrying is obviously the e-Partner's number-one priority, but it offers comfort and refinement.

That's partly because it's sold in some markets as a small people mover.

It's neat, functional and easy to drive with good cabin and load space.

Intriguing basketball round

ROUND 2 of the South East Coast basketball competition provided some interesting results in both the men's and women's divisions.

For the women, reigning premier Saints bounced back to record a win over Cougars after going down to sister team, Cats in Round1, despite two of their key players missing.

Edie Easterby had a school commitment, while Poppy Venn is recovering from an injury sustained in the Millicent tournament.

Saints opened well, only to see Cougars surge and dominate the second quarter, 25-10. Saints regrouped and applied sustained defence to level the score 45 points apiece at three quarter time.

The final quarter unfolded as a reverse of the second as Saints finished strongly to outscore Cougars 2510.

MacKenzie Burke worked hard to cover the missing players and returned a game-high 24 points.

Nikeisha Facey, playing on permit with Saints for the season, played a solid game in the key as well as finding the hoop for 18 points.

Former Pioneer, Maddi Wormald was dominant early for Cougars and recorded 24 points.

Mikaela Horrigan was again a reliable contributor, finishing with 11 points, while promising junior, Shayden Russell continues to impress with a final tally of 12 points.

SAINTS 70 (M. Burke 24, N. Facey 18, P. Paul 10) d COUGARS 55 (M. Wormald 24, M. Horrigan 11, S. Russell 12).

Meanwhile, A depleted Cats line-up found it tough going when they hosted Roos.

Ellie Bouchier dominated the first quarter and set up the visitor's win, in the absence of Cat's playing coach, Alana Berkefeld.

Roos led 47-29 at the final break.

However, Cats played their best basketball in the final 10 minutes when they outscored Roos 21-16.

Bouchier finished with a personal tally of 20 points for Roos and was well supported by consistent players Macey Griffith and Lauren Norman.

It was pleasing to see the quartet of young players in Lynch, Dean, Rowe and Denton lift in momentum and show a degree of leadership on court in the final quarter.

ROOS 65 (E. Bouchier 20, M. Griffith 16, L. Norman 11) d CATS 49 (M. Lynch 14, A. Dean 12, E. Denton 8, T. Rowe 8).

The highlight of the men's fixture belonged to the new-look Cougars side, who defeated reigning premier Saints by the narrowest of margins,90-89, on the Saints' home pine.

Pioneers' captain Kane deWit joined brother Toby to add talent and experience to the team.

Quiet achiever and summer player Jordan Hollitt also suited up.

Two more talented players in Sam Stafford and Braiden Ousey are expected to join the team in the coming weeks.

Saints sorely missed sharp shooter Jack Haggett, sidelined by a niggling injury.

Saints led by one point at quarter time on the back of 12 points from Aussie Fuller.

They increased their lead to 55-46 by virtue of a solid team effort, despite Cougars' Toby deWit draining 14 points for the quarter.

Cougars closed the margin to four points, 68-72 at the final break.

Cougars' junior Ollie Pohlner then stepped up to sink three threes and contribute to his side's exciting one-point win.

The talented and ever-reliable Jackson Bowden was in good form for Saints, while Kane deWit had a telling influence as on-court leader for Cougars.

COUGARS 90 (T. deWit 35, O. Pohlner 23, K. deWit 18) d SAINTS 89 (J. Bowden 27, A. Fuller 23, J. Telfer 19).

Panthers Men suffered a serious loss before the first jump ball of the SECBL season when Kyle Tipene succumbed to a severe ankle injury in the Lakers' first CBL game of the season.

Roos men were also below full strength for their match against Panthers, who went on to record their first win for the season.

After a rather ordinary first quarter, Roos had the better of the second and led 44-38.

Panthers then turned the tables on Roos and impressed with a 34-10 period.

Roos rallied to stem the run to a degree in the final quarter, but Panthers retained their firm grip on the game.

Riley Thomson, along with Teangi Stephens and state Junior Taj Brumby played well, as did reliable Addi Noble, Jack Wilkinson and Zac Nulty for Roos.

IN the Lower South East Bowls Pennant midweek competition, Robe traveled to Mount Gambier RSL to play RSL Blue.

Mount Gambier RSL Blue 50 shots 6 points d Robe 44-2.

Robbie Dahler, Josh Waddell, Errol Jennings and Stephen Kennett defeated Rick Fallaize's team 17-26. However, Jim Gray, Pam Robinson, Dean Burgoyne and Steve Farrell were defeated by Jennifer Bowering's team 33-18.

Social bowls Thursday was sponsored by Mike's Beef Jerky and the Robe Bowling Club, with 24 players enjoying two games of two bowl triples.

Winners on 55 points were Helen Lynch, Josh Waddell and Errol Jennings, ahead of runners-up on 54 David Robinson, Ross Dening and Valma Jennings.

The Friday women's pennant was played at Robe in pleasant conditions after a cold week and the home teams were all smiles after the game, with both Division 1 and 2 recording wins

Division 1 Robe 58 shots 6 points d Millicent Red 44-2

Robbie Dahler, Pam Robinson, Helen Dawson and Judy Bermingham gave away five shots on the first end, but by the ninth had edged in front and were not headed again, going on to have a good win against Adriana Ross's team 37-18.

Nesla Boundy, Tracey Gray, Kerry Peglar and Valma Jennings had a great tussle with Sarah Ross's team but were defeated 26-21.

Division 2 Robe 51 shots 6 points d Millicent 43-2.

Judy Phillips, Clare DeLaine, Jan Fisk and Barb Brown had a narrow loss to Lurlene Reinders team 21-22, with the lead changing throughout the day.

Lorraine Dening, Carolyn McCusker, Kerrie Boyd and Bronwyn Matthews had a good win against Merle Steven's team 30-21.

Open pennant Saturday saw both Robe teams traveling away.

Pat Lynch, Fluer Roachock, Jim Gray and Harold Manton were defeated by Brad Errock's team 29-23

David Robinson, Errol Jennings, Steve Farrell and Stephen Kennett were defeated by Greg Carpenter's team 30-17 and Robbie Dahler, Peter Gregory, Dean Burgoyne and Peter Roachock were defeated by Jeff England's team 36-21.

Division 2 was easily defeated by Beachport Beachport 106 shots 12 points d Robe 47-0.

Doug Baker, Mark Murphy, Josh Waddell and Adrian Bermingham were defeated by Ian Mitchall's team 41-11.

Vic Dawson, Paul Truelove, Mark Giles and Ross Dening were defeated by Ian Werchon's team 30-15 and Bill Cook, Peter DeLaine, Rob

Lawrie and Dean Woodward were defeated by Adrian Young's team 35-21.

On Sunday the Robe Bowling Club Championship Fours were played, with four teams in both the women's and men's competitions.

In the first round of the men's fours the team of Stephen Kennett, Dean Woodward, Dean Burgoyne and Harold Manton had a big win over Ross Dening, Barry Bennett, Mark Giles and Adrian Bermingham.

