"We have a shortage of drivers in those areas and we are encouraging people to come along and know about our services, and that Red Cross Transport. we exist," she said.

"We are encouraging drivers to come on board, so that we have as many drivers as we can to provide the service."

Ms Garandi said that the service is to assist the aged, disadvantaged or vulnerable people in the Limestone Coast.

"We help people get to medical appointments, social events, to attend shopping or go out with other people... it is a program that is there to support people in the community that need that support," she said.

Ms Garandi said that the lack of public transportation in Millicent, Naracoorte, Bordertown and the surrounds does result in the heightened demand for services such as

"Red Cross Transport is provided at a subsidised rate, making it accessible for people, while at the same time, providing a service that is responding to the needs of people in the shortest possible time," she said.

The process to become a volunteer driver involves a person conducting a police check and working with children check, both provided through the Red Cross.

"It is very easy to volunteer. You can give us a call, contact us on social media, come in to our office or speak with one of our volunteers and we can answer any questions and give you all the information you need to become a volunteer, or simply find out more," Ms Garandi said.

Calls grow for action to prevent family violence

AUSTRALIANS are conflicted when it comes to community understanding of violence against women, data from Australia's National Research Organisation for Women's Safety (ANROWS) has revealed.

91 per cent of Australians recognise violence against women as an issue at a national level but only 47 per cent admit it could be a problem in their own suburb or town.

A low 12 per cent of people still see family and domestic violence as a private matter that should be dealt with inside the family.

Respect Victoria Chair Dr Kate Fitz-Gibbon stressed the importance of taking action to prevent family violence and violence against women, as it is a national crisis.

"We are calling on all Australians to take action to prevent violence and to learn what drives it.

"Everyone has a role to play if we are ever going to see safe relationships, safe workplaces and a safe community for all women," she said.

"Violence is happening in every town and suburb in the country, and we all have an opportunity to be part of the solution. We're better than this, and we must all strive for a safer future for women and girls."

Djirra is an organisation that supports Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women experiencing family violence and CEO and Kuku Yalanji woman Antoinette Braybrook said more support is needed for Aboriginal women in Australia.

"It is critically important to elevate and nurture the voices of Aboriginal women - we are never silent, but we have been silenced," she said.

"It is even more important following the Referendum debate and result, that government invests in early intervention, culturally safe and community-based holistic specialist family violence services.

"We have the solutions to end violence against women and we need governments to listen and support our work."

Victim Survivors' Advisory Council Deputy Chair Conor Pall said that violence cuts across every segment of the community.

"We know that the majority of victims, regardless of gender experience violence from a male perpetrator," he said.

"It's time to retire the toxic 'boys will be boys' attitudes that continue to drive violence against women. It's time to ignite a new conversation about being a man in a genderequal society.'

THE Geltwood Festival will not be held next year, as organisers work to return it to its former glory

The organisers of the Geltwood Festival recently met to evaluate this year's event and begin plans for the next festival to be held in March or April 2025.

This year was the second year the festival was held in October after covid restrictions in 2022 saw the event moved to later in the year.

The festival had been cancelled in both 2020 and 2021 due to the restrictions.

Organisers and collaborators of the festival agreed to return to its original March or April date rather than October next year.

Given the time required to organise the event and the financial support from council needing to roll over to the following financial year the decision was unanimously made to postpone next year's event.

Wattle Range Council manager community development Caroline Hill said the group had met and discussed the change.

"The discussions are very preliminary, but it was quite a resounding push to change the date back to March or April to make it viable,' she said.

"We need to push it back within that financial year frame to give it the juice needed to have a bigger and better event in 2025.

"There will be some replanning and regrouping. We haven't determined a date, we have to look at what other activities might be on."

Organisers are hoping returning the event to earlier in the year will result in better weather for outdoor activities.

This year's Twilight market event was cancelled due to severe weather warnings.

The event is also clashing with other events and activities in the region.

CAROLINE HAMMAT

caroline.hammat@tbwtoday.com.au

IN one year, a simple non descript laneway between shops in Millicent's Alexander Square has had a remarkable transformation.

Last year Moira Neagle approached property owner Dave Foster to ask if he minded her adding a few plants to the space.

After placing a few pot plants in the laneway, Ms Neagle put the call out on social media encouraging others to add to the collection.

Twelve months later the laneway is lined both sides with an array of plants in a variety of containers

Earlier this year the Millicent Craft Group, inspired by a colourful laneway in Malaga, Spain, asked if they could create a crochet canopy for the space.

Although the group hoped the canopy would be in place for this year's Geltwood Festival the inclement weather saw installation delayed until last week.

Lonergan and Muhovics played a crucial role in installing the work by attaching solar panel frames between the walls before hanging the work

Dennis Muhovics, Michael Pink and Fletcher Leopold, from Lonergan and Muhovics, took an hour to attach the crochet work to the frame.

A small group gathered to watch the installation including craft group secretary Pat Muhovics and treasurer Emelia Tidy.

"It's brought this alleyway to life," Ms Muhovics said.

"I was surprised when we put it together

Ms Neagle also dropped by to watch the installation and said the community support was "wonderful."

"People just want to add to it, I'm blown away by it"

"It's just so joyful."

Ms Neagle praised the support of Mr Foster for the project which began with allowing a few pot plants and has continued with each new idea suggested.

Plans to paint the laneway in preparation for "It's probably a good thing that we didn't a possible mural next year are being discussed.

Talking substance misuse

SUBSTANCE Misuse Limestone Coast (SMLC) is preparing to host its second Limestone Coast Alcohol and Other Drug Regional Summit this month.

The summit will bring together leaders, frontline workers and key decision-makers from across the state.

Special guest speaker for the event will be senior research officer for the University of Sydney, Medicine and Health, and the Matilda Centre for Research on Mental Health and Substance Use Dr Melinda Beck.

Other key speakers include South Australian Network of Drug and Alcohol Services (SANDAS) chief executive officer (CEO) Michael White and acting CEO of Warrnambool's Western Region Alcohol and Drug Centre (WRAD Health) Mark Powell.

This year's lead topic will be comorbidity with SMLC project manager Sophie Bourchier stating it was a timely and relevant issue for those working in the alcohol and other drug sector.

"Comorbidity is the term generally used to describe the presence of more than one condition, which could be a dependence on alcohol and a mental health issue, both requiring treatment," Ms Bourchier said.

"The balancing act for practitioners and frontline workers is which condition to treat first, sometimes resulting in people being turned away from treatment because the organisation or agency may be an alcohol and other drug or mental health funded agency and isn't equipped, or funded, to treat both conditions.

Ms Bourchier said the day's agenda would also include updates on the opening and management of the two alcohol and drug detoxification beds at the Mount Gambier and Districts Hospital, referral pathways, gap analysis, and discussions of regional alcohol and other drug and comorbidity models.

SUMMIT: Substance Misuse Limestone Coast project manager Sophie Bourchier and board members Sandi Seymour and Professor Ian Darnton-Hill. Picture: KATE HILL MEDIA AND CREATIVE

She said it was also an opportunity for frontline workers from across the region to "catch up and connect".

"One of the main feedback points from our 2021 summit was the need for regular events, not only to share industry news and local trends, but also to combat the isolation that alcohol and other drugs workers and allied health agencies can experience in the regions,'

Ms Bourchier said.

"It's not often that you can bring leaders, clinicians, researchers and frontline workers together all in the one room and I expect there will be some major outcomes from the day, which will then be incorporated in SMLC's future planning.

"As the region's peak health promotion, education and advocacy organisation, it's SMLC's mission to identify those opportunities and service gaps, and proactively work with local organisations, funding bodies and policy makers to seek funding to fill those needs."

This year's event will be held on November 23 at Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre.

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

A FORMER Mount Gambier/Berrin foster care agency will be put under the microscope by Adelaide based Shine Lawyers after allegations of abuse have come to light.

The Family Home was established by the Department for Community Welfare in 1972 and provided emergency and short-term care for children while a family crisis was being assessed or other placement options were being determined.

It could accommodate less than eight children with the date of its closure unknown and was located at 8 Acacia Street.

The Family Home parents were not paid a salary by the Department but were provided with rent-free accommodation at the home and received a subsidy for each child in residence.

Shine Lawyers general manager for South

Australia Nicholas Kitchin said they had received inquiries from people alleging abuse from the home.

Mr Kitchin said the lawyers were now calling for witnesses to assist with its initial investigation in respect to the inquiries.

"We are asking for any former residents of the home to come forward and contact us to tell us about their experience, whether it was a good or bad experience at the home because that will assist us to paint a picture... which will in turn assist us with our investigations on behalf of those who have come forward with inquiries," Mr Kitchin said.

'The next step, the inquiries that we have received and the investigations, may be a prospect of a legal claim and that is the avenue they will be pursuing.

"It was a government run institution and it is a participant in the National Redress Scheme and there may be others who have taken that approach to receive compensation."

Mr Kitchin said it was common for abuse survivors to come forward decades later as it could take decades to work through the trauma and build the confidence to tell their story to a lawyer or community member, friend or support person.

"It is a very difficult road for them to walk," he said.

"We have the support of our law firm in pursuing legal avenues and we also have a team of counsellors on board who are available to provide ongoing support throughout the challenging process of legal proceedings.

"We are well aware having practised in this space for a number of decades now of support services available to survivors of abuse.'

A spokesperson for the Department for Child Protection said the department takes the safety and wellbeing of children and young people in care very seriously, and of those who have previously been in care.

"There are a range of safeguarding mechanisms in place, including mandatory notification under the Children and Young People (Safety) Act 2017, care concern reporting and avenues for children and young people to raise concerns including through the Child and Young Person's Visitor," they said.

"The department assists care leavers to access records relating to their time in care through the Provision of Information Request process.'

This process, which is embedded in the Children and Young People (Safety) Act 2017, was in response to a recommendation from Commissioner Nyland in the Child Protection Systems Royal Commission.

Mr Kitchin said any potential witnesses or survivors of abuse under The Family Home should contact Shine Lawyers.

MELANIE RILEY

VICTORIA has caught up to South Australia with their recycling habits, following an introduction of a 10c recycling scheme this month for the state.

The Victorian Container Deposit Scheme (CDS Vic) was introduced to increase recycling and reduce litter leading to a cleaner environment.

It is a convenient and accessible scheme with hundreds of refund points open across Victoria, with more set to open in the coming weeks.

The network is set to grow to more than 600 refund points by August 2024.

With Victorians using more than 3 billion drink containers daily, many are not recycled and are ending up in landfill.

Victoria's target is to divert 80 per cent of all material away from landfill by 2030, and the scheme will look to contribute to this.

The 10c recycling scheme started in 1977 in South Australia after the South Australian Parliament passed the Beverage Container Act 1975.

Victoria has now modelled this, and is offering 10c for each eligible container.

The drop off can be done in three easy steps: collect, return and refund.

The machines allow multiple ways to receive your 10c refund: cash, vouchers or donation to a partnered charity organisation. Soon, electronic payment will also be an option.

The cash refund option is available at many depots, over-the-counter and pop-up refund points.

Vouchers are generated instantly, and can be redeemed at participating stores towards a purchase or often exchanged for cash.

Partnered donation organisations can be found on the machines at the collection points. Refunds directly deposited into a bank account are soon to be an option or some refund points will allow a PayPal transfer.

An app will be introduced soon for this kind of refund, and instructions can be found at individual refund points.

Most aluminium, glass, plastic, steel and carton drink containers between 150mL and 3 litres are eligible with eligible containers being marked on the back for ease of recycling.

Plain containers such as milk, cordial or juice containers, wine and spirit bottles are not eligible for refund.

Containers can be deposited as they are, with the lids left on and not crushed. There are collection points in Casterton, Coleraine, Heywood, Portland and Hamilton.

Casterton's local drop off point is Caster-

"I think it's very good because it will stop the rubbish around the roads. People will be picking up their rubbish and saving it for a refund," she said.

FROM NARACOORTE TO NT: Darren Callaghan in READY: Mark Harding's deployment group. the Northern Territory

INTENSE BLAZE: Smoke billows into the sky.

NEAVE MOORE

LIMESTONE Coast Country Fire Service (CFS) volunteers are encouraging members of the community to become involved with their local brigades, after returning from deployment in the Northern Territory.

Mark Harding (Bordertown CFS) and Darren Callaghan (Naracoorte CFS) volunteered their time to travel and relieve the Northern Territory Fire and Rescue Service (NTFRS) during a bushfire recently, joining many CFS trained persons from Region 5 and greater South Australia.

Mr Callaghan said a call for volunteers was made at a regular Wednesday training.

"There hadn't been a lot of media coverage down here about the Northern Territory fires,' Mr Callaghan said.

"I volunteered because I am semi retired and got a notification the following day that I was leaving on the Friday.'

Mr Callaghan said that he had met with another three volunteers from Region 5 in Mount Gambier before travelling on to Adelaide and meeting another 15 volunteers from nine regions.

"The reason I volunteer is because I can," Mr Callaghan said.

"Someone has to volunteer, and if no one does then we have a problem.

"We had five or six members of the NTFRS come up from Alice Springs and meet with us at the command centre at Tennant Creek.'

Mr Callaghan said that his time in the Northern Territory involved a lot of back-burning, using a vehicle that is able to "spit out fire" out the side.

We were coming along behind it and if it started to flare up a bit, we would douse it down just to keep the burning on the fire track.

Mr Callaghan said that it was important for volunteers to know how to contain a blaze, but also for locals to be aware of evacuation routes and destinations and whether locations in town can provide a safe refuge.

UP NORTH: Mark Harding in the Northern Territory.

Mr Harding said that his group provided some relief for volunteers stationed in the NT.

"I personally love going around and seeing different parts of the country, and don't get away too often and wherever it is or whatever needs to be done, I'm more than happy to do it and make myself useful," he said.

"I've been on several deployments but this is was my first deployment to the Territory and the first time there has been a paramedic with our team.

Cooking up a winner

"I have never been with a team that has connected so well, and it was a fantastic experience.

Mr Harding said that the relationship between local fire rescue volunteers and the deployed CFS volunteers was great and they were welcomed and appreciated.

"There were a couple of guys pretty keen on going but weren't able to make it ... Bordertown CFS is mostly employed people and not many people had the option to be deployed really quickly," he said.

"This was my first deployment when I travelled by myself to Adelaide but I did what was right by me.'

Mr Harding said he encouraged locals to consider volunteering their time to training at the CFS and for the local youth to consider completing the cadet program.

"It feel good to know that you've helped someone, even in just a little way," he said.

"With fire season coming up at home, we have to be very prepared."

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

WAITING times to receive the Patient Assistance Transport Scheme (PATS) have increased to up to six weeks due to an influx of people needing the scheme.

SA Health confirmed the extended waiting times, which typically took four weeks.

A rural support service spokesperson said the increased demand issue was expected to be resolved within two weeks after receiving claims from 15.460 from the last financial year.

To be eligible for PATS, a person must travel more than 100km from their residence to their treatment location or specialist appointment but alternative transport subsidies may be available for people who need to travel for medical treatment but live within the radius, through a volunteer organisations.

PATS was also expanded this year to include travel for orthotic and prosthetic clinic appointments with the fuel subsidy also doubled earlier this year.

Despite this, a Mount Gambier/Berrin resident - who wishes to remain anonymous due to medical confidentiality - stated they had travelled to Adelaide and Melbourne for different specialist appointments.

The resident said they would typically travel to the main metropolitan areas within a day for appointments and was recently told it could be an eight-week wait for rebates.

"I had to go to Adelaide for a day trip recently and I dropped the form off the following morning and asked what the wait times would be," the resident said.

"I was told seven to eight weeks and I only dropped one off three or four weeks ago and was told it would get back to me in two or three weeks.

"It took three weeks exactly but seven to eight weeks I thought that is way too long."

They said PATS once offered to automate his payments which would allow it to be rebated within 48 hours, yet they had only received the funds within that time frame once.