Paul Truelove, Robin Ling, Errol Jennings and David Robinson led every end except the last, giving away a five to loose against Peter Gregory, Pat Lynch, Steve Farrell and Peter Roachock 14-10.

In the final Kennett, Woodward, Burgoyne and Manton defeated Gregory, Lynch, Farrell and Roachoch in a hard-fought game 17-13.

Pictures: SUBMITTED

In the first round of the Ladies Fours Championship Robbie Dahler, Carolyn McCusker, Helen Dawson and Judy Bermingham had a big win against Nesla Boundy, Maria Cooper, Kerrie Boyd and Tracey Gray.

Judy Phillips, Pam Robinson, Kerry Pedlar and Fluer Roachock had a comfortable win against Leanne Cameron, Lorraine Dening, Barbara Brown and Bronwyn Matthews.

The final was a great contest and all played great bowls.

The lead changed and the scores were even on the fifth and 12th ends and kept players and spectators in suspense.

Dahler, McCusker, Dawson and Bermingham won the last three ends to win 12-8 in a low-scoring game.

Magic juniors take on Warrnambool classic

MILLICENT Magic junior basketballers re- Douglas and Shelbi Mason.

The Under 16 Girls Division 2 side fin- points 18-24.

It was a good tournament for the Under 16 Boys Division 2 side in a competitive category.

urnampoor jumor Classic Basketball tournament with varied results.

Six teams travelled to the tournament, with the Under 12 Girls a standout, convincingly winning all games.

The minor rounds allowed the girls to utilise some plays and build confidence as they attacked the basket well, created space and scored off defensive turnovers.

The grand final saw everyone step up against Warrnambool and play an impressive team game.

Kaia, Shelbi and Shelby took some strong rebounds in both offence and defence.

Zarla and Henna positioned the ball in the right place for Bridie and Raven to dribble.

In the end the girls claimed another convincing win 37-8.

Top scorers for the weekend were Bridie weekend.

The Under 12 boys had a good weekend competing in Division 2.

It was a competitive category for the boys and they worked hard and never gave up.

Their team work further developed, with training drills put into play.

Top scorers were Sonny, Zac, Kobe and Jobe, with Adam Weise stepping into coach when needed.

The Division 1 Under 14 Girls finished runners-up after a solid weekend.

The Division 2 Under 14 Boys boys fought hard all weekend against some strong opposition.

Finn played great defence, with some handy turnovers and rebounds and the boys were unlucky not to win some close games, Finn and Brax were top scorers for the unner-up, against strong, tan teams

The girls finished the weekend on top of the ladder, with four wins and one loss.

They came up against Warrnambool in the grand final, who came out strong and gained an early lead.

The girls struggled against Warrnambool's height and strength in defence, making it difficult to score.

The team found momentum at the start of the second half, with quick turnovers, narrowing the margin and putting them back in the game.

All weekend the girls found themselves in foul trouble and it potentially cost them the game.

Key players, Asha Gysbers and Lucy Crowe were fouled off in the last few minutes of the game and the team struggled to maintain the momentum on court, going down by six

The boys built on their teamwork, competitive in all games against some strong defensive pressure.

Tighe and Ari were in form under the ring on rebounds and Kaden and Tighe had some great shooting passages.

Naite had a consistent tournament, as did Brody, Logan and Henry, who also drew three charging fouls.

Our boys had a couple of slow starts where they worked hard to get back in the game and had a come-from-behind win against Maryborough (44-41).

the final game was the most consistent, with a win over Warrnambool B (42-34), narrowly missing finals, to end the weekend in third place.

LUCINDALE ROOS 7/258 d NARACOORTE WARRIORS 10/155

LUCINDALE Roos easily accounted for Naracoorte Warriors in the Millicent/Naracoorte Cricket Association competition on Saturday.

The Round 2 clash saw the Roos win the toss and elect to bat, with the early wicket of Will Graetz not of real concern.

Nathan James them joined Josh Smith at the crease and the pair put together a handy 40-run partnership before the former was caught off the bowling of Aaron Haines for 23 off just 20 balls.

Smith continued to play a solid role, knocking the ball around and finding the boundary before he fell to Andrew Fitzgerald for a wellcrafted 50 off 36 deliveries.

That left Lucindale at 397, Nick Cane pushed the score along, with strong support from Daniel McCarthy, with a half-century partnership resulting.

McCarthy fell for 19, clean bowled by Haines, while Cane fell just short of his personal half-century, bowled by Jack Baker for 47.

Michael McGurk provided a highlight down the order, unbeaten on 61 runs from just 45 balls, while Clayton Skeer chipped in with 25.

Haines was the best with the ball with figures of 3/63, while Baker finished with two scalps.

The total of 7.258 provided a huge task for Naracoorte, with the run chase off to an unfortunate start.

Jason McClure fell for just nine runs with the total at 10 and he was soon followed by Haines, bowled by Brandon Nicolle for three with the total at just 15.

Remi Brown settled in with Brad Redding but was back on the sidelines for just 10 runs.

Redding pushed on and provided the highlight of the innings, eventually cauight off the bowling of Nathan James for a rapid 64 runs off just 44 balls.

His wicket left the Warriors at 4/105, with plenty still to do.

However, the remainder of the middle and bottom order could not tame the Roos' bowlers and despite a couple digging in, they were all out in the 29th over for just 155 runs.

Nicolle, Daniel Lane and Stewart Hinze all claimed three wickets

MILLICENT BLACK HATS 4/83 d NARACOORTE TOWNIES 10/80

Millicent Black Hats made short work of its clash with Naracoorte Townies.

Townies won the toss and elected to bat, but were soon on the back foot.

While Matt Smith showed plenty of class at the top of the order, fellow opener Bredon available at the time of print.

Smart was soon back in the shed after offering just two runs.

He was joined by Harry Schroder, who was bowled by Jacob Todd for a duck, with Naracoorte struggling at 2/6.

Jaspreet Singh played somewhat of an anchor role for Smith, facing 14 deliveries for his three runs, before Smith succumbed to the Millicent attack after a handy 31-run stand.

Only two other batsmen reached double figures, with Rowan Ham out for 10 and Takbirullah Ahmadi for 11.

Sam Hunt was the best of the bowlers, with figures of 4/23 off seven overs.

The Townies were all out for just 80 runs off 31 overs, which provided a real chance for a Millicent victory

Hunt backed up his bowling effort, carrying his bat for an unbeaten 40 runs.

His effort ensured the Black Hats would claim the victory, with few other decent scores recorded.

However, the Black Hats lost just four wickets in the chase, with Todd out for 10, Josh Mason for 12 and Kobe Gibson unbeaten on 12.

RENDELSHAM RAMS 1/32 d ROBE ROOSTERS 10/126

It was an easy run for the Rendelsham Rams against the Robe Roosters, with just one wicket to fall in the run chase for victory.

The Roosters won the toss and elected to bat, but it all went pear-shaped early.

Jack Sneath was sent back to the sideline for a golden duck, clean bowled by Jacob Carger and the Robe was on the back foot from there.

A 36-run partnership followed, predominantly off the bat of Zac Deane, who smashed five boundaries and cleared the fence once on his way to 31 runs from just 21 balls.

But with the score at 2/36, the rot set in.

two more wickets followed with no addition to the score, before Thomas Kurray and Robbie Chappel looked to save the innings.

Kurray would go on to finish the innings unbeaten on 47, while Chappel contributed 30 runs to the coffers.

Unfortunately, only Adrian Thompson could add any more runs, with eight to his name and four more ducks.

Ayden Reid did much of the damage with the ball, with figures of 4/24, while Carger managed 3/13.

It left an easy run chase for the Rams, who wasted no time with the bat in hand.

Carger was out for 25, but from there it was all about Reid and Tyson Smith.

In an entertaining innings, Reid found the boundary on seven occasions for his 54 runs, while Smith's 43 included six fours and one maximum.

Wild weather takes its toll

DUE to the expected wild weather last week, only 16 women fronted for the stableford competition at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

As it turned out the weather was better than expected and Division 2's Jaynee Oberer can attest to that after posting the top score of 39 points.

Handicapper Dianne Perryman was Division 1's top scorer with 37 points.

Off a 20 handicap, Perryman was one of the only ones to have a better score on the outward nine, her 21 points coming from a run of pars on the third, fourth and fifth holes.

She then turned to the inward nine with a scrub on the 10th hole, but pars on 11th, 15th and 16th, able to put down a score even with a few bogeys to finish with 16 points.

Josie Ashby (23) followed with 35 points from splits of 16/19.

The outward nine saw a par on the second hole, scrubs on the fourth and ninth, before finishing strong on the inward nine to score on every hole.

Geraldine Scott was only one point behind, signing for 34 points from splits of 18/16 and scoring on every hole.

With her 39 points and off 34, Oberer won the top voucher in Division 2, backing up her win the week before to cause her handicap to drop even more.

Her outward 16 points needed a bit of work going to the inward nine and she was up for the challenge, posting a massive 23 points that included a five-point birdie on the 11th hole, then scoring four three-pointers.

Johanna Gogan is another regular on the podium, this time placing second with 28 points after a count-back from Trudy Herbert.

Gogan (36) had splits of 11/17 and was able to capitalize on the second and 14th holes, scoring four points on each, along with a three-pointer on the 15th.

Unfortunately four scrubs hindered a better score.

Herbert (31) had just the one scrub and a three- pointer on her card with splits of 14/14.

Nearest to the pin second shots on the 16th hole went to Division 1's Karen Panagopoulos (1.38) and Division 2's Lesley McPherson (1.7).

Perryman was the pro shot winner on the fifth hole and Gael Ford had a chip-in ferret on the first.

Saturday saw the fifth and final round of the Carlin & Gazzard car spar winter trophy in conjunction with the running of the 20th year of the prestigious Wayne Scutter memorial Invitational played in stroke format.

A small field of 12 women competed and battled the elements once again, plenty of long-awaited sunshine, but extremely difficult windy conditions, albeit the afternoon hitters fared worse than their early morning counterparts

Bev Pascoe had the score of the day and would have gained her three points towards the winter trophy after signing for 104/33/71.

Bogeys and double-bogeys did feature on her scorecard, along with a par on the 12th hole and splits of 53/51, but it was enough to take the top prize voucher.

Helen Myers came in second after a countback from Scott, both posting nett 73 and both did have their share of bogeys and doublebogeys

Myers (94/21) had 50 strokes on the outward nine that included a par on the fifth hole and she made up ground, shooting 44 on the inward nine with a par on the 15th.

Scott took third prize (99/26) with splits of 51/48 and pars on the 14th and 15th holes.

Nearest the pin winner was Courtney Lewis on the 16th hole.

Long drive winners were Ashby on the fourth hole and Karyn Coon on the 18th.

In the Wayne Scutter, Myers was off the stick winner with 94 and best nett winner was Pascoe with 71.

Changing conditions make for tough day

DESPITE predicted bad weather and several competitors withdrawing, 34 women headed to the Mount Gambier Golf Club last week to play in the second round of the Olympic Trophy.

Division 1 honours went to Jess Parsons (97-24-73 nett), who played consistent golf with her split of 50/47 for the two nines.

A strong back nine saw her claim the win on a count-back.

Runner-up after the count-back was Karen Forster (90-17-73 nett), with split of 44/46, which included eight pars.

Division 2 went to Betty McKechnie (98-28-70 nett), who has been playing well over the last month and had the best score of the day.

McKechnie showed a consistent game, registering 49 on each nine for 98 off the stick, which included three pars.

Another player frequently in the top results was runner-up Lizzie Clements (100-30-70 nett) with splits of 46/54. The newly appointed women's captain lost on a countback due to her last hole.

points.

This week's game will be the third round of the Olympic Trophy to be played as a par competition.

Meanwhile, with gale force winds prevailing on Saturday, 19 women participated in a stableford competition.

The morning players had the best of the conditions, but the winner came from the afternoon group.

Playing off a 27 handicap, McKechnie recorded an impressive 43 points for the

She had a good front nine with 25 points and 18 on the back.

McKechnie had a birdie on the par 3 sixth hole for four points and four other fourpointers elsewhere.

Jan Shanahan (17 handicap) was runnerup on a count-back from Heather Chapman, both with 39 points.

Shanahan's split 20/19 and she also had a birdie on the sixth hole, plus four pars.

Six balls were given out in the run-down and went from Chapman on 39 points down to Lois Harvey on 35.

down - Deb Sheather, Sue Ryan, Bernie Jennings, Mary Kentish, Leanne Hunt, Jill Johnson and Penne Saffin.

The second shot on the par 5, first hole Parsons in B Grade and Kentish in C Grade.

Four women opted to play a stableford honours in A Grade went to Leanne Hunt, round instead of the stroke round and Chapman, while Shanahan claimed nearest winning a ball was Libby Furner with 34

The pro shot on the eighth hole went to the pin on the 16th.

Mixed results across the board for teams

ON Tuesday, two teams of ladies from Bordertown Bowls Club travelled to Naracoorte R.S.L., where Glenda, Chris, Judy and Jenny received the encouragement award amid much laughter and clapping.

Bordertown Ladies hosted the pennant teams on Thursday with Bordertown's Belinda Pepper, Judy Vanderhorst, Glenda Tink and Jenny Marshall defeating Mundulla 31-24 and Wendy Twigden, Elke Geisler, Julie Wiese and Marg Gregory winning 36-12.

Saturday Division 1 Bordertown Red travelled to Keith and had a hard day with only Richard Muenster's rink coming home with a win of 30-24. David Jaensch went down 10-34 and Wayne Wiese lost 21-29. Keith winning 87 shots 10 points to Red's 62 shots 2 points.

Division 1 White were at home to Padthaway with a win to T. Hancock over A. Ashton 37-13, B.

Pepper d A. Haines 32-21 and C. Sutton lost to E. Vogelsang 23-25.

At home division 2 Red played Mundulla Gold with wins on both rinks.