"The rest of the time has been a week or two or three and with the price of petrol over twodollars a litre in Adelaide and the cost of living it makes it really hard," the resident said.

They said their ideal rebate time would be within the 48-hour timeframe rather than waiting weeks.

have been told they need to send it to Adelaide be bought when we get the money," they said. to be processed but I have also been told it is processed here first but it should not take weeks," they said.

"Waiting leaves me short on finances, I have to rearrange everything and try and budget things out and then I have to wait and be able to fit everything in until I get that money back.

They said the rebate was then a "bit of a bonus" for other finances yet a few weeks later they would typically have to travel to see further specialists and once again lodge a form.

"I am not expecting any of the rebates to come through until after Christmas if that is the waiting time and with everything going up, something needs to be done," they said.

"People cannot afford to be waiting all the time because petrol is going back up and if someone needs to travel, there is accommodation and if they have an escort with them as well it all adds up really quickly and then you live short.'

They said due to the waiting times, they had to "slow down" on spending habits and "rearrange" finances.

"I need to prioritise things as to what needs "I want repayment times to improve and I to be bought and the other stuff later on, can

They said the waiting times should be the same and streamline to help those needing it as well as encouraging more specialists to work in the region and prevent patients from needing to travel.

"If we can get more specialists to come down it would save the travel and the wear and tear on the vehicles and the stress of having to travel up to Adelaide all the time," they said.

Minister for Health and Wellbeing Chris Picton said SA Health expects the current slightly longer waits to be resolved within a couple of weeks.

"I have already taken action to double the fuel subsidy from 16 cents per kilometre to 32 cents per kilometre - the first major increase to the scheme in more than 20 years. This has already helped hundreds of families across the Limestone Coast," he said.

"We are already investing more funding for country hospitals so people can receive more care locally - such as expansions of the emergency department and mental health soon to start construction at Mount Gambier Hospital.'

Government steps in to stop giant pine scale

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

PINE trees in the South East are at minimal risk of the giant pine scale pest which was recently located in Adelaide.

The giant pine scale is a "sap sucking" insect which feeds on trees from the Pinaceae family, including pine, firs and spruces.

South Australian Forest Products Association (SAFPA) chief executive officer Nathan Paine said identified trees in Adelaide's northern suburbs have since been removed, making the risk of spread minimal for other areas.

"The pest is common in Melbourne but we are fairly confident that with the effort of the South Australian government, we can eradicate this before it becomes an issue in the Adelaide Hills, the Fleurieu Peninsula or the South East," Mr Paine said.

"If it were to go anywhere the next threat would be the Adelaide Hills and the Fleurieu Peninsula but it is a slow moving pest and it is absolutely a problem but we are confident the government's response will get on top of this eradication and we are thankful for Minister for Forestry Clare Scriven's focus on working towards the eradication of giant pine scale."

He said although the SAFPA recognises the "loss of tree canopies and urban forests" was an unfortunate process, it was crucial the insect was removed from the metropolitan trees before it spread any further.

"It would be a biodiversity disaster if this infestation reaches our plantation forests," Mr Paine said.

PINE RISKS: Pine trees in the South East are at minimal risk of the giant pine scale pest which was recently located in Adelaide.

"If this insect reaches any of our commercial pine plantations it would have a devastating impact on our state's economy and regional communities

"The South Australian Forest Products Association are grateful to be working with the South Australian Government on eradicating this biodiversity risk, as the removal of the infested trees will not only protect the industry it will also protect the local environment and the neighbouring urban forests that remain unaffected."

YOUR SAY

Limestone Coast Today values your opinion.

If you have a view or wish to comment on any community issue we would like to hear from you.

Christian comment Grassroots advocacy

WE live in a world full of uncertainty. There are wars raging with senseless killing. Interest rates rising, cost of living soaring to new heights, a lack of honouring one another, broken relationships and all kinds of sickness. The fruit of all this is anxiety, fear, shame, pain and dread. And above all this, we lose hope and direction which will crush our spirit.

A society that lacks hope will perish and this seems to be the direction we are heading. But today I want to tell you, it is not all doom and gloom. There is someone who is the source of hope and his name is Jesus.

He knows exactly what you are all going through. He experienced all that you have experienced 2000 odd years ago, on the cross and has overcome it.

Jesus came into the world not to condemn, but to save and for all those who will put their trust in him, he gives his spirit, the Holy Spirit who can strengthen us and help us to overcome.

He is the source of joy in our lives. Joy is so much better than happiness. Happiness is fleeting.

If you don't get what you want, you lose your happiness, but joy helps you to persist, regardless of what is happening around you. This joy, is from God, a fruit of the Holy Spirit.

When we have this joy, it will strengthen us and fill us with hope, despite all that goes on around us.

This joy gives you the ability to persevere through trials and in this you will be strengthened.

You receive it through faith, that is believing what God has said.

It is not dependent on your ability, or skill set, but a gift from the heart of God, a gift worth having.

Ask and you will receive.

HOPE: There is someone who is the source of hope. Picture: FILE

The team led by well-known mental health professional Tracey Wanganeen began offering services two days a week in July this year, and by August, services were expanded to operate five days a week.

The community has welcomed and embraced the service and I commend Focus One Health for getting the Head to Heath Mount Gambier facility up and running so quickly after being awarded the contract to provide the service.

Head to Health Centres are rolling out across the country offering a service to adults similar to that of Headspace for young people and I'm confident that like Headspace, Head to Health will become a well-recognised and trusted name that will become synonymous with mental wellbeing and support for all Australians.

Like Headspace, I'm incredibly proud that Head to Health is a Coalition initiative.

While I'm proud that the mental health reforms embarked upon by the former Coalition Government are making an impact here in the Limestone Coast, I'm equally proud that the Limestone Coast community stood up and worked together to advocate for this new and additional service.

So, not only am I celebrating the opening of the new Head to Heath Centre for the benefits that it brings to our region, but I'm celebrating the fact that it was the grassroots advocacy of our community that has delivered this outcome.

It serves as reminder to us all that grassroots advocacy works.

I hope that it also serves to encourage community members advocating for other health services.

Congratulations to the Focus One team on the new Centre. It's certainly a proud moment for me and indeed everyone who was involved in advocating for this local service. Most importantly, thank you to the thousands of community members who signed the petition which I then presented to the former Minister for Health, Greg Hunt. Each signature was a demonstration of the need and assisted me in my advocacy to the Minister on behalf of the Limestone Coast.

Head to Health Mount Gambier is a welcome addition to the Limestone Coast, supporting our community to become an even better place to live, work and raise a family.

Preparing for influx

TYLER REDWAY

ROBE businesses have met to discuss the upcoming summer months, amidst concerns about parking, accommodation and the town's ability to support the expected 20,000 visitors.

Concerns of Robe hospitality businesses were heard by the Robe District Council after a meeting to discuss the issues of the town's summer parking and service recently.

Robe District Council mayor Lisa Ruffell said one of her concerns was whether businesses would be able to cope with the influx of visitors which were in Robe during summer, potentially reaching a population of more than 20,000 people.

She said a potential solution could be to call on outsourced food vans to come to town during the summer season; an idea which was not received well by the rest of the business owners.

"There was an influx of people coming in through the summer, so it's a question of if we can handle it," Ms Ruffell said.

"We had all of the business owners in the one room and asked if there were any food vans out there who could help.

They all seem to think they can cope with it, but they want the council to work on trying to find more staff accommodation, so building more units will be a focus."

Caledonian Inn co-owner Geoff Prest said if more out-of town food vans were introduced into Robe, it would hurt the rest of the town's businesses in the process.

Mr Prest said it could lead to more restaurants closing their doors due to an overwhelming amount of pressure from the large number of visitors.

"It will look great for a month over summer and will get things buzzing, but you will have more restaurants like FoodLab and the Adventurous Spoon," Mr Prest said.

"A standalone restaurant in this day and age is hard work, the cost of food and wages puts pressure on.

"If you take away the cream over summer from Sails, the Union Cafe or Drift, you will sink every second hospitality business in this town and you will find by June or July, places will start going under and if the town is going to be full of food vans, then they would wonder why they are there in the first place.'

Ms Ruffell said she agreed with Mr Prest's view, which was also supported by the rest of the businesses in attendance.

"Being an owner myself, I think the biggest concern was we work really hard in the summer for our bit of cream so we want to make sure we make it to last all year round," she said.

"Their concern is if you are bringing other businesses in even if it's for a short time, then they take some of the cream which isn't right.

"We can't stop it, but we can limit it and that's what I was trying to get across with poli-

Head To Health's mission begins

Ms Ruffell said due to the influx of tourists in the summer, wait times were usually unavoidable and encouraged visitors and locals alike to be patient with their orders during the season.

"I will make sure we post wherever we can get it out there for tourists who are visiting our town to make sure they book ahead and think about planning their alternative food choices,' she said.

"It's about making them aware they might have to wait half an hour for a coffee, it's not unusual and it happens everywhere in the festival season, so if you want to enjoy our town then I ask everyone to please be patient."

The issue of parking was also discussed among businesses, which addressed how staff members of some businesses were parking along the main street spaces, which limited the amount of options available for tourists.

Ms Ruffell said to help resolve this, the Robe District Council was in the process of trying to open up the Robe Primary School oval to allow more parking for staff members of all of Robe's businesses.

"Parking was an issue so we have addressed it by opening the Robe Primary School's oval while putting fencing at the back of it," she said.

"I am encouraging all retailers to talk to their staff and tell them to park there, it's only five minutes away from everything else and there are 50 to 100 parks there.'

Scriven on public transport

A STATE review into regional public transport is still underway following the state government signing a new contract to LinkSA for an eight-year term.

Member of the Legislative Council Ben Hood questioned Minister for Regional Development Clare Scriven during parliament last week regarding the difficulties reported in Mount Gambier/Berrin regarding public transport services.

Mr Hood said there were difficulties around public transport access times, further service gaps and inadequacies including the "restrictive 9am to 5pm" operation hours.

"While six new buses are proposed to be in use by 2025, and a review is to be undertaken by the department, the contract will not offer any improvements to these existing issues," Mr Hood said.

"The current arrangements have been described by the mayor of Mount Gambier and other community leaders as vastly inadequate."

Ms Scriven said the review had certainly commenced and had commenced prior to the signing of the new contracts.

"However, if the signing of the contracts, as I understand it, had not proceeded, then transport services could have ended prematurely, which wouldn't be a positive outcome for anyone," Ms Scriven said.

'Our government has been engaging with regional communities on a very active level, including our recent Country Cabinet in MacKillop just last week.

"As part of our election commitment, our government committed to reviewing the operations and availability of public transport options in regional centres.'

She said there were a "number of community organisations" based transport services which were transporting commuters or residents to specific activities.

"We want to look at how that can best be integrated with other transport services," Ms Scriven said.

"We know that it's also a sustainable option and it addresses, too, those members of the community who may not be able to drive, either perhaps because of health issues or other issues and so it's certainly something which is incredibly important and I am glad that I have been able to be involved in the discussions on it so far."

Ms Wanganeen said additional services from FocusOne centred more on long-term care would be added to Head To Health once the organisation moves from its current Mount Gambier location.

Member for Barker Tony Pasin said he was "proud" of the community for backing the campaign to have a Head To Health centre in the region.

"It just proves once again when a community gets behind an endeavour, it becomes very hard for a decision maker to say no," Mr Pasin said

"This facility is critical because what it provides is a free mental health service for adults."

Mr Pasin said previous options were limited to general practitioners, which could become costly depending on the amount of visits a person needed.

"If someone is struggling with their mental health, their options prior to this facility would be to go to their GP so they can have 10 visits,' he said.

"You would invariably have to pay a gap which could be as much as $50.

"The single most significant barrier for people wanting to get help with their mental health is the cost of it all."

THE Australian Caravan Club Limestone Coasters (ACCLC) are inviting the public to learn more about the club and jump on board as a member

The club started in May 2014, and had their first muster in Serviceton in July that year.

The late Trevor Hueppauff was president of the club at the time, alongside secretary Deb Hopp and treasurer Chris Thorton.

Following that, the club took part in the National muster which was held in Lucindale, where 200 caravans took part.

The local club incorporates the whole South East up to Bordertown and across to Kingston, and currently has around 25 members. They are celebrating their 10 year anniversary next year, and would love to see more members join.

Therese Gregory is the coordinator of the Limestone Coast branch, and said she was interested in starting up a local branch to be able to increase accessibility for regional areas.

Ms Gregory and husband Dennis Gregory were members of the Adelaide branch of the Australian Caravan Club, and felt the distance was a little hard. After seeing what interest was out there to start a branch, the Limestone Coasters Caravan Club was born, beginning with a total of five couples.

The club travel together during the warmer months, and stick to smaller, local get-togethers such as dinner or coffee meet-ups during winter. When they travel, they choose shorter distances, trying to keep it relatively local in the green triangle region with trips lasting for usually around two-to-four nights.

Ms Gregory said that the club is welcome to everybody, and there is no age restriction.

"We had one chap in his nineties that was still travelling with us with his little dog," she said

She said that while inclusive, she felt as though the club is most suited for retirees, and most of their members are in that age bracket.

"Their children have left home, their grandchildren have moved away and this has been able to fill that void," she said.

Ms Gregory said that the club is also still inclusive for those that can no longer travel due to health reasons, like themselves in more recent years

"We just love the get togethers and we're very much still involved," she said.

"It gives Dennis and myself great thrill to see the growth of the group.'

Ms Gregory said as long as they can be accommodated, the club will make sure to eat somewhere local when they are travelling to support local businesses in the region.

She said that their visits benefit the community in the towns, and the region is very welcoming. The highlight of being a member of the ACCLC for Ms Gregory and her husband has been the support within the club for each other through birthdays, health issues and everything in between. She said that strong friendships are made through the club, all of which she was grateful for.

"It is just a magnificent comradeship within the group," she said.

Club member Paul Smith said that he and wife Colleen Smith joined in the months following the opening of the branch and said the club has been a lot of fun for them, and a good chance to meet new people.

"It is more of an RV club than a caravan club. If you've got an RV, you are welcome," he said.

"It is welcome to all, not just to single out any particular group.'

The current president is Phil Simpson, assistant president Wendy Curtis and Treasurer Pat Norman. The Australian Caravan Club Limestone Coasters AGM will be held in Portland on November 25. The club invites the general public to come along, meet the members and find out more about the club. For any enquiries about the club or how to join, please contact the secretary Narelle on 0458 031 633.

High hopes for successful funding application

MINISTER for Regional Development Clare Scriven has labelled the ongoing telecommunications project funding as a "compelling case" for the federal government.

Ms Scriven was questioned during parliament last week regarding the recently announced $27.7m Telstra telecommunication project to which the state government has committed $5.5 million.

What is unique about this project is that it is that whole collaboration, not just Telstra and federal government funding potentially but the involvement of the state government, of local government—six out of the seven in the region-and of industry," Ms Scriven said.

'That is something that really does present a very strong case and I hope that the Commonwealth Government sees it in that light and that we can look forward to funding from the federal government to see this come to fruition." Ms Scriven also said she hoped the 50 per cent of federal government funding was successful and she looked forward to seeing the outcome of the application.

Ratepayers unite for a voice

SOPHIE CONLON

THE Mount Gambier Residents and Ratepayers Association re-launched earlier in the year and now the group is taking the next step to formalisation.

Previously working un-governed, the association is now looking to become incorporated under the leadership of transitional chairperson Di Ind.

Ms Ind said being incorporated would ensure the group had governance to support them in being a proactive voice on behalf of the Mount Gambier/Berrin community.

"Our primary objectives will be to ensure that we can provide the residents and ratepayers of Mount Gambier lots of information regarding any issues that effect their community," she said.

She said the group hoped to work collaboratively with council and would act as the community's voice to raise issues and concerns.

"[We want to] ensure there is good, open and honest transparent communication from council to their ratepayers and residents to keep them fully informed of any council decisions and actions," she said.