Chris Steer defeated Leslie Gehlig 42-10 and Julie Wiese defeated Trevor Staude 30-12. Great revenge over last year's Premiers who defeated Red in the Knockout Final last year. Also at home Division 2 Blue played White with Blue winning by 4 shots. Glenda Tink defeated Phil Cornish 26-14, Judy Vanderhorst lost 17-25 to Friend Cleggett.

On Sunday the teams of R. Muenster, I. Belluzzo, R. Fullaton, D. Crisp and W. Wiese and D. Jaensch, B. Paech M. Vanderhorst travelled to Padthaway to compete for the Maddern Rose Bowl.

Wiese winning 2 out of 3 and Muenster winning 1.

Teams from Bordertown, Mundulla, Padthaway, Kaniva, Serviceton, Keith, Coonalpyn and Tintinara played.

Kaniva won the day and Tintinara being the runners Up.

DAVID LEWIS

COONAWARRA vineyard manager Stuey Sharam has spent most of his Sundays this year at Tara Raceway where he has been handling greyhounds for Tracie Price as a prerequisite to obtaining his own trainer's licence.

Recently he received his licence and promptly fired in a nomination for Donny Rocks – formerly trained by Price – who then drew box eight in the 400-metre Carlin & Gazzard Stake on Sunday, October 22, in a real family affair.

Also on track were Sharam's wife Pat, a registered participant and their son Liam who previously had made it quite clear he would like to see Donny Rocks in his father's newlybuilt kennels.

"We've spent quite a bit of time with Tracie this year and Liam had taken a real shine to Donny Rocks," Sharam said.

"So when Tracie mentioned this to the owner Ron Murch he generously signed over the dog to us."

Sharam was chasing his first winner as a trainer since March 31, 1997 – a time when the Lake Terrace East track was still well and truly in its infancy.

Lightning Sal and Racin' Razzy actually gave him a double that day when successful in heats of the Bookmakers Cup (512m) in times of 31.06 seconds and 30.81 seconds respectively.

Soon after, though, he hung up the collar and lead - family and employment in the Coonawarra taking priority.

Although in more recent times it is probably fair to say the occasional visit to Tara Raceway had rekindled the interest to some extent in greyhound racing.

"Things had certainly changed here since 1997," Sharam said.

"Free entry, trainers' appearance money, no nomination fees and even free race books.

"Add to this racing twice a week plus a considerable boost in prize money.'

Now, returning to Donny Rocks.

The son of Fernando Bale and Rhonda Rocks was always on the pace before taking up the running down the back.

On the line he had two lengths to spare over his former kennelmate Compton Yap in a time of 23.07 seconds.

Young Liam Sharam stood in his customary viewing spot - on the fence, not all that far past the finish line.

From that vantage point he would watched his father and his mother for that matter, lead back plenty of winners over the past few months.

But none of those had been a patch on Donny Rocks' win.

Meanwhile, earlier in the day, local owner Willie Vossen - a former trainer and Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club committee member - landed his first winner in more than Picture: SUBMITTED two years when Mr. Tandiki led all the way in the Rocks Tavern Maiden Stake (400m).

By Aussie Infrared, the white and black dog is out of Tandiki, who won 18 races for Vossen and partners Tracie and Karen Price and Michael Robinson.

ROUND 2 of the Southern Ports Tennis Association season continued over the weekend, with three matches taking the courts.

Kingston did not back down in its first match of the season, comfortably defeating the Robe Roosters with some spectacular games from the top men.

Frances/Lucindale Eagles again look like the team to beat this season, defeating Lucindale Koalas by 10 sets.

It was an unfortunate weekend for Penola, unable to field a team, handing a second win to Lucindale Wombats.

Kingston had juniors filling in, with Anna

Both boys' racquets took a pounding from their aggressive hitting and from the frustration caused by the strong winds.

Tarrant was too strong in the end and won two sets out of the three.

Eagles' Mon Van Dyk got the call up late and managed to win three after just having baby number four.

Other three-set winners for the Eagles were James Crossling, Hayley Crossing, Jane Fitzgerald, Bob Williams and Craig Jones, and for the Koalas the only three-set winner was Leanne Graetz.

short to Courtney Drabsch 6-2.

In the men's singles, Andy Brown went down 6-1 to Darcy Bateman. Ben Lang claimed a strong 6-1 win over Jesse Robertson.

There were plenty of three-set winners across from both sides as Tim Loveday, Darcy Bateman, Lucy Corman, Nat Chambers and Axel Joyce took the chocolates for Beachport.

The top order for Robe proved too strong all day with Egan Regnier, Lisa Hall, Jed Regnier and Kimberley Austin all taking three sets.

Lucindale Wombats d Penola (forfeit)

Kingston 21-157 d Robe Roosters 3-62

Robe turned on the weather for Kinngston's first game of the season, but the wind made for a few mishits.

Kingston was off to a great start, with a clean sweep of the mixed doubles, only dropping nine games from the six sets.

The Robe men then recovered, winning three of six singles.

The main court saw an entertaining game between Paul Rains and Matt Menz, both playing impressive tennis in the windy conditions and it was Rains who came away with an upset win 8-6 in the tiebreak.

The Kingston women won all six of their singles, with a close contest between Alex Menz and Tracey Bainger, Menz coming away with 7-5 win.

Rasheed, Jacob Mules and Katie Rasheed all playing good tennis.

They filled the Kingston women's team at 4, 5 and 6 respectively and not only won all of their singles, but won all three sets each for the day.

Kingston then won all of the women's and mens doubles.

Three-set winners for Kingston were Bianca Cunneen, Stacey Lehmann, Steve Edwards, Alex Menz, Anna Rasheed, Lou Leidig, Jacob Mules, James Lehmann and Katie Rasheed.

Frances/Lucindale Eagles 17-145 d Lucindale Koalas 7-102

On paper the teams looked even and there were some close sets in the top order.

The contest of the day was between Koalas' Sam Graetz and Eagles' Tarrant Fudge.

The Beachport Pirates hosted the Robe Reb els for a day of wayward ball tosses and minimal lob shots in the windy conditions.

The Rebels were off to a slow start in the mixed doubles contests, only managing to take two sets from the Pirates, with solid wins from the top ranked Egan Regnier and Lisa Hall, plus Jed Regnier and Kimberley Austin.

The singles saw a much closer result as the wind started to subside, with Beachport and Robe taking six sets each.

The home-court advantage proved nonexistent for Noah Lang and Jake Harris in their singles matches against the Regnier boys, going down 6-1 and 6-2 respectively.

Emma Vasek had her work cut out for her against Lucy Corman and only managed to walk away with three games.

Tamara Sutherland's push up the order was met with strong competition, falling In Round 3, matches could go either way.

Top team, the Lucindale Wombats, will travel into Naracoorte for its first away game of the season.

Penola will play its first home game against the Robe Roosters and both teams will look for their first win of the season.

Meanwhile, Kingston will host the Lucindale Koalas in their first home game.

The match to watch will be the Robe Rebels v Frances/Lucindale Eagles.

The Rebels will have a fight on their hands up against a strong Eagles outfit.