"We will be attending all council meetings to observe all practices that are occurring and we will be having regular meetings that residents and ratepayers will be able to attended to raise any concerns or issues that they may have and then myself and other members of the association will be the advocates and voice to represent residents and ratepayers to the City of Mount Gambier."

Ms Ind said she was hoping to build good working relationships with council's chief executive Sarah Philpott and mayor Lynette Martin.

"I want to work collaboratively with both of those community leaders," she said.

WORKING TOGETHER: City of Mount Gambier mayor Lynette Martin and Mount Gambier Residents and Ratepayers Association transitional chair Di Ind both look forward to building a collaborative relationship as the association becomes incorporated.

"I want to make sure there is a strong bond so the City of Mount Gambier and and the Mount Gambier Residents and Ratepayers Association can work collaboratively together to iron out any issues or worries that people may have." Ms Martin said council was happy to see the association formalised and looked forward to working with Ms Ind and other members.

"Council is happy to work constructively with the association and we welcome the incorporation as that provides clarity about the association and its objectives," she said.

"I think that a good working relationship with our community is important so that we can achieve great outcomes for our city."

While encouraging participation in the association, Ms Martin said her door was always open for community members if they wanted to share their ideas.

Ms Ind said holding organisations like councils accountable was critical.

"It is important that we have full transparency, so that decisions that are made, are made in the best interest of the residents and ratepayers of Mount Gambier and we just want to make sure that occurs," she said.

"I can only see good things happening out of this collaboration and the formalisation of the organisation to become an incorporated body."

While the association will mainly look to work with council, Ms Ind said she hoped to build relationships with state and federal members too.

"Our primary focus will be our local government, but when required I will go absolutely to our state and federal representatives to get a resolution," she said.

"I want to make sure we have strong voices to advocate for what we need and want as a community."

Ms Ind said a public meeting would be held on Saturday, November 18, at the Woolstore Brewery from 3pm, and anyone who was be interested in joining the association was welcome to attend.

For those wanting more information Ms Ind can be contacted at di@lcsolutions.com.au

Limestone Coast, the State Government has heard your calls.

The State Government is providing one of the biggest investments in regional mobile phone coverage in the state's history — providing $5.5 million to boost connectivity in the Limestone Coast.

The funding will go towards Telstra's 'South East SA Project', to enable the delivery of 27 new mobile base stations across the region, adding around 2,400km² of new 4G coverage.

The new towers would increase mobile coverage, wireless broadband, and data-sharing capabilities. They would also provide additional Triple Zero connectivity for users of other networks in emergency situations.

This would enable more efficient communication and monitoring in the forestry, dairy, agricultural, winery, and wool industries; provide better services to large numbers of seasonal tourists; improve access to remote health services; and enhance communications to vital emergency services.

The project is part of Telstra's proposal to the Commonwealth Government's Regional Connectivity Program developed in consultation with local councils, the South Australian Forest Products Association, Primary Producers SA, Grain Producers SA, the South-East Professional Fisherman's Association, RDA Limestone Coast, and the SA Country Fire Service.

School students say farewell

GRANT High School year 12 students have celebrated the end of their schooling with their annual scavenger hunt.

Complete with determination and creative costumes, the students were taken to the main corner, given scavenger hunt checklists and released into the community.

Principal David Thompson said that he hoped the graduating students would find their path for the future.

"We had a great guest speaker today, and it was amazing that she didn't do what she thought she was going to do at school, where she has gotten to now has been a really interesting pathway," he said.

"I think that's going to be the same for a lot of students these days."

Mr Thompson said the students in the graduating class had a bright future ahead of them.

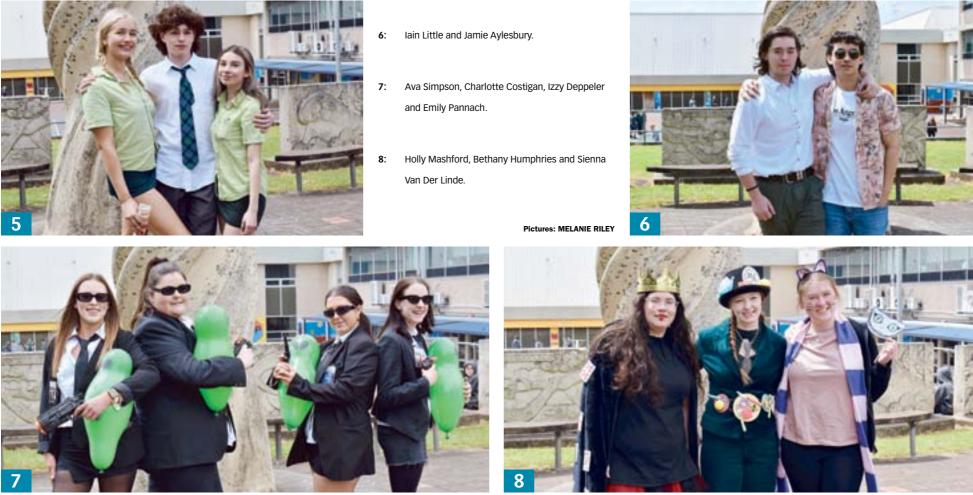

"They've got their hopes and their dreams and sometimes they might be a little bit disappointed by what happens, but that door closes and another door opens and they end up being somewhere they hadn't thought of, that's just as interesting," he said.

"That's a beautiful thing."

SOUTH EAST FAMILY HISTORY GROUP

VICTOR Bowman was killed more than 100 years ago on a First World War battlefield and his will be among many names remembered this Saturday on Remembrance Day.

With relatives still living in the Millicent area today, Victor Bowman is memorialised on the Millicent Cross of Sacrifice and his story is one of many contained within the book 'Honouring Our Fallen' which was compiled during the 100 year commemorations of the First World War by a small group led by the South East Family History Group.

The stories are of the local men who lost their lives during the First World War and Victor's story in that book is summarised here.

He was born in Millicent on 30 May 1894 to Henry Robert and Hannah (nee Agnew) Bowman who lived and farmed near Hatherleigh.

Known as Vic, he enlisted for the war in Millicent on 13 April 1916 and his enlistment papers describe him as a labourer with a medium dark complexion, brown eyes and brown hair and he was about five foot four inches in height.

He trained in Adelaide and embarked from that city on the troopship Seang Bee on 13 July 1916 arriving in Plymouth, England, in early September.

By November he was being treated for mumps in Parkhouse hospital before being sent to the battlefields of the Western Front in February 1917.

With the 43rd Battalion, Vic survived a major battle at Messines in June/July 1917.

He had a short spell behind lines before being redeployed in the Messines area again for another major attack on 31 July.

The battalion's war diary described how rain had fallen heavily for two days prior to the attack and the men had to march through deep mud and, due to this difficulty, only arrived at their jump off point within minutes of the attack starting, leaving them exhausted already.

In addition, the trenches were knee deep in water and the battlefield was a quagmire through which they had to struggle.

Vic's battalion lost 35 men killed and more than 180 wounded in the battle that lasted little more than a day.

Vic was among the dead. He was 23 years old.

A letter from a fellow soldier, published at the time in the South Eastern Times newspaper, said Private Bowman was killed instantly by an exploding shell.

While he was buried in the battlefield his remains were unable to be located after the war and his name is included on the Menin Gate Memorial which bears the names of 55,000 soldiers, including 6,000 Australians, who were killed in Belgium during the war but have no known grave.

In addition to Vic's story, the book, 'Honouring our Fallen' contains photographs and stories of more than 100 soldiers from the First World War whose names are listed on town memorials within the Wattle Range Council area.

The book is on sale for $30 at Visitor Information Centres in Millicent, Penola and Beachport and at the South East Family History Group in Millicent with proceeds donated to Legacy.

ULTIMATE SACRIFICE: Vic Bowman's story is one of over 100 featured in the local history book, 'Honouring Our Fallen.'

'Powerful message': New arrangement debuts

THIS Remembrance Day, a moving new arrangement of The Last Post will be launched.

In the spirit of reconciliation, the new arrangement honours both Australia's First Nations and Australian Diggers, and will pay homage to the shared experience of First Nations soldiers and Australian soldiers in the Australian and New Zealand Army Corp on the battlefield since World War I.

The new arrangement is performed by acclaimed didgeridoo player Mark Atkins and jazz virtuoso James Morrison.

The Last Post (Winds of Change) is the first time the song has been performed with a didgeridoo alongside a bugle.

It was produced in consultation with relevant community groups in early 2020, and alongside Mark Atkins, the rendition was arranged and produced by Garrijimanha woman and daughter of Mark, Chelsy Atkins and Ricky Bloomfield of Bear Mountain Productions.

Bloomfield said that the rendition honoured the camaraderie and mateship between our First Nations and Australian Diggers, and he hoped to inspire that same respect between all Australians, especially after the recent period of division. "Mark is an early pioneer of the didge and I know he's broken new ground on the instrument before. When I heard him play these notes for the first time and treat the didge like a melodic instrument, I knew we were doing something special," he said.

The Last Post (Winds of Change) creator and didgeridoo player Mark Atkins' Grandfather served in World War I, and had Uncles and Aunties that served too.

"The difference was when my Aunties and Uncles returned, they were not allowed to go into the bars, clubs, march or gather with the Australian soldiers or be together to honour and remember the fallen that they fought alongside," he said.

"This new arrangement was created to help ensure memories of the First Nations soldiers and ANZACs who fought -side-by-side live on."

Bugle player James Morrison said the project was about bringing people together and blending traditions.

"The wonderful thing about this project is that it's not trying to replace anything, it's bringing things together; a great tradition that's already there with another much older tradition, and blending them, and it's such a powerful message because of that," he said.

The audio of the new arrangement is now freely available for commemorative use by Communities and Organisations nationwide and is available for download at www.thelastpost.au in time for use on Saturday November 11.

Show a resounding success

CAROLINE HAMMAT

MILLICENT show organisers are pleased with the weekend's show as crowds supported Friday evening and Saturday's activities.

Secretary of the Millicent A. H. & P. Society Sue Vanderheul said the weekend went amazingly well and the only downside was the wind but we have no control over that.

"It was quieter Friday afternoon but picked up Friday night as it usually does," she said.

"The fireworks and the speed shearing both went off like a bomb.

"Saturday was busy all day, we had people lining up at the gate at 8.30am waiting to get in."

Friday night's cool evening did not deter thrillseekers who flocked to the far end of sideshow alley to line up for the Kamikaze, Ali Baba and Hard Rock rides.

At the other end of the grounds the Speed Shear event attracted hundreds of onlookers as 98 local and interstate shearer's vied for over $13,000 in cash and prizes.

Top prize of the night was won by Caleb Morgan whose time of 21.91 seconds was closely followed by second place Whanake Whare's time of 22.29.

The extraordinary amount of registered shearers meant the Iron Man Competition was unable to proceed due to time constraints.

For many families the night ended once the 9pm fireworks show was complete, others stayed until the live band Incarnation played their last song.

Saturday morning began overcast and windy but as the day progressed the sun shone for the afternoon.

A wide variety of free events and activities kept the crowds entertained and sideshow alley was a popular place for families.

Following the traditional grand parade the 24th demolition derby took place with 15 cars involved.

The derby lasted 15 minutes until only Tim Humby from Naracoorte was still mobile in his Daewoo Lanos.

Horse events continued on the Sunday alongside the Showground markets.

"Sunday is a free day and the public are welcome to park their car and watch the horses and check out the market" Ms Vanderheul said.

"This is our second year of holding the market on show weekend and we are hoping to build on it so we have a full three day show.

"Its been a really good show, the traders are happy and some of those have stayed on the extra day for the market."

THRILLSEEKERS: Sideshow alley remained popular all weekend.

DERBY WINNER: Naracoorte driver Tim Humby won this year's demolition derby.

CROWD PLEASER: Hundreds of onlooker's filled the showground shearing shed to watch the competitive Speed Shearing comptition.

JEFF HUDDLESTONE

YOUNG Mount Gambier/ Berrin soccer player Mathew Winter will get the experience of a lifetime when he travels to Singapore to compete in the Singa Cup this week.

The 15-year-old midfielder plays for the International Football Club under 17 team and has featured in carnivals against other regional SA teams.

Along with the other 17 squad members, he was thrilled to be selected for the international competition. "It's the same, if not better than in Adelaide," he said.

"We've got some really good players down here."

Limestone Coast Football Association chief executive officer Chris Fleetwood thought the Limestone Coast squad would do well at the Singa Cup.

"We're really privileged to have 18 participants, it's fantastic," he said.

"I'm very happy that I was good enough to prove myself now at the level I am," he said.

Matthew hoped the South Australian squad could win some games, but was looking forward to just learning more about aspects of soccer.

"I'd love to learn from the other players we're versing, how they play football and incorporate that in my own soccer to improve myself," he said.

Matthew started playing under sixes soccer in Adelaide, and quickly progressed through the ranks before moving to Mount Gambier/ Berrin with his family and joining the Internationals about seven years ago.

He said he enjoyed the standard of local soccer.

"They will wear the state colours and represent SA and the Limestone Coast."

Mr Fleetwood said it was not easy for young regional players to progress in the sport, but participating in events like the Singa Cup could help them advance.

"Country kids have enormous challenges to reach the top," he said.

"What we want to do is bridge that gap, by sending teams to big tournaments to play against great players and to provide opportunities for people like Matthew."

Mr Fleetwood said this would be a memorable experience for everyone involved, especially the 18 young local players.

"They'll remember this for the rest of their lives, it's a once in a lifetime experience," he said.

GREEN TRIANGLE TIMBER INDUSTRY AWARDS

Achievements celebrated

THE atmosphere at The Barn Parlis was nothing short of spectacular as the fourth annual Green Triangle Timber Awards Gala Dinner unfolded.

The sell-out evening hosted 500 guests including Premier Peter Malinauskas and Minister for Forestry Clare Scriven with all attendees gathering for an evening of celebration and recognition of the industry's highest achievers.

Australian comedian Dave Thorton opened the evening before 10 awards were handed out to industry leaders.

The awards recognised their outstanding contributions to their respective fields including Timber Legend Award recipient Dr Jim O'Hehir.

Mr O'Hehir was celebrated for his dedication to the forestry sector as well as his relentless commitment to the delivery of groundbreaking research projects.

He was also celebrated for his efforts in implementing technology advancements throughout the region, his passion for forestry, and his tireless efforts in mentoring the next generation of industry leaders.

As well as celebrating the winners, the committee also extended its congratulations to the award finalists with their nominations along recognising their unwavering commitment to the industry and showcasing their exceptional talent and dedication.

South Australian Forest Products Association chief executive officer Nathan Paine said the ceremony shined a light on the importance of the region's forest and timber industries while also celebrating the achievements and innovation of the businesses and individuals in the green triangle region.

"In South Australia, we are incredibly proud and fortunate to have an industry that supports and elevates one another through sustainable and innovative practices whilst improving the sovereign capability of the sector," Mr Paine said.

"The awards not only acknowledges those working and excelling within the industry by their peers but offers a platform to promote forestry and encourage stakeholders and skilled employees to the region."

WINNERS: Operations Award Silviculture and Timber Support Services winner Jason Whyte from Berry and Whyte Surveyors with Belinda Lengenberg from Timberlink and Highly Commended winner Josh Praolini from Green Triangle Forest Industries Hub.

He said forestry and timber products were a "critical sector" to the economic and environmental wellbeing of Australia and it was important to "shine a light" on individuals and businesses which continue to dedicate their careers and time to the "advancement and empowerment" of the industry.

"To have the Premier Peter Malinauskas and Minister for Forestry Clare Scriven to attend the awards dinner illustrates just how important the forest and timber industries are to the State Government and to the social and economic fabric of our regional communities", said Mr Paine.

"Congratulations to the Green Triangle Timber Industry Awards committee for their dedication and commitment to the industry, and for continuing to showcase the excellence and innovation within the timber industry."

Victorian Forest Products Association CEO Deb Kerr also congratulated the winners, and said she was honoured to be part of this year's judging panel. "While it made my job on the panel harder, we are very fortunate to have such a strong number of nominees in the region. I congratulate the very deserving winners and those highly who received highly commended awards," Ms Kerr said.

"I also want to thank and acknowledge the efforts of the GTTIA Committee, notably chair Adrian Flowers and event manager Gaylene Newton, along with my fellow judges Nathan Paine, Phil Howe, and the Panel's supporting expert Paul Hartong," Ms Kerr concluded."

Legend status after long industry contribution

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier/Berrin resident and timber industry legend Dr Jim O'Hehir has walked away with a prestigious award following on from the Green Triangle Timber Awards.

Mr O'Hehir was awarded the 2023 Timber Legend Award recently after more than 30 years in the timber industry.

He said the ability to continue growing and improve things like woodfibre was also a major benefit of the industry.

"There is so much out there for us in terms of capturing carbon and other things," he said.

"I think there is also generally a move towards more use of technology to remote sensing instead of needing so many people out in the field, doing assessments and so on which makes it a lot easier.

Currently working at Forest Research Mount Gambier as the general manager of forest research, Mr O'Hehir also worked as the general manager, planning and development for ForestrySA.

His current special interest area remains in plantation growth and yield management including long term sustainability growth, yield, modelling and plantation water use.

He has also facilitated a number of national research projects and worked on the development of various modelling projects for predicting pine thinning and fertiliser growth and yield responses.

Speaking to SA Today on receiving the award, Mr O'Hehir said he was honoured and excited.

"I was surprised to receive it because there are lots of people who can receive it and a lot of people who have been around longer than I have but would have also done more," Mr O'Hehir said.

"The overall highlight of my career so far is working with people in the forest industry and there are really interesting people to work with but the industry as a whole is great. "There are people out there doing stuff on the ground and making things happen from research and academics to everything in between which is what I enjoy most, the diversity."

"When I first started out in the forests was when mechanised harvesting was just coming in and now it is standard so there is very little use of chainsaws which is probably a good thing because chainsaws can be risky."

Mr O'Hehir said he was currently working on a number of projects including looking at how best to utilise the lower value of pine trees and how to optimise the recovery of that into the construction market.

"We have got several projects which are about better use of remote sensing and measuring trees for assessing their health and that is really exciting because there is a lot of data out there and wonderful technology for measuring trees," he said.

"That is how you get from actual measurements to something useful and you can make a decision on what you need to do."

HUNDREDS gathered at The Barn recently to celebrate those in the timber industry.

GREEN TRIANGLE TIMBER INDUSTRY AWARDS

Shining a light on industries

THE South Australian Forest Products Association (SAFPA) has congratulated all the finalists and award winners announced at the 2023 Green Triangle Timber Industry Awards (GTTIA), held last recently at The Barn, Mount Gambier/Berrin.

SAFPA chief executive Nathan Paine acknowledged all the winners.

"The GTTIA ceremony shines a light on the importance of the region's forest and timber industries and celebrates the achievements and innovation of the multiple businesses and individuals who contribute to the sustainability of forestry in the Green Triangle," he said.

"In South Australia, we are incredibly proud and fortunate to have an industry that supports and elevates one another through sustainable and innovative practices whilst improving the sovereign capability of the sector.

"The Awards not only acknowledges those working and excelling within the industry by their peers but offers a platform to promote forestry and encourage stakeholders and skilled employees to the region. He said South Australia is the birthplace of Australia's plantation forestry industry, with Mount Gambier/Berrin known as the hub of the industry, and the Green Triangle and is labelled as Australia's premier plantation forestry and wood products region.

"Forestry and timber products are a critical sector to the economic and environmental wellbeing of Australia, and it is important to shine a light on those individuals and businesses who continue to dedicate their careers and time to the advancement and empowerment of forestry," said Mr Paine.

"And, to have the Premier, the Hon. Peter Malinauskas, MP, and the Minister for Forest Industries, the Hon. Clare Scriven, MLC, to attend the Awards Dinner illustrates just how important the forest and timber industries are to the State Government and to the social and economic fabric of our regional communities.

"Congratulations to the Green Triangle Timber Industry Awards Committee for their dedication and commitment to the industry, and for continuing to showcase the excellence and innovation within the timber industry."

VICTORIAN Forest Products Association chief executive Deb Kerr has congratulated all the winners at the Green Triangle Timber Industry Awards

The 2023 event, held on Friday, October 27, at Mount Gambier/Berrin, had been highly anticipated by all in the sector, and honoured outstanding contributions across a range of award categories.

The annual event is a platform to showcase the industry's commitment to innovation, sustainability, and environmentally friendly practices.

It's a testament to the dedication and efforts of the industry in shaping a greener and more responsible future.

Ms Kerr said she was honoured to be part of this year's judging panel.

"While it made my job on the panel harder, we are very fortunate to have such a strong number of nominees in the region. I congratulate the very deserving winners and those highly who received highly commended awards," she said.

"I also want to thank and acknowledge the efforts of the GTTIA Committee, notably chair Adrian Flowers and event manager Gaylene Newton, along my fellow judges Nathan Paine, Phil Howe, and the Panel's supporting expert Paul Hartong."

Legal workshops available

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

WOMEN will have access to critical employment legal information in the coming weeks with the Working Women's Centre coming to town.

Working Women's Centre lawyer Dharani Rana said the free legal service provided assistance to women and other vulnerable workers.

Based in Adelaide, Ms Rana said representatives will travel to Mount Gambier/Berrin later this month to further expand their services.

"We service the entire state and each year we do about two regional trips," Ms Rana said. "We are trying to reach and expand our reach and go out to the communities and see how we can best help.⁴

She said representatives would first liaise with community organisations already based in the region and develop relationships and strategies on how best to work together.

"We will be holding information sessions at Mount Gambier Library and we will also be at The Haven which holds coffee and chats every month and people are welcome and encouraged to come in and speak to the information session which will be able getting to know our service and the services we are partnering with," Ms Rana said.

"It is also about giving some information about common employment law issues which we see and although we would not be giving legal advice or holding appointments at this stage we will definitely be providing our contact details so people are able to bring up our service and get that one on one advice.'

She said the purpose of the visit was to get to know the community and discuss the services available and assist clients in understanding their employment rights and any warning signs.

"We get clients from both the city and from the region and I do think there are more challenges for people living regionally just in terms of access to services and the regional town and its top industries," Ms Rana said.

We hope people want to come down and get to know our service and have a chat and just see how we can best support them and help them.

'We are focusing on sexual harassment and discrimination matters but we can help with a range of employment law issues so if someone has experienced those issues they should come and have a chat with us.'

The organisation will be at the Mount Gambier Library from November 27 until November 29.

START YOUR ENGINES: Casterton Drags kick off.

melanie.riley@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Casterton Street Drags are set to kick off next week, in a competition bigger and better than ever.

In its 30th year, the race and burnout competition will be held at Sandford Flat in Casterton on November 18 from 9am.

Casterton Drags Club president Glenn Wright said the event has come a long way since the beginning.

"It was one car at a time down the road, and it was timed by a stop watch and a flag,' he said

"Back then it would've been a little bit rough and ready.'

Mr Wright said that his involvement in the club and the event started many years ago as a spectator and before long, he was racing in the competition himself.

"I've always been involved with it just for the love of the sport," he said.

The Casterton community and surrounds support this event, and Mr Wright said that the event continues to be positive for the community, bringing people from all over to the small rural town.

"It's always been good for the town," he said.

"It's the only street meet where you get to close down a public road and put on a drag meet. That brings more and more attraction each vear.

"There are still people that say that they've never been here and have never heard of it and they've started to turn up."

Mr Wright said the event is worth a look for lovers of the sport whether it is drags.

burnouts or both and encouraged those that have not experienced it before to head down to check it out.

Club member Pat Smith agreed that the community engagement for the event was quite significant.

"It's good because the small community gets behind it and it brings such a different crowd to the town for the day," he said.

Entries into the racing or burnout competitions are done on the day.

Gates open and scrutineering starts at 8am, time trials start at 9am and racing starts at 1pm.

The race is followed later by the burnout competition. Times may vary slightly depending on the events throughout the day.

The fee for racing only is $65, burnout only is $40 or both race and burnout costs $85.

Passengers for burnouts are $20, spectators are $20 and children under 14 are free of charge.

Participants in the burnout competition are required to have an Australian Auto-Sport Alliance (AASA) licence which must be purchased online prior to the event.

Those participating in racing are required to have an Australian National Drag Racing Association (ANDRA) day licence which can be purchased on the day for $15.

Participants for both competitions are required to have a current drivers licence.

After the competitions, there will be live music in the paddock from 7pm.

The event is fully catered so there is no BYO.

For any other information, check out the Casterton Street Drags on Facebook.

AKE A STATEMENT AND KEEP IT SIMPLY

FEELING like your living space could do with protect from chilly drafts and trap in the a refresh? Or maybe your bedroom feels like it's missing something?

A feature chair could be the final puzzle piece that pulls together your space.

With a variety of chairs available on the market, an accent or feature chair has an undeniable power to tie a room together ... If chosen correctly.

Starting off, it's important to outline a purpose for your new chair: Decorative, additional seating, a reading nook or just a place to leave that clean load of laundry you planned on putting away three days ago.

Once you've decided on the purpose, you'll need to consider the space available and chair size so as to not encroach on the entire room.

That's where the fun part comes in deciding which style of chair you'll go for.

A wing chair is a great visually appealing chair with accented sides that wrap around the person sitting inside. Originally designed to be situated in front of a fireplace, they heat from a nearby fireplace. An excellent addition to a traditional, classic style home.

French country armchairs have a classic, chic style, similar to a wing chair, but in place of the wings are usually timber armrests with a fabric accent for comfort. They're typically not a standout statement, but have the capacity to make an elegant impact in a room.

Designed for comfort, a barrel armchair is made with a rounded backing, it's almost as though a sphere has been sliced in half and scooped out to sit in. In more modern designs the plush of the seat backing extends all the way to the ground, creating a cohesive design without visible legs.

Be sure to also think carefully when selecting the colour of your feature chair. Try to compliment your existing furniture and either go for a polar opposite stand out, or something that will blend nicely with what you have.

A chic style, winged armchair, perfect for a cozy night my the fire, or curling up with a good book.

An abstract statement chair is able to blend in with an existing neutral theme while still making an impact.

A simple blush of pink brings an elevated energy to a previously dull space.

MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALL

MIRRORS are not only decorative, they also make rooms feel bigger and brighter by reflecting light and creating the illusion of depth.

As the saying goes 'life is like a mirror' and the clever use of mirrors in a home can reflect a lot about the lifestyle of the people who live there.

Mirrors come in an endless variety of shapes and sizes. They can be modern or traditional, big or small, hung or placed on a lean against walls for effect.

As a rule of thumb, rooms with high ceilings benefit from vertical mirrors, while horizontal mirrors work better in long rooms.

One of the first things to consider when deciding where to place a mirror is the reflection. Stand where you plan to hang the mirror and consider what will be reflected in it. Mirrors can accentuate works of art or special pieces of furniture that may be placed opposite.

Also, think about where light enters your room. It's best to position a mirror opposite a window, especially in north facing homes to make the most of the afternoon and evening light.

If you are going to hang a mirror, consider placing it on a slight tilt that way it will reflect more of the room.

Also consider if the mirror is going to serve a practical purpose or will it be merely decorative. If you want to be able to check your lipstick on the way out the door make sure the mirror is hung at eye level.

To securely fasten a mirror to a wall, each hook on the back needs its own hook in the wall. A cable wire hung across a single hook or nail won't do the job, especially with large, heavy mirrors.

Mirrors can be used throughout your home.

They add a welcoming feel to a foyer or entry hung above a stylish hall table.

An obvious place for a mirror in older homes is above a mantel. Experts advise positioning the mirror 10 to 15 centimetres above the mantel for maximum effect.

An instant hit of glamour can be added to a bathroom or ensuite by a gorgeous mirror. Look beyond the frameless mirror mounted above the basin and consider a frame for visual impact.

Dining rooms are the traditional place for mirrors. Think grand Victorian homes with thick gold frames. A mirror in a sleek, modern frame would work just as well strategically placed over a buffet.

Mirrors can also be arranged in groups for added visual impact and character. Take care to ensure the space between each mirror is even, making it visually pleasing to the eye. Play around with different shapes and sizes, or hang a set of mirrors for visual uniformity. Think about a group of mirrors the same way you would a collection of art work.

The style of frame will depend on your individual aesthetic. A modern home will suit sleek, unadorned frames. A colonial or country homestead style home suits a rustic wooden frame, or a period home a more traditional gilt, decorative frame.

Don't be afraid to use a large mirror in a small space. Designers often use full length mirrors leaning against a wall in apartments or smaller homes.

Arrange books by colour for a visually pleasing, clean look.

Books used as a stylish decoration on a hanging shelf.

THIS DESIGN TREND IS A PAGE TURNER

DISPLAYING books in a modern interior design can be a great way to add personality, depth, and visual interest to your space. Here are some ideas on how to incorporate books into a modern interior design.

- 1. Shelving Systems: Install sleek and minimalist bookshelves that align with the modern aesthetic. Opt for open or floating shelves with clean lines and minimal ornamentation. Choose shelves in neutral colors or materials like wood, metal, or glass to complement the overall design scheme.
- 2. Color Coordination: Organise your books by colour to create a visually pleasing display. Group books with similar hues together or arrange them in a gradient pattern. This technique adds a modern and artistic touch to your bookshelf.
- 3. Minimal Arrangements: Embrace a minimalist approach by displaying a select few books as focal points. Instead of overcrowding shelves, place a small stack of books on a side table or use a single floating shelf to showcase a few carefully chosen titles.
- 4. Mix Books with Decorative Objects: Integrate books with other decorative items to create stylish vignettes. Combine books with sculptures, plants, artwork, or small decorative objects to create a visually balanced display. Experiment with different heights, textures, and shapes to achieve an appealing composition.
- 5. Horizontal Stacking: For a contemporary look, try stacking books horizontally instead of vertically. This adds visual interest and breaks up the traditional vertical alignment. Mix horizontal stacks with vertical ones to create variety and a sense of rhythm.
- Book Covers Facing Out: Instead of organising books with spines facing outward, consider displaying them with the covers facing out. This method showcases the book covers as a design element and can create a more vibrant and visually dynamic display.

7. Incorporate Reading Nooks: Create cozy reading nooks with stylish bookshelves nearby. Pair comfortable seating, such as a modern armchair or a cozy window seat, with a nearby bookshelf that offers easy access to your favorite reads. Remember, the key to displaying books in a modern interior design is to maintain a clean and uncluttered aesthetic. Carefully curate your book collection, utilise space efficiently, and integrate books with other design elements to achieve a cohesive and stylish look.

Twirling strong after 40 years

elisabeth.champion@tbwtoday.com.au

GUESTS from across Australia danced the night away at the Pine City Twirlers 40th birthday celebrations on Saturday.

The event attracted dancers from Queensland and Victoria, and across SA.

It was a big night for the club, which is still going strong after its humble beginnings in 1983.

The club was formed after a gentleman called Frank Kennedy, from the West Gate Club in Melbourne, brought some of his dancers to hold a dance.

He then teamed up with a local couple, Ginni and Reg Steele, and held a meeting and from there the Pine City Twirlers were born.

Originally housed in the hockey clubrooms, they now call the Anglican Church home.

Leading the group at the moment is Coral Lynch, who has been a member almost since it's inception - 39 years.

She started dancing after she fell in love with it as a teenager.

"There was a country thing on the telly - when it was black and white and Reg Lindsay was in it and Colin Huddleston who was a caller," she said.

"I loved that, I loved the outfits."

"Then years and years later, my sister said, 'I wonder if this is a square dance club in Mount Gambier?.'

"So she, in her wisdom, got on to Ginny and they said 'yes, we start in February,'

"Beginners start in February but I was allowed to start in July, which was quite privileged.

"And so I went along and I'm still here today."