It will be a battle of men's singles, where Egan Regnier should take on Tarrant Fudge, while brother Jed Regnier battles it out against James Crossling.

TREVOR JACKSON

IT might have been common knowledge to certain people in the Millicent Racing Club, but life membership awarded to Gavin Watts at the last AGM was in fact quite a shock to the man himself.

"I didn't really expect it," Watts told the South Eastern Times this week.

"It was very nice."

Watts said he has been involved on and off with the club for a total of around 30 years, with shift work having an impact earlier and visits with his children at Willunga having the same effect these days.

However, he has nothing but fond memories of the club and still keeps his hand in.

"I am not on the committee now but I help Vince Bradley do the sheep," Watts said.

"We have about 160 ewes and we have lambs.

"We make sure the lambs are marked and looked after and the profit goes to the racing club.

"We have about 120 acres we use to run the sheep, so it is a little sideline for the club."

Watts recalled Bob Boyle was the president when he first started with the club, with his interest in the sport coming from an early age.

"I have always loved horses," he said.

"I worked on a farm when I left school and rode horses.

"I branched out as an owner trainer and we got the Mount Gambier cup in 2008 with Royal Blevic.

"I have had some nice horses over the years and I am still mucking around with them, but don't ask me why.

"I am 72 and the wife tells me off every time I hop on one.

"I shouldn't, but you have to do something." While it was nice to win the Mount Gambier cup, Watts named another one of his horses as his favourite.

"My favourite horse would be Golden Snip," he said.

"He won 16 races and it was a family horse. "To win 16 races and two in Adelaide, back in those days was pretty good really." Watts recalled some troubled times for the club, when Peter Burdon took over as president and got it back into the black. "We used to race at Penola and now we race at the Mount once a year," he said.

Gavin Watts received his life member to the Millicent Racing Club, along with a memento of his career from current club president John Payne.

"They have a pretty good committee now and look after the track, keep it cut an watered."

Watts said that was important because the track is still popular in the winter months with trainers.

"The Mount trainers come down in droves," he said.

"They come from Penola and Naracoorte, especially in the winter because you can race on our track all year." Over the years Watts got to know many people in the industry, with one in particular standing out.

"One person who helped me out a lot and taught me a lot was Noel Kent," he said.

"He was a top trainer and he didn't tell you much, but when he did you made sure you wrote it down or put it in the back of your head. "He was a very good horseman and taught

As for the presentation itself, presented by current club president John Payne at the AGM at the Grand Hotel in Millicent, Watts said it was a nice surprise. "We usually get invited to the AGM where it was presented," he said. "My wife knew a bit about it but didn't tell me.

"Nobody said anything, so it was a lovely surprise."

Exciting games for young tennis players

KINGSTON 44 d NARACOORTE BLUE 35

IT was another windy morning in Kingston for Round 2 of Southern Ports Junior tennis on Saturday.

The competition provided some excellent match-ups and close games.

Anna Rasheed filled in for Naracoorte Blue which made for a great match against younger sister, Katie.

Anna came away with a 6-4 win in a tight match.

win in his second game for Kingston. NARACOORTE YELLOW 46 d NARACOORTE WHITE 35

Naracoorte yellow proved too strong for Naracoorte White, coming away with an 11game victory.

The weather was kind and no rain made for good match play.

Some very competitive tennis was on display from both teams and good rallies had across all matches.

Charlie McCarthy had a successful day, winning both his single and doubles 6-2.

Mia McCarthy and Jack Orton battled it out for a 7-5 victory to Mia. NARACOORTE RED 46 d LUCINDALE KOALAS 18

Naracoorte Red secured an overall win against Lucindale Koalas.

Lucindale's Vanda Maywald played well and consistently in both matches.

Naracoorte's Angus Redding was a standout, show chasing his solid improvement as he secured a win in both his doubles and singles matches.

MILLICENT/BEACHPORT 40 d LUCINDALE ROOS 39

Another home game at Millicent saw them Yellow, both with two wins.

take on the Lucindale Roos.

A great start to the morning kicked off with the doubles matches, with some good competition.

Singles were difficult to play as the wind picked up, providing a challenging, but that did not stop everyone having tight games.

Millicent came home with the win by just one game.

At the end of Round 2, Kingston is top of the ladder, closely followed by Naracoorte Yellow, both with two wins.

Naracoorte RSL downed in windy conditions

BOTH divisions of open pennant for Naracoorte RSL did not have good results on Saturday in the extremely windy conditions.

Division 1 played at Mt Gambier RSL against the Blue side.

Ryan O'Shaughnessy, Geoff Hurn, Dean Cazzolato and Lindy Mark played Rex Heins' team and went down 13 shots to 31.

David O'Shaughnessy, Corey Zeuner, Rohan Burke and Linda Prentice went down 16 shots to 33 against Dean Wilkinson and Graham East, Chris Castine, Joe McGrath and Jeff East went down 17 shots to 40 against Ralf Stafford.

Final score Mt Gambier RSL Blue 104 shots 12 points defeated Naracoorte RSL 46 shots 0 points. Division 3 went to Kalangadoo for their game, and fared a little better.

Lou Hirschmann, Justin Redding, Lachy MacDonald and Kashe Bonthius were the only winning rink just getting over the line with 19 shots to 18 against Graham Casey.

Allan Brody, Paul Neilson, Rick Petrie and Kristy Hill went down 25 to 32 against Ben Casey and Brett Hill, Joan Hurn, Sandra Green and Helen Brody were beaten 18 shots to 28 against Rohan Carlson.

Final score Kalangadoo 78 shots 10 points defeated Naracoorte RSL 62 shots 2 points.

The ladies took a trip to Port MacDonnell on Friday and had perfect conditions for their game.

Lindy Mark, Helen Brody, Josie McGrath and

Joan Hurn had a brilliant start against Val Praetz and had a fifteen shot lead at lunch.

They continued to dominate in the afternoon and had a nice win with 32 shots to 11.

Robyn Hansen, Linda Prentice, Maree Neilson and Sandra Green had a fairly even game until just before lunch when they added a four to their score and were six ahead at the break.

The afternoon, saw them get all of the ends and they went on to win very comfortably with 42 shots to 12.

Final score Naracoorte RSL 74 shots 8 points defeated Port MacDonnell 23 shots 0 points.

Mil Lel is off to strong start

JAMES MURPHY

james.murphy@tbwtoday.com.au

MIL LEL 7/197 d SOUTH GAMBIER 10/96

MIL Lel is well on its way to an improved 2023-24 Barber Shield cricket season, having already equalled its win count from last year after just the first round.

The club visited Blue Lake Sports Park to play South Gambier in a one-day contest and after winning the toss, sent the Demons in to bat first.

The decision proved a smart one and the Mil Lel bowlers ripped through the South batting line-up with relative ease.

Only a few players provided resistance, with Jed Sims the top scorer on 35 runs, while Michael Sims' 24-not-out was next best.

Opening batsmen Adam Kuhl and Robbie Drenthen were both out on ducks, replaced by Jed Sims and James Miller respectively.

Miller's time at the crease was also short lived and when he was bowled by Harry Hicks the total was at 3/16.

However, Stephen Easterbrook padded up next and he and Jed Sims were able to steady the ship somewhat.

Their partnership of 39 runs got the scoreboard ticking over, before Jed Sims was caught by Darcy Williamson off a Darren Whitehorn delivery.

Jaggar Geary joined Easterbrook at the crease, but their partnership was brief.

Just three runs after Sims' dismissal, Easterbrook was sent packing in the same fashion, also caught by Williamson off Whitehorn.

Easterbrook was sent back to the sidelines with 14 runs – South's only other double-figure score for the day.

Noah Maxwell was up next but he was run out for no score after a mis-communication left him stuck in no-man's land.

His wicket fell and the score was 6/60.

Suddenly the Demons' backs were against the wall, with Michael Sims entering with bat in hand.

He and Geary started to find some momentum, but the latter was eventually bowled by Mitchell Little for eight runs.

Michael Sims backed himself in, but his partners were unable to hold out, with Jakob Opie dismissed a run later, while Adam Vause (four runs) and Sam Bradbrook (one) followed suite.

Craig Hicks claimed the final two wickets for an impressive return of 2/3, while Mil Lel captain Jack Miller also had an impressive outing with bowling figures of 2/12.

Whitehorn and Harry Hicks also claimed two scalps each in a well-spread bowling attack, with South all cleaned up after 29 overs.

Mil Lel padded up chasing a 96-run target. The chase had a shaky start when Jarrod Sanders was out for a duck, but when William Rowland joined Ty Dinnison at the crease the runs started to tick over.

Their partnership was relatively short, with Dinnison out for eight with the score at 2/13, but what followed would win the day.

After a solid first innings in the field, Williamson joined Rowland for an impressive partnership.

Together they produced 107 runs in a solid display, before Rowland was eventually bowled by Geary for 58.

Jack Miller added seven runs before he was out LBW to Easterbrook, then Archer Virtanen joined Williamson in the spotlight.

When Williamson was finally sent packing caught by Jed Sims off Drenthen – he had 70 runs to his name, with Mil Lel's total at 5-154.

The duo finished not out on two and six runs respectively at the end of the 40 overs and Mil Lel secured a convincing victory, amassing 7/197 at the end of play.

South had no shortage of bowlers, with five wicket-takers for the day.

Opie and Drenthen had two each, while James Millers' 1/9 was the most efficient return.

IT was a day where those who batted first came off second best in Barber Shield cricket, as teams took to the pitches for the opening round of the season

That was no different at Malseed Park, where West Gambier hosted East Gambier in a grand final rematch.

The visitors won the toss and elected to bat first, in hopes of setting a defendable target.

However, the Roos' bowling attack proved formidable and the Bulldogs only just broke into triple figures for a return of 100 runs.

That score was beaten by a single West batsmen, as Justin DeJong impressed with the bat for a century of 101 runs.

Opening East batsmen James Sullivan and Aiden Creasey did not have the same good fortunes and they did not see much of one another, with the former dismissed for a single run with the total at three.

Sullivan's replacement also struggled to make any inroads and 10 runs later he was caught behind off Kyal Chapman for eight.

Enter Dion Stratford and things started to settle somewhat.

He joined Creasev for a 33-run partnership before returning to the pavilion with 17 runs off 41 balls.

STRONG ARM: West Gambier's Sam Willis goes through the motions against the Bulldogs.

Ben Robinson was next up and next down. stumped by Prior for a duck shortly before Creasey was bowled by DeJong for 19.

Captain Alex Hentschke was then joined by Alex Hill, who added four runs before he was caught-and-bowled by West new recruit Sujith Nikethana.

Marc Roberts entered the fold and added 11 runs before falling to Sam Willis, while Connor Little added a solitary run before he was caught of a Willis delivery.

Hentschke went on to top score for East with 29 runs but he was next to go, clean bowled by Bray Stephenson to leave the tally at 9/96

Angus Thomson was the final wicket on three runs, leaving Evan Clark at stumps on two.

Wickets were shared and West had four multiple wicket takers, with DeJong, Chapman, Willis and Nikethana all on two.

The Roos took to the crease and while Nuwan Gunawardana was bowled by Hentschke early in the piece, fellow opener DeJong was in it for the long haul.

He was joined by Prior and together they amassed an impressive 126 runs before Prior was caught out on 44.

DeJong's prized wicket was the next to fall, but not before he became a centurion, with his 101 off 92 balls including five fours and four sixes

The total was already at a winning 3/161 with Stephenson and Nikethana at the crease.

The latter was run out for 13, followed by Willis who was caught-and-bowled by Little for 16.

Stephenson finished on an unbeaten 16 runs, while Samuel Coxon did not face a ball as the Roos finished up the 40 overs 5/202.

Roberts was East's best with the ball and he claimed two scalps

The reigning premiers will look to bounce back against South Gambier this week, while West hosts North Sportsman's.

No shortage of talent for Bordertown tennis

WITH what was another perfect afternoon RESULTS for junior tennis at the Bordertown Tennis Club, there were some great shots and sportsmanship on display.

With the senior social tennis starting after the juniors, it was great to see some juniors putting their hands up to even up the numbers.

If anyone is keen for a hit, head on down to the courts Friday at 6pm for a 6.30 start

NORTH SPORTSMAN'S 7/203 d PENOLA 5/190

NORTH Sportsman's has started its Barber Shield season well with a solid win over Penola in Saturday's opening round clash.

Played in the one-day format, the Tigers won the toss and sent Penola in to bat.

The Eagles put in a steady performance and their 190 runs was a credible score.

Openers Jack Mullan and Lewis March were off to a strong start and their partnership lasted 41 runs before Mullan was bowled by Matt Robinson for 25

Michael Waters took to the crease but did not spend long with March, as the latter was judged LBW and sent to the sidelines with 12 runs

However, another impressive partnership followed as Waters teamed up with Drew Clayfield

They shared the heavy lifting and proved a challenge for North bowlers, with a further 96 runs added before Waters was caught off a Mitch Lewis ball for 46.

Eli Hunter stepped up and joined Clayfield for a 23-run partnership.

Eventually the latter was dismissed - LBW off a Nick McInerney delivery - but not without raising his bat for a half century of 54 runs.

With the overs running out, the middle order kept the runs ticking over, with Hunter bowled by McInerney for 22, while Tom Clay-field and Joshua Doyle finished unbeaten with 15 and one run respectively.

That set a target of 5/190 as North padded up for the chase.

The Tigers' openers also had a solid start with Alex Hutton and Brad Robinson in good form

The pair added 49 runs before Hutton was caught off a Gerard Merrett ball for 24.

Robinson kept his cool and as Nick McInerney joined him at the crease, the duo kept the scoreboard pressure on.

Their partnership lasted 66 runs and when Robinson was run out for a game-high 42 North sat in a good position at 2/115.

Next in was Nicolas Brown, but his time at the crease was short, bowled by March for a single run.

McInerney's wicket fell soon after when he was bowled by Waters for 41, with Declan Kenny then joined by Isaac Mulraney.