She said she enjoys working on the committee. Of course it is about more than just dancing - the club offers camaraderie and physical and mental exercise.

"We do social things. We'll have a pizza night or a casserole night, and then we all dance after," Mrs Lynch said.

"Someone had their watch on and they did 5 kilometres in one night.

"I just love it."

Coral Lynch and Roger Menzel on the floor.

Opening the celebrations was Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell.

"Just standing up here what an amazing sight to see so many people enjoying themselves," he said. "Being active both mentally and physically is a really great thing.

"When I was newly elected MP about eight years ago, I actually did the 32nd opening for the Pine City Twirlers, and since then, wherever I go, and I'll talk about the Pine City Twirlers, the first question a lot of people have is 'what is that?' After eight years, I have been able to impart some knowledge, some suitably local people's knowledge, of what it is and how to get involved."

Cutting the cake was Ann and Gordon Grant, who have been members from the very start of the club, which was followed by a lot of dancing, supper and conversation.

The Pine City Twirlers are open to new members of any age or skill level.

Motoring CHARM OFFENSIVE

BY DEREK OGDEN, MARQUE MOTORING

Who'd have thought it?

AFTER years of mixing it with off-road heavy hitters the Jeep Grand Cherokee has taken on a certain charm, with its latest version of the Overland making a play to join the SUV aristocracy.

With its new-found power to please and attract, the Aussie Cherokee five-seater new order is represented by three variants – Night Eagle at $77,950, Limited ($83,950) and Overland, starting at $98,450, all before on-road costs.

All are powered by a single petrol V6 engine.

The opening pair come with single-speed all-wheel drive, with low range and coil springs, while the Overland (on test here) has a low range transfer case and height adjustable air suspension.

In comparison, the previous Cherokee roster included high spec Summit and S-Overland, with a 3-litre turbo-diesel V6, set back buyers around $85,000, plus on-roads, $10,000 under the petrol new chum.

Two cost options now include a Luxury Tech Group ($4500) and Off Road Group ($2750), pushing the price over a hundred grand.

The test vehicle boasted the luxury pack.

As far as customer care is concerned, the so-called 'Jeep Wave Commitment' includes capped servicing, five-year/100,000 km warranty and lifetime roadside assistance, providing the regular service schedule at a Jeep dealer is adhered to.

Following on from its big brother Grand Cherokee L the WL Grand Cherokee is shorter by around 300 mm of overall length and 128 mm of wheelbase, and in looks is more SUV than Jeep 4x4.

With this modern, upmarket move, however, the newbie refuses to let go completely of its Jeep roots with the company's trademark seven-slot radiator grille up front. Twin-pane panoramic sunroof and 20-inch alloy wheels add appeal both inside and out.

With the trimmed body comes five seats instead of seven, with top-notch Nappa leather cladding, a big twin-pane sunroof opening up the cabin, and LED ambient lighting to set the tone at night.

There's more room (1067 litres to the roof), too, to accommodate the better class of cargo (luggage).

This is upped to 2005 litres with the rear seat backs folded.

The space includes a 12V power outlet, four tie-down points, and a full-size spare wheel nestled under the floor.

As mentioned above, the test vehicle was also blessed with $4500 worth of the Luxury Tech Group extras, including front seats that are 12-way power adjustable, with memory and massage function, there's four-zone climate control and second-row ventilated outboard

TOUGH COMPETITOR: The Grand Cherokee has trimmed down and smartened up to take on some of the stiffest competition in its segment.

LEADING BY EXAMPLE: With its top-notch Nappa leather interior, the new Cherokee puts a benchmark on where all interiors should strive for.

Up front digital rear-view mirror is augmented by a wireless charging pad.

A 10.5-inch screen with wireless Apple Carplay and Android Auto, plus a nine-speaker Alpine sound system and satellite navigation, are among standard Overland features.

Jeepish by nature, small buttons on the back of the steering wheel, once discovered, are handy for digital radio control, mini paddle gear-shifters there not so convenient.

Power access comes via twin USB-A and USB-C points, as well as a 12V outlet and wireless charging pad up front.

The second row includes air vents and power outlets.

Jeep's Uconnect Services, via a paired smartphone, allows users remotely to lock and unlock the vehicle, send navigation destinations to the car, and check vehicle status for things like fuel level, tyre pressure, along with alerts for Unlike the previous Grand Cherokees – with optional turbo-diesel or V8 power - the new WL range is limited to a single 3.6-litre V6 petrol engine producing 210 kW and 344 Nm, mated with an eight-speed automatic transmission.

The five-seat petrol models have earned a four-star ANCAP rating, as opposed to the seven-seater's five-star, due to a problem with the performance of the rear seat belts.

Standard systems include active emergency braking and pedestrian/cyclist detection, rear cross-traffic alert, blind-spot monitoring, lane departure warning with active lane keeping, advanced brake assist, front and rear parking sensors and 360-degree camera view.

A word about lane departure warning: there seems to be little consistency in its workings, the beeps come thick and fast or not at all, under pretty much identical driving conditions. Artificial intelligence, indeed. trated attention, with the car being a bit skittish from the get-go, especially on inclines with ragged surfaces.

Conversely, with peak torque not coming up until 4000 rpm, it's not surprising the new Grand Cherokee Overland feels short on performance on the bitumen.

On road, the Grand Cherokee Overland is said to be capable of fuel consumption of 9.9 litres per 100 kilometres on the combined urban/ highway cycle. The Tester averaged more than 13 litres per 100 kilometres around town and 7.6 on a motorway dash.

Off road, the SUV takes advantage of Jeep's Quadra-Trac 2 Active 4x4 System with Selec-Terrain, low-range transfer case and Quadra Lift air suspension.

For an extra $2750 the Off Road Group adds 230 mm rear axle, electronic limited-slip differential, Trail Rated badge, 265/60 R18 Goodyear all-terrain tyres, 18-inch polished/painted alloy sion skid plate, which is good enough to earn the company's trail rating won over the Rubicon Trail in Nevada, one of the most testing off-road challenges in the US.

The new Grand Cherokee Overland won't be every rusted-on Jeep fan's favourite, but could attract the attention of a more discerning softroad adventurer.

HOROSCOPE by Lilith

Your year ahead

Communicator Mercury is in its chattiest mode, while the energetic Sun and Mars remain reserved in the sign of closed lips, suggests editing before you utter this week. Be selective with what you share, because, oops! who wants to accidentally spill the beans...

(Mar 21 - Apr 20) This week could reveal something you didn't see coming: a hidden agenda or lack of transparency which, while disconcerting, needn't necessarily mean all bets are off. What it highlights is the necessity of getting on the same page with others about any long-range plans you're jointly involved with. Best day: Wednesday 15 November

TAURUS

(Apr 21 - May 20) A completely different approach could actually make a breakthrough this week, so instead of digging in your heels, do the opposite. Drop conceptual restraints and habitual responses. Innovate. Try easing prickly interactions with a genuine compliment, and you're likely to find a little validation goes a long way. Best day: Friday 17 November

GEMINI

(May 21 - Jun 21) With quicksilver messenger Mercury zipped into its chattiest passage (your sign), exciting connections can sizzle then fizzle, but there's still plenty of adventurous options to explore. Just be aware, that while you're in full-on communication mode, others might not be. Respect confidential info and material. Best day: Tuesday 14 November

(Jun 22 - Jul 22) The resourceful and determined new moon on 13 November focuses its lucid beams on shared finances, passive income, property matters and investment opportunities. But remember that most people can't read your mind. Try sharing those dreams and desires, and the response this week might surprise you. Best day: Sunday 12 November

LEO (Jul 23 - Aug 23) You want things done your way, and as power plays shift and shuffle this week, minor differences of opinion could escalate into epic standoffs. But do you really want to be the ohso-stubborn one unwilling to budge? Let others star in Clash of Control Freaks while you play creative negotiator. Best day:

Wednesday 15 November

LIBRA (Sep 23 - Oct 23) This week's pattern of opposing planets offers a clear message to stop and, if necessary, acknowledge what isn't going the way you'd planned. A balanced perspective may be hard to find, but don't get lost in worst-case scenario thinking and rush important decisions. Discuss your concerns honestly. Best day: Saturday 18 November

(Aug 24 - Sep 22) If someone's ideas seem illogical or frustrating this week, don't be too quick to criticise, especially if this concerns a business relationship. What's more important to you: preserving goodwill or delivering accurate feedback? Are there any aspects of their offering that might actually be worth exploring? Best day: Friday 17 November

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 22)

This week's annual Scorpio new moon on 13 November is the year's peak date for that great breakthrough you've been waiting for, to finally put the past to rest and dive into your brand-new birthday cycle. To begin a fresh chapter of growth opportunities and exciting initiatives. Best day: Monday 13 November

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23 - Dec 21)

Sagittarians like to live out loud but be wary of putting anyone else's business on loudspeaker this week. Your usual speeds are fast and faster, but odds are neither will get you where you want to go this week, so gear down. And resist public venting, because allegiances can shift quickly. Best day: Tuesday 14 November

(Dec 22 - Jan 20)

With this week's strongly placed Mars, be kind to yourself and others. Don't overwork. Protect your calm centre. Maintain an expansive viewpoint. If Venus invites you to reset your agreement field, expect to be navigating some push-back from your partner, family or work team on the way there. Best day: Thursday 16 November

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 18)

When the new moon on 13 November shines its penetrating light on an area of your life no longer workable in the way it has been, a make-or-break situation could provoke an unexpected relationship transition which will clarify your direction into late November's promising horizons. Best day: Saturday 18 November

Costs hinder doctor visits

NEW research from National Seniors Australia suggests 68 per cent of older people have recently gone without or hesitated to access essential healthcare because of cost.

The report is based on a survey of nearly 6000 people aged 50 and older.

The survey found only 32 per cent of respondents said cost had not affected their access to health care.

Chief Advocate Ian Henschke said, unsurprisingly, older people with limited wealth have greater barriers to accessing health care.

For those who missed out because of cost, almost a third said it had negatively affected their health or wellbeing.

"Most Australians expect to receive lifelong universal healthcare, but it is clearly not the case," he said.

The survey showed differences in the proportion of older people experiencing cost related barriers according to type of health care being accessed:

- Mental health care, dental treatment and dental checkups were the most likely to be forgone, with 20%-26% of respondents unable to afford them on one or more occasion.
- Prescription medication and GP appointments were the least likely to be skipped because of cost, but even they were unaffordable for 5%-7% of older people.
- On top of these numbers, for every form of healthcare the survey enquired about another 21%-33% of people hesitated over the cost.

National Seniors Australia survey respondents reported various health and wellbeing consequences of going without care including untreated problems, undiagnosed conditions, worsening symptoms and mental health impacts.

Some reported having to wait until their conditions were bad enough to require hospitalisation, with an 81-year-old explaining because he can't afford minor medical treatment at a GP, he waits until he can be transported to hospital for other more serious incidents.

The situation is similar among the 832 respondents who had been on an elective surgery public waiting list, 46% of whom could not afford to pay privately to speed things up.

Many suffered continuing pain, immobility, sensory disablement, mental health impacts or worsening symptoms while waiting, sometimes to the point of needing emergency care.

"Timely and affordable access to all types of health care helps prevent disability and promotes quality of life for older Australians," said Mr Henschke.

Keep working option

LEGISLATION being introduced by the Federal Government that provides incentives for older people to keep working while they receive the aged pension is an important step towards breaking the barriers locking some older people out of the workforce.

Chief Executive Officer of COTA Australia - the leading advocacy organisation for older Australians - Patricia Sparrow said that the incentive isn't about forcing older people to continue to work, but rather allowing those who do wish to work to do so

However, she also said much more needs to be done to address systemic ageism which is a major contributor to older Australians leaving the workforce.

"Making the 'work bonus', which allows people to keep working while receiving the aged pension, a permanent feature is great step forward," Ms Sparrow said.

"There's still work to be done on simplifying the system, including better aligning it with the personal tax income system, but we're hopeful that it will allow some older workers who wish to work to get back into the workforce.

"Of course, this won't solve all of the issues facing older workers. We know that systemic ageism is a major reason why many older people who want to work aren't working.

"This incentive payment is a piece in the puzzle, but there's much more to be done."

Ms Sparrow said COTA's recent State of the Older Nation Report showed that one in ten pensioners say they would like to remain in work and another two in ten say they'd consider returning to the workforce.

"Ageism locks many older people - including those as young as 50 - out of the workforce and forces them into retirement too early," Ms Sparrow said.

"Ensuring older workers who want to continue to work can is important for all of us - it means we can all benefit from the experience of an age diverse workforce and allows older people to continue contributing to the community in the way they want to.

"Not every older person wants to go back to work or continue to work, but there are certainly many who do and it's important that we break down the barriers that are keeping them out of the workforce.

'Older Australians are a resource that bring a wealth of experience and expertise to the workforce. Without harnessing their strengths, we're robbing people of every age.

"Embracing the contributions of older workers paves the way for a more equitable and productive society.

We're looking forward to seeing this legislation pass swiftly through the parliament so that workers of every age can reap the benefits of getting some older workers who want to work, back into the workforce.'

STUDENTS at Naracoorte's Sunrise Christian School made the most of a sunny day and took part in the school's Sports Day on Friday, November 3.

Visiting parents and guardians made up a cheering audience for the students, who took part in a variety of events to earn points for their team.

Before the sports began, students took part in a team parade and chant, drumming up cheers from the crowd and team-spirit.

The school reported that everyone competed well throughout the day, however "there can only be one winner", which was awarded to the Super Suns yellow.

The Sportsmanship Award was awarded to students from each age group, with Frankie Mullins and Lachlan Munro receiving it for Rec/1 and the Grade 2/3 recipients were Olivia McInnes and Levi Kitto.

Aria Williams and Ernest Buckett received a Sportsmanship Award for the Grade 4/5 group and Charlize Castine and Angus Farley were awarded for the Grade 6 group.

A school spokesperson said staff were thankful for the "incredible support of the parent group who organised the gazebos, morning tea and sausage sizzle".

"We are also very grateful to Miss Hext, the mastermind behind the day," they said.

"Congratulations Sunrise on a wonderful Sports Day, everyone did their best and we are proud of all of you!"

The Super Suns win the Sports Day.

Be choosy at what drops in PLANET Ark is aiming to remind Australians this National Recycling Week (Nov 13-19) that much of what we currently send to landfill is valuable material that could be reused, repurposed or recycled. This year's theme "What goes around, comes around" is all about providing simple tips that enable Australians to keep those valuable materials in circulation, whether at home, work or school. Last year, Planet Ark research for the annual waste reduction and recycling campaign revealed Australian households are potentially sending nearly 2.5 million tonnes of unnecessary waste to landfill. An estimated 9-18 per cent (441,000 tonnes conservatively) of all material sent to landfill by households is likely recyclable, while a massive 41-52 per cent (2,000,900 tonnes conservatively) could be composted at home or organic processing facilities. Fighting food waste and ensuring packaging is correctly recycled therefore forms a major component of this year's National Recycling Week resources and activities. "This year Planet Ark is asking Australians to pause and think about what they are currently sending to landfill and ask whether it is waste after all." said Planet Ark CEO Rebecca Gilling. "We have come a long way since National Recycling Week was established in 1996, but there is still more we could be doing to ensure valuable resources don't end up wasted in landfill, especially when it comes to food waste and recycling our packaging." Running from November 13-19, National Recycling Week provides an opportunity for residents and workplaces to learn simple methods of reducing their environmental footprint and preventing waste. Residents can host or join recycling themed events, brush up on their recycling knowledge with educational resources, learn about new developments in recycling policy and technology or discover tricks to reduce what they are sending to landfill and ensure resources don't go to waste. National Recycling Week was founded in 1996 to help Australians improve their recycling knowledge and building better recycling habits. Since then, the annual recycling rate in Australia has increased from just seven per cent of all disposed materials to more than 60 per cent. Planet Ark has a number of tools and tips to enable community groups, councils, households and workplaces to get involved and start reducing waste in the National Recycling Week Resource Hub. To learn more or get involved in National Recycling Week, visit nationalrecyclingweek.com.au. National Recycling Week is made possible by Major Sponsor Coles, Associate Sponsors Coca-Cola Australia and Samsara Eco, Media Partner Seven West Media and Supporting Sponsors Australasian Recycling Label, Mobile Muster and Cartridges 4 Planet Ark.

One million drums, counting

IF all the plastic AgVet containers Noel Bubner has processed for recycling were laid side by side, they would stretch from Balaklava to Adelaide, back to Balaklava and all the way down to Adelaide.

That's how much plastic waste off the one-man operation from the Balaklava area has managed to help clear off farms in South Australia-from Ceduna in the west to Mount Gambier in the south.

drumMUSTER is Australia's national product stewardship program which since it started in 1999 has collected 42 million containers.

drumMUSTER manager Allan McGann said Agricycling is an integral partner of the program, providing a valuable service collecting the stored drums from the 75 sites across the state.

He said that back in July this year Agricyling reached an outstanding milestone when they collected their one millionth drum for recycling. This was about 1000 tonnes of plastic that had been sent for recycling which otherwise would have become landfill or burnt on properties.

'This milestone is also reflected in the SA state collection numbers which recently passed the six million drum mark," he said.

"The state's farmers and other AgVet chemical users along with our collection agencies are to be congratulated of this fantastic result," Mr McGann said

For his part Mr Bubner, who is based at Salter Springs, said he considers himself myself pretty lucky.

"I love travelling around the country, sampling the pastries ... finding out where the best pies are."

He said got into the waste plastic processing around 2010 when he started baling waste agriculture plastic going into landfill.

With the help of an engineer, he built a baler that each week squashed the plastic into wheat sized bags.

For five years he exported the bags of plastic waste to China before that country imposed a ban on imports of waste from other countries.

Noel then pivoted to chemical drums, making half reasonable bales out of them, he said, and selling them for a while into Adelaide.

The market there crashed, he said, and he then found himself with a massive stockpile of AgVet Chemical containers he had collected from farms.

"I had about 30,000 drums," he said.

Mr Bubner said he was aware of drumMUS-TER so he contacted them.

"Allan popped out to see me and we got going.'

It was 2015 and Agricycling started processing drums for the program, first working in the Central SA region. In recent years Noel has expanded his operation to cover the entire state. Once a semi-trailer load of 30 tonnes is ready, a contractor will collect them and take them to recycling operations in NSW and Queensland.

Mr Bubner said he can't speak highly enough of drumMUSTER.

"drumMUSTER is the premier product stewardship program in Australia," he said.

"Other users of plastic packaging in Australia should be using drumMUSTER as the model, whether it's bulka bags or peanut butter jars. It's a brilliant program."

Disability services get the axe

sophie.conlon@tbwtoday.com.au

IT has been confirmed UnitingSA will pull all services, including disability employment support, from Kingston SE by the end of 2023

UnitingSA chief executive Jenny Hall said Wesley Social Enterprises (WSE), with operations including the Kingston Lawn Rangers, will cease on November 21, while NDIS community supports will continue until December 1.

Ms Hall said closing the services was a "difficult decision".

"It is not a decision we take lightly, as we value being part of this wonderful community, however we face significant challenges in continuing our local NDIS and Wesley Social Enterprises (WSE) operations," she said.

"Over the past six months UnitingSA have explored various options to continue operations, including transitioning our services to an alternative provider. Unfortunately these efforts have not been successful."

This comes as UnitingSA reduced WSE services in Kingston in 2020, closing Grandma's Pantry which was the first service offered by the then Kingston Supported Employment Service in 1990.

The Lawn Rangers are known for mowing sites around the town including several prominent council parks.

Ms Hall said Uniting SA would continue to support clients as they transition over the coming weeks.

"We are working closely with clients and families to help them transition to other services and are committed to achieving the best possible outcomes for everyone involved," she said.

END OF AN ERA: UnitingSA will cease all services in Kingston SE by the end of the year. Picture: FILE

SENIOR'S Month ended last week with over

Held at the Millicent Civic and Arts Centre the closing event included the Senior of the Year announcement with Penola's Ken Mountford presented the award by Wattle Range Council Mayor Des Noll.

Event co-ordinator and council environmental health officer Catarina Santos said the month had gone by quickly.

"Senior's month has been a real adventure for a lot of us going to different activities over at Penola and around the council area" she said.

"The month's been really good, we've had a good response.

"With the feedback we get from people for this event we hope to get ideas for new events for next year.'

Highlights of the month were the mystery bus trip to St Mary's Winery and the Millicent High School music showcase.

Both cooking demonstrations and Penola and Millicent were well attended with Sri Lankan chef Lucky in Penola and Melissa Armfield cooking a Mexican themed tasting for those attending in Millicent.

Once again the Lake McIntyre walk was cancelled due to inclement weather with senior's meeting at Millicent's Lion's Den for a sit down barbeque meal instead.

Buckley ahead in small field

THE seventh race of the Mount Gambier Cycling Club Spring Series, also the second race of the Country Post and Bistro Super Series, was held at Kalangadoo on the weekend.

With many of the Junior riders involved in a track training weekend in Adelaide and some of the Seniors succumbing to various ailments, a small group of eight nominated and signed on to race.

A strong south-easterly breeze tested the riders on the return leg of the flat, out-andback course along Mount McIntyre Road.

The first rider to depart was Jen Buckland, psyched up for an all-out time trial, doing her best to keep away from the groups behind.

The next riders to depart were Sandra Parsons, Spek Peake and Chris Neave, seven minutes after Jen Buckland, but four minutes ahead of Elmer Buckland and Craig Andrae.

The final pairing of Jami Buckley and Patrick Langsmith waited a further two minutes before they began their charge to catch the riders ahead.

The ride to the turnaround mark was quite brisk, as the riders made the most of the wind at their backs, while also trying to ensure there was enough fuel in the tank to ensure that they could still put the power down when heading back into the wind.

Each of the groups made it to the turnaround marker intact, with the gap from first to last whittled down to eight minutes.

Endrae and Elmer Buckland saw Langsmith and Buckley were quite close behind at the turnaround, so eased up slightly to allow the pairs to become a stronger group of four. Unfortunately this did not last long as Elmer Buckland had to pull out of the race after 18 km with some back pain and the trio forged on ahead.

The next rider they encountered was Parsons, who had been dropped from her group, but was still working hard to try and get to the finish line in under an hour.

The road was now flat and straight, with all riders able to see their target ahead of them.

The trio of Buckley, Langsmith and Andrae were catching and passing the riders ahead, until with two kilometres to race they also Picture: SUBMITTED caught and passed Jen Buckland and became the front runners. As the finish line came into view Buckley powered away from his companions and crossed the line first, taking fastest time honours in the process.

Langsmith arrived next, followed by Craig Andrae to round out the podium.

The club now prepares for the third race in the Super Series at Glencoe.

DAVID LEWIS

SO successful was this year's Family Fun in the Sun promotion at South Australia's four greyhound tracks, Greyhound Racing SA (GRSA) announced last week a Festival of Fun would be staged to coincide with the January 2024 school holidays.

From a racing perspective - and complementing the Family Fun in the Sun - Gawler, Murray Bridge and Mount Gambier all ran a $10,000 race, while Angle Park's was $14,000.

But really it was all about getting families to the track and it worked.

In fact, as far as Mount Gambier was concerned, Tara Raceway's February 12 meeting had never seen so many kids at one of its meetings, taking advantage of the bouncy castle, the ice cream van, face painting, kids' races and getting up close and personal with the greyhounds. Mount Gambier's Festival of Fun will be conducted on Sunday, January 21.

From a racing point of view the highlight will be the final of the Summer Classic, an agerestricted race run over 512 metres for all greyhounds whelped on or after January 1, 2022.

Once again, the race will carry $10,000 in prize money which makes it second only in monetary value to the Mount Gambier Cup, certainly a far cry from the inaugural Summer Classic conducted back in 2015.

That was the year Cryer's Ricky, owned and trained by Apsley's Margaret and Tom Cryer, gained a start in the final as a reserve and subsequently defeated Peter Franklin's Future Past in a time of 29.96 seconds.

By pure coincidence Margaret Cryer was in Mount Gambier on February 12 this year and had decided to attend the Tara Raceway meeting, not even realising the Summer Classic final was being run.

So who better to present the trophy to the connections of the winner, Honey Rocks, owned by Ron Murch and trained locally by Tracie Price?

FLASHBACK: Tom and Margaret Cryer and Peter Bryce of Winning Post Supplies with Cryer's Ricky, winner of the inaugural Summer Classic at Tara Raceway in February 2015.

Hard courts for tennis play

SOUTHERN Ports tennis action took place across four venues on Saturday afternoon.

The third round of the season had matches played on the hard courts at Kingston, Penola, Naracoorte and Robe.

Penola returned to the courts after a bye and hosted Robe Roosters for its first home game of the season.

Kingston also made the most of its hometown advantage against the Koalas.

As predicted, match of the round went firmly to the Robe Rebels and Frances-Lucindale Eagles who battled some windy conditions at Robe.

KINGSTON 17-137 d LUCINDALE KOALAS 7-102

Kingston played Lucindale Koalas at home for its second game of the season.

Kingston started the day well winning four of the six mixed doubles.

Chandler Smart and Casey Weaver played well to get the win over Matt Menz and Lou Leidig in the top doubles.

Smart then backed up his form when defeating Matt Menz in the top men's singles.

After holding a 5-0 lead, he held on for a 6-4 victory.

Shaun Mules and Duncan Ogilvie also had a long match, which went the way of the former 6-4

Over in the women's matches, the game of the day was between Alex Menz and Leanne McCarthy.

Some great shots came from both ends in what was a marathon of a game, eventually going McCarthy's way 6-4.

Kingston won two out of the three men's doubles and all of the women's doubles to finish off a solid day.

Kingston won in the end 17 sets to seven. PENOLA 8-94 It

ROBE ROOSTERS 16-137

Robe Roosters defeated Penola in another wind-filled day for tennis.

Robe had a strong start, winning five of the six mixed doubles.

Jake Fletcher debuted in his first match for the Roosters and demonstrated his skills in a great performance across the day.

Mixed results came from the singles, with the Roosters' women helping to secure many sets.

Tracey Bainger defeated Millie Wilkinson 6-3, while Sarah Lawrie had a dominant performance to account for Sarah Ballantyne 6-0.

For Penola, Lachlan Heysen, James Gosse and Manyy Singh all took home single's wins, keeping their team in the hunt.

Robe responded strongly in the doubles, wining five of the six sets with some entertaining matches.

Rachelle McKay and Alana Domaschenz started proceedings with a 9-5 win, followed by comfortable wins by the Roosters' top men.

Penola pair Lachlan Heysen and Michael Redman gave it one last crack and were only just too good for Lewis Ling and James Kokiousis, winning 10-9.

NARACOORTE 15-119 d

LUCINDALE WOMBATS 9-105

A fine afternoon in Naracoorte produced some quality tennis.

Naracoorte started strong in the mixed doubles, taking a 5-1 lead.

Two of those sets could have gone either way, with a couple of 7-5 results.

The singles were dominated by Naracoorte's women.

Kelsie Moyle-Read had a fight on her hands against Andrea Buckett.

Buckett started the match strong with a 3-1 lead, which Moyle-Read fought back to win, 6-4.

In the men's singles, Steve Biggins and Jack Grundy both fired out some brilliant shots for spectators, with Grundy winning 6-4.

The juniors are certainly making themselves at home in the senior competition with six players under 16 across the two teams.

For the Wombats, youngsters Vander Maywald and Harry Robinson both secured themselves singles' victories, while Naracoorte's Max Lush had another comfortable win in both singles and women's doubles.

With some of the doubles sets to go either way, the Wombats looked to secure the last few sets.

Top men's pair, Brad Hocking and Jack Grundy were able to gain one over Daniel Menzel and Stephen Biggins, 9-3.

Bottom women's doubles also went to Lucindale, with Katharine Legoe and Harry Robinson winning 9-1.

However, Naracoorte was too strong on the day, with a six-set victory.

ROBE REBELS 15-133 d

FRANCES/LUCINDALE EAGLES 9-101

With another windy day in Robe, it was once again a tough day for tennis.

The mixed doubles had both teams come away with three wins each.

The number six rubber was a tough tussle, with Robe's Andrew Brown and Kati Warren winners 7-5.

Craig Jones was the only man to taste success for the Eagles, with his 6-1 win over George Pretlove.

The women's singles was an even split.

Robe's Lisa Hall and Eagles' Tyler Atkinson had a good battle in the top clash, with the former winning 7-5.

Each team won three doubles each to finish off the day, with the Rebels winning 15 sets to nine.

In Round 4, it is back out to Lucindale.

The Wombats will look to regain top spot with a win over the Eagles, while the Koalas will be on the hunt for their first win over Naracoorte, who plays its first grass court match for the season.

Penola hosts top side Kingston and after gaining their first win in Round 3, the Robe Roosters will be looking to upset Beachport.

RENDELSHAM RAMS 9/174 d MILLICENT BLACK HATS 10/103

THE Rendelsham Rams set an unreachable target for the Millicent Black Hats to chase down in Round 3 of Millicent/Naracoorte cricket on Saturday.

Played at the Norm Facey Oval, the Rams won the toss and elected to bat.

It was a good decision, as Jacob Carger and Ayden Reid were off to a flyer, putting together a handy half-century partnership to set the innings up.

Carger was in fine touch, as he found the boundary on 11 occasions and cleared it once in his innings.

However, it was Reid who was first to go, run out on 18 runs with the total at 65.

Tyson Smith thenjoined Carger in the middle and the pair almost reached another halfcentury stand, but fell four runs short when Smith was caught off the bowling of Ashton Lindner for seven.

With the majority of runs coming from the bat of Carger, Jake Wight strode out to the centre and found touch, with three boundaries in his 15 runs from 24 deliveries.

Jacob Todd made the much-needed breakthrough soon after, dismissing Carger for 83 and the Rams sat at 4/142.

Todd was the best of the bowlers, with figures of 4/33 off eight overs.

Todd was back in action at the top of the order for the Black Hats and was first to depart, zs Carger returned the favour and clean bowled the opener for 27.

Lindner came and went for a four-ball duck, before Mitchell Nitschke looked to settle at the crease

He faced 33 balls for his six runs and when he was sent back to the sidelines the Black Hats were in a bit of trouble at 3/56.

Josh Mason played another steady hand but could on offer two runs to the total, then opener Sam Hunt eventually fell to Reid for 27.

with the top order gone and just 66 runs on the board, the Black Hats were going to struggle to reach a century, but Kobe Gibson dug in and contributed 17b runs off 21 balls to take the total to 91.

LUCINDALE ROOS 7/150 d NARACOORETE TOWNIES 8/128

But it almost came off, with few Roos' batters finding any real form.

Opener Shane McGurk and middle-order batsman Michael McGurk were the two exceptions, as they ensured Lucindale posted a decent target.

Nathan James was caught off the bowling of Brodie Foster for 11, while Tom Fisher went for the same score, lbw to Foster.

While Shane McGurk played a steady hand, eventually out for 36 off 68 balls, Michael Mc-Gurk took to the bowling attack, finding the boundary on nine occasions and clearing it once in his unbeaten total of 60, from just 47 balls.

When the overs were done the Roos had reached a handy 150 and were in with a good chance to the defend the total.

With the ball Foster claimed four scalps.

Brendon Smart played a solid opening role, as did Harry Schroder.

Schroder was out for seven off 33 balls to the bowling of Jesse Hazelman, with the total at 36.

Jaspreet Singh contributed eight before he was run out trying to force the run rate, then Smart departed just shy of his half-century for 48

Myles Bittner saw the score past the century mark, but could only offer five runs himself, with the total at 4/104.

The Townies still looked a good chance, but the wickets began to tumble in a mini-collapse.