They kept things ticking over and when Mulraney was caught out for 20, the tally had reached 5/172.

The target was well within reach and Kenny teamed up with Lewis to get the job done.

Their partnership of 30 runs pushed the Tigers over the 200-run mark before Kenny was sent packing for a respectable 36 runs.

Lewis made 19 runs before he was also caught out, with Nicholas Copping and Matt Robinson seeing out the final few balls to finish things off at 7/203.

It was a strong team effort by the Tigers, with six double-figure scorers, while McInerney was the best with the ball for North, with figures of 3/22

Penola looked to Merrett with ball in hand and he claimed three scalps in an attempt to slow down the hosts

However, North was too strong on the day and head into Round 2 against West Gambier with plenty of confidence.

Blustery conditions make the going tough

PACE: Michael Waters sends a quick ball down the pitch.

THE weekend's latest round of Mount Gambier and District tennis traded the rain of Round 2 for extreme winds.

While conditions were far from ideal, games were able to be completed, unlike the previous week.

The Division 2 competition was dominated by West Gambier on Saturday, with both the Blue and Red teams successful.

West Red hosted combined team Mount Schank/Mount Gambier for a convincing 12-0 set win.

No match was closer than a 6-2 result and at the end of the day the visitors mustered just nine games, opposed to West's 72.

Layla McPherson and Ella McKenny had a good 6-2 doubles win over Paige Telford and Tailah Hanson, while a forfeit in the top men's singles handed Peyton Robinson an easy set.

FOCUS: West Gambier Red's Jackson Cook winds up a backhand during a doubles outing.

His doubles match-up with Jackson Cook produced a 6-1 victory, as West adapted best to the windy conditions.

West Blue faced even worse conditions when visiting Suttontown/Glencoe Tigers at Suttontown.

Notoriously windy at the best of times, the guests worked their way to an eventual eightset-to-four win.

Beck defeat Kirra McKenny in a tiebreaker.

Another tiebreak was required in Matt Charlton's second doubles match, which he won for the guests.

Charlton had a slightly easier result in his singles, accounting for Alexandre Rigaux 6-3.

Rigaux chipped one back when partnering with Sharam for a 6-3 win against Charlton and Higgins, while Sharam's partnership with Cory Sharam also produced a victory.

Despite some close battles, West proved too strong on the day and left Mount Schank/ Mount Gambier winless after three rounds.

West Blue sits in second below its in-house rival, with a bye coming up this weekend. Mil Lel/Reidy had the bye on the weekend and will gear up against West Red next round, while Mount Schank/Mount Gambier meets Suttontown/Glencoe.

Magic on fire for tournament

THE annual Millicent Basketball Tournament was held over the weekend, with over 100 teams and about 750 players competing.

Across the two days, 10 courts were utilised in Millicent and Mount Gambier, with over 250 games played.

UNDER 12 GIRLS DIVISION 2 · WINNERS

Millicent's Under 12 girls claimed the overall win in Division 2.

Their opening game was against Mount Gambier Lakers, who had defeated the Magic in a pre-season scratch match.

The girls played well through their nerves with focus and determination, settling into their court positions.

Losing by a small margin Millicent focused on improving rebounding and man-on-man defence.

Improvement came in the next game when the Magic drew with Naracoorte.

Against the slammers Millicent was strong in defensive pressure and converted intercepts into scoring opportunities.

The win set up a grand final against Mount Gambier, which was an epic battle.

Millicent communicated well and played with fierce determination and courage.

Lakers' experienced side had strong on ball pressure, drive to the ring, along with height and accuracy.

The game was tightly contested and went point for point, with Millicent up by one late in the piece.

However, a defensive foul sent the Lakers to the free throw line and on the final buzzer they scored a point to send the match into overtime.

The following three minutes kept spectators on the edge of their seats.

With both teams on five team fouls Millicent and Mount Gambier stepped up for two sets of free throws with the winning point scored by

UNDER 14 GIRLS DIVISION 1 -

WINNERS Millicent's Under 14 girls cruised through the Division 1 minor rounds, with the only challenge a tight 32-26 point win over Strathalbyn. It was therefore fitting the Magic met

Strathalbyn in the grand final. Strathalbyn came out firing in the decider and scored the first few baskets. Tough defence made it hard to score for both sides

After a strong first half Strathalbyn held a five-point lead heading into the third quarter.

However, Millicent dug deep in the first five minutes of the third term and used every opportunity to score.

This effort allowed the Magic to push in front by two points at the final break.

They stood strong in the last and played smart in offence, with strong drives and patient passing.

In the end the lead was extended to six points and Millicent claimed the honours, with Lily Folder the top scorer in a solid team effort from the Magic.

UNDER 14 GIRLS DIVISION 2 -RUNNERS-UP

Millicent's Under 14 Girls started their Division 2 tournament well with a convincing win over Portland.

Working well as a team, the girls displayed good defence and were able to create plenty of turnovers, allowing for some fantastic finishing.

Both offense and defence were a highlight.

The final score was an impressive 42-5 points.

Game two was played against a tall Bordertown side and it took Millicent time to settle.

The Magic did find scoring opportunities after that, but they could not peg back the margin with too many unforced errors.

The last match for Saturday was against Great Southern, before game four had Millicent secure a 23-10 win over Eastern Hills.

Next up was the grand final, where the Magic girls faced a rematch with Bordertown.

Once again it was a tough outing and despite a strong defensive game from Millicent, Bordertown prevailed, leaving the Magic to finish the tournament as runners-up.

UNDER 16 GIRLS DIVISION 2

The Under 16 Division 2 Girls improved in every game they played over the weekend. Strong defensive pressure was a highlight, while offensively they stepped up after the first game.

However, two losses knocked them out of the running for a grand final appearance.

Up against Warrnambool in the grand final, Millicent fell by a slim two points to finish the tournament runners-up.

Game one was an impressive performance against Mount Gambier, with Ash Dean top scoring with 14 points on the way to a 41-8 victory

The Magic then met Portland and continued their good form to record a convincing 57-12 point win.

It was a good team effort with every player scoring and contributing and Kalani Dunn and Alex Haines playing well.

The third game was a hard-fought match against the talented Warrnambool side, with the girls losing 39-26.

Ash Dean and Emily Denton were the top scorers in that match.

In the fourth game on Sunday morning the girls were off to a great start with good defensive pressure from Bell Coghlan and Asha Gysbers.

A good 27-20 point win was the result, with Jeda Hibberd and Dean scoring well.

The final minor round match was against Slammers and the girls played their best team game as they were determined to make the decider. Denton scored 14 points and Hibberd had 11, helping to book a place in the title match.

The grand final was a well-contested game with Millicent taking the early lead through some long-range shooting from Coghlan.

UNDER 18 GIRLS - RUNNER-UP

Millicent's Under 18 Girls finished the tournament in second place.

Their first game was a tight loss to Mount Gambier, 36-39, with Edie Easterby Millicent's top scorer.