Matt Smith fell for one with the total at 106. then with no further runs added, Rowan Ham went for a golden duck and it was all-but over for Naracoorte.

In the end the Townies reached just 128 runs off their 40 overs, as Shane McGurk ripped through the batting line up to the tune of 4/25.

MOUNT BURR MOZZIES 3/169 d ROBE ROOSTERS 10/70

Robe Roosters were no match for the Mount Burr Mozzies on their home deck, as the latter set a decent target, then Jack Muhovis in particular ripped through the Roosters' batting lineup to record a dominating victory for Mount Burr.

The Mozzies won the toss and elected to bat and apart from the early wicket of Jordan Muhovics for nine with the total at just 14, the innings went to script.

A half-century stand followed from opener Jack Francis and Jack Muhovics, as the pair took the total along to 108.

Frances then fell off the bowling of Jack Sneath for 54 off 97 deliveries, with five boundaries and one six.

Arjun Shrestha fell for 12, but Jack Muhovics remained unbeaten with his own half-century, with 52 runs scored off 88 deliveries.

Sneath took two of the three wickets, but it left a lot for the Roosters to do with the bat in hand.

Robe looked on target early, as Zac Deane and Sam Huebner took the score along to 40 runs.

Huebner was out for 23, followed by Adrian Thomson and Jessie Singh, both for ducks.

With just five more runs added, Deane was gone for 11 and the rot really set in.

by the time the Roosters had reached the half-century mark eight wickets had fallen and it was all over.

Robbie Chappel contributed 11 down the order but the Roosters could only reply with 70 runs, well short of the target.

Jack Muhovics was the wrecking ball, with figures of 6/13 off seven overs.

Windy conditions for Southern Ports juniors

KINGSTON 7-53 d LUCINDALE ROOS 2-37

ROUND 3 of Southern Ports Junior Tennis was contested on the weekend, with Kingston too strong for Lucindale Roos.

Played in Lucindale, some good games unfolded.

Jacob and Anna were a good match for Jimmy and Harry and Kingston secured the win 6-3.

Ernie and George outplayed Hudson and Katie in their doubles to get a tight 7-5 win for Lucindale.

A third close doubles set unfolded between Charles/Catherine and Chloe/Emilie, which had Kingston up in a tiebreak. Some more close scores in the singles demonstrated good skills from both teams, but ultimately Kingston came away with a five-set win.

Thanks was given to Emilie Schaefer and Anna Rasheed, who filled in after the flu took out three of Kingston's regular players.

NARACOORTE YELLOW 42 d NARACOORTE RED 36

The wind made for some tough conditions in Naracoorte when the Yellow and Red teams faced each other.

In the end Yellow proved the better on the day, but not without some close battles.

The top double saw Red's Alice and Jack combine well to have a convincing 6-1 win over Thomas and Digby.

Yellow had wins in the other two doubles. Missy and Fliss had a close game against Gus and Maggie and Beau and Louis were strong in their doubles.

Alice, Maggie and Jack secured singles wins for Red and Missy, Beau and Louis had good singles wins for Yellow.

Naracoorte Yellow was victorious in the end, winning 42-36.

LUCINDALE KOALAS 7-48 d MILLICENT/BEACHPORT 2-32

The sun was out in Lucindale as the Koalas hosted Millicent/Beachport.

Many parents lended a hand to help coordinate and support the players, while everyone will be hoping for a drop in wind for Round 4.

NARACOORTE BLUE 51 d NARACOORTE WHITE 42

Another Naracoorte in-house battle had Blue edge out White for the weekly honours.

Charlie and Mia McCarthy were too strong for Max Lush and Elsie Orton in the doubles, getting the 6-1 win.

Pictures: JAMES MURPHY It is a close call as Dylan Gull slides into home.

Central's run goes on

IN the first of the Mount Gambier and District Saturday night double-header games between Central and South Indians, the Indians mirrored Federal from last week when they could not score against a rampaging Magpie outfit.

Aided by five base on ball and two hit pitched balls by two South pitchers in the second inning and only two safe-hits, Central scored 12 runs, all unearned due to a costly six errors.

The Magpies did not get one strikeout against them, while their pitchers picked up seven on the South batters.

Highlight of the night was the appearance of 15 year-old Bree Ridding in her first Division 1 game. Central finished easy winners 14-0.

South fired back when Blake McAdam singled to centre-field and scored on Bradley Meek's infield fielder's choice.

However, that was the final score for the Indians.

Two more for Central came in the second when Brad Walkom drew a walk and Dave Harris singled to right-field which scored Walkom.

Harris was batted in by Koby Chant.

Koby Chant's double to left-field scored Ridding, Dylan Gull picked up his third scored hit for the game and both he and Chant scored with good base running.

The final inning saw the Magpies add four more runs in a dominant night.

Dylan Chuck singled for the third time, as did Ålex Ridding for his third hit and Koby Chant also made it safe to first.

Chuck scored on Dylan Gull's sacrifice fly, Colby Muller singled and he and Chant added the last two runs of the game on Jakob Walkom's safety to centre-field.

Central pitcher Dylan Chuck gave up five safe-hits, one base on ball, one run and picked up 11 strikeouts from 103 pitches.

South used three pitchers and between them they gave up 17 safe-hits, five base on ball, one hit batter, 13 runs and picked up six strikeouts.

AFTER last week's week's poor showing from Federals, they turned their fortunes around in the Mount Gambier and District baseball double-header round against Tigers on Friday night.

Playing two shortened games back-to-back of seven innings, the Demons were away in the bottom half of the first dig when lead-off batter Nash Lobley's Texas Leaguer to left-field saw him on first base and he was batted in by Clay Carpenter's double, also to left-field.

They added another run in the second innings after Roy Hutchesson hit safely and crossed on Alex Pearson's single, with both hits also going to left-field.

Tigers returned fire in the top of the third innings when with two out, Mitch Thomson singled to centre-field and was batted in by Ben Marcus for a 2-1 scoreline.

Elletson crossed home plate on coach Kane Harrison's hit to centre-field and finally Jake

Powell's sacrifice fly pushed Thompson home. However, the lead was short lived as Federal ushed back in the bottom of the first after

The green and reds went further ahead in the bottom of the fourth, adding another single run.

Nine of their 13 safe-hits for the game went to left-field.

Tigers went ahead by one in the top of the fourth inning when Jarvi Mee found himself at first base after an infield error by the pitcher.

Not to be denied, the orange and black lineup showed they were not yet done.

The first two runners on base scored on Jake Powell's hit deep to left-field, Harrison followed when Pat Kermond hit safely to the outfield and Powell hit home plate on an infield fielder's choice, giving Tigers the lead by a solitary run.

Matt Nicholls stepped up and crushed the ball to right-field for a double, scoring Pearson for the tying run before a fly ball ended the game a 9-all draw.

AFTER having to cancel the women's SE District women's golf over 50's due to inclement weather, players opted to play a game of mini putt putt in between showers at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

However, the weather was perfect by Wednesday for the women's quarter finals of the 2023 Open championships, in conjunction with a stableford competition for non-qualifiers.

In Division 1 and with several titles under her belt, Dianne Perryman proved she was worthy to be there able to defeat the top qualifier Rosemary Martland.

Perryman took control early with pars on the first and fifth holes, turning 4-up.

A loss on the 10th hole, a par on the 11th, a halved hole on the 12th, Martland made a late dash with wins on the 13th and 14th, a half on 15th to be only 2-down.

However, after a par on the 16th hole, Perryman claimed the win 3/2.

Next was the match between Sue Agars and Helen Myers.

Agars showed her ability from the start with par wins on the first second and fifth holes and wins on the third and seventh, plus four halved holes.

Myers had a win on the 10th hole, but Agars clinched the victory 7/5 after a run of wins on the 11th, 12th and 13th.

The even match-up between Josie Ashby and Helen Stratford started well for Stratford, with a par win on the first hole and a halved hole on the second.

Ashby responded with wins on the third, fourth and fifth holes, with the next four halved allowing her to go to the 10th 2-up.

Stratford won the 10th and 15th holes, Ashby the 11th and 12th, with the victory 3/2 after a par win on the 16th.

Ronda Edwards and Kate Hommelhoff was always going to be a challenge for the latter.

Although both big hitters, it was Edwards' match-play experience that showed through.

Hommelhoff did start with a bang, holing a birdie on the first hole from a chip-in off the green and also a par win on the downhill par 3 fifth.

Edwards then took control, winning six holes and halving the sixth to turn 4-up.

She continued her assault with wins on the 10th and 11th holes, halving the 12th and a win on the 13th to finish 7/5.

In the Division 2 quarter finals, Bev Pascoe faced Lesley McPherson and enjoyed a close front nine, all square.

McPherson had a par on the first hole, plus wins on the sixth and ninth, while Pascoe had wins on the second, fourth and fifth.

Pascoe then had four wins and McPherson one, along with three halved holes, but it was Pascoe finishing with a 3/1 victory to advance to the semi-finals.

Johanna Gogan faced Dianne Allen in what became a good tussle.

Gogan had five wins and Allen two, along with two halved holes to leave a bit of work to do by Allen.

She won the 12th and 14th holes, but it was Gogan's wins on the 11th, 16th and 17th that took her to the semi-finals with a 3/1 victory.

Next was Jaynee Oberer and Lyn Gill to take to the fairways and Oberer took control, winning holes o0ne through four, then halving the fifth.

She added further wins on the sixth, seventh and ninth holes.

Gill claimed a win on the hardest indexed eighth hole, but being 6-down it was going to be hard to come back.

Wins on the 10th and 11th holes sealed the win 8/7 for Oberer.

The match between Trudy Herbert and Rose Case saw quite a few years of golfing experience on the course.

Herbert had wins on the first and eighth holes, while Case won the par 5 third and with five halved holes, Herbert was 2-up going to the back nine.

Wins on the 12th, 13th and 15th holes for Herbert, followed with a win for Case on the 11th and two halved holes to see Herbert take the win 4/3.

Semi-final draw, Wednesday (today), 8.30am.

Division 1: D. Perryman v S. Agars, J. Ashby v R. Edwards.

Division 2: B. Pascoe v J. Gogan, J. Oberer v T. Herbert.

WIND was again the order of the day when Round 4 of Mount Gambier and District tennis was contested on Saturday.

The Division 1 competition continues to heat up, with Uniting holding the top spot over Mount Gambier.

Uniting held the advantage for most of the day, with all three women's singles wins.

Of those, Ashlea Dunn's 6-4 triumph over Bailey Young was the closest scoreline.

The men's singles were hard fought and in the end it was an even split between the clubs.

Uniting's Andrew van Den Hurk won the top rubber 6-1 over Zayne Young, while the closest match was a tiebreaker, where Uniting's Jace Maxwell was unable to get across the line.

Maxwell's doubles outing was a different story, as he paired up with Pir Khurram Shahid for a straight-set victory, 6-4, 6-1.

Van Den Hurk had to work harder in his doubles, where he teamed up with Kobe Cole to win the first set and lose the second against Young and Cade Kelly.

They managed to claim the win 10-8 in the third set, after a good battle.

Reidy was able to chip one back in the women's doubles when Madison Kelly and Maggie Collins defeated Alison Telford and Vanessa Maxwell 6-4, but the other two sets were claimed by Uniting.

Over at Malseed Park, West Gambier made short work of its Mount Schank visitors.

The hosts secured a straight-set victory, while Mount Schank was only able to win 18 games for the day, opposed to West's 85.

The men's singles were all 6-1 and 6-0 results, while the closest women's singles was a 6-2 win to Emily Jolley over Bella Laube.

The doubles followed the same trend, with the West women all winning 6-2, while Toby Stutley's men's doubles was a 6-0, 6-0 win.

George White's doubles outing required a tiebreaker in the first set, but the second came more easily 6-1 for a solid victory.

The final game of the round was contested between Glencoe and Mount Gambier and was the closest of the day.

EYE ON THE PRIZE: Uniting's Jace Maxwell approaches the net for a volley shot.

Despite the home-court advantage, reigning premier Glencoe was unable to best its guests.

Of the four men's singles, three went Gambier's way.

The top rubber had Mat Stark defeat Tim Biggins 6-3, while Will Cameron defeated James Braun in a tiebreaker. William Le Cornu was also victorious, while Glencoe's win came from Hamish Gordon 6-4 over Hayden Hancock.

Another set was earned by the hosts in the women's singles, with a convincing 6-0 win to Jorja Mitchell against Giaan Ferguson.

Shae Delaney and Alita Huyser both won their matches 6-4 and 6-3 respectively.

Picture: JAMES MURPHY

The doubles were where Glencoe came alive.

While both men's games were won by Gambier, the three women's doubles all went Glencoe's way.

However, at the end of the afternoon the singles were enough to decide the result, with Gambier returning home with the points.

Bree, 15, steps up

IN the 92-year history of the Central Baseball Club, 15-year-old Bree Ridding is the first female to play in a Division 1 baseball game for the club, which she did on Saturday.

Ridding comes from a baseball family, with dad Anthony playing Division 3, as does brother Lachlan.

Alex Ridding currently plays Division 1, while Dylan Ridding, who started at Centrals, the oldest of the Ridding siblings, plays Division 1 with Sturt. Bree's mum Meghan, who also played five games for Centrals, was a star pitcher for the Wanderers Softball Club.

Bree followed her father and brothers to Central, starting with her first game in Under 13 as an eight-year-old against Naracoorte in 2016.

From there she has clocked up 128 games with Centrals and currently plays Big League (Under 18).

Bree was selected in the South Australian team for the 2023 Australian Youth Women's

She was then selected in the South Australian Seahorses Girls Baseball Team for a youth girl's participation tournament honouring the legendary Jacinda Barclay.

The competition was held in Perth early in October.

Riders enjoy gold-medal guidance

IN a power-packed weekend of training, the Limestone Coast Regional Sporting Academy Track Cycling Program took centre stage at the Adelaide Superdrome, with none other than the esteemed 2000 Olympic Gold Medalist Brett Aitken leading the charge.

Over Saturday and Sunday, the academy's riders honed their skills under the watchful eye of Aitken, focusing on essential techniques for track racing and engaging in simulated state title events.

With the much-anticipated state titles merely a month away, the intensity of the training session reflected the athletes' determination to make their mark on the upcoming competition.

Boats head over border

THE Port MacDonnell Sailing Club had a break in its weekly sailing to attend the Western Region Regatta held in Portland. In the end only two boats from Port MacDonnell club could attend.

Farmer Skippered by Dave Evans, crew Mac Ferguson and Graham Mackay and the second boat Minty skippered by Stephen Dyble and crew Nick Watson.

Racing was from 1 pm on Saturday and consisted of three races held in succession with the start and finish in Portland Harbour, plus and another couple of legs out to sea to the northwest of the main rock wall.

Blustery condition where testing for all boats, with winds ranging from 15 to 22 knots throughout the afternoon.

With 25 boats on the water the harbour was a busy place to be.

The last race for Saturday was completed at around 5pm with everybody getting off the water and heading to the Portland club house directly on the edge of the water and boat ramp facility for a well-deserved drink and a dinner catered for by the host club.

With a briefing set for 9am on Sunday it was an early night to rest some sore muscles as the majority of skippers and crew it was the first outing for the year due to some poor weather over the district in the early part of the season.

Two races were scheduled for Sunday, again in trying conditions, with cold temperatures and winds 20 to 22 knots, even though a little more consistent than Saturday.

With both races completed by 12.30pm everybody was busy packing up to again head into the clubhouse to find out the results for the weekend of racing.

2000 Sydney Games, expressed his excitement about the talent and commitment displayed by the Limestone Coast riders during the training sessions.

The legendary cyclist, known for his pursuit of excellence, sees promising potential in the academy's cyclists as they prepare to compete at the state level.

Kelly's expertise complemented Aitken's guidance, providing the riders with a well-rounded training experience that goes beyond the ordinary.

Notably, the coaching duo from Limestone Coast, comprising Rob Mann and Matthew Opperman, were actively present throughout the training weekend.