Game 2 against Strathalbyn had the Magic off to a good start, leading by 14 points at quarter time

Millicent let its opponent back into the game in the third term, but a dominant fourth quarter pushed it back out to a 20-point win.

Easterby was again the main target under the hoop.

The final game on Saturday was a rematch against Mount Gambier. Millicent gave the lead away in the first quarter and despite highintensity defence, the Magic went down 41-29.

Another consistent performance had Easterby top the sheets again for the Magic.

The last minor round game against Strathalbyn was a good team game and Millicent won 42-28 with Poppy Venn the best scorer. That set up a grand final with Mount Gambier and despite solid defensive pressure, the Lakers' managed to claim a narrow 26-24 point win.

Millicent locked Mount Gambier down defensively in the first quarter, but losing reliable scorer Venn at the end of the second quarter made it difficult to stay in front.

Millicent held the lead at the final break, but in a nail-biting finish Mount Gambier was able to get up by two points when it counted.

Decision made, not much change

UNDER 12 BOYS DIVISION 1

It was a tough weekend for the Under 12 boys who played in the Division 1 competition.

They fought hard all weekend, with a strong focus on improving defensively.

UNDER 14 BOYS DIVISION 1

The Magic Under 14 Boys finished fourth in Division 1.

They showed good defensive pressure throughout the tournament, while the efforts at training started to show on the game court.

Top scorers for the weekend were Levi Robbins, Finn Malone and Brax Thomas.

UNDER 14 BOYS DIVISION 3

The Under 14 Millicent Boys had two wins and two losses in the Division 3 category.

Game one against Naracoorte was the first match as a team and after an impressive performance, they went down in a thirller by one point

The boys gelled well and maintained the lead up until the final break, before falturing at the final hurdle.

The next game was a 40-24 point win over Mount Gambier B, while the Magic also bested Mount Gambier A by 10 points.

Border Sports loomed as a tough fourth game opponent.

Jack Haggett jumped on board as coach for this game, supporting the boys with strategies to score against a strong oppositional defence.

Unfortunately Border Sports was too strong, winning the match 42-24.

UNDER 16 BOYS DIVISION 3 - WINNERS

Millicent secured the tournament honours in the Under 16 Boys Division 3 competition.

The team was off to the perfect start and won the first four games of the weekend.

Strong starts in each game put the Magic in a winning position early, which eventually led to a grand final berth.

In the decider Millicent matched up against Naracoorte, who came out with great defensive pressure. However, Millicent regrouped from its initial shock and fought its way in front to claim the win.

FURNER motorcycle racer Dallas Skeer almost pulled off a dream result at Phillip Island on the weekend for Round 6 of the 600cc Australian Supersport Championship.

With the lap winding down Skeer led the field, but a rush of blood almost brought it undone.

In the end, a wild ride into the grass saw Skeer hold onto the bike and cross the line in fifth place, which could have been a lot worse.

It was the first weekend of racing for Skeer in around four months and the lack of track time showed in qualifying and the opening race.

After qualifying 10th, Skeer said he got an average start and dropped back a few positions.

"I passed a couple of the boys but by then the front group had pulled away," he said.

"It was a pretty lonely race really.

"I had about a three-second gap in front and behind, so I just cruised and tried to be consistent.

"My times were within half a second over the whole race."

The second race proved a bit more fruitful, with a good start setting Skeer up for a real tilt at victory.

He moved up to fifth after the first corner and was in the hunt.

He joined the front group and moved up to third, before catching the leader.

"I caught the leader and towed the rest along, then I was able to get into the lead on the seventh lap," Skeer said.

"I held onto it until halfway through the eighth lap and with about one lap to go I got a bit eager.

"I knew the boys behind me were running quicker pace than I have, so I was pushing to make sure I had a gap.

"I didn't have a pit board and didn't realise I had half a second gap."

From there it all came undone, as Skeer tried to push harder to ensure he had a gap to the rest of the field.

"Up the back in the fast section, fifth gear flat, wasn't one of the best options," Skeer said.

"I tried to get through there as good as I could, but I ended up running off the track into the grass.

"I was able to pull it up and not run off the other side."

By the time it all unfolded, Skeer speared back onto the track and chased the leaders down, but had to settle for fifth place.

"I was kicking myself for doing something stupid," he said.

"I showed I had the pace and could have possibly crossed the line first, but it is what it is."

The result leaves Skeer in fourth on the championship standings, some 55 points behind third place, but with just one round remaining, moving up the leaderboard will be a tall ask.

CAREFUL EYE: Dallas Skeer assesses the track before setting off at the Phillip Island circuit on the weekend.

"I was surprised when I saw I was in fourth place, because I have had an inconsistent year. but everybody else has too," he said. "I am a fair way off the top three, but you never know what will happen. "I had the best results I have had at Tailem Bend last year so I hope to replicate that. "It is a track I really enjoy. "I am going there next weekend to get a day's testing under my belt.

Road trippin' success for the Magic men

james.murphy@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Millicent Magic men had a successful double-header road trip for Round 4 of the Country Basketball League season.

They hit the road for a rematch against Terang Tornadoes on Saturday night, before venturing to Hamilton on Sunday for a meeting with the Hurricanes.

Both games produced impressive victories, bringing the Magic up to five wins from seven games.

Saturday night's encounter differed slightly to the previous week's clash with Terang.

The home team was off to a strong start this time around and led 25-18 at the first change.

However, Millicent turned things around from there and left the Tornadoes wanting in the second quarter.

The guests piled on 23 points to Terang's 12 and at half time held a four-point lead.

The margin grew substantially in the third term when the Magic scored 29 points, while holding the hosts to 14.

The best was yet to come and an overwhelming finish had Millicent bang through 34 points in the fourth quarter.

Terang was restricted to 19 points during that period and at the final buzzer the Magic prevailed by 34.

In an impressive coincidence, Jack Haggett equalled his game-high score from their previous encounter.

His 31 points kept the Terang defence under constant pressure, while Harry Mules was equally impressive on 28, which included six three-pointers.

Jackson Bowden (19 points) and Kade

Bradley (16) offered ample support under the hoop, in what was another strong team performance.

Ryley Hutchins was again the top scorer for the Tornadoes on 19.

Sunday's match against Hamilton followed a similar script, with the hosts out of the gates strongly.

The Hurricanes won the first term 26-23, but again a big second-quarter turnaround had Millicent take the lead.

The Magic shot a game-high 32 points during that time, while Hamilton could only muster 15.

At the main break Millicent held a handy 14-point buffer.

A similar quarter followed, which grew the margin out to 28.

That left Hamilton with a near-impossible task and while it did step things up a gear, Millicent was able to win the quarter by one point to secure a 115-86 point triumph.

It was an even contribution by the Magic, with both Matt Black and Bradley equal top scorers on 26 points.

Bowden had 24, while Haggett and Mules also broke into double figures with 19 and 12 points respectively.

Joshua Miller was the best under the basket for the Hurricanes with 21.

After playing seven games across four rounds, Millicent's men will be kept busy again this week with another double header at home.

The Magic women, as well as the Mount Gambier Lakers men and women, had byes for the round but will all return to the court this weekend.