Their commitment to nurturing and developing the region's cycling talent was evident, Ethan McKenny receives tuition from Brett Aitken and James Kelly.

ises a winning formula.

With the clock ticking down to the competition, all eyes are on these up-and-coming juniors, eager to witness the results of their hard work and dedication on the state racing circuit. A great effort from both the boats from Port MacDonnell, with Farmer finishing third in the trailable yacht class and Minty going one better with a secopnd in the same class.

Next week the Port MacDonnell club will be back to normal racing, with two races around the buoys from 1pm.

The following weekend – November 18 and 19 – will see the club host a round of the Western Region Regatta, with racing to commence on the Saturday early afternoon and concluding in the early afternoon of Sunday.

The public are encouraged to come down and have a look at many different classes of boats that are sailed all over the district, with many more boats off the beach in front of the clubhouse than are normally raced at the club.

NORTH SPORTSMAN'S 7/166 d WEST GAMBIER 10/106

NORTH Sportsman's made the visit to Malseed Park for Round 2 of Barber Shield cricket on Saturday and dealt West Gambier a blow, with a comfortable victory.

West won the toss and elected to bat on its home turf, but that soon turned ugly as the first wicket fell for just four runs. With the ball in hand, Declan Kenny then went on a tear and cleaned bowled three of the top order for 30 additional runs.

Jayden Prior was first to go for eight runs, followed by Sujith Nikethana for 1, then Nuwan Gunawardana for 13.

that put the home side on the back foot, but Bray Stephenson looked set to rescue the innings with the help of Sam Coxon.

The pair put on 36 runs before Coxon was bowled by Josh Stafford, then Jack Geddes came in and attempted to push the run-rate along, run out for just one run after facing nine deliveries.

Kenny struck again and claimed the wicket of Kyal Chapman for a three-ball duck and at 7/93, West was in real trouble.

Few more runs were offered and Stephenson was the last to fall for a timely 44 runs, with the total at 10/106.

Kenny claimed four wickets for 43 runs off eight overs, with Isaac Mulraney and Nick Mc-Inerney both with two scalps.

North's run chase was not off to the best start, with both openers – Brad Robinson (2) and Alex Hutton (5) – out with just 11 runs on the board.

However, Nick McInerney and Elliott Fisher came to the rescue, with a 99-run stand to claim the win.

McInerney fell one run short of his halfcentury, while Fisher made 53 off just 60 balls.

From there it was a matter of course, as the Tigers pushed on to eventually post 166 runs in a comfortable victory.

EAST Gambier made short work of its Round 2 Hoggies Wines Barber Shield clash against South Gambier on Saturday, bowling the visitors out for just 86 runs, then chasing down the total with two wickets in hand.

East won the toss and send South into bat, which looked like a poor decision initially.

Stephen Easterbrook and Robert Drenthen played some solid cricket, knocking the ball around the park and finding the boundary on their way to a half-century opening stand.

team total at 1/54.

it laid a solid foundation, but from there the wickets began to tumble with regularity.

Jed Sims came and went without bothering the scorers, clean bowled by Little for a seven-ball duck.

James Miller could offer no more, bowled by Marc Roberts for a duck after facing eight deliveries.

Suddenly South was in trouble at 3/63 and when Drenthen departed for 28, with the total at just 66, the Demons needed to dig deep.

Unfortunately that would not happen, as wickets continued to tumble, with little added to the scoreboard.

Dylan Barlow was next to go after looking set, judged lbw to Emerson Marks for 11, then Ryan Kuhl followed, caught by Alex Hentschke off the bowling of Ben Hentschke for nought after facing seven balls.

The bails fly as Jakob Opie bids farewell to his wicket.

Just one run later Nick Seager was gone for a duck, lbw to Ben Hentschke and South sat at 7/78.

Jaggar Geary managed six runs off his five deliveries before Marks sent him back to the shed, before Jakob Opie and Adam Vause were both bowled by Ben Hentschke to close out the innings at 10/86.

it was a disappointing result after such a promising start, with Ben Hentschke causing chaos with the ball in hand.

He finished with the impressive figures of 5/3 off 3.4 overs.

With the willow, East was off to a more-disrupted start, with opener Aiden Creasey back on the sidelines for just two runs, bowled by Bryce Whicker with the total at three.

Marks followed soon after, caught off the bowling of Whicker for a two-ball duck.

Suddenly the 87-run target for victory appeared a long way off and when opener Ben Robinson was sent back to the shed for a slow 29-ball duck, the appeared even further away at 1/19.

Alex Hentschke dug in somewhat with Connor Little for a timely 17-run partnership, but with 25 to his name, he was clean bowled by Vause.

Little continued the chase with Dion Stratford and the pair put on another 50 steady runs before the former was caught off the bowling of Geary for a slow 12 off 67 deliveries.

By then the score had reached 86 and the win was soon to come.

Stratford played a lone hand in the middle order, with a well-crafted, unbeaten 44 off 79 deliveries to deliver East the victory.

MIL LEL 7/173 d PENOLA 10/127

PENOLA'S home ground did not provide an advantage when the Eagles hosted Mil Lel in Round 2 of the Hoggies Wines Barber Shield on Saturday.

Mil Lel claimed an emphatic victory after they won the toss and sent Penola into bat.

Just four runs later the incoming Tom Clayfield was out for four runs, both victims of Jack Miller's bowling.

However, with 39 runs on the board, Penola suffered another loss, with Mullan sent on his way, caught off the bowling of Toby Grigg for 24 runs.

Drew Clayfield came and went without bothering the scorers, lbw to Thomas Smith for a five-ball duck.

At 4/40, Penola needed a steadying hand and that came from Nathan Fulton, who joined Hunter in the middle and the pair settled into a 36-run stand.

However, Fulton became Mitchell Little's first scalp, caught for 16 off a steady 65 deliveries and with just one more run added, Hunter was back in the shed, bowled by Dale Bachmann for 13 off 64 balls.

The Eagles were struggling at 6/77 when Ned Skeer joined Honner in the middle.

The pair crafted a 14-run stand before the former was sent on his way for nine and the Eagles had not yet reached the century mark.

That came soon enough, but with Honner out for 23 with the total at 121, it was almost done for Penola, with the final two wickets falling with the score at 127.

Little was the danger man with the ball in hand, as he claimed four wickets, while Bachmann and Miller claimed two each.

Mil Lel's innings started a little shaky, with the first three wickets falling for just 32 runs.

That saw Ty Dinnison (5), Little (0) and Darcy Williamson (1) back in the shed and plenty to do to chase the total down.

Opener Jarrod Sanders was next to go for 34 runs, with the total at just 41, but from there Miller dug in and along with Archer Virtanen, began to find some runs.

The pair put on a match-winning 75-run stand before Virtanen was caught off the bowling of Waters for 30.

He played a solid anchor role as Miller pushed hard to increase the score rate and chase down the victory.

Harry Hicks also played a pivotal role with Miller down the order, as the latter finished unbeaten on 65 to ensure his side claimed the win with three wickets still in hand.

SPORT Millicent loses magic touch

JAMES MURPHY

james.murphy@tbwtoday.com.au AFTER a two-week break, Millicent's Magic women suffered their first losses of the 2023-

Saturday night was a meeting with Portland Coasters, who Millicent had defeated in the opening round.

This time around the Magic was without captain Alana Berkefeld and it was ultimately a slow start which hurt them in the end.

Portland got the jump on its hosts with a 22-5 point opening term, which set the Coasters on the path to victory.

However, heading into the main break the Magic trailed by 18 points.

That margin grew substantially in the third term as the Coasters put in their highest yield, piling on 29 points to Millicent's 12.

At that point the game was all-but won and despite a solid finish from the Magic to win the quarter by eight, the final result was a 52-79 point loss.

Portland's Heidi Jones - who was absent in their Round 1 meeting - had the top score for the night with 17 points.

Sunday's game against a more experienced Horsham outfit proved to be another challenge.

The Hornets had a solid first half and at the main break led by 13 points.

However, Millicent was not about to back down and a massive third-quarter turnaround flipped the game on its head.

The Magic scored 26 points for the term, while restricting Horsham to just 10 and at the final change the hosts were up by three.

They managed to hold onto the lead early in the fourth term, but eventually Millicent's inexperience started to show.

With scores tied up at 54-all, foul trouble allowed Horsham to shoot two and take back the lead.

With 4.58 on the clock a timeout was called, with the margin at 58-54.

The trouble did not stop there and despite the opportunities, Millicent was unable to land a shot.

As such the Hornets edged further out of reach and when another timeout was called with 55 seconds to play, it was a 10-point game.

Horsham put its total out to 68 and at that stage the Magic had scored two points in over five minutes of play.

Just two players made double figures for Millicent, with Burke the best of the bunch on 14, while Venn had 11.

Horsham was well served in offence and defence, with Olivia Jones (18 points), Caitlin Story (18) and Emalie Iredell (17) all dangerous under the basket.

The women enter a competition-wide bye this week, with the Magic's next game in Warrnambool on November 18.

It may not have been as prolific as some of his recent outings, but with five doublefigure scorers it was an impressive spread from the side.

Jackson Bowden shot 18 points, while Matt Black and William Wimhurst both had 16 and Kade Bradley shot 14.

The depth in the roster is plain to see this year, with every player on court capable of making a difference.

For the Coasters Nathan Hardingham had a big night with 27 points, while Brad Clark was the only other in double figures on 22.

Looking at Sunday and a tough match with the Hornets had the Magic unable to keep up the pace for the full four quarters.

After a slow start, Millicent found its groove and reeled in a 10-point deficit to be up by five at quarter time.

However, the Hornets buzzed to life again in the second and an arm wrestle unfolded.

With three minutes left in the half scores were locked at 32-all.

A Horsham three-pointer, followed by a layup put them back out to a five-point lead, before the Magic chipped it back with a three of their own.

With the clock allowing for one final play, Horsham managed to drive its way to the hoop and put itself up by a single point at half time.

From there the Hornets managed to find the upper hand and a big third term all but sealed the deal.

They shot 29 points to Millicent's 18 to be 13 points clear heading into the fourth.

The final quarter also went the way of the guests and at the end of the game it was an 18-point loss to the Magic.

Bowden had an impressive outing despite the result and he was a key play-maker in attack.

He directed his team well and set up plenty of scoring opportunities, while also equal top scoring with a solid 27 points.

Horsham's Austin McKenzie mirrored his score, while it was no surprise to see Cody Brian (21 points) and Mitch Martin (16) also feature prominently.

Millicent also looked to Haggett once more, with another 19-point return, while Harry Mules (12) and Fuller (10) broke into double figures as well.

Horsham Hornets 86 d Mount Gambier Lakers 80

AN opening-term barrage from the Horsham Hornets helped hold the Mount Gambier Lakers at bay in Round 5 of the Country Basketball League on Saturday night.

Played at the Icehouse, the Lakers let the Hornets out to a big lead early, with an 18-8 first term setting the scene.

It was all catch-up basketball for the home side from there on and they pulled up two points short in a 23-25 second quarter to trail by 12 at the long break.

From there the Lakers began to find their way and reduced the margin by five points in the third quarter.

They reduced it further in the final stanza, but by just one point, which was too little. Too late as they suffered a six-point defeat.

The Lakers were missing several top personnel for the clash, including Simon and Matthew Berkefeld, plus Kane deWit.

However, in their absence Toby deWit stepped up with 21 points, Ben Young and Nelson Forbes contributed 19 each and Duncan Reid chipped in with 15.

The result sees the Lakers down in fourth spot on the ladder, with three wins and two losses from their five outings, although the uneven nature of the competition and games played by each team suggests the ladder means little at this early stage of the season.

Mount Gambier Lakers 73 d Horsham Hornets 69

MOUNT Gambier's Lakers women eked out a hard-fought win over Horhsam Hornets in Round 5 of the Country Basketball League on Saturday.

Fans at the Icehouse were kept entertained as the two sides traded blows throughout the contest.

The Lakers trailed by four points at the first break, but turned the game around in the second term, with a classy 31-21 quarter to be up by six at the long break.

They continued ion that vein in the third term, but only kept the Hornets at bay to the tune of two points.

However, that provided an eight-point advantage heading into the final stanza, with the result still in the balance.

Down the stretch the Hornets struggled with just six names on the roster, but still came hard at the Lakers, determied to steal the victory.

However, it was the Lakers who prevailed 73-69 in a tight contest, pleasing to the fans in the bleachers.

Mikaela Horrigan goes to the hoop.

For the victors, Tenielle Human topped the scoresheets with 14 points and Maddy Wormald contributed 12, while Mikaela Horrigan and Ebony McDiarmid finished with 11 points each. It was a much-needed victory for the Lakers, their first for the season after three outings.

Winter winners dominate summer season

A POINT of interest drawn from Round 3 of the South East Coast Basketball League is the four winter season grand finalists continue as prominent competitors in these early weeks of the summer season.

Another observation is there are several relatively new names listed in teams' leading scorers for this round.

SAINTS 112 (H. Mules 31, J. Bowden 29, J. Telfer 21) d ROOS 70 (J. Wilkinson 20, Z. Nulty 19, J. Collins 17).

Men's winter premiers, Saints, had a firm grip on their game against Roos at half time, 49-32 and then dominated the third quarter to the tune of 44-26 to record the biggest win of the night, 112-70.

Saints' perimeter specialist, Jed Telfer, found range for six three pointers, while young guns Harry Mules and Jackson Bowden headed the personal tallies without Jack Haggett suiting up. Regulars for Roos, Jack Wilkinson and Zach Nulty, led for Roos.

BULLDOGS 89 (S. Lock 21, B. Young 21, H. Wright 20) d COUGARS 80 (B. Ousey 24, W. Wimshurst 16, O Pohlner 14).

The men's Bulldogs v Cougars contest presented a different conversation prior to the game, with on-court leader Simon Berkefeld and brother Matthew overseas on holiday and Cougars fielding a strong team last week.

Shaun Lock slipped into the leadership role for Bulldogs and was ably supported by upand-coming stars, Ben Young and Harry Wright to engineer a nine-point win.

Cougars, who despite missing key players, had Braiden Ousey and talented juniors Will Wilmshurst and Ollie Pohlner step up to lead their scoring.

Winter women grand finalists Saints and Bulldogs scored comfortable wins in their respective Round 3 fixtures.

SAINTS 75 (M. Burke 30, E. Easterby 22, A. Dean 8) d ROOS 49 (S. Mobbs 15, B. Berkefeld 11. E. Bouchier 11).

Roos stayed in touch for three quarters only to see state representatives, Edie Easterby and Mackenzie Burke continue to dominate and build a 30-14 margin in the final 10 minutes

Roos on the other hand struggled to curb the surge.

State junior, Stella Mobbs had her consistent

BULLDOGS 82 (A. Collins 27, T. Human 26, K. Collins 9) d COUGARS 51 (Z. Grigg 17, M. Horrigan 13, T. Crouch 11).

Bulldogs' Ava Collins continued her impressive form of last season into the match against Cougars, finishing with a personal tally of 27 points.

SECBL winter MVP Tenille Human was efficient and teamed well with Collins to maintain pressure on Cougars, who were missing several regular starting-five players.

The margin was 10 points at half time, but it was all Bulldogs from then on, resulting in a comfortable 82-51 win.

Hard working Zoe Grigg compiled an important 17 points for Cougars.

JAMES MURPHY

james.murphy@tbwtoday.com.au

IT was a split weekend for the Millicent Magic men, who contested Round 5 of the Country Basketball League over two days.

A double header at home produced a win on Saturday night against Portland Coasters, while the Horsham Hornets proved too strong on Sunday afternoon.

However, with a 29-16 point buffer at the first break, the Magic bounced back in impressive fashion.

That quarter set up the rest of the night, as the hosts kept the pressure on for the next two quarters.

They won the second by two points and the third by six, before Portland finished strongly to win the final stanza by two points.

Jack Haggett found himself in a familiar position as he top scored with 19 points.
